Patricia Hearst found guilty

PATRICIA HEARST
Convicted of bank robbery

Sentencing set for April 19

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst, a kidnap victim who swore tearfully that she committed crimes only to avoid death, was found guilty of armed bank robbery Saturday by jurors who did not believe her story.

Now a convicted bank robber, the 22-year-old heiress to a vast publishing fortune could be sentenced to a maximum of 35 years in prison. But the minimum sentence could be as little as simple probation. She was impassive as the verdict was read in a hushed courtroom.

"Oh, my God!" gasped Catherine Hearst, who had begged so often for her daughter's return from the terrorist underground and took the witness stand to defend her as a "warm and loving girl."

Miss Hearst's sisters wept openly, but the auburn-haired, pale Miss Hearst remained dryeyed.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter, the white-haired jurist who said at the outset it would be the most widely covered trial in the country, set sentencing for April 19 and pronounced the verdict "well within the evidence."

Two hours after the verdict was delivered, she was taken back to the San Mateo County jail where she has been held since her capture six months ago.

The jury of seven women and five men returned its verdict at 4:45 p.m. PST after deliberating 12 hours in two days. The case went to the panel on Friday, eight weeks after the trial began.

F. Lee Bailey, the famed criminal attorney who came from Boston to design an elaborate and expensive defense for Miss Hearst, blanched at the sound of the word "guilty." He said he would appeal the conviction and denounced the verdict as a fulfillment of the predictions by Miss Hearst's terrorist captors.

He said the tiny Symbionese Liberation Army that kidnaped her two years ago had told her "she would find a very harsh society."

The seven women and five men were convinced that Miss Hearst was the foulmouthed bank robber portrayed by her prosecutor in the eight-week trial, not the helpless victim painted by the defense.

They rejected her anguished account of rape, torture and coercion at the hands of the revolutionary band she joined in bank robbery two months after her kidnaping.

The jurors were somber as they were polled individually on their verdict.

"Is this your verdict?" asked the clerk of each panelist by name. "Yes," each answered firmly.

They refused to comment to news media about their decision.

Miss Hearst's parents went into seclusion immediately after the verdict.

Miss Hearst, who strode into court quickly, sat facing jurors and did not turn to see her family until nearly the end of the 15-minute proceedings. She turned and looked at them wistfully, then turned away, conferred briefly with her attorney.

The jury had been escorted out of the courtroom by the time the doors were unlocked and reporters began their stampede to telephones. The panelists, who had been urged by the judge to meet with the press, declined to have a news conference and went instead to the hotel where they had been sequestered.

Pleased with trial verdict—prosecutor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The guilty verdict returned against Patricia Hearst was "entirely proper, and I'm very pleased with it," her prosecutor said Saturday.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. said the verdict shows "that our criminal justice system works well."

Browning praised his courtroom opponent, F. Lee Bailey, for providing a "fine defense," and he thanked his own staff.

Browning said he was not surprised that the jury handed down its decision in only 12 hours. "I believed the jury would return a guilty verdict, but it could have gone either way," he said.

Browning said at a news conference he did not believe the trial had been a political one. "I see it as a bank robbery trial," he said.

"Quite frankly, if the jury had acquitted her, I was going to tell you this was a case that had to be tried ... there was no vengeance involved," he said, noting that a grand jury had indicted the newspaper heiress on the charges of armed bank robbery and use of a firearm to commit a felony.

The prosecutor said he had "nothing but sympathy" for the Hearst family. "I have children of my own. I think Patricia Hearst can straighten herself out and I hope she does so."

The most crucial witnesses in the government's case included Zig Berzin, a Vietnam veteran who testified that Miss Hearst was carrying spare ammunition on the day of the holdup, and a psychiatrist, Dr. Joel Fort, who said she was a willing robber, Browning said.

"I'm delighted with the verdict because I think he (Fort) has been vindicated by it. There were some terrible things said about him during the trial ..."

F. LEE BAILEY

Patty wondered if she had a chance

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst's defense attorney said Saturday the newsaper heiress had "wondered if she ever had a chance" at acquittal.

F. Lee Bailey sat puffing on a cigarette as he faced reporters with fellow defense lawyer Albert Johnson following Miss Hearst's conviction on a federal bank robbery charge.

"She was quite disappointed," Bailey said of Miss Hearst's reaction. "She wondered if she ever had a chance ... I'm surprised at the combination of a quick verdict and a guilty verdict."

Asked if there was anything he would like to have done differently, Bailey said, "I can't think of anything offhand ... both (U.S. Atty. James L.) Browning and I went all out."

He said Miss Hearst was hurt most by some of the judge's rulings to allow admission of certain documents and testimony about her "missing year," especially the time spent in Sacramento during the last year of her 19 months underground.

"I can't think of anything that hurt her more than (having to take) the 5th Amendment and certain documents including a list of banks and ... instructions on how to make bombs ..." he said.

Bailey declined to speculate about the jury's thinking, but Johnson injected, "The jury may have felt the accumulation of the evidence was overwhelming."

Others take grim satisfaction

Numbing grief for the Hearsts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The guilty verdict against Patricia Hearst on Saturday hit her family and sympathizers with numbing grief, while others whose lives she had touched took grim satisfaction at the outcome of her bank robbery trial.

Elsewhere, authorties speculated on future legal action in the wide ranging case, including additional charges against Miss Hearst and others linked with her as a kidnap victim-turned criminal.

As the verdict was read in the federal courtroom here, Miss Hearst's youngest sister, Ann, seated next to her parents in the front row of spectators' seats, clasped a hand to her forehead and wept.

Randolph Hearst, the defendant's father, appeared frozen with shock. He furrowed his brow and sat perfectly still.

Tears coursed down the cheek of Miss Hearst's mother, Catherine Hearst, moments after she heard the verdict.

Another Hearst daughter, Vicki, seated in the spectator section, doubled over and sobbed.

Her brother-in-law, Jay Bosworth, put a comforting arm around her and placed his other arm on the shoulder of his wife, Gina, Miss Hearst's eldest sister, who sat in stunned silence.

The Hearst family later went into seclusion and had no immediate comment on the verdict.

In the hushed courtroom, spectators gasped as the verdict was read. There were tears from many defense supporters — but also from a government employe, U.S. Marshal Janey Jiminez, who had guarded Miss Hearst throughout the trial.

Bailey's partner, Al Johnson, bowed his head, and members of the large defense team appeared stunned. They looked at each other and shook their heads from side to side.

Emily Harris' lawyer, Leonard Weinglass, said Miss Hearst's conviction "vindicates the position we have taken all along.

"She turned her back on people and chose to go the route of wealth and power and deception," he said. "She wrongfully accused her friends (the Harrises) and slandered her dead lover and vilified the political organization she chose to join."

Dr. Louis Jolyon West, a defense psychiatrist whose reports were credited by Miss hearst's lawyers as providing a blueprint for the defense, told reporters, "I feel bad about the outcome and regretful. I am not an emotional character, but from my point of view there was more information the jury could have become acquainted with."

Tornadoes kill 2; many injured

By The Associated Press

Tornadoes ripped through towns and farm country in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Louisiana and Arkansas on Saturday, killing at least two persons and injuring an undetermined number of others, authorities said.

In Michigan, the Oakland County sheriff's office said a tornado slammed into a residential area in West Bloomfield township and struck a number of businesses, including a restaurant where dozens of patrons inside were injured.

Authorities estimated that at least 100 persons were injured in that area of Michigan, but hospitals reported treating only about 25 persons for minor injuries.

The two persons killed were reported to have been in a car when the twister struck.

Victims told hospital officials the tornado cut a swath through a residential subdivision in West Bloomfield and then struck a business district.

"It's a disaster. The civil defense is on the scene," said a sheriff's deputy.

In Kilbourne, La., a tornado demolished the general store, jumped across the state line into Arkansas and injured nearly 20.

"This has pretty well swept us out," said Mrs. C. E. Majors, who lives across from this village of about 370 in extreme northeast Louisiana. "There's quite a bit of destruction here. To look over there and see most of the town gone is just awful."

Police reported no fatalities, but said there were about 15 injuries when two stores here were destroyed. Eight others were injured in Eudora, Ark.

First coed admitted to Claremont Men's College

Claremont Men's College has admitted a 17-year-old Colorado coed as the first women student in the school's 30-year history, officials reported Saturday.

Kathleen Evans of Lakewood, an honor student at Wheat Ridge High School, is the first of about 50 women who will enroll in September.

She is set on becoming a mining engineer.

The school's trustees decided in 1975 to accept women.

College spokesman Tom Hall said that with so many women going into business and government now it was thought prudent to offer training in public affairs to women students.

Miss Evans, daughter of a mining engineer, will enter a five-year management-engineering program. She plans to transfer to Colorado School of Mines after three years of engineering training.

Private nursing homes scored

Mentally ill living in hunger, slum housing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new government report says some mentally ill patients in private nursing homes are living with hunger, cockroaches, leaking roofs, exposed electrical wires and doors made of cardboard and burlap.

The report released by the Senate subcommittee on long-term care and programs particularly scrutinized New York and Illinois. Senate investigators said private homes were found wanting in both states.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, chairman of the panel, said the conditions were being fostered by government policy that provides a financial incentive to move patients from public institutions into private-care facilities.

"I have seen hungry people with their faces up against vending machines begging for a quarter," Moss said. "I saw three patients cooking eggs on a hotplate in their room while breakfast was being served in the dining room. I learned that they had bought the eggs with money they had received from begging."

Moss claimed mental patients "are a good investment" in New York as well as in Illinois.

He offered case histories of several private operations, including one in Illinois where the operator housed 180 mental patients who were transferred from public care facilities. The operator received $400,000 a year and managed to keep $185,000 as profit. Moss said the operator spent only 54 cents per patient per day for food.

"He (the operator) defended this profit, telling us it was below industry expectations," Moss said.

Moss laid part of the blame on Congress and the Social Security Act, including the Supplemental Security Income program.

In 1935, when it approved Social Security, Moss said, Congress barred Social Security funds for residents of public institutions. But if boarded in a private home they could receive the money.

In this same way, Moss continued, Congress barred receipt of SSI funds by individuals in public institutions and cut SSI funds by a third for individuals under the care of and living with relatives.

The result, Moss said, was an incentive to leave public institutions for private-care facilities. The same law provided financial incentive for states to move patients into private homes, transferring the cost of caring for a patient to the federal level.

The report says the number of patients in state mental hospitals has dropped 44 per cent from 427,799 to 237,692 between 1969 and 1974.

"The saddest thing is that more often than not patients have been placed in slum housing and forgotten," Moss said. "In some cases, so many discharged patients have been placed in particular areas of our major cities that they have become instant psychiatric ghettos."

Patients in many of these private institutions are confronted with poor care and abuse, deliberate physical abuse and unsanitary conditions.

He claimed also they face poor food, high incidence of theft, inadequate control on drugs, fire hazards, reprisal if they complain about conditions, use of restraints and lack of activities and recreation.

"The reason that this scandal has not been discovered up to now is that ... most states have hidden the problem because of their complicity in moving thousands of patients into such facilities to save money," Moss said.

"The federal government, which is writing the checks, up to now has shown no sign of being aware or even interested in this problem. The operators of these for-profit boarding homes continue to rake in the money while looking nervously over their shoulders at speculative investors considering getting into the game."

He said that "unless the federal government acts quickly, we will be confronted with a full grown, entrenched industry with its full complement of lobbyists, at which time we will be forever saddled with a for-profit boarding home industry and any real reform will be very difficult."

WALK FOR PALOMAR

Pomona Girl Scouts have joined others in the Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council in the annual "Walk for Palomar," to raise $6,000 for kitchen equipment for the troop building on Palomar Mountain in San Diego County. Posing before the walk Saturday are, from left, Staci Thiel, Troop 413 leader Mary Ann Magub, Sarah Bouchey, Eldon Bouchey, and Lana Magub. Bouchey loaned his automobile, "The Thing," for the 20-mile trek in case of an emergency.

Panama Canal sitout ends

BALBOA, Panama Canal Zone (AP) — Panama Canal employes agreed to end a sick-out Saturday afternoon after the Canal Zone governor agreed to modify wage freezes and work toward some form of collective bargaining.

Gov. Harold R. Parfitt said pilots and tugboat operators who had been calling in sick would return to work immediately to begin moving a backlog of more than 175 ships through the 50-mile canal.

The illegal job action began Monday and all but paralyzed the canal, reducing traffic from an average of 30-35 ships a day to no more than five or six.

Ships were reported waiting at anchor as much as 10 miles from the Atlantic and Pacific ends of the canal, and another 37 vessels were expected to arrive within 24 hours, officials said.

"I think we will be back in full operation by nightfall," Parfitt said late Saturday afternoon. "We plan to put 37 ships in the canal Sunday and have the backlog cleared up and be back in normal operation within three to four weeks."

Parfitt agreed to some of the workers' demands after a meeting with representatives of the Panama Canal Pilots Association, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, the Central Labor Union — Metal Trades Council, and the National Maritime Union.

The unions have had no collective bargaining and strikes on the canal are prohibited by federal law. Parfitt said there would be no reprisals against the employes who called in sick.

Parfitt has maintained that an underlying reason for the work stoppage was the secret negotiations for a new Panama Canal treaty. Employes are apparently worried that the new wage scales are aimed at eventually replacing many of them with local workers as part of the negotiations. The new treaty with Panama is expected to reduce U.S. control over the Canal Zone.

Valley briefs

Incorporation talks continue

A meeting on the possible incorporation of three communities will be held Monday in the Alta Loma Junior High School Library, 9000 Lemon Ave., Alta Loma beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The discussions will center on the continuing efforts to incorporate the San Bernardino County areas of Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda. The public is invited.

Upland Council discusses refuse

The Upland City Council will discuss the proposal of contracting for the collection of refuse by a private firm at a special meeting Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the City Hall.

The city presently operates its own collection and disposal service as a part of city services. The proposal would contract collection and disposal of refuse in the city out to a private firm after calling for bids.

The council will consider the recommendations of the Mayor's Advisory Committee and all interested persons at the hearing.

LVC conducts yoga program

Enrollment for beginning and intermediate Hatha yoga is underway at La Verne College.

Registrations are presently being taken for men and women in a 10-week program beginning Monday. The program includes physical fitness exercises with an emphasis on flexibility, relaxation and diet.

The weely sessions for beginners will run from 6:30 to 8 p.m. and the intermediate sessions will run from 8 to 9:30 p.m., under the supervision of Diane Arroyo.

Miss Arroyo has taught yoga for several years and has received a certificate degree in yoga teacher training at Spa Rio Caliente, Mexico.

A registration fee of $15 is required.

Rowland Adult School begins

Rowland Adult School is accepting registrations in all classes for the spring term which starts Monday.

Upholstery classes have been expanded. Students now may attend from 8 a.m. to noon, Monday through Thursday; 6:30 to 10 p.m., Monday through Thursday; or Saturday from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Instruction includes home furniture upholstery and automotive interiors. Classes are taught at 1040 Otterbein Road.

Other classes taught at that location include parent-child observation and decorative arts and crafts for the home.

Additional information regarding spring term classes may be obtained by calling the adult school at 965-5975.

Strite speaks on back pains

Laban Strite, staff psychologist and director of Casa Colina Hospital's Chronic Back Pain Management Program, will address the hospital auxiliary meeting Monday.

His topic will be "Everything You've Always Wanted To Know About Back Pain — But Were Afraid To Ask."

Strite served as a school psychologist and had a private practice before joining the staff at Casa Colina.

Luncheon will begin at 11:30 a.m. at the hospital. Reservations may be made by calling the Casa Colina Gift Shop, 593-7521, ext. 270.

AMBITIOUS HISTORY WALKER

Cesar Goncalves of Pomona was determined to have plenty of company Saturday when he participated in the Pomona Valley Historical Society's annual walk for history. As Goncalves left Pomona Civic Center to begin the 12-mile route he carried his two-year-old granddaughter, Shawna Williams, and was led by a pair of four-footed walkers setting a brisk pace.

Phantom funds lead to suspicion of minister candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A minister seeking $100,000 in federal funds for his presidential campaign submitted records listing contributors who never heard of him, bills from an apparently nonexistent printing firm and other suspect data.

The Rev. Donald L. Jackson of Buffalo, N.Y., filed the material with the Federal Election Commission this month. The FEC has certified more than $11 million this year to 14 presidential primary candidates.

Commission staff members are making preliminary checks before starting the detailed audit which is routine before a candidate can be certified for matching funds.

To qualify for the money, a candidate must raise $5,000 in individual contributions of $250 or less in each of 20 states — a total of $100,000.

The only nonpolitician to qualify so far is Ellen McCormack, an antiabortion candidate who has run in several primaries and so far gained one delegate to the Democratic National Convention.

Jackson's filing first aroused suspicion among persons who examined it because virtually all of the contributions were for exactly $250, because totals listed for a number of the states were exactly $5,300, and because contributions from any one state were generally all received the same day.

The Associated Press checked a series of listed contributors in New Jersey.

Edward P. Olszewski of 117 Talmadge Ave., Bound Brook, was listed for a $250 donation Feb. 24. Mrs. Albert F. Olszewski of 115 Talmadge Ave. said there was no Edward in her family, that no one in the house had donated to Jackson, and that the house at 117 Talmadge had burned down last year.

Paul Chester of 254 Penn Ave., Nixon, N.J., was also listed for $250 on Feb. 24. Mrs. Paul Chester of 250 Penn Ave. said "we haven't contributed and I don't know of any other Chesters." She said there was no 254 Penn Ave.

Audry Kiamme of 108 Retford Ave., Cranford, N.J., was listed for another $250 on Feb. 24. David Kiamie of 208 Retford Ave. said there was no other family by that name in the vicinity and "no money like that for contributions in this house."

Responses were similar from others as the pattern of slightly varied names and addresses continued.

Virtually every donor's occupation was listed simply as "worker." One man contacted on a basis of the list told a reporter no one in his household had been able to find work for a year.

Federal law requires specific occupations and business address of contributors to be listed.

In a letter to the FEC, Jackson said "many of these donations are from members of the John Birch Society, who do not like people to know their name."

Jackson's report claimed he raised $110,931 during February and spent $111,640.

His asserted expenditures included $65,000 for mailing 500,000 letters. A postal official in Buffalo said it could not be determined whether or not such a first-class mailing had taken place.

Jackson also listed $32,642 in printing bills from "J" Publishing Co., 494 Masten Ave., Buffalo.

That address is a long-vacant house in a deteriorating neighborhood, according to a city directory and the Buffalo police.

No such business registered its name as required either with the Erie County court clerk or the sales tax collection office of the State of New York.

Attempts to reach Jackson at a telephone number listed on his campaign literature failed.

The new federal election law makes it unlawful to furnish any false, fictitious, or fraudulent evidence, books or information to the Federal Election Commission in connection with matching fund payments. The maximum penalty is a $10,000 fine and five years in prison.

Violations of other reporting requirements are punishable by a fine of up to $1,000 or up to one year imprisonment.

Jackson had earlier appeared in Washington to announce his candidacy. In his literature he describes himself as 49, a registered Democrat and "a poor Black American, who will have much to say for the poor and the unemployed."

He claims a correspondence school law degree but in his platform says "there are too many lawyers in government."

Listing his experience, he said he "was president of Jackson Educational foundation, president of two real estate corp. Operated a radio station briefly. Can type 60 words per minute."

Relations with employes worsen in Postal Service economy drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service's economy drive appears to have worsened relations with its employes while slowing down spiraling costs.

Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar has virtually stopped hiring new employes. This and other cost-cutting measures have had these results:

—Letter carriers have announced grievances in more than 100 cities over unfilled vacancies.

—The American Postal Workers Union has begun picketing the Detroit post office in protest of new personnel policies.

—Postmasters and supervisory employes have sued the Postal Service over their pay levels.

"Morale is very low," said James H. Rademacher, president of the 200,000-member National Association of Letter Carriers.

"When vacancies remain unfilled, the other people must absorb the work. This has a very detrimental effect on people," he said in an interview.

Bailar has concentrated his economy measures on the labor area because labor costs account for 85 per cent of the financially troubled agency's expenses.

The Postal Service, one of the world's largest employers, has about 700,000 employes, or nearly 1 per cent of the American work force.

Bailar acknowledged in a speech Friday that his economy steps "cannot come close to solving our immediate financial problems." He said the agency, which is expected to have a record deficit of $1.5 billion this fiscal year, will have to borrow money "very soon" to meet its payroll.

The latest increase in postal costs takes effect Sunday when the agency's 603,000 unionized employes receive a pay raise. It is the third pay raise since a new labor agreement took effect last July and brings the pay of an experienced postal worker to around $14,300.

Bailar has appealed for higher subsidies of the Postal Service, a proposal which has found little support in Congress. The House voted down such a provision last fall.

"Without additional funding, the only course open to the Postal Service has been to continue to cut costs. This effort will continue despite opposition and regardless of the fact that some aspects of service may be reduced as a result," Bailar said.

Firemen pay increase considered by council

A 10.7 per cent wage increase for Pomona firemen will be considered by the Pomona City Council Monday night.

The salary increase is called for under the terms of a three-year agreement between the city and firemen that was approved in 1974.

The increase will raise the top pay for a firefighter to $1,485 per month.

The raise represents the third and final year of the agreement, which tied increases for Pomona firemen to those received by firemen in Los Angeles.

Other agenda items for the 8 p.m. meeting include consideration of a zone change, from residential to manufacturing, for a portion of the property occupied by Hertz Transportation Co. at 2460 N. Garey Ave.

The site is being used as a trucking business in violation of the present zoning. The city staff is expected to recommend that the zone change be denied because the owner, Karl Hertz, has not complied with the city's requirement that he construct a block wall and plant landscaping to shield nearby homes.

The council will also receive a report from the Parks and Recreation Commission concerning a proposal to provide lighting at Cherrieville Park.

Sierra Club meets Tuesday

Ron Quinn of Cal Poly Pomona will present a program titled "Island in the Sky: The Chiricahua Mountains" at a meeting of Mt. Baldy Group, Sierra Club, Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Baxter Hall in Claremont.

Refreshments will be served. Admission is free.

Boy hurt in fall; pal on ledge saved

An 11-year-old Covina boy escaped with minor injuries when he fell 60 feet in Lodi Canyon north of San Dimas Saturday, sheriff's deputies reported.

Douglas Sills suffered a broken left ankle, a cut eye, and a minor chest abrasion. He was treated for the injuries at San Dimas Community Hospital.

Sills' companion, Eddie Gover, 11, of Covina, became stranded on a canyon ledge at the same time and was rescued by the sheriff's mountain rescue team, about 2:30 p.m. Both youths were on a Boy Scout hike.

2 boys sought in statue theft

Claremont police are searching for two 15-year-old boys in connection with the theft of a $1,200 bronze statue from Griswold's Art Gallery, 465 W. Foothill Blvd.

Officers indicated the boys were spotted fleeing with the statue Friday afternoon by Dallas Rogers owner of the gallery. Rogers attempted to stop them, but was unsuccesful. The statue is of an otter and is seven inches tall.

Both boys were described as Caucasians with blond hair.

Firemen unaware, 6 children die in fire

OXFORD, N.C. (AP) — Six children from three families died inside a blazing home Saturday as fire fighters battled the flames, unaware that the building was occupied, officials said.

The children, aged 16 years to 9 months, were found dead inside the five-room frame house after fire fighters spent an hour bringing the blaze under control, an Oxford Volunteer Fire Department spokesman said.

After the blaze was brought under control, fire fighters went inside and found the bodies of five children huddled together near one bedroom window and a sixth body in another bedroom, officials said.

"Nobody believed it at first because none of the neighbors said anything about people being in there. It appeared to be unoccupied. It looked like a new house," said fire fighter Al Woodlief.

Officials said the children died of smoke inhalation.

The victims were identified as Maxine Gooch, 16; Janet Gooch, 8; John W. Gooch, 6; Jerome Miles, 9 months; Belinda Taborn, 6, and Teresa Taborn, 5.

Police dispatcher Patricia Jackson said the parents "were forming some type of (music) band together" and were at a Henderson night spot about 12 miles away when the fire erupted.

One fire fighter said the furnace of the home had apparently been shut off and the occupants were using space heaters to keep warm.

Woman, 84, crashes car into music store window

An 84-year-old woman lost control of her car Saturday and crashed through a plate glass window of a Claremont music store.

"The whole car was inside the store," said Police Sgt. Robert Nichol, who responded to the scene of the accident at the Folk Music Center, 220 Yale Ave., at 3:50 p.m.

The woman, Loraine T. Rickenberg of Claremont, and a passenger in her car both escaped injury.

Officers said Mrs. Rickenberg was backing her car out of a parking space some 11 spaces north of the store. Her auto went out of control and hit a parked car, which in turn hit another parked car. The woman's auto then jumped a curb and crashed through the display window.

Police indicated a 12-foot by 12-foot section of the window was knocked out by the accident, and the front door was badly damaged. There was no immediate estimate of the loss.

Parents to meet on gang violence

Parents whose children have been victims of gang violence are asked to attend a meeting of the Chino Community Action Council (CAC) Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Building.

The CAC has been discussing methods of dealing with the problem of youth violence at Chino High School. There have been reports of students being beaten by gangs of youths.

Barbara Greenwood Arroyo Kindergarten Bungalow

Historical Pomona school scheduled to be moved in May

Weather permitting, the Barbara Greenwood Arroyo Kindergarten Bungalow will be moved from the Arroyo Elementary Schoolgrounds in Pomona on to city-owned property in May.

Contributions totaling $5,000 to finance the move have been donated by persons in the area interested in having the 67-year-old building preserved.

The City Council has granted permission to have the bungalow, out of use since June of 1974, placed on the Casa Primera property at Park and McKinley avenues.

The Pomona school board, which donated the building to the Pomona Valley Historical Society, has granted a time extension for removal of the bungalow.

The Committee for the Preservation of the Barbara Greenwood Arroyo Kindergarten Bungalow now is appealing for contributions to pay costs of a new foundation and a new roof for the bungalow once it is moved.

The committee is making an effort to contact those who attended school in the bungalow and who may wish to see it preserved.

Contributions may be sent to the Committee for the Preservation of the Barbara Greenwood Kindergarten Bungalow in care of the Pomona Valley Historical Society, 1569 N. Park Ave., Pomona 91767.

How much is needed to pay for a new roof and a foundation is not yet determined.

According to June Hyman, committee chairman, the bungalow will be moved in two sections by Thomas House Movers. Architect Amos W. Randall is developing a plot plan, she said, and contractor Robert H. Clark has agreed to supervise the necessary renovation.

The bungalow, oldest standing educational facility in the Pomona school district, was built in 1908 at Park and Holt avenues. It was designed by Barbara Greenwood, supervisor of kindergarten programs in the schools.

It was moved from that site in 1929 to the old San Antonio School in north Pomona where it was used until 1951 when it was moved onto the Arroyo schoolgrounds.

Miss Greenwood, a leader in the early childhood education movement, died in Pomona in 1960 at the age of 93.

In 1953, UCLA established a lectureship in her name. The Barbara Greenwood Lectureship and Scholarship Fund board contributed $320 towards the cost of moving the building, Mrs. Hyman said.

Shooting incident in El Monte

Charges dropped against Bingham

Charges against a member of the American Nazi Party which resulted from an incident in which a former member was shot to death last August in El Monte have been dismissed in Pomona Superior Court.

The action was in the court of Judge Glenn M. Pfau when the defendant, Clyde Frank Bingham, 19, appeared with his attorney, Raymond Youngquist of Pomona.

Youngquist earlier had asked the dismissal on the claim that evidence against Bingham was not sufficient to sustain charges of assault with a deadly weapon. After studying the preliminary hearing transcript, Pfau agreed and dismissed the charges. Bingham had been free on $10,000 bail.

The victim in the incident, Joseph Tomassi, 24, was shot to death during a scuffle outside the El Monte headquarters of the National Socialist White People's Party where Bingham and another young man, Jerry K. Jones, 19, were acting as armed guards.

Jones was charged with murder in the slaying and eventually pleaded guilty to second-degree murder. He was placed on probation for five years after having served 300 days in jail while awaiting trial.

Witnesses earlier testified that Tomassi, a former member of the group, charged onto the property at 4375 Peck Road and either grabbed or hit Bingham. Bingham was alleged to have threatened Tomassi with a knife but witnesses later said they could not remember having seen one.

During the struggle Jones drew a pistol and Tomassi was shot in the face. He died instantly, authorities said.

Tomassi had been the leader of the El Monte party but was ousted in 1973. He later formed an offshoot called the National Socialist Liberation Front.

The dismissal means that there will be no further prosecution of Bingham unless the District Attorney's office decides to file charges against him again.

Dental costs

Dental costs account for only 10 per cent of the $60 billion spent each year in the United States for private health care. That works out to less than $30 a year per person. The Conference Board, a nonpartisan research organization, notes that this low figure is not due to inexpensive costs but to a general lack of dental attention. More than 25 per cent of all Americans have never seen a dentist or haven't seen one for five years or more.

How can they be explained?

Scientists take look at psychic phenomena

By J. F. FULBECK

SUPERMINDS by John Taylor. Viking. $10.95.

Sorties on the astral plane are not for everyone, but even callous skeptics should be impressed by "Superminds," a singularly perceptive and provocative book.

Its author, a prestigious scholar and a scientist of international reputation, was recently professor of physics at Rutgers University and is currently professor of mathematics at King's College in London. Hence the book's subtitle: "A Scientist Looks at the Paranormal".

J. F. Fulbeck is Professor of English at Cal Poly University, Pomona.

What we call "extra-sensory perception" frustrates attempts at better definition, but that it exists has been established beyond reasonable doubt by scientific studies before, notably those at Duke University which attracted wide attention in the 1930s.

Now, against the background of such recent dramatic phenomena as the feats of Uri Geller (who causes metal objects to bend without touching them), Professor Taylor responds. His end, he declares, is "in particular to answer the questions: What is the Geller phenomenon and how is it to be scientifically interpreted?"

In his pursuit of those answers we are led through several chapters of fascinating background, carefully authenticated and lucidly expresed, to the author's "Final Explanation". Having disposed of three of the four fields of force in nature — the gravitational, the nuclear, and the radioactive — he finds in the remaining force, the electromagnetic, the most likely repository for the answers he seeks.

Acknowledging that Geller's ability is only one facet of ESP, Taylor concentrates on it primarily because "for the first time a serious attempt now seems possible to find a scientific explanation for one distinct extrasensory phenomenon".

If indeed Geller's talent can be explained scientifically, that finding would mean to the history of science, and especially to the study of the paranormal, what the breaking of the four-minute mile meant to sports: What was once thought impossible will almost certainly become increasingly less unusual, and perhaps commonplace.

There are other unanswered questions the author acknowledges: What does one make of the "almost complete absence of adult males" from the list of persons with demonstrated metal-bending powers — especially since Geller himself is an adult male? What does one make of the high proportion of children on the list? Though committed to the scientific path (lest "cults of unreason" flourish), Taylor's comments frequently seem to echo idealistic philosophers and poets (Anaxagoras, Plato, Wordsworth). "We may," he admits, "have to alter our ideas on the nature of mind."

Tangential to the problem of explaining the paranormal are other questions. Do superminds endanger security? What of their effect on computers (already illustrated by Geller and by Ingo Swann)?

Item: An eight-year-old girl has demonstrated ability to "wipe magnetic tapes clean from a distance". (Watergate, anyone?)

In discussing theoretical particles — e.g., the tachyon, which hypothetically travels faster than light and increases speed as it loses energy — Taylor combines that healthy skepticism which is germane to the scientist with the open mind of any scholar of stature, who knows better than to permit his conclusions to precede his investigations.

After all, scholars and schoolboys know that there were no aircraft when Leonardo da Vinci sketched one, no submarines when Jules Verne wrote "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea." Before 1969, a story of men landing on the moon would have been science fiction.

"At the end of the book we are only at our beginning," the author concedes; but whatever information is missing will, he thinks, be found "on earth, rather than in the heavenly galaxy".

The ideas in this volume are provocative, the tone temperate, and the book itself a well edited oversize hardback which includes a bibliography and index and is lavishly illustrated with black-and-white and color photos and sketches.

Our future as viewed by Peter

THE PETER PLAN. By Dr. Laurence J. Peter. Morrow. $6.95.

Dr. Laurence J. Peter has taken a long, careful look about him, and he does not like what he sees: Rising crime rates, ineffective government,, pollution, a world in which "Nobody planned that the ultimate outcome of our abundance would be a state of affluent poverty."

After detailing the things wrong with contemporary society in often witty but always incisive prose, Peter then presents possible solutions — his book is subtitled "A Proposal for Survival" — to these maladies.

This is "The Peter Plan (which) is based upon our ability to apply systems dynamics to the major problems facing mankind.

Transporting the reader to "Excelsior City," a model community embodying the solutions Peter suggests, Peter writes about what life could be in 1990 if men seriously determined that the quality of life was, to put it mildly, strained and to do something to make it much, much better. All of what Peter has to say about how things might be bettered is interesting, although some of it does sound simplistic since he tends to rely over much on man's desire to better his condition.

But, as Peter puts it, "When one reaches the edge of an abyss, the only truly progressive move is first to step backward — and then change course." It's hard to fault that kind of advice.

Book reconstructs life in 8th century Europe

By SAMUEL BELLMAN

CHARLEMAGNE AND HIS WORLD. By Friedrich Heer. Macmillan. $15.

The author of this new volume in Macmillan's beautiful series of art books on great figures and events in Western cultural history is a professor of the history of ideas at Vienna University and, among other accomplishments, an eminent authority on the Middle Ages.

(Samuel Bellman is visiting professor in the Department of Historical and Literary Studies at Portsmouth Polytechnic, Portsmouth, England.)

The subject of this volume was king of the Franks (born about 742, died 814), greatest of medieval kings, shaper of Europe's frontiers and history for at least a millennium, seeker of knowledge par excellence, matrix of uncountable legends.

Heer's superbly illustrated 272-page volume sets the stage by briefly tracing the history of some of the Germanic elements that overran the decaying Roman Empire during and after the Third Century AD . . . particularly one branch of the Franks, the followers of the Fifth Century king, Merovech.

The son of King Pepin, Charlemagne was extraordinarily well endowed physically and mentally, well educated in Latin, and was well fit to rule when his turn came.

Heer goes on to discuss the rule of the Frankish nobles, the life of the peasants (freemen, bondmen, and slaves), what life on the land was like, the economy of the Carolingians the constant warfare with fellow believers, heathen, rival tribes, etc., relations with the Pope, the nature of the Carolingian court, arts and education, and the decline of the Carolingian Empire.

The petty rivalries royal mediocrities, and land carvings that marked the end of Carlemagne's domain offer a sad commentary on the ravages of time and the rarity of human excellence in whatever area.

"25-YEAR-OLD STOMACH ACHE GONE"

Says Mr. George Vessa, L.A., "my wife suffered with a burning in her stomach for a quarter of a century. She vomited often and couldn't keep food in her stomach. We tried many things but did not receive any permanent help. I took her to see Dr. Wing. After a couple of weeks she felt much better. In three months she was completely well. It has been over 5 years ago and she has not had any sign of recurrence."

Need a plant or fish sitter?

HAMDEN, Conn. (AP) — Are you afraid to take that much needed vacation for fear of leaving your African violets at home with no one to water them?

Are you worried that your pet fish will be lonely without your constant attention and company?

Well, there is a new breed of babysitters, sitters who will water your plants and watch after your fish.

Mrs. Susan Linehan of Hamden recently graduated with a degree in horticulture and is a plantsitter.

"I had worked in a few florists' shops in the New Haven area but found I was not making enough," she said. "Then, about a year ago while I was in California I read a magazine article about plantsitting and decided that was for me.

"Because of my background I know a lot more about plants and am more responsible than the ordinary person."

Mrs. Linehan says she already has 50 clients.

"I am only working parttime but I am sure I could make a fairly decent living doing it fulltime.

"It gets around by word of mouth. My clients tell their friends, who in turn tell their friends," Mrs. Linehan says. "I get mostly house calls from people who want me to tend their plants while they are on vacation.

According to Mrs. Linehan, the fee depends on the type of plant, the number of plants, the care needed and whether it is a house call or the plant is dropped off at her home.

"The typical charge is about $5 a visit and I make three or four visits a week," she said. Describing a typical house call Mrs. Linehan says she feeds the plant, waters it, checks it for bugs and diseases, positions the plant so all leaves will get sunlight, prunes the plant if it needs it, and checks the humidity.

Peter Falcion, owner of the Norwalk Aquarium in Norwalk is a successful fishsitter in suburban Fairfield County.

Falcion said he has made about 75 house calls during the year, and an additional 40 clients brought their fish and sometimes their equipment to the shop.

"Most of our clients are people who are really into the hobby and are concerned about leaving their fish alone."

For house calls, he says he takes along his portable lab which allows him to make ten tests, including checks on equipment, water solution, temperature, toxic elements and amount of oxygen.

"Of course, I also feed the fish. The cost depends on the type of fish and the care needed, but the average charge is $5 per house visit and $1 to $10 a week for store sitting.

"Before we take a fish to sit we diagnose it for any illness. I won't take in any sick fish and I have never had a fish die while here.

"Our clients come from all walks of life. We have a 12-year-old boy who is very knowledgeable about the hobby and has a sophisticated collection. Two of our other clients from New York City have purchased a duplicate aquarium system which they keep here at the store for their fish while they are away."

Almanac

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, March 21, the 81st day of 1976. There are 285 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1803, the French civil code, the Code Napoleon, was completed.

On this date —

In 1790, Thomas Jefferson became the first U.S. Secretary of State.

In 1829, an earthquake in Spain killed about 6,000 people.

In 1918, in World War I, German guns bombarded Paris from 75 miles away.

In 1946, the United Nations moved into temporary headquarters at Hunter College in New York City.

In 1965, Dr. Martin Luther King led a march of black and white civil rights demonstators out of Selma, Ala. toward Montgomery.

In 1974, the United States and Sweden named new ambassadors to each other's capitals after a 15-month rift over the Vietnam War.

Ten years ago: Britain resumed arms sales to India and Pakistan after a one-year suspension because of Indian and Pakistani fighting over Kashmir.

Five years ago: Eight hundred protestors for Soviet Jews were arrested in Washington for blocking an intersection near the Soviet embassy.

One year ago: The military government in Ethiopia abolished the royal position of Emperor.

Today's birthdays: John D. Rockefeller III is 70. Writer Phyllis McGinley is 71.

Thought for today: It is easier to do a job right than to explain why you didn't — President Martin van Buren, 1782-1862.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, following the British evacuation of Boston, General George Washington asked town officials to supply him with the names of persons suspected of spying on the Continental Army.

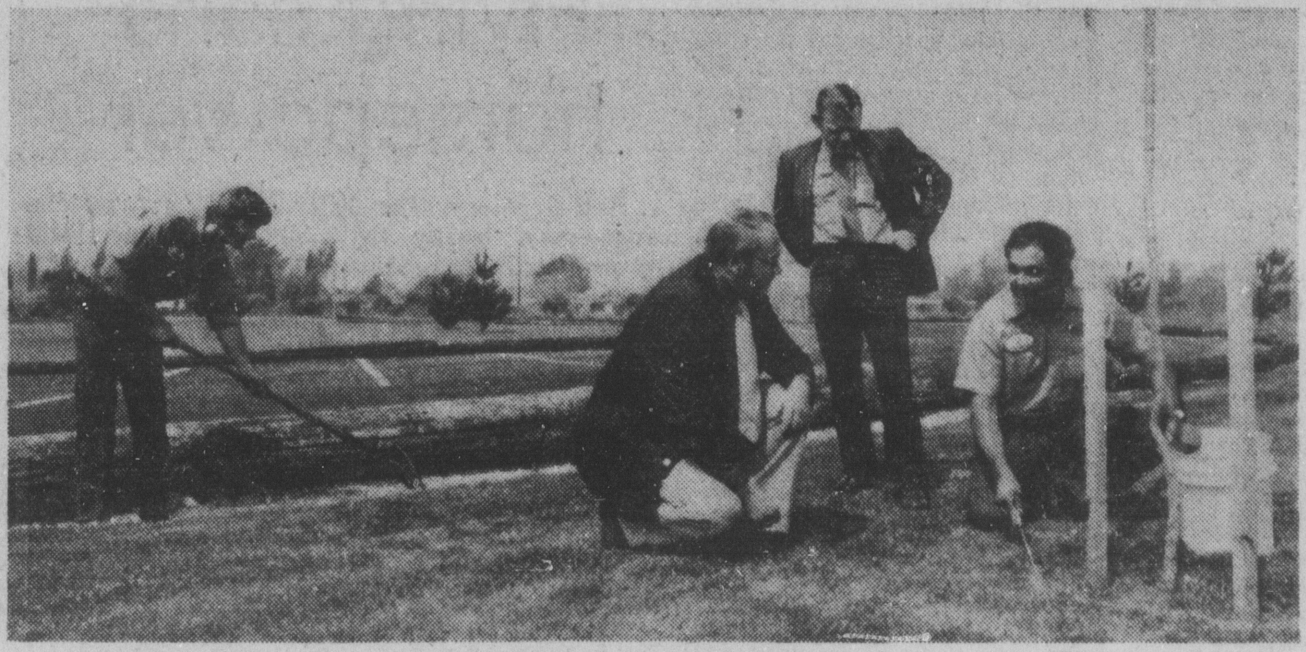
From an eyesore to a new unique Wilderness Park



PB photos by Sid Fridkin

THE PARK

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

A prominent eyesore running through the City of Montclair has been transformed into a beautiful and unique Wilderness Park.

The 17-acre park is located on San Bernardino Road, immediately east of Ramona Avenue and adjacent to the Chino Basin Water Conservation District office. It is bordered by Palo Verde Avenue on the north, San Bernardino Road on the south, Helena Avenue on the east and the San Antonio Flood Control Channel on the west.

The city has spent nearly $150,000 for development of the site since 1972. Since its opening a month ago, city officials and police have voiced considerable concern about the vandalism and malicious mischief by children and adults that is posing a threat to the park's orderly appearance and further development.

Carl Sawtell, director of public works, listed the vandalism problems which included destroying and stealing parts of the sprinkling system, cutting down trees and shrubs, riding bikes and motorcycles down slopes and destroying vegetation, cutting the fences to get into restricted areas, and ripping out posted signs.

''It's disheartening to see something nice go in and then watch it destroyed,'' Sawtell said.

City Administrator Lauren Wasserman said that police patrols have been increased for the area and enforcement against offenders has become more concentrated.

''But you can't be there 24 hours a day,'' he sighed. ''We've caught a couple of kids and the police department has them coming down to work to repair the damage. We're hoping that other people will be as concerned as we are about the problem and the waste of money. We'll try to do the best we can with what we have.''

Wasserman said Cub Scouts dens, Boy Scouts troops, and Montclair High School clubs are volunteering to re-plant vegetation, pull weeds and clean up debris on weekends.

Motorcycles and bikes will be prohibited from the park and signs will be posted again.

A gravel company originally owned the site where the park is today and three other gravel pits within the city limits. The largest one is the San Bernardino Road location. When the company went out of business, it sold the four pits to the water conservation district. The district has used the sites for water retention for about 12 years and sterilized the soil to prevent growth and water soaking into the soil.

''It was a totally barren area for the most part,'' Wasserman recalled. ''The city became involved because the pits were prominent eyesores running through the middle of town. We decided to beautify them and make them fit in better, so in 1972 we began projects with revenue sharing funds.''

A physical fitness trail for jogging, sit-ups and other exercising facilities will be installed later. Picnic tables and barbecues will also be added.

The park has become a wildlife sanctuary for small animals. Migratory birds, rabbits and squirrels can be seen scampering through the brushes and trees.

The park will be officially dedicated during the Montclair Festival Days in late April, commemorating the city's 20th birthday.

'Slight increase' of funds requested for recreation

James Bell's report on school programs being studied

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

With the intent that all public school children in Pomona have ''well supervised'' and ''well rounded'' recreation programs at their schools, consultant James Bell is recommending that funding be ''slightly increased for 1976-77.''

Bell, former member of the Pomona school board, was retained by the current board last October on a $5,000 fee to evaluate noontime and afterschool recreation programs funded by the Pomona school district and supervised by the recreation department.

His evaluation report now is in the hands of school board members who received it last Tuesday.

This year the school district is paying $117,000 as its share of the recreation department budget to fund the school programs. Bell, vice president of administrative affairs and student services at Cal Poly Pomona, was assisted in his evaluation by two associates, William Michaelis and Suzon Williams.

Bell recommended that more money be spent to improve rather than expand the school recreation programs.

''It is vital,'' his report reads, ''that a new approach to providing a greater program continuity, reliability and community service be implemented in September.

''It is further recommended that a mini-evaluation of such a program be undertaken at the mid-point of the school year to determine if the additional expenditures are proving worthwhile, and to verify the implementation of the recommendations.

''Given knowledge of existing conditions and needs, it is a reasonable expectation that a much-improved and more truly satisfactory program can be achieved for a relatively small additional sum.''

Bell suggests that if expectations are not met, the board could return to previous levels of funding, eliminate weak programs and concentrate funding on well-supported programs.

He suggests that future funding should support and strengthen improvements in the recreation program.

Without identifying them by name, Bell and his associates evaluated programs at individual schools on general attendance, participant enthusiasm, quality of leadership, leader-student rapport, program supervision, program reliability, program variety, male-female programming, program visibility, publicity, facility and equipment, school-staff relations and overall effectiveness.

They studied programs at 19 elementary schools, six junior highs and three high schools.

Five programs were rated outstanding, nine satisfactory, 10 needs improvement and four unsatisfactory.

The strongest programs, Bell noted, shared common characteristics. These were older, more experienced leaders (usually local mothers), a variety of program offerings for different age children, extra planning, organizing and publicity, good relations with the school, a well-stocked equipment department, structured programs that included traditional and fad interests as well as drop-in activities and volunteer recruits.

Sixth anniversary celebrated

Information, Referral Center helps out senior citizens

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

It's tucked neatly in a back room of the Pomona Municipal Courts building on Mission Boulevard but the people who visit Room 120 aren't there to take the witness stand or pay a traffic fine.

Operating out of Room 120, a staff of four provides service to more than 500 local residents each month.

It is the Senior Citizens Information and Referral Center, which just marked its sixth anniversary this month under joint sponsorship of Pomona and Los Angeles County.

The office was created in March of 1970 under a joint powers agreement between the county and the Pomona Valley Council on Aging.

Up until late last year it was staffed solely by volunteers, but through the county and city CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) funds, the permanent staff members are now paid.

The office coordinator is G. Nelson Lortie, a prominent leader in senior citizen affairs in the valley for many years.

Other staff members are Larry Posnack, Mrs. Esther Landin and Mrs. Velma Rush.

They are assisted by volunteers on a regular basis.

According to Lortie, the demand for senior citizen information plus the counseling and referral services are expanding.

Services provided at the center include help in the preparation of income tax forms and information about special tax breaks for senior citizens, such as California's senior citizen property tax assistance program under which a substantial portion of the property tax may be refunded.

''All of us have had training in income tax preparation,'' said Lortie.

While tax information and counseling are common requests at the center, the largest number of problems handled have to do with Social Security.

With an estimated 10,500 elderly persons living in Pomona alone, said Lortie, there is a constant flow of questions about the program as residents dependent on that income seek to be sure they are receiving their full entitlement.

And because the center has accrued more than six years experience, answers to such important questions can be found quickly.

But the center is a great deal more than an information outlet about taxes and Social Security.

There is also information about legal and consumer aid, transportation, housing, nutrition, voter registration, education, clubs, tours and recreation programs.

And if the information is not on hand in the center, the senior citizen will be directed to a local agency that can provide the needed help.

''We have a complete listing to agencies handling almost every kind of problem,'' Lortie said.

And as if that were not enough, senior citizens who cannot come to the center may obtain information by phone. If necessary, the center can even go to the senior citizen with a house call.

A new service is being offered at the center beginning this week.

''On Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. we will have an attorney here in the office to help seniors with legal questions,'' said Lortie.

The Municipal Court building is located at 350 W. Mission Blvd.

Office hours for the center are 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

For further information about the center's services, persons may call 623-6811 ext. 279.

A European passport

It will be many years before the great dream of a "United States of Europe," the complete political unification of the democratic nations of Western Europe, becomes a reality. Nevertheless, significant steps continue to be taken towards implementing the first line of the treaty which established the European Common Market some two decades ago — "to lay the foundation of an ever closer union among the peoples of Europe."

In one of the most recent of those steps, the nine members of the European Community have decided to replace national passports with a single universal European passport by 1978.

This means that citizens of the "Nine" — France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Denmark, Holland, Luxembourg, the United Kingdom and Ireland — will be able to travel from one end of the Community to the other without passing through customs. For Americans and other foreigners, it will mean a single customs check upon entering the first EC country visited and one on leaving the last.

A European passport could be in use even sooner, since this change needs only legislation in Germany. Other parts of a planned "passport union" will take longer to work out, according to Economic Community Information Service, because they involve changes in national laws setting conditions of entry, length of stay and checks of luggage, currency and cars. Eventually, the Nine will have to negotiate agreements with nonmember countries to treat every holder of an EC passport the same, regardless of nationality.

The passport decision was made in Rome last December at a meeting of the European Council, composed of heads of states of Community countries, foreign ministers and EC Commission officials. At this same meeting, the council also paved the way for the election of a new European Parliament by direct universal suffrage.

At present, the European Parliament has 198 members appointed by and from the national legislatures. This was always considered a temporary arrangement.

By virtue of the agreement reached in Rome, the citizens of the Community may vote for their first directly elected Parliament sometime in May or June in 1978.

Opticians eye advertising

A new rule proposed by the Federal Trade Commission could affect everyone who wears glasses or contact lenses. It would allow ophthalmologists (physicians specializing in eye care), optometrists (nondoctors trained to test vision) and opticians (people who make and sell glasses but who aren't licensed to examine eyes) to advertise the prices of their services. Most state and local laws, as well as professional codes of ethics, now restrain such advertising.

According to the FTC and supporters of the new rule, advertising would result in greater competition and hence lower prices for eye care for consumers, especially low-income families who need glasses but can't afford them. They point out that the rule change would not force eye care specialists to advertise or give out information about prices but only permit them to do so if they wished.

Opponents object that advertising would be demeaning to eye care professionals, could result in lower quality goods and services and could lead to such undesirable consequences as bait and switch tactics by irresponsible people.

The view of the FTC, however, seems to be that there are more advantages than disadvantages in the new rule.

Low income housing

Dear Editor:

Regarding the Pomona City Council meeting of March 8 at which a no vote was taken on accepting federal funds for low income housing.

I am a taxpayer in Pomona. I became irate over the fact that the city council was contemplating applying for funds from the federal government to further low income housing in this city.

I and others stood up in spirited opposition to this move. We have had enough of the duplication of programs which do not work. We feel that this will only bring more poor people into an area which is already impacted by people on welfare, mentally retarded, mentally ill and physically handicapped, as well as unemployed.

Where once we had a good viable economy, we now have a city overburdened with taxes to pay for services to these and others. We can no longer mortgage our children's future and freedom for the here and now.

I was proud of the people who spoke out in opposition to this move as it let the council know that we cared about the future. I applaud the council for the no vote on this issue. I only wish more people would attend city council meetings and speak out on issues. Let the council know our thinking and feeling on the issues of today. — Kathleen Marineau

Police protection

Dear Editor:

Police response to two recent breakins and burglaries in our neighborhood (in Pomona) have made us feel that our police protection in less than adequate.

The first incident involved a teenage girl home alone in the afternoon When two youths attempted to break in she called the police. No one came, and when the culprits broke the glass in a window she fled to a neighbor who called the police again.

Later, when the mother asked why the police didn't respond when first called she was told they thought a child was making a prank call.

The second incident occurred at night while the homeowner was away. A neighbor observed two men breaking into the house and immediately called the police. Just before they arrived, a half hour later, the thieves walked off with several items. The man who called the police told them that the suspects were walking nonchalantly down the street just a block or so away. The officers (4) continued to search the house and backyard until the men had plenty of time to disappear.

Since it is so easy to break and enter without much fear of being caught the offenders will, no doubt, try it again and again. — Letter signed but name withheld by request.

Council acted wisely

Dear Editor:

The citizens of Pomona would rise and acclaim the recent action of the City Council in rejecting federal subsidy, if they realized the cost and significance of subsidy.

We will have more money to help our needy neighbors when our money does not first go to Washington and support a huge bureaucracy. We will have greater freedom to fairly and honestly help our needy, and who in far off Washington knows who they are better than we do.

Let us commend our City Council for acting wisely in rejecting the federal housing subsidy. — Richard C. Hathaway, Pomona.

Poverty in the fields

WASHINGTON — In earlier columns, we described the plight of the stoop laborers who harvest the winter vegetables that housewives find in the supermarkets.

There is grim irony in the fact that those who work in the world's most bounteous fields often live in stark poverty, earning barely enough to subsist. Some live in virtual bondage to the field boss, who collects more out of their wages than he pays them.

For most, there seems to be no escape from the perpetual poverty of the fields. They have no other skills, no place else to go, no hope of a better life.

Their living standards have been held down by the big growers, thus assuring their availability at low wages. From California to Florida, the political power has been on the side of the growers whose agriculture empires are tied to the banks, the railroads, the real estate interests.

These pressure groups have more friends in Washington than do the migrant workers who cannot afford the campaign contributions, law fees and other favors it seems to take to win friends and influence in Washington.

The Labor Department is supposed to uphold minimum standards in the work camps where the stoop laborers live. Inspectors made a routine call last December, for example, on a Florida tomato farm, which is part of the great Duda and Son agriculture domain.

The inspectors found 16 separate health and safety violations and fined the farm a paltry $230. Duda subsequently notified the Labor Department that the violations had been corrected. With no more concern, the inspectors accepted Duda's word and marked the case "closed."

Not long afterward, our reporter Hal Bernton, posing as a drifter, was hired off skid row by Duda and was assigned to this same camp. He found it hardly fit for human habitation.

The workers lived in rundown old trailers, which were divided into four tiny compartments. Bernton and another recruit shared a grim room that reeked of human wastes, with a dirty sink and a waterless tap. There was barely space for two cots, each equipped with a filthy mattress but no pillow.

The mattress had such an unbearable stench that Bernton searched the empty bunks for a cleaner one. He was caught dragging it into his room by the field boss, a burly man with a vicious Doberman pinscher to enforce his rule. The boss growled his disapproval but grudgingly let Bernton keep the precious mattress.

Among Bernton's neighbors was a weathered young couple, with a six-month-old baby. Their home was a tiny section of an old trailer. It took every cent they could earn to buy food and medicine for the baby. They were terribly frustrated over the unaccountable shortages in their weekly pay and the unfair deductions.

They hadn't been able to save enough, for example, to buy a crib for the baby. Once the child fell from the bed onto the hard tile floor. Happily, he escaped serious injury.

"It's hard for me to believe," wrote Bernton in a report to us, "that Duda can expect the family to live in such cramped quarters. This is more reminiscent of 19th-century slave quarters than any 20th-century habitation."

Not far from the miserable work camp live the white farmers who run Duda's farm. Unlike the hot, dusty, barren camp site, their homes are shaded from the sun by lovely old palm and pine trees. Automobiles and an occasional powerboat are parked on the grounds.

None of this, apparently, made much of an impact on the federal inspectors. As a Duda spokesman pointed out to us, the 16 citations weren't treated as "serious violations." But the farm managers must be aware of the conditions; for the spokesman said daily inspections were made of the work camp. The spokesman insisted that the owners and managers had no knowledge of any improper activities at the camp.

Helping the police

The latest figures released by the FBI indicates that crime is taking no holiday, and that crime, in fact, is increasing in our inner cities. There are crimes against the rich and by the rich; crimes against the poor and by the poor; crimes against all kinds and all classes. And it's time we not only asked why, but time we did something to stop it.

It appears that the police have abandoned big chunks of real estate and have warned the public to travel in those areas at their own risk. This is not only taking place in the inner cities, but in suburban and rural areas.

In 1974 alone, the police made 9.1 million arrests, and about 1.7 million of those arrested were hauled in by 'mistake,' not exactly a glowing tribute to the men in blue. If it's not bad enough that the police often haul in the wrong person, there are a half million private cops in the nation — many of them put on duty with absolutely no training.

These private cops commit so many assaults that the chances are that you are more likely to be mugged by one of them than by a mugger. There's no doubt that the overwhelming majority of these private police are trying to do their job and keep out of trouble, but the fact is that the security personnel in the U.S. today are often a menace to the public they are sworn to serve. Many private eyes are engaged in systematic wire tapping, bugging, trespassing and other invasions of privacy.

As for the public police, how good are they? Well, a New York City cop was recently arrested for allegedly committing a gang-land type murder in Colorado, and many cops use criminal tactics in the belief they are acting for the greater good of the society.

Law enforcement agencies have been howling for years that the public doesn't pay enough to get first-rate cops. And they're right. There's coffee and donuts passed out to the colonels in Greece and very nearly free bread passed out to dictators in Russia, but there's not enough pay in the paychecks of the local cops to keep them honest.

And then there's TV. The public has to content with a torrent of TV shows that literally tell kids how to knock a guy out with a karate chop and how to blow somebody's brains out with a .45. If teenagers don't get the idea, they can go to the flicks, where trash like "Hustle" will give them the picture of how the top criminals live in splendor (their fear is rarely shown) and how detectives will fix things up by fooling around with the evidence.

One interesting and apparently successful effort at curbing crime is taking place in New York's Harlem — the nation's largest ghetto and highest crime ridden area, block by block. Local residents in Harlem are beginning to report crimes, finger the criminals, and turn in the dope dealers. The residents are actually helping the police, and over the past few weeks, the homicide rate and assault figures have gone down. There are many Harlem's in America, and if the people in those areas act to put an end to crime, the tide will turn.

Just in jest

The mutual admiration society that is made up of people in show business never fails to reward its own. And so it has come to pass that over the years we have witnessed an ever increasing number of award ceremonies the like of which Rome in all its grandeur and Greece in all its glory never quite equaled.

There are Oscar awards, Emmy awards, Golden Record awards, Best Anything and Everything awards — and that's just for starters.

In fact, there are now so many show business award ceremonies that it is getting difficult to find a sufficient number of evenings in a year to hold them without doubling up every now and then. But a little thing like that didn't stop the award promoters from adding a new one this year.

The very thought of it gags me but true reporter that I am, I neyer shirk my duty. And so now it is my unhappy privilege to tell you that they are adding insult to injury, compunding the felony so to speak, by holding an awards cremony to honor the best TV Commercials in all their insipid categories.

Paul Harvey

Flying sans horsepower

Half-a-century after Kitty Hawk an American man may "really fly." Since Da Vinci, and probably before, men have dreamed of flying with manpower instead of horsepower — I mean a man flying by flapping his arms or pumping his legs or both.

Joe Zinno of North Providence, R.I., intends to — this year. You and I are going to live to hop over the housetops on some form of flying tricycle.

Ever since the Wright brothers aeronautical science has concentrated on flying faster, higher, farther; more horsepower, more speed! Now speed is less important. Fuel is more a factor. Economy is more significant.

Now that we can cross the continent in hours, what we need is some way to conveniently get across town. There is a standing offer by British industrialist Henry Kremer of $100,000 to the first man to fly a manpowered aircraft on a figure-eight course around two pylons half-a-mile apart — and he must cross the start and finish lines at least 10 feet off the ground.

While Americans have been preoccupied with speed and distance, British, Japanese and Austrians have made 17 successful flights of manpowered aircraft — but nobody has ever completed those two 180-degree turns.

Part of the problem is that the long wings, necessary for the weight-lift ratio, tend to touch the ground on a banked turn causing the craft to cartwheel.

Manpower is not the problem. We have the strength to do it. Controlability is the bugaboo. Paul Poberezny, president of the international Experimental Aircraft Assn. (EAA), reports that one man flew 1,171 yards in a straight line. One made a single 180-degree turn after 90 tries, but crashed on the next try.

But now EAA member Joe Zinno has constructed a frail-appearing craft with a 78-foot wing powered by his own feet on pedals linked to a propeller. It has been certificated by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) as an experimental aircraft.

And, in a most unusual public statement, an FAA inspector says, "If any manpowered aircraft appears able to fly, this one does." I talked to retired Air Force Col. Joe Zinno. He's conservative in his predictions but admittedly "can't wait to see daylight under these wheels!"

"When?" "As soon as the weather breaks." Zinno calls his craft "The Olympian." Engineers will want to know that a dual airfoil in the wing produces a high lift inboard and minimizes diving moments outboard. The outer five-foot section of the wing moves by means of a spring-loaded cable, producing a full wing-tip aileron. The eight and one-half-foot prop is geared for variable pitch. Drive power is a reciprocating pedal system that's geared to produce 295 r.p.m. for takeoff and 230 r.p.m. for cruise. An enormous rudder should allow "flatter" turns. The skeleton is aluminum tubing. The skin is mylar plastic.

The first hop will be at the abandoned naval air station at Quonset, R.I. The first man to fly in the United States may then and there launch us into a decade during which we all will.

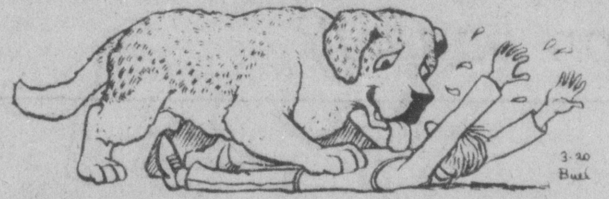
St. Bernard pup likes to lick



DEAR DR. MILLER: Dumbo, our Saint Bernard pup, has an urge to lick people. It's been getting worse. If we ignore it, will he just outgrow it eventually? People who don't know him sometimes get a little nervous about it. — A.A.

DEAR A.A.: The bigger Dumbo gets, the more nervous strangers are likely to be when he starts tasting them. Even those unconcerned about his appetite would undoubtedly prefer to pick their own time and place for a bath. Better begin now to discourage his licking habit. Suddenly starting to scold him when it's been permissible up to now would be quite confusing. Whenever possible, discourage by distraction. Move away from him when he starts to lick. Stick a large (not swallowable size) ball in his mouth. Pet him vigorously, or gently. Do something else with him immediately. Offer him a drink (of water). Let him watch TV — or whatever. Distract him in some way. The less you let him lick and the more alternatives you provide, the quicker and easier he'll get over his habit an especially messy one with a St. Bernard.

DEAR DR MILLER: Our cat, Simi, chews his nails a lot. Why does he do it, do you think? Is he nervous? He doesn't act like it in other ways. — M.F.

DEAR M.F.: Simi could be nervous or bored. He might also have a foot infection, fungus usually, involving the base of the nails. It could, too, be Simi's system for pussycat pedicuring, using his teeth in lieu of clippers, file or scratching post to keep his nails neat.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Tommy, my tarantula, is very lightweight and stiff as a board. I think he died. So I gave him a funeral. I plan to get another one when the weather warms up, but Mother says I shouldn't. She thinks I was just lucky that Tommy didn't ever bite me. I tried to tell her that tarantualas aren't really as bad as they look. Can you help me convince her? — C.B.

DEAR C.B.: It's true. Tommy Tarantula's nontruculent, even cheerful (?), personality was typical. Tarantulas generally are easygoing where people are concerned. For that matter, there isn't any tarantula native to this country that's venomous to humans. If tarantulas are irritating to some people physically, that's because they can shoot hairs from their legs which, upon landing on skin or mucous membranes, can cause a painful, inflammatory (but not dangerous) reaction.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have a Pekingese. We feed him chocolate cookies. He likes them. Is it bad for his digestive system? — N. B.

DEAR N. B.: If fed frequently and/or in quantity, they would be. An occasional chocolate cookie, unless he were allergic to it, shouldn't cause digestive disturbance. The harm here is that you're teaching him to beg for foods he doesn't really need which aren't really good for him and at times other than his regular meals. By far the best way to avoid snack time indigestion is not to let yourself, or not let the dog teach you to, feed tidbits in the first place.

For Monday, March 22, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may find it necessary to solicit aid in attaining your aims today. Do nothing that could alienate your supporters.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's possible your progress could be slowed today because of a tendency to change your mind once too often. Try to be decisive.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be realistic in appraising business matters today. Don't go in believing you'll get something for nothing.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today, something you hoped would be rather easy may instead prove difficult. It can still be done if you're resourceful.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Keep abreast of your responsibilities today or later they'll snow you under. Make out a schedule and try to maintain it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Friends who usually treat you liberally may resent any material request you make of them today. Borrow nothing of value.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's likely today that you could leave important things half-completed, especially in the domestic area.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your temper may be on a short fuse today. Things that don't normally bug you could cause you to overreact. Keep a cool head.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The demands on your purse today could be a shade heavier than you anticipated. Don't aggravate matters with extravagance.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan. 19) Today, avoid if possible strong-willed or domineering companions or associates. They could prove more than a match for your tolerance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you try to do things too hastily today there's a good chance you'll create extra work for yourself. Plan each move carefully.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Complications could result today if you become too involved in a friend's affairs, particularly if you're asked to loan something.

Your Birthday, March 22, 1976

This coming year you are likely to pursue goals you've never attempted before. Your new ambitions could be aroused through a very unusual chain of events.

Ann Landers

Sticking by her convictions

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 19-year-old virgin and I'm sure I'm not as much of a freak as the girls I work with make me out to be. I hope you will print this letter in support of all of us who have decided that sex belongs in marriage.

I have dated at least 20 men in the last three years and I'm proud to say I never let anyone talk me into anything. I've been called "abnormal," "too religious," "chicken," "square," "frigid," and "just plain crazy." When the arguments got heavy I told a few clowns to buzz off. I never figured I had lost anything of value when a high-pressure, make-out artist didn't ask me out again.

I knew one day I'd meet a man who would accept my view and not try to change me to suit his "needs." It happened a few months ago and we plan to be married in the fall. There is no hassling about how far to go. He knows my rules and is willing to abide by them.

I feel good about myself and what's more, I'm not worried to death from month to month like some girls I work with. Also, I'm not concerned about the side-effects of the Pill (as so many women are these days(because I'm not on it. The peace of mind and self-respect make up for whatever I might be missing, and I can wait a few months to find out what it is. — All Together

Dear Friend: I applaud a young woman who knows what she wants and what she doesn't want and has the courage to stick by her convictions. I've never received a letter from a girl who said she was sorry she saved herself for marriage, but I've received hundreds from those who didn't and were heartsick. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you spoke in Florida and made a strong point of being opposed to the idea of parents giving grown children money.

Perhaps you are unaware of the law regarding cash gifts. When parents give money to their children it need not represent a loss of income to the giver. It could be regarded as a tax-free "investment."

According to U.S. law, a parent can give each child $3,000 a year and not be taxed on it. This gift, when presented annually over a period of several years, reduced the size of the estate and a large inheritance tax is avoided. The return on the "investment" is the love and gratitude the parents receive from children who receive this lovely gift.

You frequently mention the experts with whom you consult. Why didn't you talk to an estate planner before you spoke out against this generous and financially astute procedure? — Front Row, Center

Dear Front Row: There was no need to consult an expert. I already knew the answer — and it has nothing to do with estate planning or a gift tax.

Your notion that an annual $3,000 gift will pay off in terms of love and gratitude is banana oil. Children don't love their parents because they give them money or gifts. In fact, excessive "generosity" can make a child suspicious. ("Why are they trying to buy me?")

Unfortunately many monied people are advised by their tax consultants to "give it to the kids rather than to the government," so they hand out the $3,000 checks annually and set up irrevocable trust funds. Too often a teenager who knows he's coming into big bread at age 21 has no incentive to stay in school or work (heaven forbid), and you end up with a lazy bum on your hands.

Parents, what should you do if your teenager is having sexual relations? Ann Landers's new booklet, "High School Sex And How To Deal With It — A Guide For Teens And Their Parents," gives no-nonsense advice on how to handle this delicate situation. For each booklet, send 50 cents in coin plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

A card for every occasion

Greeting cards were originally born out of the need to say for people what they couldn't say for themselves.

I once gave my mother a card depicting a little girl in a hooped skirt knocking on the door of a cottage and saying, "You bask in the sunshine of sweetness and light . . . and make all my dreams come true . . . prithee reap the harvest of all my love . . . in everything you do. Happy birthday."

Mother smiled and said, "It sounds just like you."

"Prithee, mother," I said, "you've been basking in the sunshine too long. All I wanted to say was I'm not much, but I'm all you can afford."

Not so today. I've never seen so many cards for so many occasions saying greetings in so many ways in all my life.

Some of them you can even send through the mails.

If you put your foot in your mouth and are sorry, there's a card for it.

If you won a tennis tournament, a diploma in sheetmetal, a divorce, or passed your eye examination, there's a card for it.

I even saw one that said, "I love living with you because I've got a case on you." When you open it up, it threatens, "Marry me or I'm taking you to court."

There are marriage proposals, business proposals, vacation proposals and some proposals that are just plain indecent.

I was picking out a Valentine for my husband when a salesperson asked if she could help. "I'd like something a little sentimental."

"Here's one," she said, handing me a card. My ears turned red. "You wanta see my I.D.?"

"That one's not so bad," she said. "We had one that was waterproof so you could read it under a cold shower. Just tell me what you want to say and how you want to say it."

"Maybe I'll just get a Mother's Day card."

"Unwed? Underage? Unwanted? Undone? Unsung? Unexpected! Underfoot?"

"Just something that will sound like me."

"Here's one that might fit you. It's a little strange. 'You bask in the sunshine of sweetness and light and make all my dreams in accord . . . prithee, mother, you know I'm not much . . . but face it, I'm all you can afford."

Good grief.

Plan diet for spastic colon

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have had diarrhea off and on for eight years. The tests show a spastic colon. I am bones because nothing stays in me. I am a highly nervous person but I have diarrhea even if my nerves are relaxed. They have treated me with different things but it doesn't work. I have sharp pains and burning and fluttering throughout my intestines. Can you please advise me? I am only 35 but feel like 99 most of the time.

DEAR READER — Stop coffee in all forms, including the decaffeinated type. Do not use tea, colas or other caffeine containing beverages. Temporarily you might avoid all forms of soda beverages. Not because they contain soda but because some of them that you might not suspect contain caffeine that may stimulate the nervous system. Stop smoking cigarettes if you use any at all.

Do start eating bulk-containing foods, particularly those containing bran. These are the whole wheat products. You can use All Bran, bran buds or any other sources of whole wheat fiber that you can get. Shredded wheat products are also whole wheat. Keep in mind that you may have gas and symptoms for the first two to three weeks when you increase the cereal fiber in your diet. You may need to do this gradually to keep from causing too many symptoms.

Stop all milk and milk products and do not use foods that use any appreciable amounts of milk in their preparation such as milk gravies, cream pies, ice cream and milk — containing sherbets.

After following this regime for a while if your situation straightens out you can try milk products and see if you are able to tolerate them. If you are you could add them back to your normal diet so you will be getting enough calcium. These simple points listed above will go a long way toward helping many people who have the spastic colon problem.

Diarrhea often is part of the problem of an irritable colon. Those who want more information on spastic colon can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 2-1, Irritable or Spastic Colon and Constipation. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of the Progress Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you please give me information on dextrocardia with situs inverses. Is it true that the heart on the right side is weaker and that the child usually dies at birth?

DEAR READER — Negative. All that diagnosis means is that the internal organs of the body are arranged in a mirror image of the normal arrangement. That is, the things that are supposed to be on the right side are on the left side and vice versa. This can be the only abnormality with a perfectly normal heart and normal abdominal organs. Such individuals may live a perfectly normal life span.

Sometimes when this variation occurs there will be accompanying birth defects. If there are, whether or not they will affect the health of the individual depends on what defects are present and how serious these defects are. If it is an ordinary garden variety type of heart defect that can be completely corrected with a simple operation then the outlook is usually good.

South can count 13 easy tricks if hearts and diamonds both break 3-3. He can count 12 if either suit breaks. Suppose both suits are unkind enough to misbehave?

South can still make his contract if he can develop a squeeze. The squeeze will develop if one opponent stops both suits. It will fail miserably if each opponent has a red-suit stopper.

It will fail even more miserably if South wins the first club. South only has 11 winners and must lose the first in order to go through the process known as rectifying the count.

Any smart declarer is not going to worry about giving up an overtrick when the contract is a slam so South ducks the first club.

He wins the second and proceeds to run off four spades. Everyone is down to seven cards and poor East has to chuck a diamond or heart whereupon South runs off the rest of the tricks.

Still doubters on moon walk

Here's a pollster who insists his surveys prove that two out of every 25 Americans don't believe we ever put anybody on the moon, that the whole show was rigged, that actors instead of cameras just pretended the walk there. Cynical folk.

The bowlers who average under 125 outnumber the bowlers who average over 190 by five to one. Specifically, one out of every 100 have to admit an average of less than 125.

You know those blue geese that migrate from Canada's James Bay to the Louisiana coast? They average 28 m.p.h. A good horse can run faster. No, not that far, certainly not, good grief!

FIRST CANNIBALS

In a Carib village on the isle of Guadeloupe live a tribe of Indians called the Canibales. The men with Christopher Columbus in 1493 on his second voyage this way found there what was left of a half-roasted human being. That's how we came by our word cannibal, from that Indian tribal name, reports our Language man.

Question arises as to how many Heisman award winners have wound up playing football in a Super Bowl. Two. Mike Garret and Roger Staubach. You say you're certain Paul Hornung went to a Super Bowl? Right, he suited up, but he didn't play.

Don't know what the bull snake calls to. Other bulls snakes maybe. Anyway, you can hear the bellow of that beast for about a hundred feet.

FLUFFED FEATHERS

Why do birds fluff up their feathers just before they settle down to roost at night? They do. To create extra air space next to their skin. Serves to insulate them from the cold.

Argument continues over just how fast a snail's peace is. Settle it. That snail can cover 23 inches an hour, steadily. If frantic, it can zip along over three inches a minute for a while, but pretty soon it has to slow down to rest.

If you happen to survive a direct hit by a lightning bolt, better gulp down a quick drink of vicuna blood to get back into the best of health. That's the recommendation of the Peruvian Indians who do not regard it as too whimsical a notion.

Do you know why the first tombstones were put on top of graves? Not to mark the burial place, that's certain. To weigh down the dirt so the desceased couldn't rise up again to haunt their communities.

To beat inflation

Save those tiny leaves on trees

By NORMAN H. STARK

The breathtaking beauty of many moths and butterflies results from white, black, red and yellow pigments in the scales found on the wings. But don't be lulled into false security by all this beauty. When they lay eggs, all hell breaks loose. From the eggs larvae, such as caterpillars, hatch with a full-blown appetite for tender green things such as tiny new leaves on trees and shrubs. So if you're looking forward to shade from big leaves in the summer, it's wise to protect the little ones in the spring. This can be easily and inexpensively done by painting caterpillar tree bands around the trunks. You can make them yourself. Here's how you do it.

You'll need one and one-half cups (12 ounces) of POWDERED ROSIN (you can get this from an athletic supply store), one cup (eight ounces) of LINSEED OIL, and one tablespoon of ordinary PARAFFIN CANNING WAX. Put all three ingredients together in the top of a double boiler, heat and stir until melted and mixed. When cooled, transfer to a metal, plastic or glass container. To use, paint a band about three inches wide around the trunk of the tree to be protected.

The cost of making your own caterpillar tree bands is approximately 15 cents per ounce. To determine your savings, divide the cost of your store-bought brand by the number of ounces it contains. Then compare the per-ounce cost — you'll be surprised at how much you can save for so little effort.

Note: Material costs are based on the prices at retail outlets of national drug, grocery and hardware chains. These costs will vary, depending on the geographic area. If you wish to make up a larger quantity — and save even more — buy your materials at a chemical supply company (see the Yellow Pages).

(Like any chemical product you use at home, you should store this one safely, label it — listing ingredients and noting any cautions — and keep it out of reach of children.)

Americans pay for competition, price controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Because of federal regulation, it costs almost twice as much to fly from Chicago to Minneapolis as it does to fly between San Francisco and Los Angeles, even though the trips cover about the same distance.

A New Jersey company wastes 90,000 gallons of fuel a year because the government won't let the parent company's trucks carry goods for its Florida subsidiary.

Two groups filed competing applications for a radio station license in California's Central Valley 26 years ago, but the government hasn't made up its mind which application to approve.

In 1972, growers left 14,000 tons of cherries to rot in orchards because of a federal marketing order designed to keep prices up.

Inflated prices, waste, delay: these are the price Americans pay for federal agencies to regulate prices and control competition in private business.

These agencies' defenders — including generally the industries they regulate — say the costs of regulation are justified by providing services to sparsely populated areas, stabilizing prices and preventing strong firms from squeezing weaker ones out of business.

But an odd alliance of consumer advocates and conservatives reject these arguments and say many agencies' powers should be drastically cut. Ralph Nader and Ronald Reagan, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and President Ford are among those who have called for massive changes at the Interstate Commerce Commission, Civil Aeronautics Board and other agencies.

The Costs of Flying

Perhaps the clearest example of the costs of economic regulation comes with the interstate airlines, which are regulated as to fares and routes by the CAB. Airlines that fly solely within a state are not subject to the CAB.

Pacific Southwest Airlines flies thousands of people every day between San Francisco and Los Angeles for $25.50 one way. That's a 347-mile trip within the state of California.

The Northwest Orient fare between Chicago and Minneapolis — about 355 miles — is $45.37. Thus, that fare, controlled by the CAB, is close to twice the fare regulated only by a state government.

"Public Service"

The CAB and major airlines argue that the concept of "public service" must be added to the cost equation. They say many smaller cities and towns would lose air service — or have it only at the higher rates — because such service is not profitable. The CAB now requires carriers to fly such routes, and the carriers argue that the profits from other routes must support the money losing ones.

"If you think those major airlines make any money by going into those little towns, of course, they don't," says Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn. "But it's part of a service. It's like Rural Free Delivery. We've got a lot of city slickers that don't think farmers ought to get their mail either."

The "public service" concept has led the CAB to order so many flights that it has to calculate fares on the assumption that 45 to 50 per cent of the seats on each plane will be empty. This "load factor" means wasted fuel and higher fares to make up for the empty seats.

Since there is little or no competition in fares among the airlines, the competition is reduced to expensive, but not necessarily significant areas — free champagne or drinks, stewardesses' uniforms and the variety of meals. In general, the airlines which stay within a state do not offer such frills — another reason for their lower rates.

Delays, Delays

A regulatory decision can mean millions of dollars for a company and touch thousands of people. Because of the complexity of the issues and the constitutional mandate to hear all sides, agencies often take years to decide cases.

But sometimes the cases stretch interminably.

The Federal Communications Commission has been thinking about a petition from West End Radio Co. in Tracy, Calif., for a radio station license since Aug. 31, 1950. And it's also been considering the competing application from Olympia Broadcasting in Carmichael, Calif.

The FCC's file on the applications is thick, but it lacks one item: a final decision.

At the ICC, it's been 13 years since the Union Pacific Railroad asked to merge with the Rock Island line, which was in financial trouble. Thousands of pages of testimony have been taken on the issues.

But now the Rock Island line is bankrupt, and Union Pacific really doesn't want to merge any more.

On Jan. 12, the ICC once again extended the time limits for another six months for anyone interested in the case to express an opinion.

Waste Not?

Just complying with agencies' intricate regulations on price and competition often costs money, fuel or other limited materials.

For example, a Department of Transportation study discovered that a big manufacturer of building materials in New Jersey ships three truckloads of goods a week from its main plant to Tampa, Fla. The trucks make the return trip empty.

This company has a subsidiary in southern Florida that sends three truckloads of goods a week to eastern Pennsylvania. But the subsidiaries' trucks make the return trip south empty — because the ICC will not let a subsidiary's trucks carry goods for the parent company or vice versa.

The DOT study, which did not name the firm, concluded that this one company could save 360,000 miles of useless travel and 90,000 gallons of fuel a year just by running trucks in a circuit from New Jersey to Tampa to southern Florida to eastern Pennsylvania.

The ICC won't allow it. The rationale is that allowing different firms to carry one another's goods — even when they are commonly owned — would undercut the for-hire truckers.

ICC regulation of the trucking industry is required by law to eliminate destructive or unfair competition among the "common carriers," the firms that haul goods for hire.

The ICC tells truckers precisely what kinds of goods they can carry, precisely what highways they can use and what they can charge.

The ICC also limits competition by denying thousands of applications each by truckers desiring to offer new services.

The major trucking firms band together in "rate bureaus" that decide what to charge for hauling. These cartels, exempt from antitrust prosecution, then challenge any attempts to have lower rates approved by the ICC.

This keeps shipping prices higher than they could be.

An Agriculture Department study found that shipping rates for frozen fruits and vegetables dropped 18 per cent when the courts ruled those products exempt from ICC oversight. Another Agriculture study showed rates for dressed poultry plummeted 33 per cent when ICC regulation was lifted.

Food Prices

The American farmer has often been the subject of praise and promises of support on the floor of Congress.

But Congress has done more than just talk about supporting farmers: federal law allows price-fixing and strict limits on competition in the production and sale of many agricultural products, mainly milk, fruit, nuts and vegetables.

In the harsh years of the Dust Bowl and the Depression, when farmers were at the mercy of plunging prices and middlemen, Congress opened loopholes in federal antitrust laws to allow farmers to band together in cooperatives. Without the exemption, such co-ops would be illegal.

But now many co-ops are big businesses that work closely with arms of government called "marketing orders," which commonly control production, quality, the flow of produce to the market and sometimes even prices.

Associated Milk Producers Inc., which controls up to 90 per cent of the market in some midwestern areas, is a $1.4-billion-a-year giant that ranks 141st on the Fortune 500 list of industrial corporations.

Ocean Spray controls 85 per cent of the nation's cranberry sales. Sunkist Growers Inc. controls 75 per cent of the oranges and 88 per cent of the fresh lemons grown in California and Arizona.

The Secretary of Agriculture, who oversees the marketing orders, is required by law to protect consumers from price-gouging increases by the co-ops. Yet the government has never penalized a co-op for boosting prices, even though some dairy co-ops have charged prices up to 22 cents a gallon above the federal minimums for milk.

Sheer waste can be the result of the federal marketing orders, since supplies are often held low to keep prices high.

In 1970, about one-quarter of the California cling peach crop was destroyed intentionally and 8,600 acres of trees pulled up. In 1972, Ocean Spray reported 600,896 barrels of cranberries that had been held off the market were "lost due to shrinkage."

Farmers and Agriculture Department economists argue that these government restrictions, in the long run, help to even out what would otherwise be "boom-and-bust" cycles of low prices and ruinous competition alternating with short supplies and high prices.

But other economists disagree.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability says a new study shows milk prices would fall 4.5 cents a gallon if marketing orders were wiped out. For all dairy products, consumers would save $100 million to $150 million ayear. And the council adds that farmers' income would fall only $50 million to $100 million, because of the waste in the current system.

American family size decreasing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The size of the average American family hit a record low of 3.42 persons in 1975, and new Census Bureau material cites rising divorce rates and falling birth rates as two key factors.

The average family size in 1970 was 3.58 persons.

Other data in the census report released recently show the average household size is dropping. The report said one-and two-person households make up half the U.S. total of 71.1 million households.

The figures show the number of one-and two-person households rose a dramatic 29 per cent from 10.9 million in 1970 to 13.9 million in 1975.

Two-person households rose from 18.3 million in 1970 to 21.8 million in 1975, a 19 per cent increase. The report also said the number of households with five or more persons dropped over the same period.

The result is that the average number of persons per household fell from 3.14 in 1970 to 2.97 in 1974.

In 1975, it fell again slightly to 2.94.

The report noted a high rate of marriage disruption, resulting in a growing number of female-headed households, has influenced the falling size of households.

Also, it said, the growing economic independence of women has made it easier for them to establish themselves in households after divorce, rather than returning to live with relatives as often has been the case in the past.

The decision by many young couples to have smaller families or postpone childbearing until their late 20s is another factor affecting family size, the report says.

Sacrificial meal urged

PHILADELPHIA, Pa (AP) — Americans are being urged to contribute the savings from one weekly sacrificial meal to Operation Rice Bowl (ORB), an inter-faith program designed to help feed the world's hungry.

ORB is sponsored by the 41st international Eucharistic Congress, a worldwide spiritual assembly of Catholics and other Christians, which convenes here Aug. 1-8. The over-all theme of the conclave is "The Eucharist and the Hungers of the Human Family."

The Congress recommends the restricted diet meal be eaten each Wednesday during the seven weeks of Lent.

Defeats Indians

Muchos alumnos tienen dificultades para leer

El setenta por ciento de los estudiantes en 10 escuelas elementales de Pomona, la mayoria de los cuales hablan otros idiomas o dialectos pero no ingles, tienen dificultades para hablar, leer y escribir ingles, dijeron los administradores escolares.

En un intento para proveer un programa concentrado en estas areas de ensenanza, el Directorio Escolar autorizo recientemente a los administradores para que soliciten fondos de los $81,229 destinados por el gobierno federal para el Derecho a Leer.

Las causas para el fracaso masivo en las areas del dominio del lenguaje ingles son muchas, los administradores explicaron en sus solicitudes de fondos.

Ellas incluyen extrema pobreza que los prohibe relacionarse y les limita las experiencias para aprender fuera de sus casas, la barrera de no haber sido ensenados a hablar ingles desde la infancia, una extremadamente alta movilizacion (esto significa tantos ninos transferidos como enrolados), salud pobre, mala nutricion y problemas sicologicos, llegada tarde a las clases y ausencias.

Las 10 escuelas donde los centros de ensenanza del lenguaje serian establecidos si los creditos fueran aprobados y surtidos son Alcott, Arroyo, Hamilton, Harrison, Kellogg, Lexington, Madison, North San Antonio, Roosevelt y Washington.

El miembro del Directorio Escolar Gene Whitlock presento la mocion que autoriza la solicitud del credito y fue secundado por la Sra. Mary Montes. La votacion fue unanime, con cuatro miembros presentes. C. Allan Braswell estaba enfermo.

Bajo las directrices de la solicitud, los programas extensivos se iniciarian en cada una de las escuelas participantes.

Cada estudiante seria diagnosticado y ensenado individualmente a hablar, leer y escribir ingles.

La solicitud de fondos, firmada por Ray L. Thomas, asistente del superintendente de servicios educacionales, como representante autorizado, contiene la informacion pertinente de cada una de las 10 escuelas.

Esta informacion esta designada para mostrar que la necesidad existe para el credito del Derecho a Leer con el proposito primario de ensenar a los ninos y ninas en esas escuelas el uso del lenguaje ingles.

Retiro de relaciones humanas

Miembros del Comite Consejero de Estudiantes en la Pomona's School Aid Act (ESAA) Basic Project atenderan un Retiro del Relaciones Humanas en Camp Arrow Bear en Running Springs, California, durante la semana de marzo 26-28.

Todos los miembros del Comite Consejero de Estudiantes son estudiantes graduados de noveno grado que atienden las clases superiores ESAA en Ganesha, Garey, Pomona, y Pomona Catholic. Ellos proveen una voz consistente del estudiantado en todas las partes del programa ESAA, y ayudan con informes a sus condiscipulos acerca de las actividades que se projectan.

El retiro de relaciones humanas proveera a los estudiantes de etnica diferente una oportunidad de estar mejor informado y promover mejores relaciones humanas en las escuelas superiores. La disminucion y eliminacion del aislamiento racial es uno de los objetivos principales del projecto ESAA, de acuerdo con Mrs. Wilhemina Greene, supervisora del proyecto basico.

Durante el final de semana, los participantes atenderan sesiones de relaciones humanas, de cambio de impresiones y actividades multiculturales.

Los adultos invitados al retiro incluyen directores de las escuelas ESAA y otros administradores, miembros del Directorio Escolar, padres, maestros y otros miembros de la administracion.

El Comite de relaciones humanas del retiro esta presidido por Nancy Anderson, ESSA profesora de lectura y SAC patrocinadora en la Escuela Superior Pomona. Fue ayudada en el planeamiento por los otros patrocinadores SAC de las otras escuelas superiores, maestros Angelena Curtis, escuela superior Pomona Catholic, Marjorie Miller, escuela superior Ganesha, y James Molina, escuela superior Garey.

Su salud

Una discusion de la creciente enfermedad cardiovascular arteriosclerosis — comunmente llamada endurecimiento de las arterias — tendra lugar hoy en el programa regular dominical "Usted y su Salud" de KMEX, empezando a medio dia.

Expertos invitados del programa iniciador de informacion en espanol acerca de la salud son el Dr. Rene Pidoux y la Sra. Rebecca Martinez, R.N., ambos miembros de Esat Los Angeles' White Memorial Medical Center. Dr. Pidoux es medico residente del laboratorio cardiovascular del Centro y la Sra. Martinez es enfermera jefe de la Clinica Medica.

Presentador del programa y su mantenedor lo sera el Sr. Armando del Moral, editor y publicitario de la revista en espanol "Grafica" y miembro del Comite de Lengua Espanola de la Asociacion Pulmonar del Condado de Los Angeles.

CONTRASTING STYLES

Style show scheduled

"You've Come a Long Way, Baby" is the theme selected for the 20th annual Mothers of Twins Club fashion show and luncheon Saturday at the Club 66 in Cucamonga.

The social hour at 11:30 a.m. will precede a 12:30 p.m. luncheon and the show.

The Pomona Valley Chapter of the National Mothers of Twins Club was established in 1954 to bring together mothers of twins and other multiple birth children for the purpose of exchanging ideas, problems and equipment.

Just as the club has grown so has its involvement in the community. Proceeds from events such as the forthcoming show have been used to assist the Crippled Children's Society, Sick Baby Fund at Pomona Valley Community Hospital, Blind Children's Center in Los Angeles and needy families.

For many years, the club supported foster twin boys through the Foster Parent Plan. These youth have now grown and become independent so the club members are planning a different philanthropic project in the local area.

Guests and members attending the luncheon will view women's clothing by Windsor Fashions in the Montclair Plaza and children's styles by The Children's Shop, Claremont.

Members serving as models this year include Mmes. Beverly Abila, Edla Becker, Linda David, Frances Gallardo, Kathy Gingerich, Nancy Lakkees, Connie Struve, Liz Tinker, Kris Williams, Delores Bass and Sharon Barker.

Children's fashions will be modeled by Sheri and Kari Barker, Dana and Deana Bass, Arron and Gerrit Becker, David and Michael Allyn, Pam and Kim David, Jacqueline and Reuben Gallardo, Ann-Marie and Ethan Gingerich, Carrie and Christie Hart, Robert and Adeen Lakkees, Leesa and Janice Liles, Matt and Stan Quay, Reena and Romona Oronoz, Keith and Kevin Vines, Ryan and Bryan Williams, Mindy and Michelle Wright and Leslie Stanley.

Mrs. Becker will serve as commentator for the show with Mrs. Lakkees as mistress of ceremonies for the afternoon.

Luncheon tickets are being handled by Mrs. Annettee Liles and Mrs. Karen Gastineau. Programs have been prepared by Mrs. Carol LaClaire and Mrs. Gallardo.

Other committee members are Mmes. Marylen Hart and Gingerich, special prize; Tinker and Pat Young, attendance awards; Abila and Struve, women's fashions; Anna Allyn and Joyce Wright, children's fashions; Williams and Gail Burton, decorations; and LaClaire, Burton, Becker, Margo Quay, Terry Buchannan, Lillian Olivares and Rose Oronoz, hostesses.

Persons interested in attending the philanthropic party are invited to contact the tickets chairmen.

French toys make debut in U.S.

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

French toys are making their debut in the United States, where their "old world craftsmanship and unique function" are expected to turn on Charlie and Carol just as they have intrigued Mimi and Pierre.

At the moment there are no dolls that cry "mama" in French. But someday, who knows, dolls may cry "mama" with French accents, said Marty Forman, general manager of the five French toy companies that have introduced their lines in this country in a joint venture. There are educational, high fashion, mechanical and squeeze toys and the line includes Christmas ornaments.

"The plush animals are mostly made by hand, the squeeze toys are made of pure rubber, and some of the toys — the crane and the bus — are so different we can't keep toy buyers from playing with them," Forman said.

The lifelike quality of the plush animals is especially emphasized by such toys as the American buffalo and family, which have long silky hair and real leather horns. Such toys are different from stuffed toys, Forman explained, because they are filled with "pure virgin kapok." Stuffed animals which are mass merchandised are made with filler materials. Plush animals, of course, are plush-priced. A 16-inch toy might sell for $40, whereas a stuffed animal of that size might be about half that price.

Squeeze toys for infants include the well known nursery characters, Donald, Mickey, Pinocchio, Bambi and Pluto, as well as pigs, elephants, mules and giraffes. Although these don't have French-sounding squeaks and they resemble their American counterparts, "they are safe, natural rubber rather than imported plastic and other materials," Forman emphasizes. Colors are chewable, nontoxic, and safety whistles do not come out, he maintains.

Although the teddy bear, which makes up 30 per cent of their line, is still the most popular animal with children, a survey revealed, the monkey is now runner-up, Forman says. And they have some interesting-looking monkeys in the line, along with giraffes, black panthers, gorillas and little foxes. Some plush animals have rockers on their peds so a small child can ride them.

A number of remote-controlled cars have a French look and there is a big bus that begins moving when a ticket is put through a slot in the roof. A crane performs eight actions with an electric remote control system, including a bucket that moves up and down, a cabin that goes forward and backward, an arm that turns right and left. The crane, which can move forward and back, is available in a number of sizes to a height of 43 inches.

French toy manufacturers investigated the American market for several years before they formed their organization a few months ago. Their research turned up various facts — that little boys still look for construction equipment, highway building toys and the like, and that toys "should be made with the idea of avoiding consumer frustration."

Although the toys are sold over the world, some lines have been designed to please children in certain countries, Forman explained. With the prospect of a downward trend in European economy upon them, the group of French toy makers decided to band together and seek other areas of distribution, he said, in explaining the new merchandising effort.

Woman educator tries to break stereotypes

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Being one of the nation's few black women school superintendents in large cities is no big deal to Dr. Edythe J. Gaines.

She believes it is more significant that so many people assume because of her title that she is a man.

"When I say on the phone 'Dr. Gaines calling,' the reply almost invariably is: 'Put HIM on,'' she complains.

Helping to break stereotypes is one of her causes.

Too often youngsters are labeled "you are dumb or you are young so you can't learn," she said in an interview.

Dr. Gaines, 53, rose in 28 years from English teacher to program director in the rough - and - tumble New York City system, and the art of communications is her forte.

"Language is the key thing," she says, and she communicates it with enthusiasm that turns the interview into a discussion.

Her favorite word is "sphygmos," she says, and she springs it on a listener to prove a point: It is gibberish to most people until one explains it means pulse.

And teachers can't explain to their pupils the importance of a strong sphygmos until they know what a sphygmos is.

Convinced that pupils often are not taught the meaning of many words used in classroom instruction — particularly in city schools with ethnic gaps between many teachers and pupils — she is trying to refocus teaching methods in the 30,000-pupil system, starting with English.

She concedes that the approach itself is difficult to explain but maintains: "We're on to something terribly, terribly significant."

Stressing that the problem is by no means limited to city schools, she added, "If we lick this thing it will be brilliance time as well for suburban kids, kids in the upper-middle class."

Dr. Gaines, the child of a well-to-do family, moved up the school administration ladder to principal in 1960, community superintendent in 1967 and Hartford's first black and first female superintendent last July 1. Hartford and Oakland, Calif., are among the few large United States cities with black women in such jobs.

Small but intense, Dr. Gaines chooses to talk with a visitor side-by-side at a table in her neat office rather than from her large desk.

Pieces of her African art collection sit on a bookcase alongside a bust of former President John F. Kennedy. A plaque of a Gaines "profile" from the New York Times is prominent on a wall and hanging plants add splashes of green to the high walled room.

One of her early acts as superintendent was to have the entrance of the drab brick administration building painted a bright red, adding the words "at the hub" over the door to stress its position at the center of the city school network.

She quickly became active in Hartford life, recently being chosen a director of the Hartford National Corp. and the Hartford College for Women. She and her electronic-engineer husband showed their spacious Hartford house during a fall tour of city dwellings.

She sees herself as an educational problem-solver and says she cannot recall when her sex or race was a drawback.

"I don't look into the mirror in the morning and exclaim: I'm black or I'm a woman," she is fond of saying.

Mrs. Eby named auxiliary head

Mrs. Richard E. Eby has been installed as president of the Auxiliary to the Osteopathic Physcians and Surgeons of California.

The installation was in San Francisco. Mrs. Eby held the same position 16 years ago. This year, the auxiliary will dedicate itself to rebuilding the Osteopathic profession in California. One major project will be the establishment and funding of the new California Osteopathic College for Family Medicine.

Her husband, Dr. Eby, is founder and chairman of the board of Park Avenue Hospital, Pomona, and chairman of the board of directors for the founding of the new college.

Mrs. Eby has served as past president and vice president of the Pomona Valley Osteopathic Society and vice president of the Auxiliary to the Osteopathic Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

Her state public relations chairman will be Mrs. William G. Stahl of Claremont.

MRS. RICHARD EBY

PEO unit names officers

New officers will assume their duties when Chapter PD, PEO Sisterhood, meets Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Miss Elizabeth Zilles, 235 E. Kingsley Ave., Pomona.

New officers are: Miss Kathryn Curtis, president; Mrs. E. A. Dooling, vice president; Mrs. C. T. Welch, recording secretary; Mrs. B. B. Woertz, treasurer; Mrs. Jean Mayer, chaplain; Mrs. Bernece Robertson, guard; and Mrs. L. D. Peevey, publicity. Miss Curtis and Miss Bonnie Brown will serve on the Reciprocity Board and Mrs. W. W. Cummings and Mrs. W. J. Dick will be convention representatives.

Assisting hostess at the Monday meeting will be Mrs. Mayer and Mrs. Mary Ellen Butler. Mrs. Dick will present a program on PEO projects.

Career program planned

"Horizons Unlimited", a health career program for students in grades nine through 12, will be held on Tuesday from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. at Foothill Presbyterian Hospital, Glendora.

Sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary of Foothill District 13, Los Angeles County Medical Association, the program will include a film and tours to various hospital departments.

Students, their counselors and teachers, are invited to view firsthand a nursing floor, the pathology laboratory, emergency room, dietary, coronary rehabilitation, inservice, respiratory and physical therapy departments. Hospital personnel will be available to explain procedures and to answer questions, Mrs. Dorothy Van Vranken, chairman, said.

Rembrandt Club books speaker

Robert Amory Jr. of Washington, D.C. will be the speaker at the Thursday dinner meeting of the Rembrandt Club of Pomona College.

A social hour at the home of President and Mrs. David Alexander of Pomona College will precede the 6:30 p.m. dinner in Olney dining room, Harwood Hall.

The brother of a member of the board, Mr. Amory is secretary to the Trustees and General Counsel, the National Gallery of Art. He is also president of Harvard Law School Association.

Mr. Amory, who has chosen as his topic, "Museum Trustees, keeping their feet to the fire," is a graduate of Harvard University and the Harvard Law School.

He has been admitted before the bar in several states and served many years as a college professor. In 1952, Amory was appointed Deputy Director (Intelligence) in the CIA by Allen W. Dulles in 1952. Simultaneously, he was a member of the President's Council on Foreign Economic Policy and served as chief of the International Division, Bureau of the Budget from 1962 to 1965.

Better teeth

Poor American children have better teeth than well-to-do youngsters, according to a news item in "Modern Medicine." One explanation suggested: the better-off child eats more frequently than his less affluent counterpart who may eat only two or three times a day.

Defendants: FLOYD FRANKLIN WARD, SHARON LYNN THOMPSON, DOES I THRU XX, inclusive

To the Defendants: A civil First Amended complaint has been filed by the plaintiffs against you. If you wish to defend this lawsuit, you must file in this court a written pleading in response to the First Amended Complaint within 30 days after this summons is served on you. Otherwise, your default will be entered on application by the plaintiffs and the court may enter a judgment against you for the money or other relief requested in the First Amended Complaint.

If you wish to seek the advice of an attorney in this matter, you should do so promptly so that your pleading, if any, may be filed on time.

Dated Nov. 21, 1973
V. DENNIS WARDLE,
Clerk
By April Anthonijsz, Deputy
(SEAL)

The word "complaint" includes cross-complaint, "plaintiff(s)" includes cross-complainants(s), and "defendant(s)" includes cross-defendant(s). A written pleading, including an answer, demurrer, etc., must be in the form required by the California Rules of Court. Your original pleading must be filed in this court with proper filing fees and proof that a copy thereof was served on each plaintiff's attorney and on each plaintiff not represented by an attorney. The time when a summons is deemed served on a party may vary depending on the method of service. For example, see CCP 413.10 through 415.40.

'Unemployable' now heads firm

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five years ago, Surinder Dhillon was so severely handicapped by injuries sustained in an automobile accident that he was confined to a wheelchair at home. Even to the District of Columbia vocational rehabilitation agency he was considered "unemployable."

Today, Dhillon is met at home each weekday morning by a modified van equipped to handle his motorized wheelchair. He is driven to his modern offices in the Virginia suburbs of Washington, where he heads a computer software firm with 90 employes, which last year grossed over $2 million.

Life changed dramatically for 28-year-old Dhillon in 1970, when he enrolled in a demonstration program at George Washington University funded by the Rehabilitation Services Administration of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The goal of the project was to determine if people who were severely disabled could be trained to work at home, despite the fact that they had previously been turned down for vocational rehabilitation services as "unemployable."

Dhillon was assisted in learning computer programming right in his own living room by use of a personalized instruction manual augmented by a time sharing computer. He learned the mysteries of "computer talk" and with a contract from the National Aeronautics & Space Administration in Washington opened his own firm in 1972.

In tribute to the rehabilitation agencies which are trying to help handicapped people, Dhillon named his company Rehab Computer Inc.

Rehab Computer started business in a spare room in Dhillon's basement. His company provides computer software services, and research and development in training and employment of the handicapped.

In 1973, its first full year of operation, Rehab Computer grossed nearly $100,000 and paid over $65,000 in salaries to nine full-time employes, seven of them severely disabled. Today, with gross sales approaching $2,200,000, Dhillon looks forward to continued expansion of his own business, with job opportunities for still more "unemployable" handicapped people.

"I want to see disabled people using their minds and talents in challenging jobs," Dhillon says, "and not the kind of menial tasks frequently given us in sheltered workshops or 'token' programs of hiring the handicapped. By creating challenging jobs, we give the handicapped a chance not only to be independent, but the opportunity to maintain their dignity and self-respect."

Handicapped people who are considered "homebound disabled" need to get out of the house and into the community to enjoy normal social and business contacts, says Dhillon, who has formed a small company to provide transportation for handicapped people. It has seven vans equipped to take people in wheelchairs to and from work, and to other appointments. Five of his staff, previously homebound by their handicaps, now regularly report to work at the office.

But jobs can also be designed so that people can work at home, he maintains. Recently Dhillon's company designed an information retrieval system that has enabled two disabled people to work for HEW in the data processing field, by using computer terminals placed in their own homes.

Other handicapped people who "graduated" from the George Washington University project have also benefited greatly from the program. Most were public welfare clients, and all considered too handicapped for conventional vocation rehabilitation programs, even though many of them had job experience, intelligence, education and youth.

Of the 34 people eventually employed, 21 are wheelchairbound. Six of the project participants have married since graduating from the program, one purchased a home, six bought cars, and ten are no longer "homebound."

Preservation of books study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Funds totaling $176,000 have been awarded to Barrow Research Inc, of Richmond, Va., by the National Endowment for the Humanities and the Council on Library Resources.

The grant "will support a large-scale test of the morpholine vapor deacidification process for preserving books through the use of a medium-sized processor designed to treat 50-100 books simultaneously."

The press and the American Revolution

Inflation was a problem then too

By Dr. Francis G. Salett
Worcester State College

"This is no time for giting riches but to secure what we have got. Every shadow of oppression and extortion ought to disappear, but instead of that we find many articles of merchandise multiplied four fold their original value. The farmers are extortionate where ever their situation furnishes them with an opportunity. These are the people that I complain mostly of; they are wounding the cause."

This resentment toward inflation was expressed by Gen. Nathaniel Greene, writing to Gov. Samuel Ward of Rhode Island, as early as Dec. 31, 1775.

From the very outset of the war inflationary forces were felt by the Americans. The interruption of trade with Britain produced many shortages and the cost of goods rose sharply. As seems inevitable in such situations there were profiteers who eagerly put personal gain above patriotism.

One Bostonian angrily exclaimed, "It is incredible what a profit the merchants take on their wares — double in the very least. So if I buy something fourth hand, I can count upon paying almost 16 times as much as it cost first hand."

Early in the conflict when the Continental Congress forbade the importation of British manufacturers after a certain date, merchants rushed to buy all they could before the deadline of the embargo. Later as these goods became scarce and were in great demand, high prices were demanded for them. It was good business, indeed, for profits of 700 per cent were made!

What a glorious opportunity for profit-hungry businessmen, with goods scarce and the demand always increasing! How could one fail in gambling on commodities always going up in price?

Some profiteers found that angry townspeople could react violently and make life dangerous. Thomas Boylston of Boston, who was thought to be hoarding coffee, was "roughly handled" and "never so swelted since he was born." When he refused to hand over the keys to his shop to a crowd, an irate woman "seized him by his neck" to get the keys. The mob then tipped over a cart "upon him . . . opened the warehouse, hoisted out the coffee themselves and put it into the truck, and drove off."

As businessmen and profiteers drove prices up, they were undermining the already shaky value of both Continental and state currency. During the war the many issues of paper money quickly depreciated in value: with no backing in gold or silver, and only the promise of redemption from Congress and the states behind it, the paper currency lost value rapidly.

When the people lost faith in the money of Congress, someone coined the expression "not worth a Continental," a bit of slang that became part of our American vocabulary.

How to cope with this situation? Could this runaway inflation be controlled?

Members of the first Continental Congress were apprehensive about the probability of rising prices when they adopted the first nonimportation plans and tried to establish schedules that would restrain price increases. At this time the fiery young Patriot from New York had supported the effort by publishing in December 1774 A FULL VINDICATION OF THE MEASURES OF CONGRESS.

Neither this nor efforts by Congress and the states to control prices prevented a sharp increase in the cost of living and a veritable orgy of profiteering and black-marketeering. It seemed, lamented one observer, that Americans were "Slaves to our passions, Covetousness."

Utter confusion threatened the country where there was no uniformity of regulation. Speculators made a profitable business of buying commodities in a state where there were price-fixing laws, and then selling them in another state where there was no ceiling on prices. When this practice denied supplies to the Continental Army (as it often did), it seemed to many that the industrious speculators were "as wicked as the Devil himself."

From Dec. 25, 1776, to Jan. 2, 1777, a committee of four New England states met at Providence, R.I., to consider the state of affairs. After referring to "the unbounded avarice of many persons," the "most intollerable exhorbitant price of every necessary and convenient article of life," and "the most extravagant price of labour," the committee adopted schedules for the strict regulation of prices.

Although the legislatures of the New England states adopted the wage and price schedules, they had little effect. People refused to submit to controls. Abigail Adams summed it up this way: "The merchant scolds, the farmer growls, and everyone seems wroth that he cannot grind his neighbor."

Congress did not look kindly at first on the action of the New England states; it seemed to some members like the seizue of power that belonged to the central government. After lenghty debate over what the best remedy for inflation was, however, Congress did approve the regulations of the Providence meeting. It also recommended that regional agreements be found in other sections.

One result of this was a conference at York, Pa. This disbanded when "the principle of leaving trade to regulate itself" was strongly argued, and nothing was accomplished. Through it all there was no effective action taken by the states as a whole to deal with inflation.

Most members of Congress realized that the excessive issues of unbacked paper money were in large part responsible for rising prices. But they had to face the all-important question: how else can we finance the war? Loans from abroad were barely large enough to stave off bankruptcy; and requisitions on the states, which were reluctant to impose taxes, did not provide much support for the central government. In 1780 Congress devalued its currency, making one gold dollar worth 40 Continentals. This momentarily wiped out the government's debt, but inflation continued.

Using an argument with a surprisingly modern ring, Franklin declared that the depreciation of the currency operated like a tax on those who lost value; and he noted that it was a fair device because "those people paid most, who, being richest, had the most money passing through their hands."

In the welter of the unworkable price controls, regulations against monopoly, and efforts to restrict currency issues, there were some who profited handsomely; others struggled desperately to supply their needs and meet obligations during the worst inflation in American history. Whatever the justice or injustice of the issuance of large quantities of paper money, however, this was the principle means by which the Americans paid for the War for Independence.

UCLA and Indiana will go at it again

Hoosiers, Rutgers, Michigan advance

Indiana continued its relentless march toward the national championship with an impressive victory over Marquette and joined UCLA, Rutgers and longshot Michigan in advancing to the semifinals of the NCAA Basketball Tournament Saturday.

The Hoosiers, 30-0 and ranked No. 1, turned back No. 2 Marquette 65-56 to win the Mideast regional at Baton Rouge, La.; Defending champion UCLA, 26-4 and ranked fifth, overpowered Arizona 82-66 in the West regional at the Bruins' home court in Los Angeles; No. 4 Rutgers, 31-0, ran by Virginia Military 91-75 in the East regional at Greensboro, N.C., and No. 9 Michigan, 24-6, trimmed Missouri 95-88 to win the Midwest regional at Louisville, Ky.

So it's on to Philadelphia where Indiana will play UCLA and Rutgers will meet Michigan in the semifinals next Saturday afternoon. The survivors play for the championship Monday night, March 29.

The semifinal doubleheader will be televised, starting with the Rutgers-Michigan game at 11:15 a.m. PST.

Indiana, which has lost just one of its last 65 games, goes into the final four as the favorite. The Hoosiers, despite the benching of All-American Scott May with foul problems, broke to a 30-19 lead midway through the first half against Marquette. But the scrappy Warriors rallied to trail by one, 36-35, at the half.

The Hoosiers again pulled away in the second half as May returned to score 11 points and give his team a 51-41 advantage with 10:23 left. Again Marquette rallied. Forcing Hoosier turnovers, the Warriors rode the outside shooting of Earl Tatum to close within 57-54 with 2:18 remaining.

But Marquette's hopes ended when Tom Abernethy sank a pair of free throws and the Hoosiers retained possession of the ball due to a technical foul called on Warriors' Coach Al McGuire. Free throws by Abernethy and Bob Wilkerson and a layup by Quinn Buckner iced the Indiana victory.

Burly center Kent Benson topped the Hossiers with 18 points, May had 15 and Abernethy 12. Tatum led Marquette, 27-2, with 22 points and Bo Ellis added nine.

Mike Dabney and Ed Jordan scored 23 points apiece for Rutgers against hustling but outmanned VMI. The Scarlet Knights broke it open with a 22-7 streak in the final 4½ minutes of the first half and went on top by 21 early in the second. The Keydets, plagued by fouls, crept to within 10 with 8½ minutes left but could get no closer.

VMI lost four players on fouls, including Will Bynum who led all scorers with 34 points. All-American Phil Sellers added 16 points for Rutgers.

Michigan got a balanced attack going to overcome a 43-point outburst by Missouri guard Willie Smith. The Wolverines built an 18-point first-half lead before Smith led the Tigers back with his long-range jumpers after intermission. Missouri surged ahead 76-71 with 7:54 left, but Michigan resumed the offensive and gradually pulled ahead for good behind Johnny Robinson and Rickey Green.

The Wolverines went into a stall over the final two minutes to protect their lead.

Green finished with 23 points, Robinson added 21 and Phil Hubbard 20 for the winners.

Washington leads Bruins down stretch

LOS ANGELES — UCLA is best in the West again and now the nation will find out if the Bruins are indeed the class of college basketball.

The Bruins won their 10th straight NCAA West Regional championship at friendly Pauley Pavilion Saturday afternoon and will tackle undefeated top-ranked Indiana next Saturday in the national semifinals in Philadelphia in what shapes up as a classic rematch.

It wasn't easy for UCLA Saturday but the Bruins went to work when it got tough to end up with an impressive 82-66 victory over Arizona before 12,459 fans and a national television audience.

Arizona caught up at 58-58 with 8:21 left in the game to make it nervous for Bruin fans but it was all UCLA after that. The Bruins scored the next 12 points in an overpowering spurt and outscored the Wildcats, 18-2, in a seven-minute stretch.

In that streak, UCLA looked just like all of its previous championship teams. Two more efforts like that and UCLA officials will be trying to find a spot in Pauley Pavilion for the school's 11th national championship banner in 13 years.

"Certainly we're happy about beating a good Arizona team," UCLA Coach Gene Bartow said. "We played extremely well down the stretch. I guess we're where we're supposed to be at this time of year according to everybody out here."

Forward Richard Washington, who was voted the outstanding player in the Regionals, came alive in the final eight minutes to spark the spurt.

"During our last time out before we ran off those 12 points, Richard said to me, 'I'm gonna get me some points' and he did," Bartow said.

Washington made only four of 14 shots in the first half but he put in 7-of-10 during the final 20 minutes.

"Richard was especially tough down the stretch," Bartow said, "but David Greenwood, Ralph Drollinger, Raymond Townsend and Marques Johnson all played their hearts out. And nobody can be happier than Andre McCarter, who said all season long he planned to be home in Philadelphia this time of the year."

Washington led all scorers with 22 points. He was followed by Townsend's 16, Johnson's 14 and Greenwood's 10. Townsend was a big factor in the victory with his outside shooting (7-of-12).

Arizona, with its big front line, stayed with the Bruins thanks to its inside game. But the Wildcats were hurting from the outside because of the heel injury to guard Jim Rappis.

Rappis, who was hurt in Thursday's win over Nevada Las Vegas, played 34 minutes Saturday but his shooting was off with only one field goal in eight attempts.

"We had to make some adjustments because of Jim's injury," Coach Fred Snowden said. "We knew he would probably not shoot well but we needed him to quarterback our attack."

"We ran into a cold spell today," Snowden explained, "and I believe UCLA had something to do with it. In the end, UCLA played a better game. We had our crack at it but couldn't make the clutch baskets."

Arizona placed three players on the All-Tournament team in guards Herman Harris and Rappis plus forward Al Fleming. UCLA was represented by Washington and Johnson.

Harris, who scored 31 against Las Vegas, led Arizona Saturday with 18 followed by 14 apiece from forwards Fleming and Phil Taylor. Fleming also pulled down 16 rebounds in a tremendous showing on the boards.

Until the sudden spurt, UCLA's biggest lead in the game came late in the first half with a six-point margin. The Bruins enjoyed a 38-35 lead at halftime with Arizona cutting into it during the second half.

"We never could quite get to the point we could take command," Snowden said.

UCLA shot 51.4 per cent from the floor while Arizona hit on only 42 per cent. The teams were deadlocked in rebounds with 41 apiece.

Now all the basketball talk will center on the game between UCLA and Indiana with the other semifinal match between Rutgers and Michigan taking a back seat.

The Hoosiers drubbed the Bruins, 84-64, in St. Louis back in December to open the season.

"Our players want very much to play Indiana again," Bartow said. "We played a bad game against them in St. Louis. Maybe we were too tight because it was my first game as coach at UCLA. I hesitate to say that because Indiana still may have beaten us by 15 points even if we played well.

"Indiana is a super team as its record the past two years indicates," Bartow added. "However, if we play as well as we have played recently, we can play ball with any college team and Indiana is a college team."

Carter free on bail

PATERSON, N.J. (AP) — Former middleweight boxer Rubin "Hurricane" Carter, amid a news-camera barrage, walked free from jail Saturday for the first time in nearly 10 years.

He and co-defendant John Artis, who were granted a new trial on charges of a triple murder in a Paterson tavern in 1966, went free on bail posted by the Carter-Artis National Defense Fund—$20,000 for Carter and $15,000 for Artis.

Carter, 38, was taken to the Passaic County Courthouse from the Clinton Reformatory about 50 miles from here, while Artis, 30, was brought from the Leesburg State Prison, about 130 miles away.

They appeared before Superior Court Judge Bruno Leopizzi. Defense attorneys Myron Beldock and Lewis Steel said they did not know when the new trial would begin.

In a brief message from the bench on Friday, Leopizzi said "all counsel and the defendants are forbidden to release information about this case to the public or the media."

And Carter told reporters after the bail-bond hearing he was forbidden to make any judicial comment other than information presently on the public record.

Carter and Artis were granted bail Friday after a 3½-hour closed-door meeting between attorneys for the two men and Passaic County Prosecutor Burrell Ives Humphreys. The meeting was held in Leopizzi's chambers without the defendants present.

Last Wednesday, the two men were granted a new trial by the New Jersey Supreme Court.

In a unanimous 7-0 ruling, the state's highest court ruled the original trial in 1967 was prejudiced because the jury and the defense were not informed of promises of leniency made to two key prosecution witnesses who had criminal charges pending against them.

The witnesses, Arthur Bradley and Alfred Bello, gave testimony that placed Carter and Artis at the scene of the triple murders. They recanted their testimony in 1974.

Kings bump Canadiens

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Defenseman Bob Murdoch struck for one goal and set up aother to help Los Angeles score a 4-3 National Hockey League win over Montreal Saturday night and snap the Canadiens' unbeaten string of 15 games.

The victory enabled the Kings to move back into a tie for second place with idle Pittsburgh in the Norris division playoff chase.

Montreal, the NHL's best road team, trailed Los Angeles 4-1 going into the final period but staged a spirited two-goal rally in the final stanza.

Guy LaPointe and Murray Wilson fired in goals 26 seconds apart in the third period to trim the Los Angeles lead to 43.

LaPointe's 20th goal of the season came on a Montreal power play, while Wilson's 10th goal was a deflection off his stick into the net at the 8:21 mark.

The Canadiens completely dominated the action in the third period, outshooting the Kings 13-3, but a stubborn Los Angeles defense held on to pin the Canadiens with only their 10th loss of the season against 54 victories and 10 ties.

Tommy Williams shot Los Angeles into a 1-0 lead at 6:29 of the first period and Murdoch's fifth goal of the season stretched the Kings' lead to 2-0 at the 14-minute mark.

Guy Lafleur blasted a 55-footer from inside the blue line on a Canadiens' power play to reduce the Kings' margin to one goal late in the period.

Mike Murphy fired a 30-footer at the nine-minute mark of the second period and Don Kozak's 17th goal at 15:33 of the same period stretched the Kings'advantage to 4-1.

Montreal outshot the Kings 34-28

Suns gain on Lakers

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Alvan Adams canned 29 points as the Phoenix Suns blasted the Los Angeles Lakers 106-93 in National Basketball Association play Saturday night.

Phoenix now stands at 34-36 and picks up a game on the second place Lakers in the three-way race for a playoff spot in the Pacific Division. The Lakers dropped back to 36-36.

Phoenix shot ahead to 27-22 at the end of the first quarter on 57 per cent shooting from the floor. Admas had eight for Phoenix in the quarter while Don Ford had the same total for the Lakers.

The Suns, with Adams scoring nine second quarter points, burst ahead 52-38 at the half as the Lakers managed only 16 points in the quarter. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar had 10 points in the half and seven rebounds to pace the Lakers.

With balanced scoring, control of the boards, tight defense and a running game, the Suns exploded to an 81-62 lead at the end of the third quarter. Phoenix led in the quarter by as much as 22 points.

Jabbar had 13 points in the period for the Lakers who went 2:30 without a point.

High scorer for the Lakers was Jabbar with 28 points, followed by Ford with 16.

"I thought Phoenix played aggressive ball," said Lakers Coach Bill Sharman. "They controlled the boards. We just couldn't shoot.

"When they control the boards it kills our running game. We didn't play well in any department. In the first half they really pushed us around. We're not a muscle team," said Sharman.

NBA subsidies revealed

NEW YORK (AP) — Each team in the National Basketball Association paid part of the salaries of superstars such as Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Rick Barry and Elvin Hayes for a period of at least five seasons beginning in 1968, the New York Times reported in its Sunday editions.

The Times story was based on documents filed in Federal District Court in New York in connection with the Oscar Robertson suit, the litigation between the NBA Players Association and the league owners which sought an end to the reserve clause and other contractual changes. A basic agreement which would settle the suit was announced Feb. 3, but all details have not yet been worked out.

At the height of the bidding war between the NBA and the American Basketball Association, NBA teams contributed to a pool which totaled more than $1.5 million which was used to sign top players, the Times reported.

In 1968, the 14 NBA teams reportedly contributed a total of $547,100 towards the salaries of the league's first-round draft choices, which included Hayes, Wes Unseld and Don Chaney. A similar arrangement was in effect the following year, when the top collegians included Abdul-Jabbar, Neal Walk and Lucius Allen. It was also used in 1972-73, when Golden State lured Barry back to the NBA after a sojourn in the ABA.

In Abdul-Jabbar's case, according to the Times story, Milwaukee paid the first $500,000, the pool paid the next $300,000 and Milwaukee paid the remainder of his contract, which was not disclosed. For Barry, the pool paid all of his salary above $100,000.

The Times said Simon P. Gourdine, the NBA's deputy commissioner, would not comment on the story or acknowledge that a pool did indeed exist.

The source of the story, according to the Times, was a 15-foot stack of papers filed in connection with the Robertson suit that are public record. These include pages from NBA ledgers and memos from former Commissioner Walter Kennedy to team owners.

There was no evidence of a similar arrangement among ABA teams, although according to the Times the documents did show that teams got reductions in their league assessments for signing stars like Julius Erving and David Thompson.

Other items revealed in the papers, according to the Times report, included:

—A memo from Gourdine dated March 12, 1975, apparently intended for use in salary negotiations, listing the salaries of the league's 10 best forwards as: Bill Bradley, $325,000; Spencer Haywood, $302,000; John Havlicek, $250,000; Rick Barry, $237,500; Elvin Hayes, $202,000; Jim McMillian, $200,000; Rody Tomjanovich, $166,666; Bob Dandridge, $150,000; Bob Love, $141,200, and Steve Mix, $45,000. All except Mix had no-cut provisions in their contracts.

—Wilt Chamberlain was paid $510,000 to coach the ABA's San Diego Conquistadors in the 1973-74 season, while the salaries of his 11 players totaled $469,000. The team reported gate receipts of just $241,551.50 that year, and is now defunct.

Toronto may get choice of franchises

NEW YORK (AP) — The American league voted Saturday to expand to Toronto for 1977 and the National League immediately set up a possible collision course by saying it would actively consider expansion to the same city for the same season.

Presidents Lee MacPhail of the American League and Chub Feeney of the National League announced their separate actions at the conclusion of the joint meeting if the 24 major league owners.

"The American League has declared its intention to expand to Toronto in 1977 and so advised the National League and the commissioner in a joint meeting," MacPhail said.

Then Feeney disclosed the National League's plans, saying his league will actively consider expansion for 1977 and, if it adopts expansion, Toronto will be included."

Garey fourth at invitational

HUNTINGTON BEACH — Stan Webster and Morris Cole paced Garey High in a fourth-place finish in the Small Schools Division of the Southern Counties Invitational track meet Saturday at Huntington Beach High.

Webster took third in both the 330-yard low hurdles (39.0 seconds) and the long jump (22 feet, 5¼ inches). Although running the lows for only the second time, Webster turned in a 38.6 — the fastest time of the season by any valley prep athlete — in a qualifying heat.

Cole placed second in a photo finish to Arroyo's Mike Florence in the 220, with both timed at 22.1, and second to Santa Ana Valley's Mike Rhue in the 100. Cole's time was 10.0 and Rhue's was 9.8.

Cole's time in the 220 is the best in the valley this season.

Webster, Cole, Tori Shepherd and Larry Jones won the mile relay in 3:27.5, another best time for the area.

Ganesha's Carl Bailey took second in his heat of the 440 in 49.6, 1.2 seconds faster than his previous best.

Garey, with 17 points, finished behind Crespi (28), Santa Ana Valley (27) and Blair (18).

Broncos corral Cowboys

By BRENT SHYER
PB Correspondent

The Broncos of Cal Poly were running wild Saturday afternoon at Poly's Kellogg Field.

Poly's baseball team swept a doubleheader from the Wyoming Cowboys by scores of 16-3 and 4-3.

The win upped the Broncos record to 12-13-1 on the season, while the double dunking for the Cowboys dropped their mark to 3-11.

Although the Poly players had just come off a tough week of final exams, they still had enough energy left to win twice and would have received an "A" for effort in anyone's grade book.

In the first game, the Broncos were trailing 1-0 going into the bottom of the fourth inning, when they exploded for 11 runs on 12 hits. Poly brought 16 men to bat in the wild inning. Monty Cloward started the run parade by pushing a perfect squeeze bunt by pitcher Jerry Orr that scored Ray Pekarcik and Dale Biggs.

The Broncos then used six straight hits to score four more times and lead 6-1. Biggs singled to drive in two more, and Cloward collected his second hit of the inning, a triple, to chase home another pair.

Sherow, who is batting .400 on the season, picked up Cloward with his second single of the inning to give the Broncos their 11th tally.

The Broncos added five runs in the seventh, with the big blow being a three-run pinch-hit home run by Lon Brusegard. Cloward drove home another run with a double, his fifth RBI of the game.

Because of the week layoff for finals, Bronco skipper John Scolinos gave all of his pitchers a workout. In the first game, five Poly hurlers participated. Gil Molina, (1-1) a lefthander, picked up the win.

Other pitchers used were Rick Schwenn, Tom Rosenstein, Gary Zakem, and John Kistner.

Wyoming scored its first run on a sacrifice fly by George Peck, in the fourth inning. In the seventh, a double by Charlie Angelini drove home Kirk Harris who had singled. Kevin Callinan scored on a wild pitch by Zakem, for the Cowboys third tally.

The Broncos slapped the ball for 22 hits. Pomona's Pekarcik and Cloward each had four hits, while Alex Torrez had three.

In the nightcap, Poly scored all four of its runs in the fourth inning. That meant that in the two games the Broncos tallied 15 times in the fourth frame.

All of the runs were tainted, however, because of a two-out error on Wyoming shortstop Angelini. With Torres on second, after he singled and stole a base, Steve Thompson reached base on the error. Torres took third on the play. Thompson then ran on a pitch and rather than allowing him to steal the base, Cowboy catcher Don Clayton threw down to the bag. That allowed Torres to come home.

Cloward, who had five hits and two walks in the games, singled for another unearned run as Thompson came across. Kevin McLean ripped one up the left field alley for the third run. Sherow, who went four-for-nine in the twinbill, tagged the ball to the right field gap and raced around the bases for a stand-up triple which plated McLean.

Both teams collected eight hits in the second game. Jack Bamgargner was the lone pitcher for Wyoming and he took the loss.

Poly used Chuck Belk, Mike Regus, Kistner, and Bruce MacPherson, with Regus picking up his fourth win.

Poly will face the USC Trojans on Tuesday night at 7 at Dedeaux Field, before traveling to Hawaii to take on the University of Hawaii.

Leos split twinbill with Arizona

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

Leo bats helped La Verne College split a pair of seven-inning games with visiting U. of Arizona Saturday at La Verne.

The Leopards (6-11) pounded out 14 hits to win the first game, 10-6, behind the relief pitching of Fernie Tarin. But the visiting Wildcats (25-10) powered their way to a come-from-behind 4-3 victory in the nightcap.

Both games were, by pre-agreement, limited to seven innings because the Wildcats had to catch an early plane back to Tucson.

"I thought we played good defensively," said coach Ben Hines. "Fernie came in and did a very good job in the first game. It looks like he will stay right in the rotation."

Tarin, a 6-3 right hander, is a transfer from Mt. san Antonio College. He has been playing on the jayvee team because of control problems.

But he didn't show it Saturday. Taking over for starter Joe McLaughlin with three runs across and two on base in the fourth inning, Tarin struck out Pete Van Horne to end the inning.

"I'm happy to take two of three," said Arizona's Jerry Kindall. "We have great respect for Ben Hines' teams. "We want him over every year and we'd like to come over here."

The Leos jumped on Dave Crutcher for seven runs on six hits in the first two innings. Crutcher was carried out on his shield with nobody out, two runs home and a runner at second base in the second inning.

In the first inning, John Laubhan followed a one-out walk to Tim Burzette and a single by Wayne Redfearn with a three-run homer. Ralph Valadez doubled, took third on a wild pitch and scored on Steve Polen's sacrifice fly.

That was all for the shell-shocked Crutcher. He was replaced by Dave Germet who retired Burzette and Redfearn easily. But Laubhan cracked a triple to give him four runs batted in in his first two times at bat.

Meanwhile, McLaughlin kept courting disaster because of a lack of control, a chronic problem with the big righthander.

He gave up a run in the first on Zimmerman's leadoff double, a single by Dave Stegman and a walk. He escaped damage in the second and third although issuing a pair of passes in each stanza.

But the hard-throwing ASU transfer couldn't luck his way through the Arizona fourth.

After striking out the first batter, he gave up five straight singles and hit the next batter. He was fortunate in that Glen Wendt tried to score on a wild pitch and was out at the plate, Burzette to McLaughlin.

Hines immediately brought in Tarin who preserved the win. He gave up two runs in the sixth on a walk, Stegman's double and a single. Those were the only hits he allowed.

La Verne scored its final three runs in the fifth. There were singles by Valadez, Steve Watson, Wolters and Redfearn.

The Leos reeled off two double plays to give them 19 in 17 games.

The second game was scoreless until the La Verne third. The Leopards scored three times on a walk to Proulx, Jim Pearns' single, Page's sacrifice and back-to-back doubles by Burzette and Redfearn.

But the Wildcats tied it in the fourth on a walk, single and Van Horne's three-run homer.

Stegman, the Wildcat's leading hitter, won it in the fifth on a home run that hit the top of the leftfield fence and bounced over.

"Paul (McGuire) pitched very well," said Hines. "He just got the ball up a little in the fourth and fifth innings. But overall, I'm a little disappointed in our pitching. We're giving up too many runs."

Sports briefs

WEMBLEY, England (AP) — John Stracey of Britain stopped Hedgemon Lewis of Los Angeles in the 10th round Saturday night and retained the World Boxing Council welterweight title.

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP) — Michiko Yokoyama of Japan shot a five-over-par 77 Saturday but maintained the lead in the $28,333 Hiroshima Open with a two-round total of 149, two strokes better than runner-up Michiko Okada.

GHENT, Belgium (AP) — European lightweight champion Fernand Roelands of Belgium defeated Italy's Ugo Pboli in a 10-round bout Friday night.

Roelands, who won the European title a month ago when he beat France's Andre Holyk, was not defending his championship,

MEDAN, Indonesia (AP) — Burma's Mya Aye fired a two-under-par 70 Saturday and increased his lead to three-strokes after three rounds in the $25,000 Indonesian Open golf tournament.

Aye had a total of 207. Kuo Chi Shiung of Taiwan remained in second place with a 71—210.

Stags beaten twice

Whittier College took a commanding lead in the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC) Saturday with a pair of wins over visiting Claremont-Mudd.

The Poets defeated the Stags, 7-3 and 6-5. That gives Whittier (8-0) a 3½ game lead over Claremont-Mudd (3-2) and La Verne (2-1).

In the only other games involving conference play, Pomona-Pitzer split a twinbill with Redlands. The Sagehens (3-4) outscored the Bulldogs (2-6), 10-6 in the opener, but took a 14-2 shellacking in the nightcap.

At Whittier, Greg Jones' three-run home run in the third and Frank Bencomo's two-run blast in the fourth were more than enough to give Joe Maiberger (5-1) his first loss.

The Stags had taken a 2-0 lead in the top of the third on singles by Bob Turek, an error and singles by Wynn Moore and Jon Begerow. The other run came in the fifth on Al Golad's hit, Turek's double and a sacrifice fly by Andy Roundtree.

In the second game, two Stag errors, a walk, Jones' double and Bencomo's single gave the Poets three runs in the first off Norm Richards.

The Poets added solo runs in the third, fourth and eighth while the Stags scored in the second, fourth and ninth.

Pomona-Pitzer scored six runs on only two hits enroute to its first-game win at Redlands. Jim Busteraud's three-run double, was the big blow. Redlands contributed with six walks, three passed balls and two wild pitches.

Chris Dialynas clouted a two-run homer in the three-run Pomona fifth.

Mounties whip OCC

Mt. San Antonio College evened its South Coast Conference baseball record at 2-2 Saturday with an easy 13-3 win at Orange Coast.

In Mission Conference action, Citrus pushed its league mark to a spotless 5-0 with an 8-1 win over visiting Riverside City College, but Chaffey was bombed by San Bernardino 16-7.

The Mounties pounded out 14 hits off five Pirate pitchers in the win at OCC. Leading the offense were Danny Gans, three hits and four RBI, Tracy Cowger, four hits and three RBI and Orv Noconie, three hits.

Val Primante socked a solo homer, his first round-tripper of the year, to add to the MSAC attack.

Mountie hurlers Kevin Chapman and Dave Melton combined for a four-hitter. Chapman went the first seven and 1/3 innings, fanning three and walking two while allowing all four OCC safeties. Melton finished up with one and 2/3 innings of scoreless relief, fanning three Pirates.

MSAC now stands at 10-5-1 on the year. Orange Coast is a winless 0-5 in league and 3-11 on the year.

Citrus had only eight hits against RCC, but the Owls made them count.

Claremont High product Tony Janusz paced the Citrus attack, hammering out a double and a triple good for five RBIs. His bases-loaded triple in the fourth iced the win for the Owls, as they advanced their season mark to 13-3.

Roy Naas went the distance on the hill for the victory, scattering 10 hits.

Chaffey fell victim to a nine-run explosion by SBVC in the ninth inning, as the Indians put together four hits, two Panther errors and five costly walks in that frame off three Chaffey hurlers.

Earlier, the hosts had tied the game at 7-7 with a big six-run seventh, highlighted by Murray Daniels' two-run single, Larry Jones run-producing double and Rod Weigand's game-tying single.

Rick Munoz added a solo home run to the Panther attack. SBVC was led by Paul Cullen's five-for-six effort, as he drove home four runs. Kevin Stanfield added three hits and three RBI to the winning effort.

SBVC is now 3-2 in Mission action, while Chaffey is 2-3. Overall, the Panthers stand at 8-9.

MSAC will continue SCC play on Tuesday as they host san Diego Mesa. Citrus will entertain Palomar Tuesday in a Mission fray, while Chaffey is set to host Southwestern. All three of those games feature 2:30 p.m. starts.

UC Riverside set for baseball tourney

RIVERSIDE — The 10th Annual Riverside National Intercollegiate Baseball Tournament opens its six-day, 29-game show Monday.

Perennial national Power Arizona State has been picked as the pre-tournament favorite, with the rest of the field bunched closely behind.

"It should be the closest competition we've seen in the ten years of the tournament's existence," said tourney director Don Edwards. "Eastern Michigan was in the College World Series with ASU last year. UCR has improved its team, which won the tourney in 1975. Brigham Young and Tulsa play as fine a game of baseball as you can find, and Stanford always does well here. Oregon State was 28-10 (won-loss) last year and Delaware was 28-6. Both bring veteran teams to Riverside."

The eight teams play each other once and the team with the best win-loss record in the Blue Division (Delaware, Stanford, Tulsa or UCR) will meet the team with the best win-loss record in the Gold Division (Arizona State, BYU, Eastern Michigan or Oregon State) in the Saturday (March 27) championship game at Evans Park at 7 p.m. (PST).

Tickets for the tournament, which is co-sponsored by the Riverside Press-Enterprise, Riverside Parks and Recreation Dept., and the University of California, Riverside are on sale at many locations in Riverside. A $5 series ticket is good for any of the 29 games to be played. Tickets for each game are $1 per adult, 50 cents for students with identification. Children under age 12 are admitted free.

CARDS TO BE IN BLUE

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals say the color of their road uniforms no longer will be gray. This year the Red Birds will wear what they call "victory blue" uniforms on the road.

However, the uniforms will still bear the traditional birds at bat

Porsches dominate Sebring

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Al Holbert and Michael Keyser teamed in a Porsche Carrera Saturday night to win the 12 Hours of Sebring, oldest endurance race in North America.

Holbert, a 28-year-old Warrington, Pa. car dealer, and Keyser, a 28-year-old film producer from Towson, Md. completed 230 laps over the 5.2-mile Sebring airport road course to average 99.66 miles an hour.

They finished two laps ahead of the second place car, an ex-Holbert Porsche co-driven by John Gunn of Miami and Carson Baird of Laurel, Md.

The race, which began at noon EST, was officially over at 11:06 p.m.

Third was a Porsche Carrera entered by Mexicans Roberto Gonzales and Roberto Quintanilla, three laps behind the leaders.

Fourth place went to a Carrera co-driven by Bob Hagestad and Jerry Jolly, both of Denver. The Hagestad-Jolly car lagged five laps behind the leaders.

Green leading in Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A large number of golf's touring pros have complained— some mildly, some more vehemently— about the grainy, Bermuda grass greens they've encountered at the $175,000 Greater Jacksonville Open.

But Hubert Green, a native of Alabama, a former collegiate star at Florida State and now a resident of nearby Bay Point, Fla., is right at home on these conditions.

"If you're putting good and you know Bermuda greens, know the grain, you can be a little more brave on your putting," Hubert said Saturday after his five-under-par 67 had staked him to the third-round lead in this non-televised event and put him in prime position to claim a rare, second consecutive title.

"You don't have to worry so much about running the ball past the hole. You can stroke your putts with much more authority," said Green, who scored a runaway victory last week in the Doral Open.

"My putter has been working a little bit better the last couple of weeks," he said.

The lean-and-lanky Green, in a slump until his triumph last week, came from two strokes off the pace and established a one shot edge with his 206 total.

Green, rapidly becoming one of the game's more popular players, rewarded the big gallery that trailed him on his trek through a plush residential area spiked by pines and mirrored by lakes with five birdies and no bogeys in a solid round that made him the man to catch in Sunday's final 18 holes of the chase for a $35,000 first prize.

Green, who has parlayed his crouched and curious putting style into 10 international triumphs in the past five years, was chased by a diversified corps that included such veterans as Miller Barber, U.S. Open Champ Lou Graham and globe-trotting Gary Player; second-round leader Mike Hill; and young challengers Ben Crenshaw and—once again— Mark Hayes.

LEARNING THE ROPES — Poly students Carol Brennan and Jeff Tracy get harness driving lesson from retired champion Gerry Longo.

Poly students to race

LOS ALAMITOS — Cal Poly Pomona students Carol Brennan and Jeff Tracy are among 12 students competing for a berth in California's first intercollegiate harness race, scheduled for Thursday at Los Alamitos Racetrack, according to Dan Downs, general manager of the Southern California Racing Association.

Those two, along with 10 other students from several major Southern California colleges and universities are currently in training with drivers at the Orange County track in hopes of earning a spot in the race to determine the state champion.

One student from each of the six schools will be selected, through a "race off," to compete in the exhibition one mile sulky race with the eventual winner being sent to Roosevelt Raceway in New York in June for the United States Championships and hopefully on to the international competition in Canada against countries such as Sweden, Finland, Norway, Germany and Australia.

Carol Brennan is strongly involved in the Arabian horse program at Cal Poly Pomona, including all aspects of breeding and raising. "I'm amazed at how enthusiastic all the drivers are to help us," Carol said while on her indoctrination tour of Los Alamitos.

Jeff Tracey is an agricultural business major who Carol says has been a big help with the Arabian horse program at Cal Poly Pomona. "He comes in and helps with the horses," Carol, who shows horses herself, said. "He even breaks many of them."

Students from other schools that will be competing in the event are Kevin McKenna and Julie Morgan of USC, Dave Ferrell and Elaine Osborn of Cal State Fullerton, Clara Gontero and Harry Osbon of UC Irvine, Vic Nealy and Judy Abarbanel of UCLA and Deby Spann and Dick Hicks of Cal State Long Beach.

Downs expressed thanks to Herb Adams of Cal Poly Pomona for his cooperation and assistance in setting up the first collegiate race in California history.

Marcis heads field

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — Dave Marcis, currently the hottest driver on the NASCAR Grand National stock car circuit, is scheduled to lead one of the most tightly grouped fields ever in the start of today's 17th annual Atlanta 500.

Even though Marcis set a qualifying record of 160.709 miles an hour in winning the pole position for the $151,900 race, the rest of the 36-car field was within 10 m.p.h. of his speed—a record for this event.

Marcis, who has taken the pole twice for the six races so far this season and been disqualified from a third, has already won the Richmond 500 and a qualifying race for the Daytona 500 this season while campaigning the Harry Hyde-prepared Dodge.

"How well we do depends a lot on how well the car is handling in the race," said Marcis, an easy-going, hard-driving Wisconsin native. "Atlanta Raceway is a big short track. It takes handling to get through the turns."

Marcis said a new NASCAR carburetor restriction, cutting the engine's fuel flow almost in half, will slow race speeds somewhat, although they didn't affect qualifying speeds greatly.

"The carburetor change slowed us down about 65 horsepower initially," he explained. "And that cost us straightaway speed. But corner speeds are faster because the new tires are working well."

The carburetor change was considered most responsible for the close grouping of the field's speeds. Defending champion Richard Petty, a second-row starter, said reduction in horsepower makes the cars easier to control.

More horsepower, he said, causes "a good kick on the straights, but you have to back off and wrestle the car through the turns. Now you can just about flatfoot it all the way around."

David Pearson, who shares the front row with Marcis, felt the carburetor change would place more emphasis on handling and, consequently, result in more work for the drivers.

"The cars that have the best chassis setting will be the ones to beat," he said. "But that's going to make some drivers work real hard on Sunday."

Marcis, Pearson and Petty all topped 160 m.p.h. in qualifying. Cale Yarborough, Benny Parsons and Buddy Baker were all bunched up around 159 m.p.h., with the rest of the field at 156 m.p.h. or slower.

Marcis' best finish at the 1.522-mile Atlanta International Raceway oval was a third last fall. Pearson, Petty, Bobby Allison and Yarborough are all former winners, with Yarborough having won a record four times.

In 1974 there were more than $73,000 in uncashed mutuel tickets following the thoroughbred racing season at Finger Lakes in Canandaigua, N.Y.

Furniss looks forward to meet

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — "Next to the Olympics, I'd rather win the NCAAs than any other meet," said Bruce Furniss, freshman on the University of Southern California's powerful swim team.

Furniss, one of the world's best freestylers, has never participated in the NCAA Division I Swimming and Diving Championship. But he has learned about the importance and intensity of the biggest collegiate swim extravaganza from his brother.

Steve Furniss, near the top of the world rankings in the individual medley races, was injured during last year's exciting NCAAs, serving instead as swim manager and No. 1 fan for the Trojans, who stroked their way to an impressive victory over favored Indiana.

That gave the Trojans two straight national swim titles and this week they find themselves in an unusual position— favored to win the NCAA championships, which run Wednesday through Saturday at Brown University.

In 1974, before a pro-Southern Cal crowd at Long Beach, Calif., the Trojans broke Indiana's six-year domination of the national title with a 339-338 upset victory.

"Long Beach was a fluke," said Trojan Coach Peter Daland. "If you held 10 other NCAA meets (that) year, we would have lost to Indiana by 50 points every time."

Last year at Cleveland, the positions remained the same with Southern Cal opening some breathing room in picking up 344 points to 274 for runnerup Indiana. UCLA was third, Tennessee finished fourth and Alabama was fifth.

Those five schools are expected to end up at the top of the heap again.

"I haven't analyzed the meet yet," said Daland. "But I feel there are five teams in contention with us—Indiana, UCLA, Alabama and Tennessee."

The manager of Indiana—the great powerhouse built by swim Coach Doc Counsilman—groups the same five teams, but he has the Trojans a couple of lengths ahead of the rest of the field.

"It will be tough and I don't think we'll win," said John Christ, Indiana's manager. "USC seems to have too much depth."

San Dimas-LaVerne square off again

By PHIL ROCHE
PB Staff Writer

BRYCE BAILEY of the San Dimas Parks and Recreation Dept., reports this week that the popular 90/10 San Dimas-La Verne golf tournament has again been scheduled — this year for Friday, April 9 at San Dimas Canyon.

One hundred and twenty players from the two communities will square off for the shotgun event. Sign-in time is 11:30 a.m.

It's the sixth annual tourney with all kinds of awards to be given out.

Entry fee is $12 per player or $22 for husband-wife teams. Persons interested only in the dinner can get by for $5. Entries are being accepted at Parks and Recreation departments of both towns. Telephone numbers are 599-6713 in San Dimas, and 593-4571 in La Verne.

This tourney pits one community against another, and it's a "may the best town win" scramble for annual honors.

Should be a good one!

BAILEY also announced that the Ed Nelson Classic will be held in early June (probably the fourth) at Via Verde Country Club.

NEVA TASSIO, playing in the Marshall Canyon Women's Club Mixed Couples event last Sunday, knocked in her second shot on the par 4, 180-yard 14th hole for a never-to-be-forgotten eagle.

ART KLIEWER of Chino, the smooth-swinging golfer who reminds many of Julius Boros, gets back on the trail this week. Art suffered a heart attack several weeks ago, but he's ready and anxious to get back on the links. Welcome back, Art.

RUBIN MENDOZA and his guest Bob Ihnat of Green River won the Los Serranos Member-Guest event last Saturday with a net 61. In second place were H. L. Dobyns and guest R. E. Miller of Imperial. Third were Charles Wilson and Robert Watson of El Toro.

Dan Wilson of Western Hills won closest-to-the-pin honors landing 8 feet, 7 inches from the 17th cup on the South Course. Second was Tom Guilfoyle of Los Serranos.

A CHANCE for adults to learn or develop their golf skills is being provided by the Ontario Recreation Division. Classes will be held at Ontario National Golf Course, beginning the week of April 4, and continuing for six weeks. A golf pro will instruct and all classes are limited in size.

Individual attention is offered for beginning and intermediate players. Registration is scheduled through Friday, March 26 at the Recreation building, 217 South Lemon, Ontario. Registration fee is $15. All classes meet once a week.

I'M GLAD to see young pro Dave Brownlee of Claremont back playing regularly. Brownlee has been away from golf for several months, but he's practicing now for the European and possibly the Far East tour.

He will be playing in the British Open and the top tournaments on the continent this summer. Naturally we're pulling for him to have a financially successful summer.

TROPHY DAY winners at La Mancha include Bonnie Woodrow, Margaret Miyon, Vonnette Vaucher and Martha Olney for gross honors.

Net winners were Greta Guio, Marge Franks, Mae Wellborn and Belva Stiles.

HOWARD E. SMITH of Pomona recently participated in the Grand Slam tourney at the Tropicana Hotel and Country Club in Las Vegas. The theme of the 4-day event was a salute to the golfers of the 1920s and especially Bobby Jones.

Each participant was given a golfing uniform of the era — including knickers, argyle socks and plaid cap.

RON GURNEY, Nogales High coach and a low-handicapper at Diamond Bar, looks tc be really on his game, as usual. Gurney doesn't look impressive, but he gets his par on every hole, then tosses in a birdie putt or two, and this while playing the "undulating" greens at Marshall Canyon.

He has an outstanding team this year at Nogales, and his top six will give any team in the valley a real go.

Golf's newest triumvirate — Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller and Hale Irwin — head the 23 qualifiers in the 24th annual MONY (Mutual of New York) Tournament of Champions.

The prestigious event, rated by many pros as the fourth most important tournament in the country, will be conducted April 15-18 at the La Costa Resort Hotel, Spa and Country Club.

Only winners of major tournaments since the last MONY Tournament of Champions are eligible to compete.

San Dimas opener set

The San Dimas Little League season will open on April 3.

Festivities will begin at 9 a.m. with the taking of the team photographs. Following will be a lunch, introduction of players, drawings for prizes and exhibition games.

Lunch will be served for $1.25 per person and includes hamburgers, beans, salad, deserts and a drink.

Future activities include a golf tournament and the annual dance.

Shrine Game on July 17

LOS ANGELES — The 25th annual Shrine All-Star Charity Football Classic and Pageant, featuring the 56 finest pre-college football stars in Southern California, will take place Saturday evening, July 17 at the Rose Bowl.

Kickoff time for the game will be 8 P.M. with the pageant scheduled to begin at 7 P.M.

Golf's Big Four subject to change

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Golf's major championships are the Masters, the United States and British Opens and the PGA National Championship.

It was not always thus.

And there is no assurance that they will continue to be the Big Four.

In fact, there's every good chance that, at some future date, the list of the major championships will be composed of a very different lineup—a line-up that does not necessarily include the current four.

There is no law, there is no written rule that states "The Big Four, fixed, permanent and forever shall be composed of the Masters, British and U.S. Opens and the PGA."

As a matter of fact, there's nothing on the books anywhere that says there's any such thing as a major championship.

Nowhere does it state that the Masters is bigger than the Australian; that the American PGA championship is more important than the Tournament Players Championship; that the British and American Opens are more prestigious than the Picadilly World Match Play or the Bing Crosby or the Western or the Colonial or the Canadian or the Heritage.

They're accepted as such. They're generally accepted by the public and the players and the press as the major tests of golfing greatness.

Johnny Miller doesn't agree. He calls the emphasis on the Big Four "the Jack Nicklaus syndrome."

"Jack has educated you guys (the press) to believe the majors are so much more important than the others. He'd probably rather win one major than 10 other tournaments. I wouldn't."

"When Johnny wins a few more majors he may look at it differently," Nicklaus replied.

He has long contended that the true assessment of a players' ability, his position in the lists of the game's greats, can be determined only by his successes in the major tournaments.

But it was not Nicklaus who educated the press in the importance that is assigned to the majors. It's the other way around. In fact, such catchphrases as "the major championships," "the Big Four," and "the Grand Slam," are inventions, created from wholecloth, solely and completely by writers and commentators. They are nothing more than handy tags. They have a meaning in fact only as they are accepted to have a meaning.

And those handy tags, those catch-phrases, have a way of changing as the importance of an event—or the importance attached to it by the press, public and players—changes.

The handiest example involves Bobby Jones' sweep of the "Grand Slam," in 1930. In that one year he won the U.S. and British Opens, the U.S. and British Amateurs.

The phrase "Grand Slam" now is used to refer to the current "Big Four," which definitely does not include the amateur championships, titles that now have greatly diminished in importance.

At the time Jones won them, however, they very definitely ranked among golf's most prestigious crowns. At one time, the U.S. Amateur was the most coveted title golf could offer in this country, ranking well ahead of the socially-unacceptable U.S. Open and the PGA.

Those titles were socially unacceptable because, in the early days, professionals were socially unacceptable.

Golf was a gentlemen's game. It was stuffy and snobbish. Professionals were looked down upon. They may have been allowed around the clubs, on the grounds, but never, never were they allowed in the dining areas or the locker rooms. If they had an exhibition or were competing in a tournament, they were obliged to change their shoes in their cars.

Walter Hagen changed that. Under his leadership, sparked by the drive of his flambouyant personality, pros began to gain some acceptance. As they gained acceptance, so did their tournaments—the U.S. Open and the PGA—gain acceptance.

But at that time, in the '20s, the Masters didn't exist. Jones didn't start that tournament until 1934. And it wasn't until the years following World War II that it moved into the Big Four. That move was directly attributable to the reverence in which Jones was held and the influence of the big-name national columnists who stopped off in Augusta, Ga. on their way home in the North.

Player power: a very successful labor movement

NEW YORK (AP) — Professional athletes, the latest minority to flex its muscles in the pursuit of freedom, are on a long-term winning streak, scoring victories in the courtrooms and at the bargaining table which will change the face of the sports world forever.

Player power, the most effective labor cause in the 1970s, no longer refers exclusively to the clean-up hitter in baseball, a fullback in football, a man advantage in hockey and the bruising forward in basketball.

Player power means modern athletes are becoming part of the American labor mainstream in terms of freedom while, at the same time, remaining a long home run ahead of their fellow hard-hatters in salary.

With the major shift in the relationship between the players and the owners, it is the owners who now are crying for better working conditions.

"I don't know if we can survive anymore," says Minnesota Twins owner Calvin Griffith, who insists he is the last of a dying breed. The Griffith family, solely in the baseball business, has operated a franchise since 1919.

"I do know our family is the last of its kind in sports and there never will be another one," Griffith said. "From now on, owners are going to have to be associated with other businesses so they won't have to depend on sports to feed their kids.

"Or they're going to have to be men who were born wealthy, who have zillions of dollars, and are just looking for a sports team to buy so they can have something to do with their time."

Last season, only three teams made money in the National Basketball Association, in which the average player salary is more than $100,000. And the NBA has been the pioneer in labor relations with a historic out-of-court settlement of an antitrust case against the league.

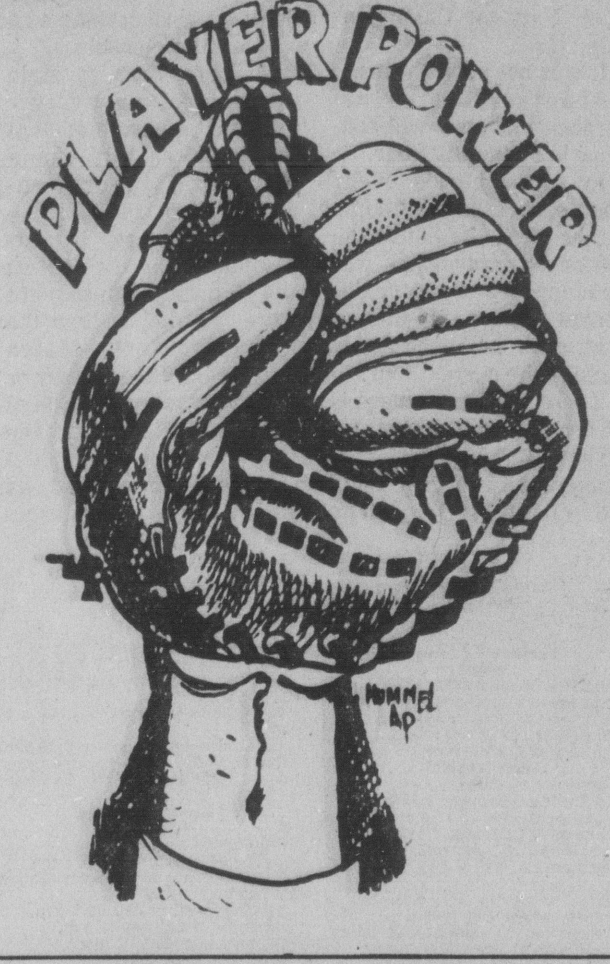
The recent NBA settlement made major inroads in the traditional relationship that has bound a player to one team and placed restrictions on him which made it extremely difficult to leave.

The National Hockey League has not gone as far in its alteration of the player-owner relationship, but did sign a progressive five-year labor contract in 1975.

Meanwhile, baseball and football, stung by a string of court cases all favoring freedom for the player, are still struggling with their labor relations problems.

Last Monday, the baseball owners offered the players a "final" offer on the freedom issue, which the players rejected as not enough. But the baseball hierarchy, long the most conservative sports entity around, has made some pragmatic changes in its thinking, leaving the National Football League the most conservative bastion in the sports world today.

The NFL has lost two major federal court cases on this freedom issue, but the owners have put their helmets on and are appealing those decisions against an apparent brick wall. At the same time, negotiations on a new contract—the old one expired in 1974—remain at a virtual standstill.



What's blocking the football players from racing downfield to score touchdowns in the name of freedom is the Rozelle Rule, named after NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Football players have been allowed to leave one team by playing out their options and then signing with another team. But they say their real freedom of movement is interfered with by the Rozelle Rule, which requires compensation from the player's new team to the old one. If the teams can't agree on the manner of compensation, Rozelle steps in and decrees it.

The players say this practice is unconstitutional — two federal judges have agreed with them so far — and contend there can be no real freedom of movement while the Rozelle Rule exists. Attempts to negotiate it away have met with failure.

"Players are tired of being treated as pieces of property to be bought and sold at the whim of the employer," said Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association. "They are also saying that they will no longer tolerate being told where they must play for their entire career. The player wants freedom and he wants it now."

Besides declaring the Rozelle Rule illegal, a judge in San Francisco said portions of the college draft—which assign only one team the draft rights to a player—are illegal. A judge in Minneapolis said the Rozelle Rule was in violation of the antitrust laws. He also was sharply critical of the college draft and the standard player contract.

"I've got to believe there's an appeals court somewhere in the country that is going to hand down a decision in favor of the owners," said Pat Peppler, general manager of the NFL's Atlanta Falcons.

The courts are telling the sports world that the handwriting is on the wall. Favored and unconstitutional treatment of employers—to the impediment of the freedom and opportunity of their employes— will no longer be tolerated.

Some appear to be getting the message better than others.

The NHL made a variation of its own version of the Rozelle Rule in the five-year plan, in which a player can now play out his option after completion of his contract. The player's new team must compensate the old one, but if the two clubs can't reach an agreement, the dispute goes to binding arbitration.

As in hockey, basketball players can now play out their options and move from one team to another. The NBA arrived at a labor truce by agreeing with its Players Association on a full-ranging package.

In the proposal—still requiring acceptance by Federal Judge Robert L. Carter—players drafted from college must stay with the drafting club for only a two-year minimum; the option year for players who haven't signed a contract will be gone next year and the policy of compensation ends with the 1980-81 season.

The NBA's proposed agreement marks the most advanced departure from the traditional concepts of tying one player to one team.

Christine Andreas

New Eliza no Cinderella

By IRA BERKOW

WEIGHT WATCHER — Christine Andreas is a loser — a weight-loser, that is. She had to loose 10 pounds to get the role of Eliza Doolittle in the Broadway revival of "My Fair Lady."

Christine Andreas might have dropped from heaven to us, for all that was generally known about her. She is the dark-haired, hazel-eyed, richly endowed female lead in the forthcoming Broadway revival of "My Fair Lady." Common knowledge now.

Less known is who she is, where she's from and that she came to the luminous role of Eliza Doolittle by first playing Mahatma Gandhi. She had to fast for five days.

Christine Andreas, age 24, lives in the same Manhattan neighborhood as Jerry Adler, the director of "My Fair Lady." He had directed "Words and Music by Sammy Cahn," a broadway show in which Christine Andreas was a stand-by. They ran into each other one afternoon.

Christine mentioned she'd like to audition for Eliza. Jerry agreed, but only if she lost weight. She had gained about 10 pounds, up to 130 on her 5-3 frame.

"I had nothing but water for five days," she said recently. "Not one single morsel of food. It wasn't so bad. I wanted the part."

She sat now with a liver dinner in Sardi's, the famous Broadway restaurant, and savored the memory.

"I had an interview not long ago and I was asked how I felt playing the part Julie Andrews made famous on the stage," she said.

"I said Julie was a genteel Eliza. I thought I'd be more earthy. Well, the quote came out sounding like I was critical of Julie Andrews. I wasn't. I was just being individualistic. Nobody wants to see an imitation, and I don't want to be one.

"It's the same reason 'My Fair Lady' is being revived. It's great old theater done in a new way for a new generation. It hasn't been done on Broadway in 20 years."

Getting back to getting the part. Christine auditioned, was called back a second time. And then a third. Now, she was in Atlanta playing in "Angel Street." Her lyric soprano was gaining attention. She was being considered for two other top Broadway musicals.

She was flown back to New York for the third audition, and was offered the role. She hesitated, flew back to Atlanta. Shortly after returning, she received a phone call from Herman Levin, the producer. If she agreed to sign, he'd fly down to Atlanta right now — and double the amount of the original offer.

"It wasn't the money so much," she said, "but the romance. I melted."

Christine Andreas says that her story is and is not the classic case of Cinderella.

She has been singing and acting and hoofing it in theater productions ever since she was eight years old in Camden, N.J., and in her first show at her school, played Buttercup in "H.M.S. Pinafore."

A nun in the school told her parents that she had a special voice and should be given singing lessons. Her father, a computer engineer, agreed. She continued playing in summer stock from age 14.

By the time she graduated high school, she knew she wanted to sing for a living. "But I also knew how tough it was to break in," she said, "so I learned to be a secretary. But I wasn't very good. I typed too fast, and made too many mistakes. And then once after taking dictation, I wrote in a letter 'Ink.' for 'Inc.' "

At 19, she came to New York. She remembers her fear before her first open call. "The notice said, 'Casting for bits. Gorgeous girl. Age 18-24. Must sing and dance.' Well, you look at yourself in the mirror and say, 'Ow!' But I went."

She got the part. On the first try. And that, she says, is where the Cinderella story breaks down for her. That was five years ago and her name on the marquee has grown steadily larger.

"No, I don't really worry about failing," she said. "I love singing and I know it gives people pleasure. I get my feeling of acceptance that way. And I can sing in a room with one person as well as a full house and still feel good about being appreciated.

"But I do labor at it. Twelve hours a day. Like now I have to study Eliza, learn how she thinks offstage, what the morals of the day in London were. And I have to get that Cockney diction, 'Eets awl roit.' That thing."

Her worries are closer to home. How would her husband, Keith Baker, a singer and actor, take to her newfound stardom?

"And how Keith would feel about me suddenly making more money than him?" she said. "He took it fine. He has confidence in his own talent. You have to know what you're good in. He knows himself.

Jazz group to meet

The Smogville Society Orchestra of the Valley Dixieland Jazz Club will be featured band at the monthly meeting of the Society for the Preservation of Dixie-land Jazz at the Arcadia Elks Lodge, 27 W. Huntington Drive, at 2 p.m. next Sunday. Admission is $1.50.

The orchestra is made up of Bill Myer, trumpet; Wally Craig, Trombone; Dave Dolson, soprano saxophone; Walt Greenwald, tuba; Jack Boppel, banjo; Bill Roberts, drums; and Ron Ridgewell, piano.

Leading off the jam session will be the Southern California Preservation Jazz Band, made up of Chet Jaeger, cornet; James Weaver, clarinet; Rod Ogle, trombone; Norman Burnham, piano; Paul Heiberger, drums; Red Murphy, banjo; Ralph Ball, tuba; and Frank Bostwick, washboard.

Sheets retrospective slated at Scripps

A retrospective exhibition of the work of Millard Sheets, internationally known artist and art professor emeritus at Scripps College, will be held in the college's Lang Gallery Saturday through April 29.

Included will be 40 watercolors, paintings and drawings and one tapestry from 16 collections, ranging from 1928 to 1976.

The exhibit is part of Scripps College's art faculty for 21 years and a trustee from 1965 to 1970.

In 1929 Sheets had his first one-man exhibition. The day the exhibit opened at the Dazell Hatfield Gallery, Los Angeles, the artist learned his painting, "The Old Goat Ranch," had won second prize at the San Antonio, Tex. competition. As a result, Sheets was able, later that year, to take his first trip abroad. Both the award-winning painting and some of the European drawings will be in the Scripps show.

When Sheets had his first one-man exhibition in New York in 1935, critics compared his watercolors to those of Winslow Homer. Many of these will be on display, and visitors to Lang will be able to see why Sheets was hailed as a leader in what was labeled "the California school of watercolors."

Some of the watercolors in the show are the final sketches for design projects, including the mosaic on the facade of the Garrison Theater at the Claremont Colleges, the "Christ the Teacher" at University of Notre Dame and the dome of the National Cathedral at Washington, D.C.

Born in Pomona in 1907, Sheets studied at the Chouinard School of Art in Los Angeles and taught there for three years before being appointed assistant art professor at Scripps in 1932. Four years later he became chairman of the Scripps art faculty.

After World War II, during which he worked as an artist for Life Magazine in Burma and India, Sheets returned to Scripps and also became chairman of the Claremont Graduate School fine arts program.

From 1953 to 1960, Sheets was director of the Los Angeles County Art Institute (now the Otis Art Institute).

In 1950, Sheets opened his own design office in Claremont and, in 1952, began designing for Home Savings & Loan Association. His Los Angeles-area designs include memorial to Native Diver at Hollywood Park, two large tile murals on the Los Angeles City Hall Annex, a mosaic and painted mural on the Ahmanson Center in Los Angeles and a mosaic mural of an early California don and his lady for the Beverly Wilshire Hotel.

In conjunction with the exhibit "Millard Sheets," Lang will have a small display called "The Teaching Heritage of Millard Sheets" featuring works by 20 of his Scripps and CGS students.

The public may view the exhibits free of charge from 1 to 5 p.m. daily and from 7 to 10 p.m. on Wednesdays. A catalog is available at the gallery.

"Developing — Photo Images of Today," an exhibition by 17 Southern California photographers, will open next Sunday at the Wignall Museum-Gallery at Chaffey College.

A reception for the artists will be held at 2 p.m. The gallery auxiliary will be hosts. The public is invited.

In the past, photography has been looked on as a craft that was used to record history, according to Virginia Eaton, special curator. The artist-photographer is no longer the "recorder of events," but the creator of a limitless form of expression, she said.

"Developing — Photo Images of Today" is an attempt to expose the community as well as Chaffey College students to infinite possibilities of the photographic process. Advancement in the technology of photography makes available to the professional, as well as the amateur, materials that enable them to create with more freedom.

The artists differ widely in age and experience: Jerry McMillan, a photography instructor at Cal State Northridge, has shown his work throughout the United States in one-man shows and group exhibits. He works with many different materials and produces two- and three-dimensional photo images on metal and glass, as well as using conventional processes. Victor Landweber, a well-known artist, has exhibited in many cities. He is currently working with polaroid instant print processes. Gary Burns combines photos with cement to produce sculpture pieces.

Lou Brown DiGiulio uses a photo screen process to create three-dimensional soft-sculptured images of plants such as ivy, cabbages and green salad. Kay Shuper also uses photo silk screen to create images on plexiglass as well as fabric. Susan Haller, a silk screen proponent, projects large images on fabric to create reproduction of life-size animals and plants.

Cindy Miracle, a student at Claremont Graduate School, combines photography and trapunto stitchery, applique and multiple layers of fabric to achieve a three-dimensional wall hanging. Jo Ann Callis employs a more traditional two-dimensional silver technique for her artistry by manipulating prints to convey deep psychological meaning. Robert Klewitz, also a proponent of photo silk screen, uses the unlikely medium of floor tile. His work is designed to be exhibited flat on the floor.

Other artist-photographers represented in the show are Steven Steinman and Pamela Stern.

The exhibit is open to the public through April 16. It may be viewed Monday through Thursday, noon to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m., Friday noon to 4 p.m., and Sunday 2 to 5 p.m.

MORE TO LIFE — Sam Maloof, internationally known wood worker, shown in his Alta Loma workshop, finds in his craft rewards that money cannot buy. His rocking chairs sell for $1,500, but he says "There's more to life than money."

Sam Maloof

Artist in woodwork

By KEN PETERS

ALTA LOMA (AP) — The chances are overwhelming that if Sam Maloof made your living room rocking chair, your neighbor won't have one like it.

The woodworking craftsman says there is renewed interest in crafted furniture, which has suffered at the hands of inexpensive mass production and the high cost of materials.

But while some craftsmen churn out hatchcover tables which are hawked at shopping center malls, Maloff caressess each piece into a one-of-a-kind piece of art.

Maloof only makes about 75 pieces of furniture a year in his shop in this quiet town some 35 miles east of Los Angeles. And his work clearly is not for the homeowner searching for a bargain.

His rocking chairs sell for $1,500 apiece.

"People are tired of conformity. They find a craftsman is an individual, and every piece he turns out is unique."

Maloof, 60, said in an interview that money seems to be of relatively little importance to most craftsmen.

"If I were in this for the monetary return, I would be designing for production," Maloof commented. "But I get a return from my work that all the money in the world couldn't get you.

"I read about the corporation bribes, things like that happening, and I wonder why. There's more to life than money. I feel the spiritual satisfaction I get from my work is much more important than how much money I make."

Maloof's furniture-making techniques are simple. He first gets a "mental picture of the piece," then selects the wood. It is cut, shaped and sanded, then joined to form a one-of-a-kind piece of furniture.

Maloof's artistic merit may be judged in the art museums around the United States which have chosen to display his work. A collection of his chairs is due to be exhibited soon in the Fine Arts Museum in Boston, he said.

Maloof said there is no difference between crafts and the arts. "An artist creates a painting, and a woodworker creates a chair," Maloof said. "They are both unique, and a part of the person has gone into them."

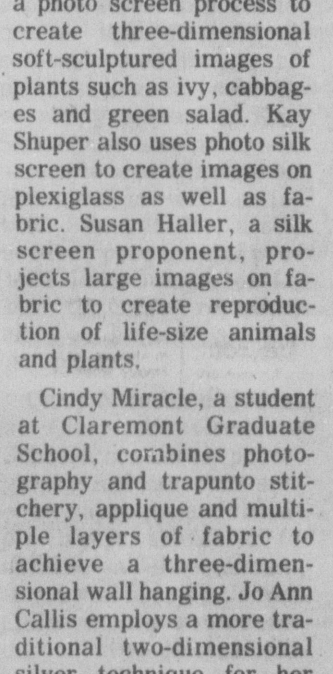
"Woodworking is becoming an 'in' thing," he said. "I hear from people all over the country. But there's no competition; I believe there should be no secrets, it's a thing to be shared."

Maloof said talent and discipline are essential to being a good craftsman.

"For about 15 years, I never got into the house before midnight or 1 a.m.," he recalled. "I still put in a 10-12 hour day and find it difficult not to go out into the shop again. I have to use reverse discipline now."

Traditionally, craftsmen's children have followed in their father's footsteps, and Maloof said his son, Slimen, 26, is a woodworker. "He's opened his own shop around the corner and he's already had a couple of commissions," the elder Maloof said with pride.

As a man who loves his work, Maloof said he considers himself lucky. "I'm fortunate I can live my life this way," he said. "So many people go through their whole lives never having created a thing."



LEONARD PENNARIO, internationally known pianist, will present a recital in Garrison Theater, Claremont, at 8:15 p.m. Friday and Saturday. The program will include pieces by Debussy, Schumann, Gottschalk, Granados and Ravel.

Artist showing paintings

Oil paintings by Ann Howard Stone of Claremont are on exhibition this month in the lobby gallery of Pomona First Federal Savings & Loan Association, 399 N. Garey Ave., Pomona.

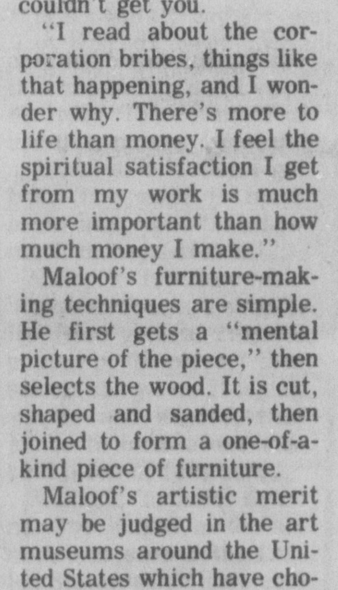
Mrs. Stone began painting six years ago and has studied with Ruby Wells, Berniece Kelley, Joyce Picke and Gerome Grimmer. She has attended workshops conducted by various well-known artists, and her work has won several awards in local art shows.

Mrs. Stone is a member of the Pomona Valley, Chino and Fontana art associations.

$40,000 given toward 'Aida'

NEW YORK (AP) — The Atlanta Music Festival Association has given $40,000 toward the settings for "Aida," which the Metropolitan Opera will present on tour this spring.

The Atlanta association is the sponsor of the Met's annual visit to the Georgia Capital.



TOVA FELDSHUH was raised to star billing after critics raved over her performance in "Yentl" on Broadway. Miss Feldshuh, who learned her theatrical basics at the Guthrie Theater in Minneapolis, called her New York debut "My first big blast."

Student art show to open Tuesday

The Annual Student Art Show of the Pomona Valley Art Association will open Tuesday at the gallery, 300 S. Park Ave., Pomona. Admission is free.

Prizewinners in junior and senior categories will be on exhibit through March.

A reception for the artists will be held at the gallery from noon to 2 p.m. Saturday. The public is invited.

Da Silva to play Tweed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Having played the benevolent Benjamin Franklin in "1776" and radio commercials, Howard Da Silva now turns to the infamous William Marcy (Boss) Tweed.

He will portray the New York City politician in "Stop, Thief!", another in the American Parade series of specials on CBS Television. The hour drama will appear April 22.

The teleplay was written by Terry Southern, author of "Candy" and "Blue Movie." It is his first script for American television.

Yorba Drive

This home exhibits craftsmanship that is no longer found in construction today. Many hours of meticulous labor were spent making sure every facet of this home was perfect. Over $25,000 was spent insuring that the landscaping would be second to none, and it is. The Japanese Garden may possibly be the most authentic in the U.S. The replacement cost of the home would well exceed $90,000, however for a limited time it is offered at only $70,000.

George, Come Home—

ALL IS FORGIVEN. I called Action Realty and there is this cute, cozy, immaculate 3 bedroom home with 2 baths and you wouldn't believe the gorgeous pool area with an out of this world jacuzzi and the inside of the house is all painted beautiful and boss.

The Realtor says the owners got transferred to Menlo Park and that they would sell FHA, VA or Conventional and it's located only 2 blocks from Montclair Plaza.

George, if you buy this house for me, I'll take back everything I said about you. But if you don't answer me by Sunday night, forget it because I know it will be sold.

CLEAR CREEK TOWNHOMES — Buyers are offered FHA and VA financing in buying townhomes at Clear Creek Canyon in Diamond Bar. Ninety-four homes have been sold.

Clear Creek provides alternative to rent

Exceptional financing is making the Clear Creek townhomes in Diamond Bar an attractive alternative to renting, said George Auld, project manager of Clear Creek Canyon.

Buyers are offered FHA and VA financing with interest rates of 8 and 8½ per cent. In addition, the seller will pay up to $1,000 of the non-recurring closing costs.

"Consider a typical FHA deal on the two bedroom home selling at $33,000," said Auld. "A minimum down payment amounting to $1,550 would leave a mortgage amount of $31,450.

"Principal and interest payments on this loan at eight per cent, amortized over 30 years and including taxes and mortgage insurance, amounts to $307 per month.

"The important consideration, however, is that our buyers are enjoying the tax benefits of home ownership. Every cent paid in interest plus 100 per cent of the property taxes constitute legitimate income tax deductions.

"This equates on the above example to approximately $3,500 the first year. This means that a person can own this home for little more than renting something that is comparable."

In addition to the tax benefits, home buyers are building equity in their homes, he added. "The only thing the renter has to show for his money is a stack of old rent recipts."

Since its opening, 94 homes have been sold at Clear Creek. Buyers have a choice of two and three bedroom homes and five floor plans.

The homes have rough-hewn wood exteriors and shingle roofs that blend with the landscaped common areas. Residents have access via sliding glass doors to fenced, private rear patios. The two car garages include storage space.

Kitchens are equipped with double sinks, dishwashers, and electric ranges with self cleaning ovens.

"The master bedroom suites are spacious, with walk-in closets, generous linen storage areas and full width pullman mirrors adding a feeling of luxury to the homes," said Auld.

To reach, the homes, persons may take the pomona Freeway and exit at Grand Avenue or the Orange Freeway and exit at Diamond Bar Boulevard.

Halt is called at 'Hills'

San Bernardino County Supervisors have directed the county Planning Commission to continue for 30 days considerations of all subdivisions currently on file for the Chino Hills.

Supervisors took the action based on a planning staff report that rapid growth in the rural area seriously threatens the adequacy of schools, roads, parks, drainage channels and other public facilities.

Supervisor Robert Townsend of Chino said this will allow officials to develop a means of assuring sufficient public services before additional development takes place.

The supervisors also established a 90-day period during which new sub-division application will not be accepted for the Chino Hills.

The county's planning staff indicated that while new tract filings will not be accepted until July, pre-application conferences will continue to be encouraged and scheduled.

Studies by the Los Agency Formation Commission, alignment for the future extension of Grand Avenue and three general plan amendments are expected to be resolved before July.

Home insulation program planned

Real estate

A three year program of federal grants to insulate up to 900,000 houses occupied by 2.7 million low income people is proposed in an energy conservation measure supported by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif.

The measure, titled the Energy Conservation and Insulation in Building Act, was passed by the U. S. Senate recently by a 52-35 vote. Cranston is one of the bill's authors.

He said the proposal could help these low income residents to cut their annual fuel bills by 25 per cent or more and save 38 million barrels of heating oil.

Under the program, special priority consideration would be given to the elderly and handicapped.

The measure now goes to a conference committee of House and Senate representatives to work out differences in their respective versions.

Cranston, who will serve on the committee, expects the final version will meet most of his major objectives.

He estimated there are at least 18 million inadequately insulated single family homes in the nation. more than five million of these are occupied by persons with incomes below the poverty level.

Cranston's residential insulation assistance program for low income families would authorize the appropriation of $55 million annually for federal grants to states over the next three years to help people in the lowest income brackets insulate their homes.

The senator estimated it would take up to $350 to insulate the average dwelling in cold climates and $250 in warmer areas.

Under Cranston's bill, most of the new money would be spent for insulating materials. Labor would be supplied by community volunteers, manpower program trainees, public service employes and the people being assisted.

No matching funds from local governmental agencies would be required, he stressed.

Houses sold at Heights

Dennis Ressel and Rondal Allen report 40 per cent of the homes in their San Antonio Heights residential develoment have been sold during the first preview week.

The homes are located on Mountain Avenue north of 24th Street. They are priced from $46,950 to $49,950. Each home has three bedrooms, family room and two bathrooms.

Model homes are open daily from 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and on weekends from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

• More caves

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Division of Geology and Land Survey says 202 more caves were found in Missouri in 1975.

It said the finds brought the total of known caves to 3,313.

Urge flat tax reduction for state renters

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Senate thinks all renters should get a flat $37 state income tax deduction.

Backers say the bill by Assemblyman Willie Brown, D-San Francisco, would save the state paperwork and provide an increase for renters with low incomes.

The bill won a 30-0 vote Thursday and went back to the Assembly for action on amendments.

It is AB 282.

Sales are good at Mountainside

As builders near completion of model homes at the Lewis Homes — Mountainside Series in Upland, nearly half of the 33 homes have been sold.

The community, named for its scenic location near the base of Mt. Baldy, is located on 15th Street west of San Antonio Ave.

Lewis Homes officials credited the pre-completion sales with the fashionably styled floor plans in single story and two story elevations.

The largest home model has 2,305 square feet of floor space, with the overall dimensions appearing even larger because of the three-car garages. The houses are built on 10,000 square foot lots.

Buyers may choose from three and four bedroom floor plans. These have two full bathrooms and an additional "one-half" bathroom to serve as a powder room.

The homes feature shag carpeting, fireplaces, ceramic tile entries and wardrobe doors with mirrors in the master bedrooms.

The kitchens have ceramic tile countertops, self cleaning ovens, luminous ceilings and either a snack bar or eating counter.

Two floor plans feature serving counters measuring 14 feet in length.

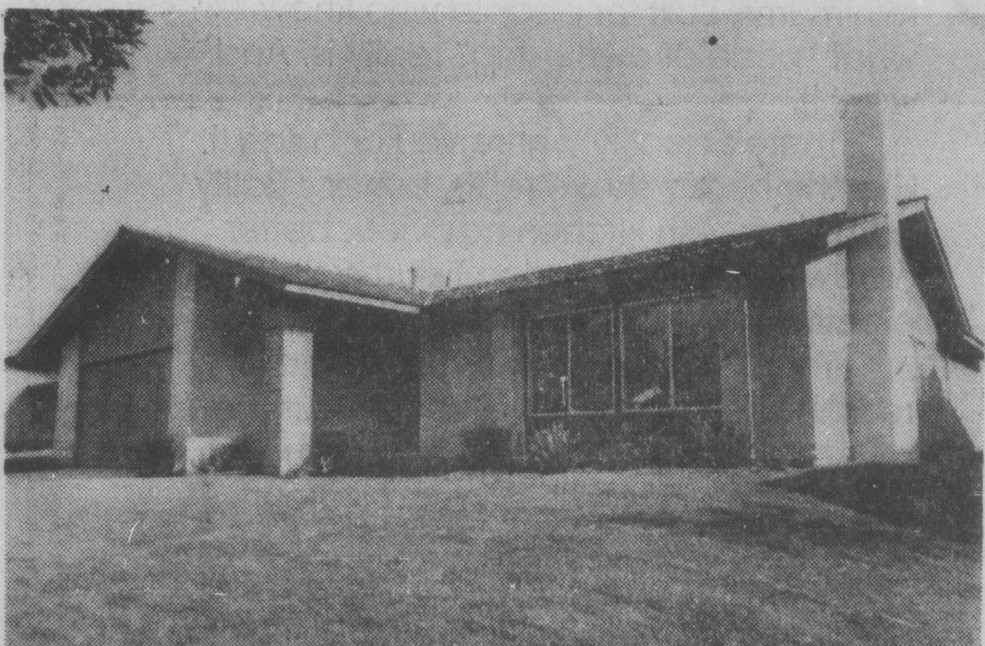
The homes are priced from $51,900 which includes air conditioning. VA, FHA and conventional financing terms are available.

Roofing price jump expected

SANTA ANA (AP) — Major manufacturers of roofing materials here say prices of their merchandise will jump 18 to 20 per cent next week.

"We are one of the few industries that have held the line" on prices, said Robert Restaino, Orange County field sales representative for U.S. Gypsum. "We have not had a price increase for more than a year."

The manufacturers have sent notices to dealers announcing the increases, and a half dozen manufacturers representatives confirmed that new prices will go into effect March 22.



OAKRIDGE VILLAGE — One of the single-family homes offered at Oakridge Village in north Chino is this four bedroom, two bath model. It has a sunken living room, separate family room, cedar shingles. The development is located near Walnut and Central.

Attendance up

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's four National Park Service areas drew 3.8 million visitors in 1975, according to Merrill D. Beal, NPS Midwest Regional Director.

Realtors attend meetings

Six members of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors will attend the fifth annual Legislative Day program and the California Association of Realtors' board of directors meeting this week in Sacramento.

The Legislative Day program will be held Wednesday at the Sacramento Community Convention Center. Presidents and executive officers of the state association's 175 realty boards and members of committees involved in legislative programs are invited.

The day-long session includes a legislative luncheon, attended by state senators and assemblymen. Attending will be Mark Warren, local board president, Walter Arnold, state director, Ella Ruby, executive officer, David Legters, board treasurer and state director, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Stan Heckmer, local Realtors.

Reports from 50 committees will be submitted at the director's general session on Saturday.

Colleges assisted by sales

The Claremont Colleges will benefit from homes sold by Lewis Homes in its new development near Foothill Boulevard and Mills Avenue, Claremont.

The local developer purchased the land from the colleges and expects many of the home buyers will be from the colleges' staff and faculty.

Lewis Homes has offered to donate $100 to each college's discretionary fund for every person from that college who buys a home.

Three officers of the building firm are graduates of Claremont Men's College. They are Richard, Robert and Randall Lewis.

The new development will have 35 homes with four floor plans. The one story structures will have from 1,531 to 1,992 square feet of floor space. These are tentatively priced from $47,000 to $53,000.

The homes will be located a fourth mile north of Foothill Boulevard, just west of Mills Avenue. These are within "walking distance" of the colleges, said officials.

Construction has begun, and a mid-summer completon date set. Persons wanting sales information may visit the Lewis Homes sales office located a block east of Mills Avenue and north of Base Line Road in Claremont. The telephone number is 626-7589.

Lewis Homes has built 650 homes in Claremont during the past 20 years, including the masterplanned Claremont North Community.

Home owner association course planned at UCLA

An estimated 300,000 Los Angeles County residents belong to home owners associations but because of the growing number and complex needs these groups are finding it increasingly difficult to function effectively.

So declared John B. Weidler, who will begin April 1 a 12-session series for UCLA Extension on how to effectively structure, organize and operate a home owners association.

The program is open to association members, officers, property managers, developers, attorneys and others.

Weidler said such associations are at a crucial time when they must reorganize, gain strength and recapture the dynamism of the old New England town meeting if they are to maintain self-government and collective action against increasing urban problems.

"There is a great need among the associations for proper organization, sufficient information for effective guidance and operation and collective participation by all members in the ongoing association government. The alternative is the creation of a new and expensive level of bureaucracy to provide the equivalent of neighborhood governments within each of our community complexes," he added.

The series will be held on Thursdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m., April 1 to June 17, in room 1278 Graduate School of Management, UCLA. The fee is $70.

The course will provide information on roles, rights and responsibilities of association members, financial controls, records and reports, development of proper management policy and procedures and how to analyze income and expenses. Guest speakers will participate.

For more information, persons may phone UCLA's Extension office at (213) 825-7031.

Hawkins students graduate

The Herbert Hawkins Realtors has graduated 80 students from its new "One-Plus-One" training program, said Harry Gardner, sales training director.

The five day program provides classroom instructions and assignments for in-field training. The series, which begins each month, is designed for new sales associates in the firm's realty offices.

His swim pool a fishing pond for youngsters

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Dave Tillman loves kids and fishing. So he's converted the Olympic-size swimming pool at the apartment complex where he lives into a fishing pond for kids.

The 64-year-old retired businessman has the management's permission to hold a fishing contest in April for the kids who live in the 400-unit apartment complex.

Tillman said he's stocking the 144,000-gallon pool with fish he and others have caught.

From the shakes on the roof to the carpets on the floor, these are quality homes. Built for people who want and expect more in a house than just bare minimums. Built for people who know what "pride of ownership" really is. And want it.

There's quality where you can see it. Like the heavy shake roofs, better quality carpeting, Ash kitchen cabinets, better hardware, better lighting fixtures, silent electrical switches and more.

There's also quality where you can't readily see it, but where it counts just as much…maybe more. In the construction, the design and the planning. Like our cul-de-sac street design. It makes for a quieter, safer and prettier neighborhood.

If you've been out looking for a new home and just haven't been satisfied with what you've seen, visit Walnut View. We built these homes for people who know what they want. QUALITY!

Business news in the valley

JACK V. COOGLER of 284 E. Lincoln Ave., Pomona, has been named plant manager of Western Universal Plastics in Corona. Coogler holds a degree in business administration and industrial management.

C.C. BRIGGS has been named manager of the Pomona district office of the National Life and Accident Insurance Co. He has been a National Life agent since 1971. He has earned numerous company and industry production awards. He is a member of the firm's Top Hat Club.

J.D. MCGILL Jr. of Claremont has been elected president of the Buena Park Concrete Pipe Division of U.S. Pipe and Foundry Co. He has been with the company since 1947, beginning as safety director in North Birmingham, Ala., pipe plant.

He was moved to California in 1974 as executive vice president of the company's concrete pipe division. He is active in community and service affairs.

KENNETH R. FISHER of Upland has been appointed president of Diversified Metals Corp., Cucamonga, a division of Diversified Industries, Inc., Hazelwood, Mo.

Joseph B. Woodlief, president of Diversified Industries, said Leo Paradoski, who had been acting division president, will continue in a corporate capacity with emphasis in the metals field.

Fisher has been with the company since 1965 and for the past two years was vice president of Western Diversified Metals Corp.

Fisher announced that Frank A. Kuenz had been named vice president of plant operations in Hazelwood. He formerly was plant manager in Cucamonga.

He was succeeded in Cucamonga by Jim Nash, former plant superintendent.

W. E. WILKINSON, president of Pomona Motor Parts, Inc., has been elected to the Automotive Service Industry Association's board of directors.

The association is an automotive trade organization with 7,000 member companies. These include wholesalers, distributors and manufacturers of automotive replacement parts, equipment, chemicals, accessories and supplies used in the maintenance and repair of cars, trucks and related machines.

DON E. WIGHT of Wight Jewelers in Ontario is one of 35 jewelers appointed to serve on the California Jewelers Association's board of directors.

The association has 1,700 members. Board members will be repsonsible for geographical areas.

ALAN R. THOMAS of Bryant and Co. Jewelers, Inc., Claremont, has been awarded the title of registered jeweler by the American Gem Society.

The designation was based on his knowledge of gemology and on his store's following the business principles set down by the Federal Trade Commission, Better Business Bureau and the society's own code of ethics.

Thomas is president of the family firm. His jewelry interests are on custom designing and buying and selling estate jewelry.

Weekly Wall Street

Market sputters, sags

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices sagged and trading slowed on Wall Street this past week in a market dominated by uncertainty over the international monetary situation and the outlook for interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped 7.79 to 979.85, wiping out about half the 15-point gain it had built up over the two previous weeks.

Other indicators also posted moderate declines, with Standard & Poor's 500-stock index losing .28 to 100.58 and the New York Stock Exchange composite index dropping .15 to 53.76.

Trading on the Big Board set the slowest pace since December, averaging 21.40 million shares a day. In January and February, by contrast, the daily average was more than 30 million.

The market began the week with a 13-point drop in the Dow on Monday following France's decision to withdraw from the joint float system of European currencies.

Analysts said the move diverted investors' attention from the brightening business picture in this country to questions about the progress of the economic recovery in other major industrialized nations.

A second problem for the market was a byproduct of the sharp rise in stock prices over the last 15 months.

As those prices went up, they had the effect of lowering yields available on stocks while bond yields held at relatively high levels.

By last week, some influential analysts were speculating that the disparity in yields would soon prompt a flow of funds toward bonds, reducing buying interest in stocks.

Against that background, a wide range of favorable signs on inflation and the economy's recovery from the recession didn't get much notice from the market.

There was a brief flurry of buying Tuesday when the government reported a 27 per cent jump in housing starts last month, as well as a rise in business inventories that seemed to betoken increased confidence among corporate managers.

But the market pulled back again later in the week, and on Friday it made no response at all to some highly favorable inflation news.

The Labor Department's consumer price index rose only 0.1 per cent during February for its smallest monthly increase in 4½ years.

But the best the Dow could do for the day was to finish unchanged from Thursday's close in the quietest session since Jan. 2.

The weekly tally of NYSE listed issues showed 1,115 losers and 721 gainers among the 2,063 traded.

There were 349 new highs for the year, against 63 new lows.

First victim

The first recorded automobile fatality occurred in New York City in 1899 when a man stepped down from a street car and was hit by an auto.

YOUR GREATEST OPPORTUNITY!

Do you earn $100,000 a year. In the West, a few golden opportunities to earn this much, and more, selling the amazing Universal Room Addition Kits, await the proper sales executives. These kits are amongst the most saleable items in the world. With one, a large room addition can be completely built in 9 days of work at a cost savings of 30% - 50% of the price most contractors charge. And the sale of only 4 kits a week - after deduction of overhead, lead gathering and sales commissions - will show a net profit in excess of $100,000 per year. Our audio-visual program makes the selling of these kits a simple matter.

These opportunities are not for sale. We seek the most qualified men for the task of forming a strong sales network. We offer advice based on experience but each qualified executive will be free to plan his own approach to the market. The only capital outlay we will require is a $200 deposit on each of 20 kits. We expect most dealers to start on a modest basis and build a solid business from referrals.

FUN FACTS® from WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT GUM

PAPERMAKING FROM WOOD WAS FIRST SUGGESTED IN THE WESTERN WORLD (EARLY 1700's) WHEN RENÉ ANTOINE DE RÉAUMUR WATCHED WASPS CHEW UP WOOD FOR THEIR NESTS.

30 SOLID SILVER BRICKS VALUED AT $12,000 WERE TEMPORARILY LAID BEFORE THE TELLER HOUSE HOTEL WHEN PRESIDENT GRANT VISITED CENTRAL CITY, COLORADO, IN 1873.

THE FIRST U.S. PENNY COINED IN 1793 WAS SOMEWHERE BETWEEN THE SIZE OF TODAY'S QUARTER AND HALF DOLLAR.

TROPICAL AMERICAN FOREST TRIBES CHOPPED UP POISONOUS BARBASCO PLANT LEAVES AND THREW THEM INTO RIVERS TO STUPEFY THE FISH SO THEY COULD BE CAUGHT EASILY.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — Another use for those versatile small plastic bags: I put hair clips and pony tail ties of the same color in the same bag and line these bags up in a box. As I am just home from the hospital, this will be a help for my daughter, 7, when dressing for school. She can find the right hair clip to match her dress without any help. — FLORENCE.

DEAR POLLY — When my best friend redecorated her room she painted a section of rain gutter to match the wall color, nailed this to a wall and put her records on it. — CHERYL.

DEAR POLLY — After using a sewing pattern, fold the pieces so the names are outside and show details, such as sleeve, front, back, etc., and then, when a pattern part is needed the entire package does not have to be opened. — MRS. H.L.J.

DEAR POLLY — Flashlight bulbs never burn out — unless you don't have a replacement! Tape an extra for each size flashlight inside your "oddments" drawer, and mark the tape according to bulb use, 2-cell, 3-cell, etc. The investment is small — the availability is priceless. — A.P.

DEAR POLLY — When your dish drainer gets old and the plastic covering is worn so that it scratches the sink, cover the rough, worn spots with masking tape. It will serve you again for quite a while. — DEOLA.

DEAR POLLY — A small jar with a screw-on lid makes a good mothball container. I use a nail to punch holes in the lid, then I fill the jar with mothballs and screw the lid on tightly. Put the jar in a closet. It is easy to tell when the jar needs to be filled with fresh balls. — MARY F.

DEAR POLLY — Water your house plants with water taken from your fishbowl and watch the plants flourish. — MRS. A.E.B. (Polly's note: This certainly sounds logical as many of us feed our house plants with fish emulsion.)

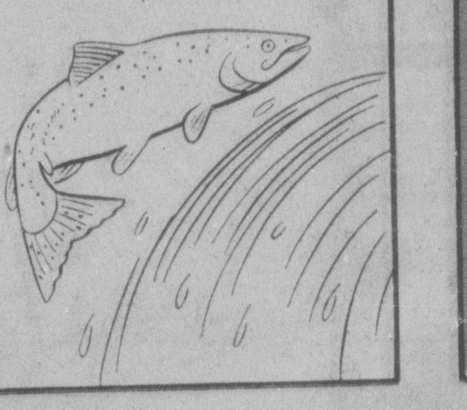
SALMON

COLOR THE SALMON GRAY WITH A PENCIL

THE SALMON'S ABILITY TO SMELL OUT DIFFERENT KINDS OF WATER HELPS IT TO RETURN FROM THE OCEAN TO THE VERY SAME STREAM IN WHICH IT WAS BORN.



DO YOU KNOW WHAT FISH EGGS ARE CALLED?

ANSWER: "ROE"

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

ROGER LEE JOHNSON OF VISTA, CA, ASKS:

"HOW WAS COAL FORMED IN THE EARTH?"

COAL IS A ROCK MADE FROM GREEN PLANTS THAT LIVED MANY MILLION YEARS AGO, WHEN DENSE FORESTS AND VAST SWAMPS COVERED MUCH OF THE EARTH'S SURFACE. MOST OF THE PLANTS WERE HUGE, STRANGE-LOOKING TREES AND FERNS. AS THESE BIG PLANTS DIED, THEY FELL INTO THE SWAMPS. THE DEAD PLANTS ROTTED TOGETHER TO MAKE A WET, SPONGY MASS CALLED PEAT. IN TIME, WATER BURIED THE PEAT UNDER THICK LAYERS OF SAND AND MUD. THE GREAT PRESSURE SLOWLY CHANGED THE PEAT INTO COAL.

† Available on records and 8-track tapes only

Here's a brand-new selection from Columbia—over 200 latest hits and all-time favorites…best-selling records and tapes from scores of America's leading recording companies. And since this exciting selection represents the very best from every field of music, you won't have any difficulty whatsoever in finding eleven to suit your taste. Best of all, the eleven records or tapes you do choose now are all yours for only $1.86!

To order your 11 records or tapes just mail the application in an envelope, together with your check or money order for $1.86 as payment. In exchange, you agree to buy 8 more selections (at regular Club prices) in the coming three years…and you may cancel your membership at any time after doing so.

How the Club operates: every four weeks (13 times a year) you'll receive the Club's music magazine, which describes the Selection of the Month for each musical interest…plus hundreds of alternates from every field of music. In addition, up to six times a year you may receive offers of Special Selections, usually at a discount off regular prices.

If you wish to receive the Selection of the Month or the Special Selection, you need do nothing—it will be shipped automatically. If you prefer an alternate selection, or none at all, simply fill in the response card always provided and mail it by the date specified.

You will always have at least 10 days in which to make your decision. If you ever receive any Selection without having had at least 10 days in which to decide, you may return it at our expense, for full credit.

Your own charge account will be opened…the selections you order will be mailed and billed at regular Club prices, which currently are: 8-track tapes and cassettes, $6.98 or $7.98; reel tapes, $7.98; records, $5.98 or $6.98—plus shipping and handling. (Multiple unit sets and Double Selections may be somewhat higher.)

You'll be eligible for our bonus plan upon completing your enrollment agreement—a plan which enables you to continue saving money on records and tapes for as long as you remain a member! Act now!

ANDREA DORIA: 'SHOULD NOT HAVE SUNK'

Peter Gimbel, the noted filmmaker and underwater explorer, has been intrigued with the wreck of the Andrea Doria since the Italian liner first went to the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean in 1956 after colliding with another liner, the Stockholm. Based on his observations during several dives to the wreck site, he developed his own theory on why she sank.

Last summer Gimbel decided to try to prove his conviction that the ship, a modern vessel built at a cost of $29 million and equipped with the most up-to-date safety devices, never should have gone down. He and Elga Andersen, a European actress who has worked with him on other film productions, headed the expedition that would attempt to descend to remote parts of the wreck never before reached by divers. A filmed account of their adventures, both underwater and aboard their surface ship, airs as a CBS Special, Wednesday at 8PM. The program is entitled "The Mystery of the Andrea Doria."

Gimbel had been the first diver to photograph the sunken Andrea Doria after she went to the bottom 20 years ago with a loss of 50 lives. During the next 10 years he made several other dives to where the ship lies at a depth of 235 feet in the Atlantic, some 50 miles south of Nantucket.

After his last dive to the site in 1966, Gimbel said the sea had begun to take over the hulk, making her a hostile and forbidding diving target. But then, he adds, Miss Andersen's conviction, duplicating his belief that the ship never should have keeled over and sunk, "got the better" of him and he decided to put his theory to the test. Miss Andersen based her supposition on the report of a Congressional committee that had investigated the tragedy. The report concluded with this statement: "The fact remains that a fine, relatively new ship . . . did sink after damage apparently less than she should have been able to withstand."

The dangers encountered by Gimbel and his diving team are recounted in the Xerox special. Gimbel almost died from oxygen poisoning during his ascent to the surface after one dive, and another diver suffered a ruptured ear-drum. The tides near the ocean floor made their work particularly hazardous, and the water was icy cold.

A two-man submarine that was to have taken them to the wreck could not operate because of the tides, forcing them to surface-dive. A diving bell, which was to have helped them conserve their energy as they went to the bottom and then resurfaced, was also found to be unstable underwater. On the scheduled last day of the expedition, Gimbel and his fellow divers found what he says is "proof of what we came to see"—proof that "this ship should not have sunk," for reasons that will be revealed in the special.

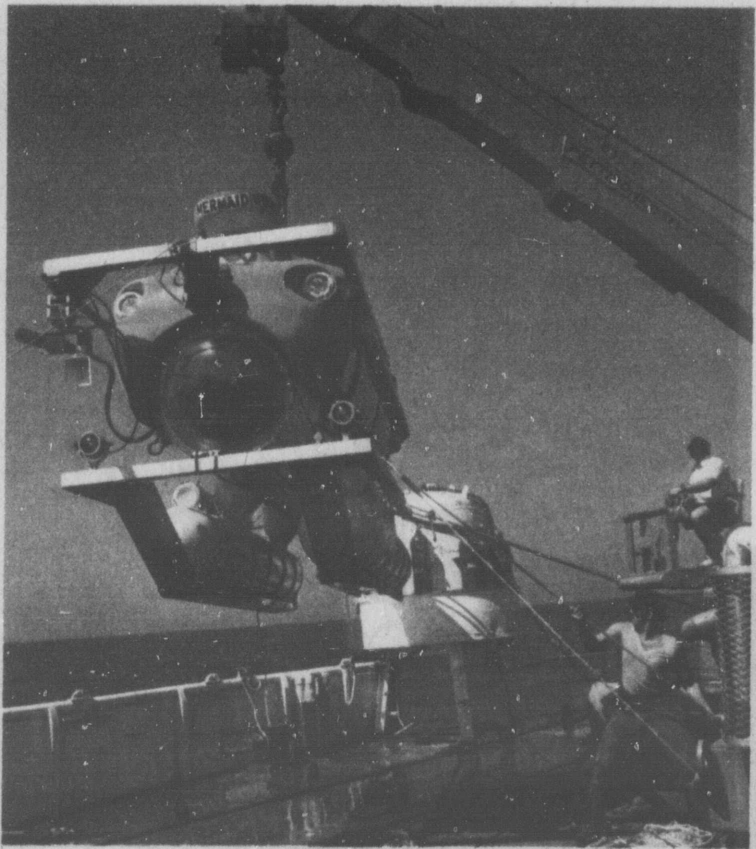
QUALITY LEADER IN ALUMINUM PATIOS



The findings of the first expedition to film the hulk of the liner S.S. Andrea Doria, which rests on the bottom of the Atlantic ocean at a depth of 235 feet near the continental shelf, forms the basis for an hour-long Special, "The Mystery of the Andrea Doria," on CBS, Wednesday at 8PM. The expedition was headed and the film produced by Peter Gimbel, filmmaker and explorer, and actress Elga Andersen. Gimbel and another diver, Joseph Fox, were the first to dive and photograph the liner the day after she went to the bottom after colliding with the S.S. Stockholm on July 25, 1956.

"Jubilee," is the title of a musical Special celebrating 100 years of the telephone, and hosted by Bing Crosby and Liza Minnelli on NBC, Friday from 8:30 to 10PM. "Jubilee" is a marriage of the musical "NEW" with the great moments, songs, stars and performances of the past 18 years. A host of tape and film performances will be seen on the Special, as well as live performances by Roy Clark, Eydie Gorme, Steve Lawrence, Ben Vereen, Joel Grey and Marvin Hamlisch.

Danny Kaye stars as Gepetto and Sandy Duncan stars as the boy-like puppet who comes magically to life in "Pinocchio," an all-new musical version of Carlo Collodi's classic fable, on CBS, Saturday (March 27) from 8 to 9:30PM. Flip Wilson is seen as the Fox, Liz Torres is the Cat, and Gary Morgan portrays Candlewick. The script is by Herbert Baker, co-directed by Sid Smith and Ron Field, and choreographed by Field. Original words and music are by Billie Barnes.

Cliff Gorman (left), Darren McGavin (right), star with Carl Betz, Leslie Nielsen, Stephen Collins, Burr De Benning, Art Metrano and Barney Phillips in "Brinks: The Great Robbery," on the CBS Friday Night Movie at 9PM. The film is based on the true story of the great Brink's robbery that took place in Boston in 1950 by a group of seven armed men who got away with cash, checks and securities worth over 2 million dollars. It was years before the leader of the raid would be captured by the FBI to become the key to the ultimate solution of the case.

COVER CLOSE-UP

Family

"I do hope people will notice that Kate has a sense of humor. It's rather low-key, so they'll have to pay attention."

Broadway super-star Sada Thompson, winner of the theatre's coveted Tony Award for her luminous performance as the four ladies in "Twigs;" star of the Pulitzer Prize winning play "The Effect of the Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds," and star of ABC's new one-hour, six-episode series, Family (Tuesdays at 10PM), was discussing Kate Lawrence, the wife and mother she plays in the Mike Nichols Presentation for Spelling-Goldberg Production.

The actress was sitting with James Broderick, who plays her husband Doug, and Gary Frank (he's 17-year old Willie Lawrence) under a shady sycamore on the lawn of an attractive Pasadena house being used as the Lawrence home in the series.

"Kate strikes me as the sort of person who will go to unnecessary lengths to conceal her vulnerability," Miss Thompson continued as Broderick nodded and Gary mischievously peeked from behind a book he was obviously not reading. "She holds back when she should let go, which is not very healthy. But it is very human."

"Very human," Broderick agreed.

"But not very funny," deadpanned Gary.

"We're not doing comedy," explained Broderick.

"Then why is Sada afraid no one will notice her jokes?" asked Gary.

"Nothing was said about jokes," replied Broderick calmly. "Sada was commenting on the fact that as Kate Lawrence, she has a subtle sense of humor which may be missed by viewers. You weren't listening, Gary." A smile crept into Sada's eyes.

"I beg your pardon, Jim," said Gary blandly, "but I was listening very carefully. What I heard was the deeper meaning of what Miss Sada Thompson of the American stage was trying to express."

"And what," sighed Broderick, "might that deeper meaning be?"

Closing his book, Gary replied, "Sada is afraid she won't be as funny as Maude. It happens to most stage actresses in her age group striking out for the bigtime in Televisionland. It's not very healthy, but it is very human."

The silence was broken by Sada's raucous laughter.

"Jim dear," she said, wiping her eyes, "he's done it to you again. When will you learn that Gary is the World's champion put-on artist?" Managing a faint smile, Jim patted Gary on the shoulder and said, "Nice going, kid. But I must say your humor is a bit sinister at times."

"It's not at all sinister," smiled Sada. "It's very much like mine, really . . . rather low-key. You'll have to pay attention, Jim."

Created by Jay Presson Allen ("Funny Lady," "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie," "Cabaret"), Family also stars John Rubinstein, Elayne Heilveil and Kristy McNichol.

EASTER SEAL APPEAL

NBC's City of Angels star Wayne Rogers will host the Fifth National Easter Seal Telethon coast to coast.

During the Fifth National Telethon for the National Easter Seal Society this year, Lucie Arnaz and Desi Arnaz, Jr., will be doing the hosting honors in Los Angeles when National Telethon host Wayne Rogers hands over the reins to the local stations for twenty minutes of every hour beginning at 10:30PM (or immediately following the Lakers game), Saturday (March 27) and ending with the last two hours locally, at 6:00PM Sunday (March 28). At KTLA, Channel 5 in Los Angeles, Lucie and Desi will be joined by many top personalities during the local portions of the telecast.

Among their celebrity guests will be Ann-Margret, Susan Blakely, Rin Tin Tin, Dr. George, Evel Knievel, Dick Gautier, Ron Masak, Jim Backus, Anson Williams, Charlie Tuna, Jaye P. Morgan, Hari Rhodes, Tony Dow, Marjoe Gortner, Gary Owens, Willy Bobo, Paul Lynde, Eva Gabor, The Hudson Brothers, Donny and Marie Osmond, Judy Norton, Deforest Kelley, Ann B. Davis, Jerry Mathers, Mr. and Mrs. (Meredith MacRae) Greg Mullavey, Tom Bosley, Mel Blanc, various Disney animal characters and many more celebrities who will further supplement the truly star-studded Fifth National Easter Seal Telethon.

As a special added attraction, the local chapter of the Easter Seal Youth Guild, a group of youngsters who have taken it upon themselves to raise money for Easter Seals, is sponsoring a dance marathon to last the entire 20 hours of the telecast. The two winning couples, judged by the highest amount of pledges phoned in during their performances, will each receive a Yamaha "Chappy" motorcycle, with accessories—donated by Yamaha to the Los Angeles Easter Seal Society.

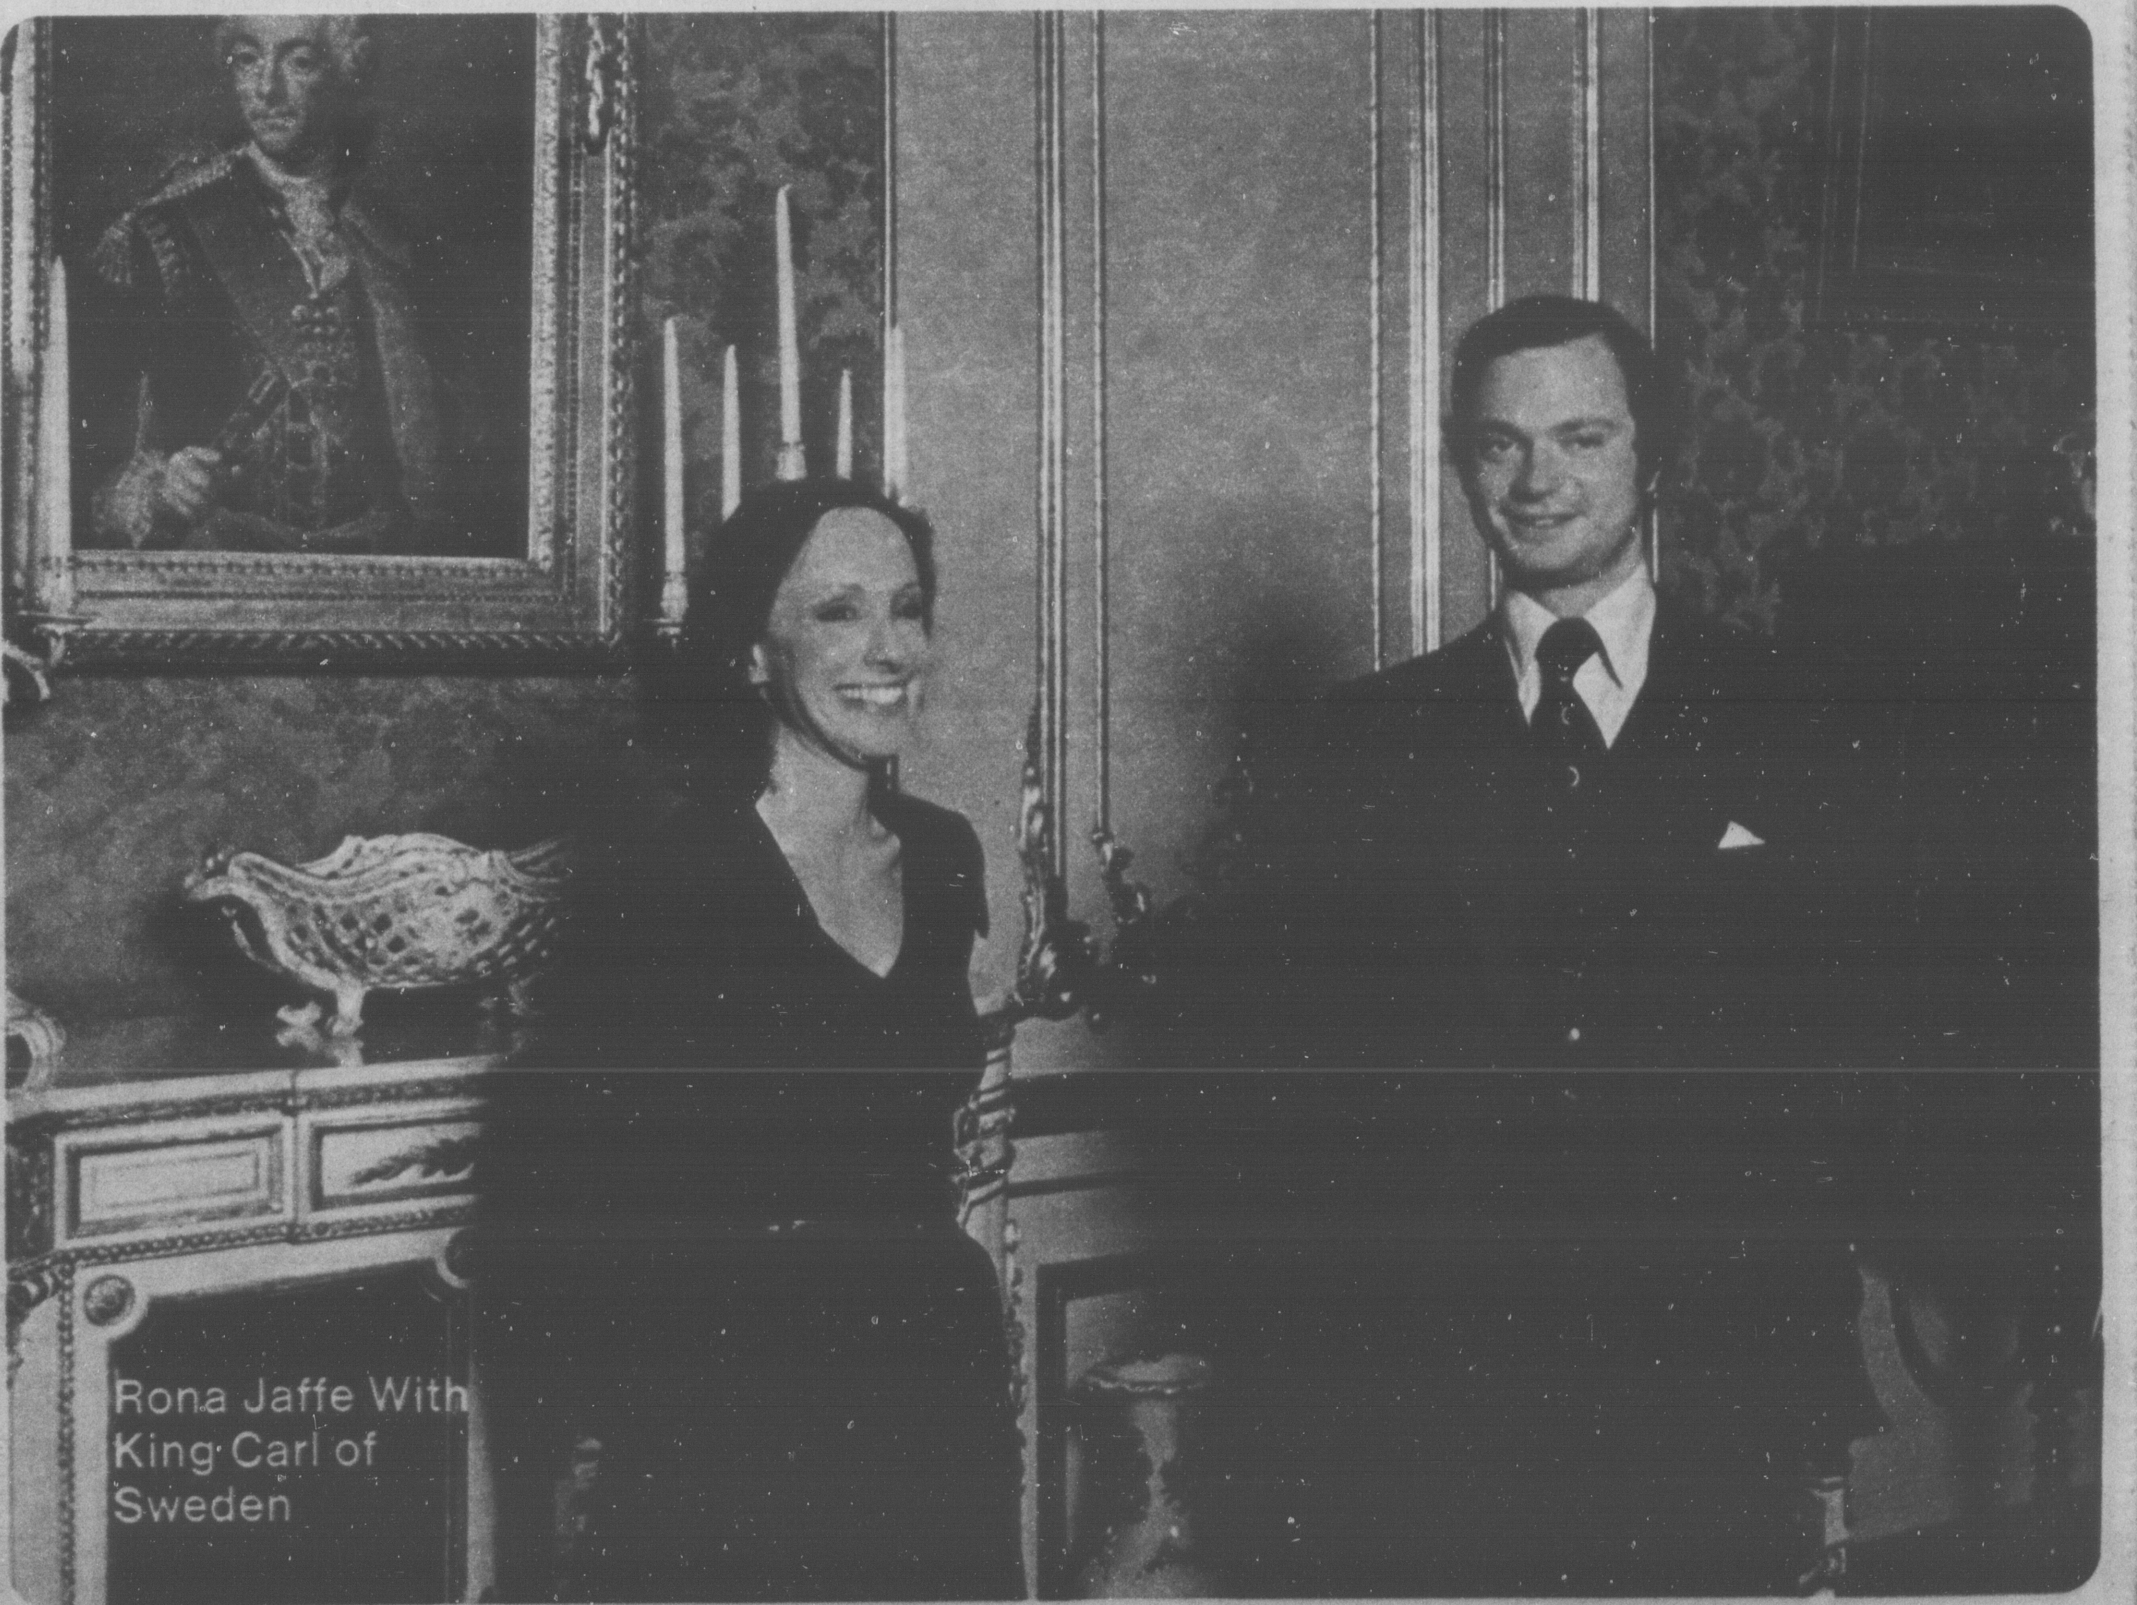
Rona Jaffe Visits Our April Visitor, The King of Sweden

Jimmie Walker, That Restless Young Man Behind TV's "J. J."

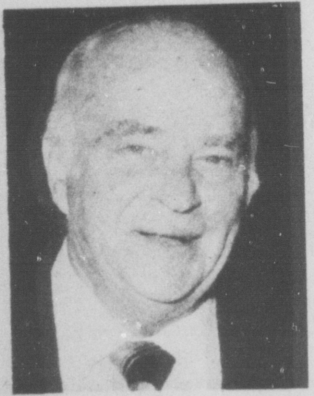
A Great "Dressy" Chicken Dish Your Guests Will Love!



Rona Jaffe With King Carl of Sweden

Ask Them Yourself

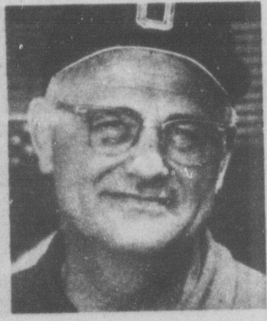
Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.



FOR EDGAR BERGEN, ventriloquist

I hear ventriloquists sometimes get in trouble "throwing their voices." True?—G.S., Austin, Tex.

● Yes. A few years ago I was in a railway station in a tiny town. Along came two porters carrying a coffin. When they put it down, I rapped on the box, and asked, "Is everything all right in there?" The "corpse" replied: "Let me out, let me out." The porters ran like bolts of lightning. The train came, and a guy got off, looked straight at me and asked: "Where are the guys to load this stiff?" I didn't mention why they left, but I did help get the coffin on the train. I almost got a hernia doing it, too.



FOR COACH WOODY HAYES of Ohio State

Are you for or against post-season college football playoffs to establish a clear-cut champion?—David Miller, Austin, Tex.

● I'm against the idea. You'd be working these players to death, and they're still going to college. It would be asking too much of them to play that long a season and at the same time keep up with studies.

FOR MICHAEL LANDON

With all the Scripture you quote on "Little House on the Prairie," have you ever had a personal experience with Jesus Christ?—Mrs. Greg Peters, Great Falls, Mont.

● I've discovered that I'm much more religious than I thought I was. I made the discovery when I started writing scripts for the show. In re-reading the scripts, I'm often amazed at the things I've written. As a youngster I never realized how important religion was to me.

FOR PHYLLIS GEORGE, sportscaster

What's more difficult for you—getting into or out of the athletes' locker rooms?—R.L. Holter, Bismarck, N.D.

● Since I have never been in the athletes' locker rooms, I would not know how difficult it would be to get out. However, I believe I could obtain a better interview after the athlete had showered and dressed and had time to evaluate the game or situation. I wouldn't want a man in my boudoir interviewing me while I was dressing, so why should I be in their locker room while they're dressing?

FOR BILLIE JEAN KING

Is there any chance that you'll accept Bobby Riggs's challenge to play another match?—J.R.B., Amherst, N.Y.

● No. It doesn't mean that much to me to beat him. I wouldn't go through all that again. The match was not a stunt to me. I trained hard for it.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Is Greta Garbo still alive? Please write a few things about her.—Mrs. H. S. Heppler, Sacramento, Calif.

● Some 42 years after her first movie–she's still described as one of the world's most beautiful women. She never married. She likes Europe and goes there often. In France she supposedly sunbathes nude (at 72!) every afternoon at the home of a friend. Garbo is known for her solitary walks through the woods, her smoking (three packs a day) and her drinking (vodka). She diets and exercises and still uses very little makeup. At New York's Ritz Tower Hotel, her alias was Harriet Brown. Strangers who invade her privacy are rewarded with icy stares and cutting remarks, and friends who talk about her to the press never hear from Garbo again.

Greta Garbo

FOR OLIVIA NEWTON-JOHN

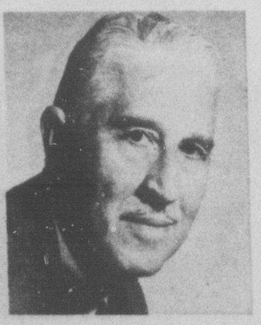
Is the story about your being thrown from a horse just a rumor? If not, will you keep riding?—L.R., River Edge, N.J.

● That accident was my first in all my years of riding. I was thrown Jan. 13 at a Malibu club. The horse slipped going up a mountain. That spill gave me cervical and lumbar strain and contusions of the back, but I was only in bed for five days, and I'm fine now. I've always loved riding and always will. I've been on horseback since I was old enough to walk.

FOR DR. MARGARET MEAD, anthropologist

Should housewives get credit towards social security?—Mrs. L. Mills, Hobart, Ind.

● Definitely. I'd also include women who help in agricultural work and other home industries.



FOR DR. MARLIN PERKINS of TV's "Wild Kingdom"

Who would win in a fight between a lion and a bull?—Gilberto Vega, Monterrey, Mexico

● Animals don't fight for fun. If they attack each other, it is for a specific purpose. The only reason a lion would attack a bull is to eat him. Before the attack, the lion would have assessed the physical condition of the bull. If he was sickly or old, the lion would probably kill him without too much trouble; if the bull was in prime condition, the lion would most likely look around for easier prey.

FOR NENA O'NEILL, co-author of "Open Marriage"

Is it true that you and your husband have separated since writing "Open Marriage"? If so, why?—Annie Jones, Olney Springs, Colo.

● It is definitely not true. My husband and I just celebrated our 30th wedding anniversary. It is unfortunate that some people like to spread rumors to allay their own fears about change. It takes love, courage and commitment to open up your marriage and grow. There are no rules in our books, only guidelines for achieving a dynamic relationship in which both partners can grow. It isn't easy, but it works.

Report From Philip Morris

Filters Fall Short.

Researchers create 'Enriched Flavor'™ for taste of new low tar MERIT after disappointing results with special filters.

After countless efforts at designing special "low tar, good taste" filters, Philip Morris—like most others—had achieved only marginal results.

Filters are good for filtering, not for giving taste to a cigarette.

Tobacco gives taste to a cigarette. And the more tobacco taste that's filtered out in the form of tar, the less taste a cigarette will deliver.

That's the conclusion that led us to the business end of smoking. The tobacco end. And a remarkable new flavor discovery called 'Enriched Flavor.'

The new cigarette with 'Enriched Flavor' is MERIT.

It delivers only 9 mg. of tar—less than 98% of all cigarettes being sold today.

Yet 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivers the taste of cigarettes having more tar. Up to 60% more tar.

If you smoke, you'll be interested.

Smokers Report MERIT Delivers More Taste

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading low tar cigarette brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of filter smokers were involved, smokers like yourself, all tested at home.*

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly too, delivering as much—or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now you've got the cigarette.

MERIT. Unprecedented flavor at 9 mg. tar.

Rona Jaffe Visits Our April Visitor, The Youthful King of Sweden

By Rona Jaffe

One of his students once asked the great acting teacher Stanislavski, "How do you play a king?"

"You don't have to do anything to play a king," Stanislavski replied. "The audience knows you're the king by the way the other actors behave."

There are only four kings left in Europe: Juan Carlos of Spain, Olav of Norway, Baudouin I of Belgium and Carl XVI Gustaf of Sweden. Royalty on the grand scale is almost extinct, clearly an endangered species. Viewed from afar, royalty is fun to watch. But if you ever meet a king on his own turf, in the Royal Palace, no matter what you thought before, it becomes quite awesome.

I know. I was there.

The King of Sweden, Carl XVI Gustaf, is a handsome 29-year-old bachelor, a perfectly nice ordinary young man who has the misfortune of being king. Two years ago, at 27, he succeeded his grandfather, the greatly beloved 90-year-old King Gustaf VI Adolf. Usually a king would be middle-aged, but Carl's father died in a plane crash when Carl was a baby. His grandfather was an intellectual, interested in literature and the arts, and a museum is filled with ancient Egyptian treasures he discovered on archaeological expeditions. The new young king, although carefully educated in the duties of his office, is not at all an intellectual. He likes hunting and fishing, skiing and sailing; and before he was king, he was seen every night in his favorite discotheque with friends. He still speeds around Stockholm in his fast little blue sports car, wearing jeans; and what he likes most of all is girls, and they like him.

Independent behavior that is viewed as enchanting in an old king is looked on as too impetuous and reckless in a young one. The late King Gustaf, a tall dignified man who retained his good sense of humor to the last, delighted in leading guided tours around the palace (if he didn't know what period a chair was from, he would make it up), and he accepted tips that the tourists gave him. He would take long walks alone through the streets of Stockholm, talking to the people, sometimes giving them the wrong directions by mistake. The people loved it all. But when Carl became King, his youth and good looks immediately made him the unwilling darling of the tabloids, a celebrity like our Sinatra or Teddy Kennedy. Starlets and actresses wrote stories about their romances (real or imaginary) with the new King. If he took off alone in his sports car and talked to the people, it was generally to girls, and there was gossip. At the 1972 Munich Olympics, he met a German commoner, Sylvia Sommerlaut, who was a guide there, and their long off-again on-again romance caused more talk. Soon the King's advisers became displeased with the King's reputation as a swinger, and the Swedish press was not allowed to interview him. The King himself was tired of being asked when he would get married and produce the necessary male heir.

But what else do you ask a king who is the monarch in a Social Democracy, a cradle-to-grave welfare state where there is neither poverty nor great wealth, where the elected Parliament has stripped the King of all his regal powers, reducing him to the role of a good-will ambassador? And what could the King say to the press? He is not allowed to express political views—the King must be above politics. He is concerned about ecology and environmental protection, he visits the factories, he has studied banking; but people are not very interested in what he thinks about industry or agriculture. You ask the Prime Minister about internal affairs. You ask the young King about love affairs.

The Swedish people like to humanize their Royal Family much the same way as we like to humanize our First Family. As one Swede put it: "We are a socialist country and our Royal Family is the poorest in Europe, and we like it that way."

A woman who is a close friend of the Royal Family described King Carl to me this way: "He's a very gentle boy and wants everyone to like him. He's very sweet, not selfish. His friends are not aristocrats, they're mostly from his boarding school. He would really like to be a sailor or a farmer, not a king. He's like an awkward teenager, he's never grown up. He didn't have much home life—no father, four older sisters bossing him around, a very beautiful and very autocratic German mother, and his grandfather away on archaeological digs."

Thursday, the day of our audience, was icy cold. Our footsteps rang on the stones of the palace courtyard like something from a Gothic novel as we walked to our meeting with the King. The Royal Palace of Stockholm is the oldest and largest castle in Europe in which anyone still lives. It is built of stone, with 700 rooms and is quite forbidding from the outside. The King's apartment consists of about 20 rooms, but that partly lighted area seemed tiny in comparison to the whole. There was a sentry outside, and two guards in the inner courtyard, looking cold. No one else. In Sweden in wintertime it gets pitch-dark at three o'clock in the afternoon. We were to have 20 minutes with the King as a group, and then each of us would have five minutes

Rona: "What would you do if you weren't King?"

King: "I have thought about that. I would like to be a farmer."

My First Glimpse of the King—The Nobel Prize Ceremony

On April 1, King Carl is coming to America for a month, to travel around our country and see what it's like. The Swedish Government thought we in turn should get to know what he is like, and they invited three magazines to send representatives to Sweden beforehand to meet the King. FAMILY WEEKLY sent me.

We arrived in Stockholm on a Sunday, after a 10-hour flight in a jumbo jet filled with present and former Nobel Prize winners and their families. The Nobel Prize ceremonies and banquet were to be on Wednesday.

The Nobel Prize ceremony was held in a huge arena with rows of seats in tiers around a circular area where two thrones (one for the Queen of Denmark) had been placed. The men were in white tie and tails and medals, the women in formal evening dresses. The 5,000 people in the audience stood up as King Carl of Sweden came in. He looked very young and small and had rather sloppy posture. I liked him. Each award winner, after the speeches, was to walk to the King to receive his prize. Eugenio Montale, the Italian poet who wrote three books and won the Nobel Prize for Literature, is 79 years old and ill. When he rose and took two feeble steps, the young King walked quickly across the carpet to him, a gesture of respect so spontaneous that I could feel the waves of approval from the crowd. I liked him even more.

alone with him. It had seemed a very stingy amount of time to me, and yet I was beginning to become so intimidated that it seemed far more than enough, especially the time alone.

"I'm not scared of a king," I lied to the other two journalists. "After all, I'm an American."

"How can I be afraid of the King?" one of them rejoined with what sounded like the same bravado. "He's the same age as my son."

We were handed over to the King's private secretary, Mr. Jan Mortenson, who acted as a sort of chaperon. Up huge carpeted stairs made of stone, into the East Wing. Warm, lighted rooms filled with antiques, paintings of previous Swedish kings, high ceilings painted with scenes, cherubs, flowers, old tapestries on the walls, fireplaces, fresh flowers, everything absolutely spotless. A formal banquet was to be held that night for 200 people, and the long table, already set, stretched through several rooms.

We waited in the suite reserved for guests, joined by a photographer and a fourth reporter from America. We were milling around nervously, when Mortenson whispered, "Here comes the King!" A smallish, boyish-looking young man was suddenly among us, wearing a beautifully cut wool suit, vest and tie.

"Well," King Carl XVI Gustaf murmured shyly. "What do we do now?"

It was decided that we should all go into the next room, where the King sat on a couch and we sat on chairs in a semicircle around him, and small glasses of dry sherry were served. We all sat there and looked at each other, in silence, for what seemed to me an eternity. The King had never met with American journalists before, and we had never met a king. Finally I said, "I think we should each introduce ourselves. I'll go first, I'm Rona Jaffe from FAMILY WEEKLY, and I'm a novelist." Each journalist in turn gave an introduction, and we then went around the circle asking questions. King Carl speaks English well.

Q: "What is it like being King?"

A: "I travel around the country, try to meet the people."

Q: "Do you work hard?"

A: "Not so hard. I don't know what you mean by hard."

Q: "What do your friends call you?"

A: "In Swedish we don't have the word 'you' for everyone, as you do, so they just call me King."

Q: "Do you visit the factories?"

A: "Yes. I talk to the workers, not to management."

Q: "Do you still go to discotheques?"

A: "Not any more—there's too much publicity and no privacy, so I go to friends'

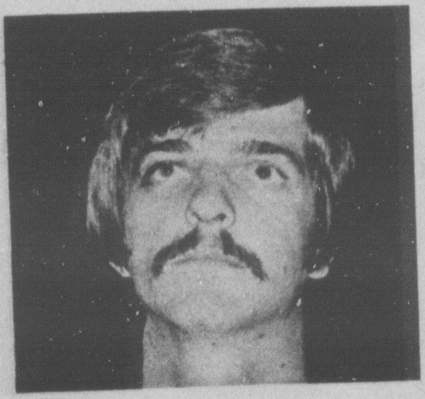
PETE MARAVICH

Is the "Jinx" Finally Over?



After five troubled years as a pro basketball player, "Pistol Pete" Maravich has found new success and personal happiness with the New Orleans Jazz. Back in Louisiana State University, Pete's unerring marksmanship and dazzling movements had overflow crowds oohing and ahing. He broke Oscar Robertson's all-time collegiate scoring record before graduating, and there was great fanfare when he signed with the Atlanta Hawks of the NBA. But the build-up was too great. Maravich had not learned to coordinate his movements with his fellow players. He also proved weak on defense. Some members of the Atlanta team resented his high salary and "showboating" style. When the Hawks failed to win, the fans began to boo Maravich. At the end of his first season, he commented, "After what I've been through, I feel like a 10-year veteran already." . . . "Pistol Pete's" difficulties continued through the next few years. He was stricken with mononucleosis, then with a strange facial paralysis, and finally with injuries to his Achilles tendon. He felt that Atlanta had become a "jinx" town and welcomed the trade to the new Jazz team. . . . The arrival of a new coach for the Jazz, Butch Van Breda Kolff, signaled a turn in Maravich's fortunes. Van Breda Kolff stressed team play and defense and was able to get Maravich to harmonize his unique style with his teammates. Now it all seems to be coming together. "Maravich is playing the best I've ever seen," says the Jazz coach. And Maravich says in turn, "Van Breda Kolff has been able to motivate me and the other players better than any other coach I've seen in the pros. I'm so happy now, it's really the happiest I've ever been." —By Barry Abramson

The Doctor Lets You In

Can Too Many Vitamin Pills Do Harm?

If one vitamin pill is good, wouldn't two be better? Not necessarily. While vitamins and minerals usually do no harm if taken in somewhat greater than the recommended daily allowances, some of them can be harmful. Take vitamins A and D, for example. An excess of vitamin A can cause the very symptoms the vitamin is meant to prevent. Likewise, vitamin D, which makes it possible for the body to utilize calcium, can cause calcification of certain organs if taken in excess. (This is why the FDA has determined that no product containing more than 10,000 units of vitamin A or 400 units of vitamin D can be obtained without a prescription.) Overdoses of minerals can also be dangerous. You've probably heard TV commercials touting the benefits of iron. Well, iron is beneficial. It is necessary to prevent or fight anemia. But cases of iron poisoning have been reported. What it all boils down to is this: vitamins and iron supplements are generally safe and helpful. But do read the labels carefully for recommended doses. —By Erwin Di Cyan, Ph.D.

People and You

How Many True Friends Do You Have?

You may have plenty of acquaintances, but how many true friends do you have? Real Friends are the people who care about your well-being and who like you the way you are. You're lucky if you have a precious few of this kind of friend. Jess Lair, in his book "I Ain't Well—But I Sure Am Better" (Doubleday, $3.95), explains that most of us needlessly punish ourselves by spending too much of our time with those people who either don't matter to us or who actually rub us the wrong way. We feel we "ought" to like everyone and we "ought" to work at getting everyone to like us. Such thinking produces situations in which you are stunned when a "good friend" does some terrible thing to you. At such times, says Lair, you come to realize "there really wasn't a friendship there. Is there anything wrong in deliberately arranging your free time around real friends? No. Their companionship can be your surest emotional defense against the rebuffs, cold shoulders and disappointments of daily life. —By Shirley Sloan Fader

Leslie Uggams: My Ten Favorite Records

Leslie Uggams started singing at 6. Performing was in her blood—her mother was a chorus dancer at Harlem's famed Cotton Club, and her father sang in a choir. She achieved national fame with Mitch Miller, who says: "A singer like Leslie Uggams comes along once in a lifetime. I'm glad it happened during mine." Her latest album is "Leslie Uggams."

Do You Believe in Financial Voodoo?

Several years ago, a man who had lost his job staked all his savings on a stock "tip" from a casual acquaintance. Amazingly, the stock zoomed, and the man made a great deal of money. Instead of quitting while he was ahead, the man continued speculating, and soon he was down to his last few dollars. Still, he didn't worry. He confidently expected another market "tip." As financial counselors know, there are many people who firmly believe some miracle will always occur to bail them out of money troubles. Most of us are not unrealistic enough to expect magic; but a great many persons manage money on the theory that an extraordinary event, such as a winning lottery ticket, will occur. Another form of "expecting magic" is hoping that the sheer act of writing down numbers will produce a balanced budget. Experts say the person who expects magic is basically insecure. —By Norman Lobsenz

The Diet Watch

Slimming Hints From People Who've "Been There"

At a Los Angeles dieting symposium, the most cheered suggestions from people who had lost weight and were keeping it down, were these: From a secretary: "At dinner, I always give myself a too-small portion to start, so I'll feel free to take a second helping. Then usually I don't take the second helping." . . . From a corporaton executive: "I quit smoking. The smoke was irritating my ulcer and I was having to drink milk to alkalize my stomach acids—that was about 1,000-calories a day I could do without." . . . From a model: "I wear a narrow gold chain around my waist; if I gain a pound it bites into my skin and hurts." A businessman: "No more beer with TV. I drink a gallon or so of club soda spiked with lemon juice and a saccharine pill." Career woman: "When I want a hot fudge sundae, I just figure my priorities: The sundae or a full meal. Usually I end up choosing the full meal and promise myself the sundae next week." —By Harriet La Barre

Where the Bicentennial Action Is in the East's "History Cities"

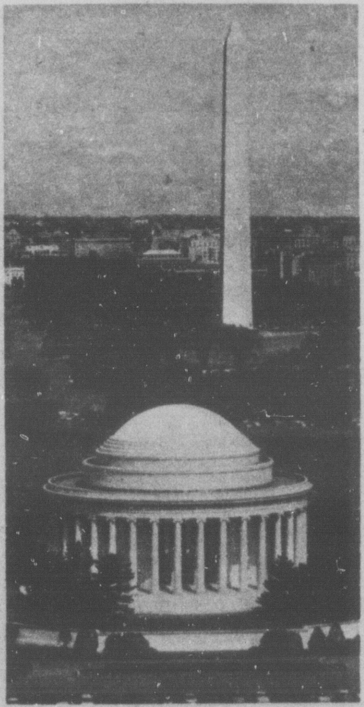
Boston's Bicentennial Pavilion, foreground, houses a multi-image, quadraphonic-sound exhibition that pays tribute to contemporary Boston.



The Jefferson Memorial, foreground, and Washington Monument stand as reminders of our national heritage and two of our greatest Presidents.

As our nation's 200th birthday party on July 4 nears, the focus for special exhibits will be on Philadelphia, Boston and Washington.

In addition, cities, towns and hamlets across the United States will be staging their own cultural and historical events, parades and projects so that the Bicentennial calendar will surely offer something—somewhere—for just about everyone.

But it is these three key cities that have something new to offer visitors on a large scale while still featuring their past and present historic attractions.

PHILADELPHIA's major Bicentennial exhibit will be the Living History Center, an $11.5 million project housed in a specially designed building adjacent to historic Independence Mall. The main attraction here will be a 45-minute historical film charting events since the signing of the Declaration of Independence. It will use a projection technique which creates the illusion that the viewer is taking part in the film's activities. (Tentative admission: adults, $3; children 12-18, $1.75; children 6-12, $1, and under 6, free.)

The center will also feature more than a dozen multimedia subject exhibits, including a referendum on major issues. In this exhibit, visitors will have an opportunity to "solve," by ballot, problems dealing with pollution, crime, excess taxation, eroding military strength and many other areas of concern. The center is scheduled to open in late April.

The Afro-American Historical and Cultural Museum (opening June 11) will highlight the history, culture and achievements of black people. There will be six major display areas, an auditorium for film, drama and lectures, a Black Hall of Achievements and a permanent archive and library.

And in and around the Independence National Historic Park, visitors will see the Liberty Bell in a new transparent home (you can still touch the crack), a reconstruction of buildings owned by America's beloved philosopher, Benjamin Franklin, and Graff House, the three-story brick house where the Declaration of Independence was drafted by Thomas Jefferson.

If all this history seems a bit confusing, then drop by the Visitors Center at Third and Chestnut and watch a free 28-minute film called "Independence," giving the background and events that led up to the Revolutionary era.

In BOSTON, you should go to the multimedia exhibits that transform history, with the help of new film-and-sound techniques, into entertaining, educational experiences. You will see the lifestyles, events and technological advances of the 18th, 19th and 20th centuries dramatized in three separate exhibits.

Start with "The Revolution" where you record on a ballot your reactions to the issues and events that confronted Colonial Bostonians. At the final tally, you learn whether you would have joined the Minute Men or fled to Canada or England. This exhibit is located in Faneuil Hall, in the midst of one of Boston's oldest and best-loved attractions—the Freedom Trail. (Admission: adults, $1.50; children, 75 cents.)

"Victorian Boston" celebrates the people, inventions and technological advances that changed the city between 1865 and 1900. Original photos and daguerreotypes, clothes and artifacts show how the rich, middle class, immigrants and factory workers fared at this time. There are also several participa-

37 Brilliant Ingots In Silver of 999/1000% Purity...
Available Now For Only $14.95 Each
(Actual size of each ingot: 1" x 2")

The Washington, D.C. Bicentennial Commission's

The United States Presidents Ingots

Only 25,000 collectors will ever own this strictly limited edition of major historical, educational, and artistic significance!

A BICENTENNIAL TRIBUTE TO 37 REMARKABLE MEN

What a dramatic and inspiring medallic series this is... conceived with deep respect for the remarkable leaders of America. And, with the Bicentennial fast approaching we are more aware of the great challenges facing our chief executive—The President of the United States of America. To honor this... the most powerful office on earth... The Washington D.C. Bicentennial Commission has authorized The Hamilton Mint to strike a unique Presidential Ingot for each of the thirty-seven men who have led this nation to greatness.

THE MINTING OF THE PRESIDENCY—A FINE ART TREASURY

A superb example of the engravers' art, The United States Presidents Ingots consists of thirty-seven gleaming, mirror-like ingots. These are to be issued to collectors at the rate of two per month. Each ingot of this significant Bicentennial collection contains 480 grains of the purest silver available—that of 999/1000% purity. In 19 months, subscribers to The United States Presidents Ingots will have accumulated over 3 troy pounds of fine silver!

STUNNINGLY DESIGNED... METICULOUSLY CRAFTED

It is unlikely that you have ever witnessed pure silver ingots such as these before. Designed by master sculptor Alfred Brunettin, the surfaces glow with a duality of finishes; exquisite satin bas-relief sculpture is dramatically highlighted by the brilliance of mirror-like backgrounds. The illustrations above can merely suggest the superlative majesty of these ingots.

PRESIDENTIAL REFERENCE VOLUME INCLUDED FREE

A beautiful full-color, richly illustrated and carefully researched reference book containing personal background and achievements of the Presidents complements this collection.

ISSUED IN STRICTLY LIMITED EDITION

Significantly, The United States Presidents Ingots bears the highly-regarded endorsement of The Washington D.C. Bicentennial Commission, an independent organization established for the promotion of our nation's Bicentennial festivities. The Hamilton Mint will strike but 25,000 First Edition sets in .999 fine silver. Only one complete set will be minted for each subscriber and no more will ever be minted once the edition limits are reached, thus protecting the rarity of the edition.

YOUR PERSONAL SERIAL NUMBER

Before sending your first two United States Presidents Ingots, you will be assigned the lowest serial number available. This serial number will appear along the edge of each ingot of the series and is recorded in The Hamilton Mint archives to permanently identify each set. As further protection of your investment, each ingot bears The Hamilton Mint Hallmark and is accompanied by a Certificate of Authenticity—your record of the precious metal content of the collection.

INVESTMENT POTENTIAL

This collection is certain to be treasured by knowledgeable collectors for its rarity and beauty, and you may acquire this series in precious metal at a time when prominent advisors are predicting a continued rise in the price of precious metals in the years ahead.

YOUR DELUXE OPTION... A PRESIDENTIAL COLLECTION IN 24 KARAT GOLD ON FINE SILVER

At your request The Hamilton Mint will strike a set of The United States Presidents Ingots in 24 Karat Gold on Fine Silver. Collectors will appreciate the rarity of this elegant edition—especially considering that only 10,000 sets will ever be made. Each will cost just $19.95.

TO DISPLAY YOUR COLLECTION... AN ELEGANT PRESENTATION CASE

In keeping with the belief that fine artworks should be kept on constant exhibition, The Hamilton Mint will include an elegant display case with each subscription to The United States Presidents Ingots. This presentation case... handcrafted in magnificent walnut... has been engineered to accommodate your complete collection and is offered at no additional charge!

GUARANTEED PRICE PROTECTION

Under the terms of this offer, The Hamilton Mint is committed to deliver to you at your original subscription price the complete set of 37 ingots over the next 19 months regardless of how high the price of silver and gold climbs. The Hamilton Mint must reserve the right to limit the edition below the published maximum limits, but once your application is accepted, your subscription is guaranteed.

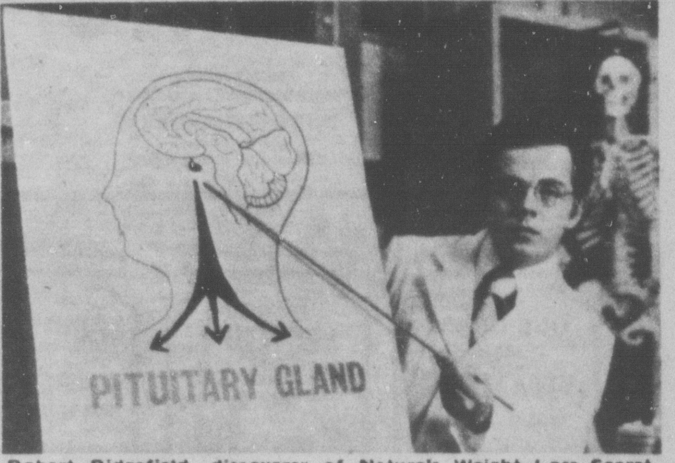
Learn Nature's Weight Loss Secret Of Glandular Control

How to Command your Pituitary Gland to order up to 756 times its own weight in fat to leave your body every single day

©1975 C.P.C.



Robert Ridgefield, discoverer of Nature's Weight Loss Secret, points to the gland that will make you thin. Your pituitary gland, weighing a mere 1/60th of an ounce, can command up to one pound of fat (756 x 1/60th of an ounce = one lb.) to leave your body every single day. Since all of us have a pituitary gland, everyone—5 lbs. or 105 lbs. overweight can learn nature's weight loss secret of glandular control. The article below will explain how you can reap the benefits of this amazing scientific breakthrough by losing as much as 14 lbs. in two weeks.

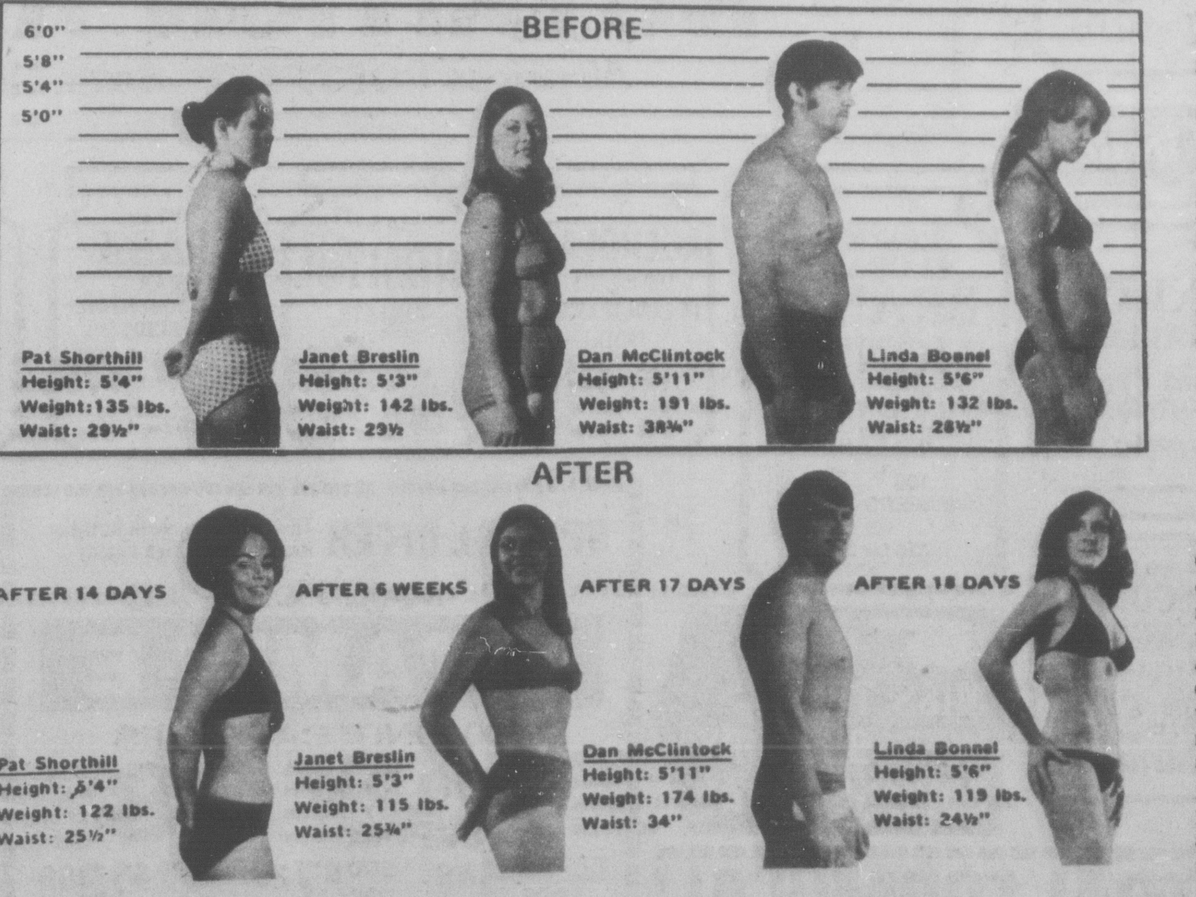
By Joan Woodward

Use your head! Millions of overweight Americans could have slimmed down a long time ago by doing just that. For years, people with weight problems have desperately searched for ways to shed pounds. Ironically, even as they frantically searched, they were carrying the perfect weight loss secret right in their own head – their Pituitary Gland.

Allow me to explain. By learning Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you can command your pituitary gland (nature's built-in fat evacuator) to order up to 1 pound of fat to leave your body every day. You'll continue to shed pounds until you reach your ideal weight – and then stay fat free forever. This weight loss secret works for everyone, whether 5 lbs. or 105 lbs. overweight.

But, best of all, you lose weight while eating the foods you love. In fact, you must eat to lose weight. That's the key to this weight loss secret.

As a reporter for the newsletter "Total Fitness Today", my job is to check out weight loss plans being developed across the country. Since I have a weight problem, I take a special interest in these assignments. When I heard about this revolutionary new weight loss secret, I decided to investigate.



I set up an appointment with Robert Ridgefield, the discoverer of Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control. I started with tough questions.

HOW DOES THE SECRET WORK?

Q. How does the secret work?

A. The secret works by making food your ally instead of your enemy. There are two types of food in everyone's daily diet – 'triggers' and 'blockers'. By eating 'trigger' foods, you trigger or turn on your Pituitary Gland (nature's built-in fat evacuator). Once triggered, your Pituitary Gland secretes a fat evacuating chemical fluid. This fluid is transported throughout your body and transforms your body from a fat producing machine to a fat evacuating system. Your Pituitary Gland will work safely and naturally to evacuate fat 24 hours a day – even while you sleep.

Q. If these 'trigger' foods are in everyone's diet, why isn't my Pituitary Gland evacuating fat?

A. Unfortunately, even if your diet consists of 95% 'trigger' foods, it only takes 5% 'blocker' foods to prevent your Pituitary Gland from evacuating fat.

Q. How can I trigger my Pituitary Gland?

A. Not by willpower, not by concentration, not with exercise, but by eating. Only by eating 'trigger' foods and avoiding 'blocker' foods can you trigger your Pituitary Gland to evacuate fat. Remember, the Weight Loss Secret is a nutrition plan, not a diet.

Q. What are these 'trigger' foods, and how much can I eat?

A. These 'trigger' foods are the every day foods you love: juicy sirloin steaks, hearty helpings of beef stroganoff, spicy ham, double cheeseburgers, meatloaf, barbecued chicken, omelets, vegetables; like broccoli smothered with hollandaise sauce, cantaloupes, fruit cocktails – even desserts like strawberries with whipped cream, pumpkin pie, chocolate pudding, ice cream, and your favorite wines, liquors–even beer! You need not drastically alter your eating habits to get rid of the 'blocker' foods, because they don't make up that big a part of your diet.

WHY DOES THE SECRET WORK?

Q. You've told me how it works, but all weight loss methods look good on paper – they just don't work in real life. Why is this one different?

A. In order to understand why the secret works, you must first know why other methods fail. They fail for two reasons. First, other methods work against human nature, and therefore are doomed to failure from the start. People with weight problems obviously love to eat. Starvation is sheer torture. No one in their right mind is going to torture themselves for very long. Strenuous exercise is difficult, worklike, and boring. Diet pills leave you weak, nervous and prone to illness. Second, with most methods, the results, if any, come too slowly. So most people lose hope and quit.

Q. You're right about why they fail. I know, because I've tried them all, without success. But, why does glandular control work?

A. Again, two reasons. As I said, people are overweight because they love to eat. With Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you must eat to lose weight. Therefore, overweight people will use it. It's as simple as that. The Weight Loss Secret has none of the drawbacks of other methods. There's no starvation, no willpower, no boring exercises, no health ruining diet pills, no weird fad dieting. It doesn't leave you weak and nervous. In fact, it makes you feel healthier and more vibrant than before.

Q. You said there are two reasons why this secret works. What's the second reason?

A. Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control always succeeds because it gives fast, steady and permanent results. You start losing weight the first day. You can lose up to 14 lbs. in two weeks. With these kind of results, rather than losing hope and quitting, you will be encouraged to continue and lose even more. You will reach your ideal weight and be fat free forever.

> "You can lose all the weight you want, quickly, and keep it off permanently while eating the foods you love."

Q. One last question. You call the Pituitary Gland nature's built-in fat evacuator. Why is that?

A. The Pituitary Gland was evolved by nature as a survival mechanism to keep man slim and fit. Just as your heart pumps blood, your lungs breathe the air, your Pituitary Gland evacuates fat. Because it's natural, it's 100% safe.

At the end of our conversation, I asked Mr. Ridgefield if I could talk with people who had successfully used the secret. He did better. He introduced me to four people who were going to start the weight loss secret the following Monday, and asked me if I would like to join them.

I took a before picture of Pat, Janet, Dan and Linda. I then followed their progress every day and had an after picture taken. As you can see from the photos, their results were amazing. But, they weren't the only ones to achieve results.

I lost 4 inches off my waist, 3 inches off my thighs and 14 lbs. in 14 days. My whole life has changed. My clothes fit great. I look and feel younger. I've found new self-confidence. But best of all, my love life has improved. The Weight Loss Secret can do the same thing for you.

WHAT WILL THE SECRET DO FOR YOU?

By learning Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you will:

- Lose all the weight you want, as much as a pound a day, while eating the food you love.
- Lose inches off your waist, hips, thighs, and banish ugly cellulite bumps.
- Never go hungry.
- Increase your energy and vitality.
- Look and feel younger.
- End your up–down roller coaster weight cycle by staying fat free forever.

After I lost my weight, my boss, Timothy Voros, the Chairman of the Board of Consumer Publishing, decided to try the secret. He lost 22 lbs. in 22 days. He was so impressed, he grabbed up the exclusive world wide rights to this revolutionary new weight loss secret. He then commissioned Mr. Ridgefield to author the text and ordered a small press run to be printed. This book is not available in any bookstore anywhere in the world. But, you can learn the secret right now by ordering the book direct by mail.

HOW CAN YOU LEARN THE SECRET?

If you wish to learn Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, simply do this: Write "Weight Loss Secret" and your name and address on a piece of paper and send it along with $6.95 in cash, check or money order. (Make checks payable to Consumer Publishing.) If you have Master Charge, BankAmericard, or American Express, you may charge your purchase by sending the following information: A. name of card B. credit card number C. card expiration date.

Mail your order to: CONSUMER PUBLISHING, 401 Market Ave., N., Dept. C–52, Canton, Ohio 44702.

Mr. Voros is personally backing this book with a 100% no risk guarantee. After following the weight loss secret, you must lose all the weight you want, while eating the foods you love. You must feel healthier, happier and look 10 years younger. If this does not happen, or if you are dissatisfied in any way, just send your book back. You'll receive every penny of your money back – no questions asked.

Remember, only a small press run of Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control has been printed. To make sure that you get your copy, why not order right now, while you're thinking about it. If you have any questions, feel free to call me, Joan Woodward, at (216) 455–1474.

Are you still smoking?

In the years since the criticism against smoking first appeared, many people have given up cigarettes. But many more people haven't.

And that's who we'd like to talk to. That even larger group of people who are still smoking today.

If you're still a smoker, you've probably heard the charges leveled against 'tar' and nicotine. You may have become concerned. And chances are you even tried to do something about it. Like trying several of those empty-tasting low 'tar' and nicotine cigarettes.

If you're like a lot of other smokers, you probably went right back to your old brand, and concluded that a good-tasting low 'tar' and nicotine cigarette has never been invented.

Well, if that's the case, you haven't tried Vantage.

Vantage cuts down substantially on the 'tar' and nicotine you may have become concerned about. Without cutting out that satisfying tobacco flavor you've come to appreciate.

Now Vantage isn't the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette you can smoke. But it may well be the lowest you'll enjoy.

To put it simply, Vantage still tastes like a cigarette.

So, if you still smoke, but would like to cut down on 'tar' and nicotine, Vantage is one cigarette you should seriously consider.

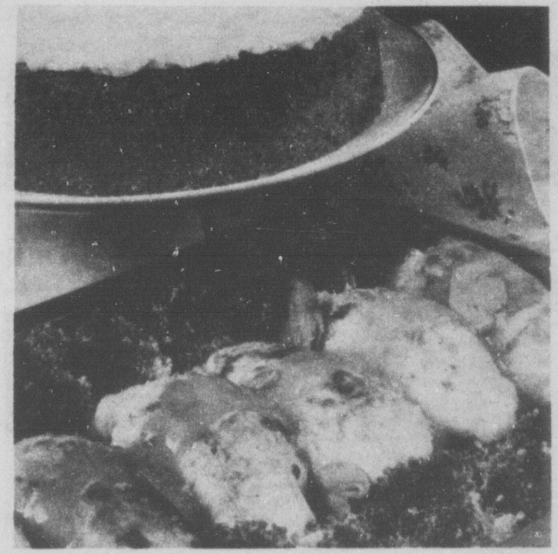
Invite This Chicken to Your Next Party!

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen shares a "company" chicken recipe you can make the day before. Marilyn says, "You just can't beat chicken at a dinner party. Here's a scrumptious boned chicken dish that's appropriate for almost any occasion."



Savory Chicken Roulade surrounded by Broccoli.

Smart Cooking For Special Occasions

HOT CURRIED CHEESE DIP

1 pkg. (8 ozs.) cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons milk
½ cup sour cream
1 jar (2½ ozs.) dried beef, chopped
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
1½ teaspoons curry powder
⅓ cup chopped nuts (walnuts, pecans or peanuts)
Plain crackers
Raw vegetables: celery, carrots, zucchini, cauliflower, mushrooms, etc.

1. In medium bowl, blend together cream cheese and milk until smooth. Add sour cream. Mix well.

2. Add dried beef, onion, green pepper, black pepper and curry powder. Beat at low speed.

3. Spoon mixture into shallow (2-cup) baking dish. Sprinkle with chopped nuts.

4. Cover and refrigerate. Just before serving, uncover and heat in preheated 350° F. oven for 20 minutes.

5. Serve with crackers and vegetables. Makes about 2 cups

SAVORY CHICKEN ROULADE

¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup finely chopped onion
½ cup finely chopped celery
1½ cups coarsely crumbled bacon-flavored crackers
1 jar (2 ozs.) diced pimientos, drained
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 egg, beaten
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
4 large chicken breasts, skinned, boned, split and pounded to ¼-inch thickness
All-purpose flour
¼ cup pure vegetable oil
1 can (10¾ ozs.) golden mushroom soup, undiluted
¼ cup sherry or milk

1. Heat butter in medium saucepan until hot but not smoking. Add onion and celery and sauté for 5 minutes, stirring.

2. Add cracker crumbs, pimientos, parsley, egg, poultry seasoning and black pepper. Mix.

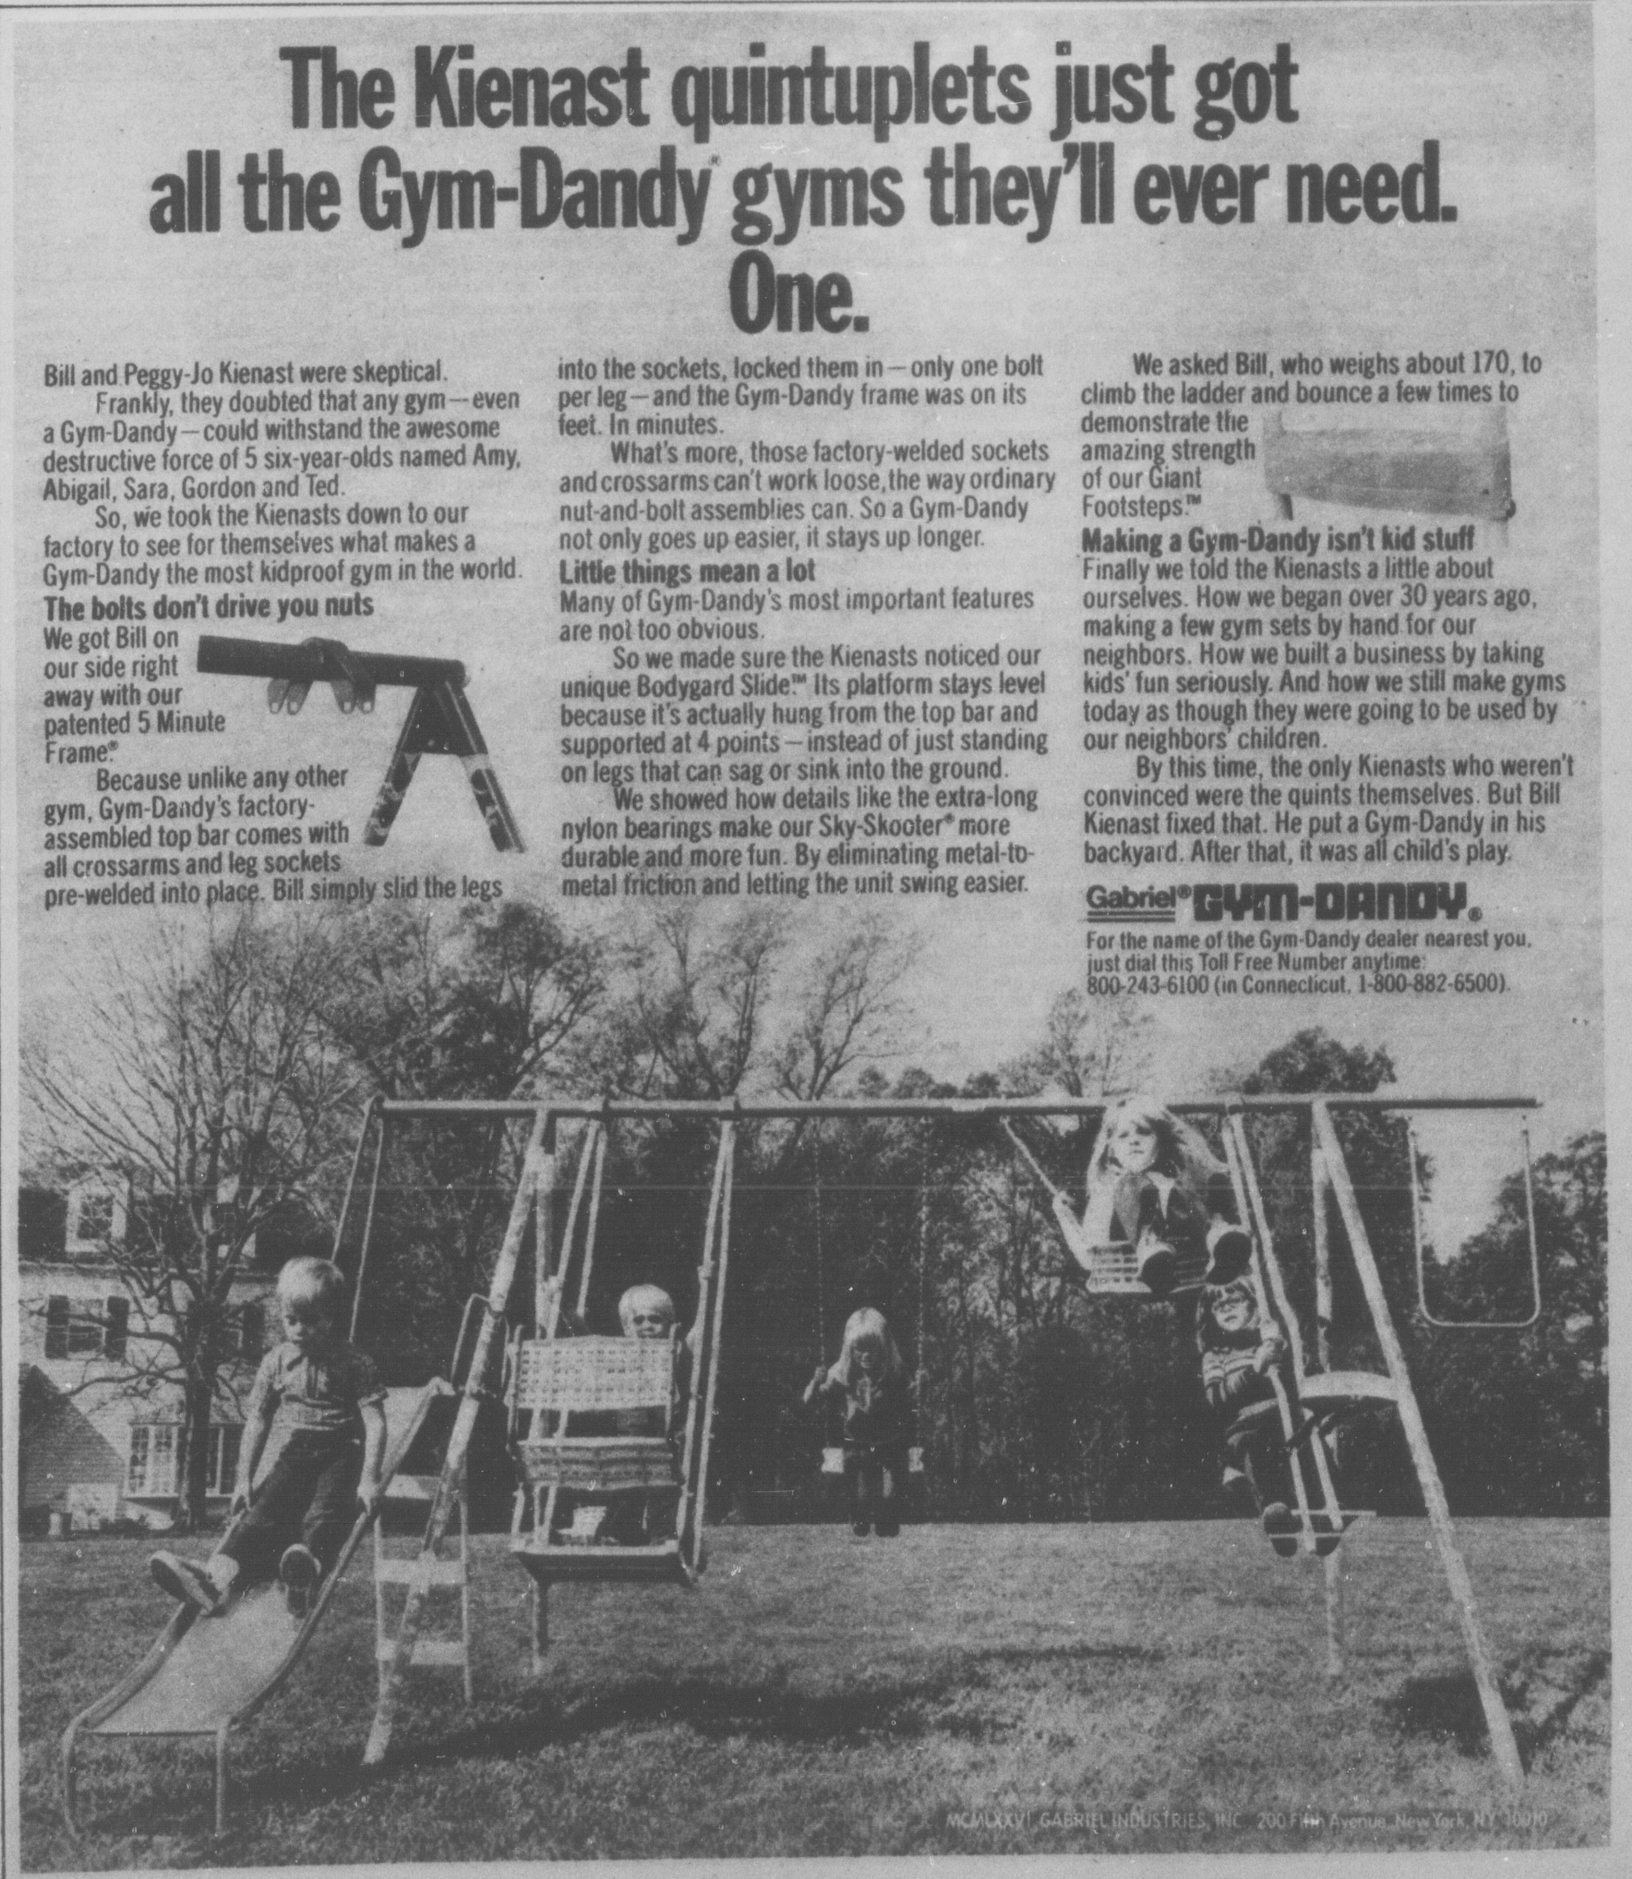
3. Spoon stuffing onto centers of chicken pieces, leaving a ½-inch edge all around. Roll each from narrow end and fasten with wooden picks. Coat lightly with flour.

4. Heat oil in skillet and lightly brown chicken rolls in hot oil.

5. Place chicken rolls in shallow baking dish. Blend golden mushroom soup and sherry until smooth. Pour over chicken rolls. Cover with foil. Refrigerate if not baking immediately.

6. Bake, covered, in preheated 350° F. oven for 45 to 50 minutes.

Makes 4 large servings



The Kienast quintuplets just got all the Gym-Dandy® gyms they'll ever need. One.

Bill and Peggy-Jo Kienast were skeptical.

Frankly, they doubted that any gym—even a Gym-Dandy—could withstand the awesome destructive force of 5 six-year-olds named Amy, Abigail, Sara, Gordon and Ted.

So, we took the Kienasts down to our factory to see for themselves what makes a Gym-Dandy the most kidproof gym in the world.

The bolts don't drive you nuts

We got Bill on our side right away with our patented 5 Minute Frame®

Because unlike any other gym, Gym-Dandy's factory-assembled top bar comes with all crossarms and leg sockets pre-welded into place. Bill simply slid the legs into the sockets, locked them in—only one bolt per leg—and the Gym-Dandy frame was on its feet. In minutes.

What's more, those factory-welded sockets and crossarms can't work loose, the way ordinary nut-and-bolt assemblies can. So a Gym-Dandy not only goes up easier, it stays up longer.

Little things mean a lot

Many of Gym-Dandy's most important features are not too obvious.

So we made sure the Kienasts noticed our unique Bodygard Slide™ Its platform stays level because it's actually hung from the top bar and supported at 4 points—instead of just standing on legs that can sag or sink into the ground.

We showed how details like the extra-long nylon bearings make our Sky-Skooter® more durable and more fun. By eliminating metal-to-metal friction and letting the unit swing easier.

We asked Bill, who weighs about 170, to climb the ladder and bounce a few times to demonstrate the amazing strength of our Giant Footsteps.™

Making a Gym-Dandy isn't kid stuff

Finally we told the Kienasts a little about ourselves. How we began over 30 years ago, making a few gym sets by hand for our neighbors. How we built a business by taking kids' fun seriously. And how we still make gyms today as though they were going to be used by our neighbors' children.

By this time, the only Kienasts who weren't convinced were the quints themselves. But Bill Kienast fixed that. He put a Gym-Dandy in his backyard. After that, it was all child's play.

Jackie's Horoscope shows... super fame and fortune were her destiny!

by Barbara Walthers

JACKIE'S ASTRO-PROFILE

Jackie is probably the world's best known woman. But, like the rest of us, she was born into this world at a time and in a place over which she had no control. However, as shown in her horoscope cast by our astrological research group, fate had great plans for her future. To really get to know Jackie and her fabulous life you've got to read about what her horoscope says.

An astrological research team was recently assembled in Los Angeles to study Jackie's life. They found that at the very minute of her birth, her horoscope predicted, that super-fame and super-fortune were her destiny!

Let's take a look at some of the actual facts revealed by Jackie's horoscope. Jackie's Sun is in Leo, indicating a ruling role in life — and in her adult life she became as close to a queen as an American could get — the First Lady of the land!

In her horoscope, Pluto 18° Cancer, predicts that the men in her life will be connected with the liquid elements. This prediction certainly came true. The late John F. Kennedy was an avid amateur sailor and in the Second World War he first gained national attention for his daring exploits as a P.T. boat captain. And Jackie's second husband, the late and fabulously wealthy Aristotle Onassis, built his legendary fortune by establishing a vast shipping empire.

The planetary aspect Sun Sextile Jupiter in her horoscope shows that public service and publishing are major career interests. She won the Emmy Award for public service and has recently accepted an editorial position with a leading national publishing firm.

Jackie's rising sign is ascendant 28° Scorpio revealing that she loves travel and adventure. And her jet-setting life has been one of the world's most publicized adventures.

Venus 22° Gemini and Jupiter 10° Gemini in her horoscope indicate wealth in the house of partners — and both of Jackie's husbands have been wealthy.

One of the most telling predictions of all was the tragic day of John F. Kennedy's assassination. Transit Mars and Transit Venus were opposite Venus in Jackie's chart indicating grave danger to her husband. Transit Pluto was conjunct to her Mars, a heavy aspect of a dangerous situation in public groups.

HOW ASTROLOGY AFFECTS YOU

Jackie Onassis, of course, is not unique in the uncanny accuracy of her horoscope. Everyone born has a completely personal horoscope that is totally different from that of any other person in the entire world. To illustrate how astrology affects everyone, I'd like to share with you some of the research findings of the Institute for Applied Astrology.

"Hair" the most successful musical of all times had a full time astrologer. He advised them on every single step. He told them when and where to open. He got top credit right along with the writers and the director!

In 1908, an astrologer, John Hazelrig, said that every 20 years, when the Transits of Saturn and Jupiter are conjunct (come together) the President who took office that year would die in office. Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley, Harding, Franklin Roosevelt and Kennedy did exactly that!

Carol Richter is astrologer to Hollywood. Hundreds of the famous have used his Transit astrology. People like Marlene Dietrich, Gloria Swanson, Ronald Colman, Tyrone Power and Danny Kaye. Carol Richter became as astrologer because Evangeline Adams, who was astrologer to Kings, Queens and financiers, told him astrology was his vocation according to the stars.

Hitler was conquering Europe as long as he followed his Horoscope as prepared by Karl E. Kraft. But when Kraft's charts told Hitler it was not the time to turn East to Russia, Hitler fired him. That was the beginning of the end for Hitler. (See Wm. Shirers "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich".)

Countless brilliant scientists, writers and geniuses through the ages have believed in Astrology. Great men like St. Thomas Aquinas, Sir Roger Bacon (father of modern science), Shakespeare, Sir Isaac Newton, Carl Jung, Einstein, and J. P. Morgan have all openly agreed that astrology works!

MODERN SCIENCE PROVES ASTROLOGY WORKS

Recently in France a famous scientist named Michel Gauquelin decided to prove that Astrology was a fake. So he attacked it scientifically! In France the time of birth is on every birth certificate, so he was able to hire Astrologers to cast the horoscopes of 576 famous teachers of medicine. He was astonished to discover that most of them had Mars and Saturn heavily influencing their character! These are the signs that show a natural talent for healing. He refused to believe his own evidence, so he checked the horoscopes of famous lawyers, soldiers, politicians and artists. He found that in every single instance the people that were successful, were "doing what comes naturally" as shown on their astrological charts. Unfortunately the opposite also holds true. The people who fail at their work and in their lives are the ones who do the wrong things. They are square pegs in round holes: they are plumbers who should be doctors, mechanics who should be engineers, etc.

HERE'S HOW ASTROLOGY WORKS

Most people have heard about the rich, famous and successful people who use astrology practically full time, but they still think that astrology is the "fortune cookie" horoscope they read in their daily paper, or the Natal horoscope that they can buy for a few dollars. But this is not true, for astrology is an exact and demanding science.

To prepare a true, in-depth, total personal horoscope for you, an astrologer must first make a chart showing the sun, the moon, and all eight planets as they were at the time and place of your birth. This is where all other computer horoscope companies stop. But that is only half the job.

Next, the astrologer must relate "Transits" to your basic chart. Transits are the changes in the positions of the sun, moon, and planets as they move away from the positions they were in at your birth. And only the Institute for Applied Astrology does this!

When this Total chart is finished it is completely personal, completely different, and completely about you! And the written evaluation is what astrologers call your Total Horoscope. Natal astrology alone is like reading a good book about big game hunting and then going to darkest Africa on your own. "Total" astrology is like having a top professional hunter to help guide you through the jungle. The special knowledge contained in this horoscope can change your life in many wonderful ways. We all know, for example, that while none of us are good at everything, each of us are good at something. Your horoscope will tell you what you're good at. And armed with that knowledge you can forge ahead and be at ease and happy while you do it.

Your horoscope delves deeply into your personality, revealing your hidden talents. It will tell you about the areas where you have ability but may have been uncertain and afraid to try — things like writing or acting, art, sex, leadership, public relations, advertising, athletics, etc.

Think of it this way: you only have one life to live, so why not get everything from it that you can! Why waste your time charging down blind alleys that can easily be avoided? You have a real duty to yourself and to your loved ones to make the most of each precious moment. And your Total horoscope can give you the edge you need to see your opportunities and take advantage of them.

For a limited time only, while the internationally known Institute for Applied Astrology is carrying on its extensive research program, you can get your Total Horoscope for only a duplicating cost. The casting and analyzing are done FREE! The article below tells you how to get your Horoscope. For the sake of your own personal happiness — don't pass up this unique opportunity. It's the kind of new chance for success that comes along only once in each person's life.

Limited Research Program Invitation

WHY WE GIVE YOU THE WORLD'S ONLY TOTAL HOROSCOPE FOR JUST OUR DUPLICATING COST

by Lois Rodden, A.F.A.—P.A.I. Chief Astrologer

There are a lot of computer horoscopes on the market — and most of them are okay as far as they go. But that's just it — they really don't go far enough! Only the Institute for Applied Astrology can prepare your TOTAL HOROSCOPE for you because only we have "transits" stored in our giant computer.

Where the sun, moon and planets happen to be at the time of your birth is what makes up your Natal (birthdate) Horoscope. But that's only the beginning of a TOTAL HOROSCOPE, yet that's all you get from other computer horoscope companies. You see, the sun, moon and planets keep right on moving. They are in Transit. And day after day they keep forming new angles with your birth chart. These Transits show every single important period of your life! And no horoscope that does not include these transits is a TOTAL HOROSCOPE.

Now, for a limited time only, if you will help us with our research program, you can get your own personal TOTAL HOROSCOPE for just a duplicating charge. Since your TOTAL HOROSCOPE must be constructed anyway for our research you may have an exact duplicate copy for only $3.00 to cover our printing cost, plus just 55¢ for postage and handling. The preparation, the casting, and the professional analysis are provided without charge! To join our research program and get your TOTAL HOROSCOPE, here's all you do. Write down your time and place of birth, as exact as possible, on a piece of paper and send it to me. I'll cast and analyze your TOTAL HOROSCOPE as part of our current astrological research program.

Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will run from 14 to 18 pages — up to 10,000 words (three to four times larger than ordinary Natal [birthdate] Horoscopes) — and here are just a few of the important things it will do for you:

1 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will make you know yourself. That means you can make use of your strong points and fight off your weak ones.

2 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will analyze your character in depth giving you psychological facts that some people pay analysts a fortune for.

3 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will give you new insights into the talents and abilities you never before gave yourself credit for having.

4 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will show you how and when to use these talents to open up a better life and future.

5 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will show you how to get along with more people . . . thereby enriching your social, business and sexual life.

The Institute needs your horoscope to help complete our huge research program looking into the practical applications of astrology (Applied Astrology). This research program has been going on for some time and has been presented in COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE, FAMILY WEEKLY MAGAZINE, THE LOS ANGELES TIMES HOME MAGAZINE, THE NATIONAL ENQUIRER, and other papers and periodicals. Right now, for a limited time only, if you help us by providing your birth data, you can benefit by becoming eligible to get horoscopes for yourself and even your family and friends.

Here's all you do—IMPORTANT: PRINT ALL OF THE FOLLOWING INFORMATION CAREFULLY ON A PIECE OF PAPER — IN THIS ORDER — (1) Name; (2) Full Mailing Address; (3) Month / Day / Year / Time of Birth; and (4) City, State and Country of Birth. Send it to us with the $3.00 copying charge and 55¢ for postage and handling, for each person's horoscope you want. Note: If you don't know your exact time of birth use 12:00 noon. You may even charge it to your BankAmericard, Master Charge, or American Express by including the following: (1) Name of Card; (2) Card Number; (3) Card expiration date; (4) Cardholder's Signature.

Mail this material to: THE INSTITUTE FOR APPLIED ASTROLOGY; RESEARCH DIVISION: 6331 Hollywood Blvd., Suite 603, Dept. FW1B Hollywood, California 90028

We will, at no cost to you, feed your birth information into our giant computer. The computer will then calculate your Natal Chart including the sun, moon and planetary aspects. Then it will calculate the transit positions of the heavenly bodies as they move through those positions. Next, it will examine 54 million possibilities in order to create your TOTAL HOROSCOPE! All you pay for your TOTAL HOROSCOPE is the cost of making a copy for you.

Your horoscope is covered by a full one year money back guarantee of complete satisfaction. If you have questions write or call Sanford Richter, (213) 276-2151, Research Director, the Institute for Applied Astrology. Act at once and avoid disappointment. Send for your horoscope before you forget. Thank you.

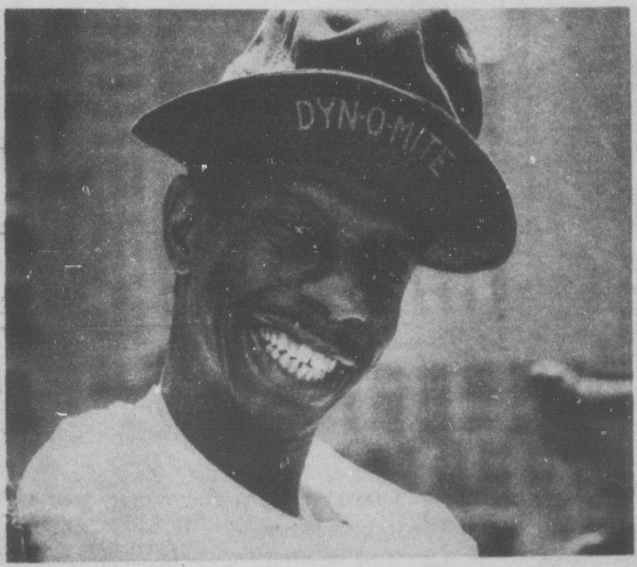
Star Chat

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

TV's Jimmie Walker:

The Restless Young Man Who Lives Inside "J. J."



Elizabeth Gee

"I was a newspaperboy in the South Bronx . . . Everybody should live there one time in his life. It makes you want to get out, so you work harder. You learn to roll with the punches."

Jimmie Walker made a surprisingly low-key entrance into crowded Scandia, one of Los Angeles' best restaurants, and headed for my table in his loose, disjointed walk. He was nattily attired in a flowered shirt with brown accents, jeans and matching suede jacket and cap. A chubby couple stopped him on the way and gushed, "You're that fella who plays 'J.J.' in 'Good Times' on TV! We enjoy you so much!" Jimmie grinned until half his face was just an assortment of teeth. Eventually, he pulled himself away, and soon I found myself face to face with "J.J." himself—the supporting actor who won FAMILY WEEKLY's 1975 Celebrity Poll going away!

FAMILY WEEKLY: How do you like being recognized wherever you go?

JIMMIE: I know it's tired and trite, but I hate my loss of privacy. And signing autographs bugs me. I don't need no ego thing. Some people do, I guess. I don't. I'm not into the celebrity bit. Like coming here: when I walked in that door, they looked at me like I was crazy, and right away they want to know, "Where's your tie?" My tie! Man, I'm used to McDonald's or Taco Bell. You know—grab a burger and split! Jeans 'n' T-shirts do me fine.

FW: I understand you do a lot more than the TV show.

JIMMIE: Yes— I write, and at least once a week I do a club show. I also made a movie and an album, "Dyn-o-mite!"

FW: Do you write your own material?

JIMMIE: Of course. I couldn't afford to do it any other way! I'm writing other scripts as well. I did one for "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and a "Movie of the Week." Nobody's bought them yet, but I'm hopin'.

FW: How do you think of yourself—as a comedian, actor or writer?

JIMMIE: First as a comedian. Then, moving apart, is the writer. But I'm not an actor! I do the part of J.J. like I was in a nightclub. I react. That's not acting.

FW: Have you always wanted to be a comedian?

JIMMIE: I didn't want to be a comedian! At first I wanted to be a disk jockey until I found out I didn't have the talent for it. Then I wanted to be a network newscaster, but I didn't have the timing or the background to do that.

FW: So how did you end up a comedian?

JIMMIE: I was doing this paper for my oratory class at City College in New York, and I made up some things and attributed them to Dick Gregory, figuring if they didn't go over, he'd get the blame. But they liked the stuff. So I sat down and figured it out: if you're funny, you're funny whether it's for three or 300 or 3,000.

FW: Did you ever have to be funny for just three people?

JIMMIE: I did for Jack Paar—on my first interview! He said, "Everyone keeps telling us you're funny. All right, go ahead: be funny." When I finished, I had them lying on the floor. The next day he asked me if I was ready to go on national TV, and I said, "I've been ready for four years!"

FW: What was your first job?

JIMMIE: I was a newspaper delivery boy in the South Bronx. I'll tell you something: everybody should live there one time in his life. It makes you want to get out, so you work harder. You learn to roll with the punches. Rich kids don't have to. Look at Dino and Desi [Dino is the son of Dean Martin and Desi, the son of Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz]: millionaires by the time they're 21, and they haven't anything they really want to do. They have a house, cars, chicks—what do they need? Nothing. No drive.

FW: How old are you?

JIMMIE: Old enough. (Editor's note: He's reported to be 26.)

FW: How do you feel about being in a successful TV series?

JIMMIE: It's advantageous to my career, makes people aware of me. Also, it gives me a lot of money.

FW: How do you get along with your co-stars?

JIMMIE: All right I guess. They're all actors, I'm the only one from night clubs.

FW: You seem to be quite an extrovert.

King of Sweden

houses. The food is the same."

Q: "Can you go out freely?"

A: "Oh yes."

Q: "What would you do if you weren't King?"

A: "I have thought about that. I would like to be a farmer."

Q: "Tell us about your planned visit to America."

A: "I'll be there a month, seeing the country, especially the Swedish people who have settled there in Minnesota and other states. They're excited that I'm coming—they send me letters inviting me to stay with them, or to visit their home or their church."

Finally, one of the journalists said: "Your Majesty, even though I am embarrassed to ask this, I must . . . . What do you eat for breakfast?"

The King looked completely taken aback, sure he was being put on. "Well, I—I don't know," he said. "Continental breakfast (rolls and coffee). I don't like a big English breakfast."

When it was my turn to meet the King alone, I was really nervous. I walked into the room, sat down on my chair, and said, "I must tell you I'm terrified. Is there anything you'd like to ask me?"

The King gave a flirtatious smile. "I'd better not," he said, "because it might be something rude." We both smiled at each other, and then he asked, "What kind of books do you write?"

I tried to describe my novels, which is difficult for any author to do. "Well, they're about modern life, changing values and morals, men and women, and love."

I asked him if he liked to read.

"Yes, but I don't read so much because I read late at night and I fall asleep over what I am reading."

"What do the young people of Sweden think of you?" I asked.

"I think they like me. When I go out they recognize me, and if they've had a few drinks, they come up to me on the street and bang me on the back and say: 'Hey, King, come along with us!' "

"The time is up," Mortenson said, looking at his watch.

"But I should add," the King went on, "that the Swedish people are very shy, and they have to have a drink before they can come up to me."

We all had our pictures taken in the other room, and the King seemed more relaxed, smiling and joking. We said goodbye to him then; and when we left, I looked back at that enormous stone palace and wondered if the King was lonely. I imagined him putting on blue jeans, playing some records, calling up some friends, maybe even jumping into his little blue sports car and speeding away if there were enough time before the banquet.

It didn't seem to be much fun to be King, at least not in 1976. fw

Have you ever been intimidated?

JIMMIE: Not intimidated, but I like to stay alone. I'm a loner.

FW: Have you ever thought of going back to finish college?

JIMMIE: Yeah, once, a long time ago. But I changed my mind. Decided to write and got into show business instead, and now look—I'm here in Scandia!

FW: How do you write—long hand, on a typewriter, or what?

JIMMIE: I think it! I just tell my secretary or rap into the tape recorder.

FW: How do you create your night club routines?

JIMMIE: I work with a tape recorder. I get out on stage and start rapping. The next night I use what was good the night before and rap some more. By the end of the week, if I'm lucky, I've got two or three minutes, and I put them into my act.

FW: Why do you keep doing one-night stands even when you're so busy?

JIMMIE: I like them! I like the energy of it! It's you! If you bomb, you bomb. I like getting out there and battling with the people. That's why I play a lot of colleges and universities. That's the arena. They're open to ideas.

FW: What do you want out of life?

JIMMIE: To be a headliner. Really draw people in. And write some good stuff.

FW: When you have time off and can do anything at all, what do you do?

JIMMIE: Lie in bed, sleep, watch TV. Gimme some orange juice and waffles, I can lie in bed two, three days.

FW: If you could start over again, what would you change?

JIMMIE: I'd try harder to think of a way not to be recognized. Unfortunately, I've got a face that there aren't too many like. fw

REVEALED...China's 2000 Year Old Health Secrets!

ACUPRESSURE MADE EASY

USES NO NEEDLES--ONLY YOUR FINGER TIPS

So simple! Anyone can do it!

SAFE! EASY! FAST!

Now you too can start using this mysterious health ritual of the orient—in one hour flat!

From Ancient China comes news of one of the world's oldest healing arts — ACUPRESSURE. This highly revered healing system has been used continuously in China for some 2,000 years, with claims of blissful, symptomatic relief from many painful ailments. Still used today in China and Japan, it is similar to acupuncture — but no needles are stuck into the skin. You simply use your finger-tips. All this is explained in a remarkable little book that enables you to enjoy ACUPRESSURE right in your own home. So simple! Even a school child can understand the plain English instructions. Scores of pictures show which points to press for each ailment. As safe as a drink of water. You can do it yourself anywhere . . . anytime — day or night. Each pressure point treatment takes only a few minutes. And it costs nothing for medicinals, special equipment or medical fees, because, after all, you just use your own finger-tips.

DRAMATIC RESULTS REPORTED FROM ORIENT

This manual relates of dramatic results claimed by Chinese Acupressure therapists . . . of blessed relief obtained from countless ailments as simple as tension headaches or as serious as hypertension . . . of desperate cases for whom drugs and special equipment had failed completely. Yet when these methods were tried, they experienced thrilling success.

Many Americans scoff at all this. How, they ask, can someone get relief from arthritis pain, just by finger-tip pressure on certain parts of the skin? To Western minds this seems unbelievable. But doctors in the Ear East don't scoff! They give these simple treatments to their own patients, claiming amazing results. Today, certain American doctors, nurses and physiotherapists aren't laughing any more. They are taking these olden Chinese healing arts seriously. Important studies and research are going on. Some doctors are even traveling to the Far East, eager to learn more. Naturally, it will take years before their studies are completed. Meantime you don't have to wait, nor do you have to be a doctor. You can actually start using this ancient healing system in less than one hour after receiving the easy-to understand book, ACUPRESSURE MADE EASY.

HOW DOES ACUPRESSURE WORK?

Doctors don't know what makes ACUPRESSURE work, just as they don't know for sure why certain miracle drugs relieve pain, reduce fever, and knock out killer diseases. But they do know that the human body is the greatest miracle of all — greater than any machine or medicine ever discovered. They know that deep-down within us, we have powerful, living micro-organisms that "diagnose" disease invaders, track them down and destroy them. But every now and then, it seems these defense micro-organisms may need a little outside stimulus to regain their fighting strength. Perhaps ACUPRESSURE does just that, helping these organisms to fight diseases and relieve pain. However, you can be sure of this: ACUPRESSURE absolutely cannot cause the bad side effects of certain powerful but dangerous drugs. Besides, ACUPRESSURE does not interfere with any treatment prescribed by a doctor — now or in the future.

TENSION RELIEF

We all know how deadly tensions can be . . . how miserable stresses and strains make us feel . . . how they interfere with our work and marital happiness . . . how they make restful sleep almost impossible. Now ACUPRESSURE offers you an alternative to pill-popping. This book shows exactly where and how to apply finger pressure for refreshing relief — without drugs.

ENJOY 30 DAY FREE TRIAL

Read and enjoy ACUPRESSURE MADE EASY for a full month — without risk or obligation. See how utterly simple it is to understand and follow this 2,000 year old Chinese art . . . how you can start using this safe, finger-tip method within one hour after your book arrives! You must be satisfied and thrilled in every way. Otherwise return it and get your money back promptly and without question. Please rush coupon below to ensure prompt delivery of your copy. Address:

What in the World!

Franz Furst

Pictures of Adolf Hitler in unguarded moments were rare; This is one of several recently found and made available to the press.

Few unposed pictures were ever taken of Adolf Hitler because Josef Goebbels, the propagandist who created the Führer myth, felt that Hitler should never look vulnerable unless he was being photographed kissing children (thousands of those shots were taken during his dictatorship). Hitler's vanity was such that no public photographs were to be taken when he was wearing his eyeglasses. Only his mistress Eva Braun was allowed to photograph him in relaxed moments. Never quite sure of his social position—his tastes in art and furniture ran to well-endowed nudes and heavy baroque—Hitler liked to think that he was a member of the upper class. Goebbels thought Hitler's middle-class values were his biggest asset, according to a new biography ("Goebbels," by Viktor Reimann): "Goebbels had in Hitler the ideal type to inspire a population because all characteristics of the masses combined in the Führer. He was moody, brutal, unpredictable, hysterical, cruel and barbaric. But he was also sentimental and capable of self-sacrifice, and therefore better than anyone else at seducing and intoxicating the crowd. He was part of them, he virtually merged with them physically; the masses could practically feel they were being saved. Many confessed to a feeling of paralysis in his presence."

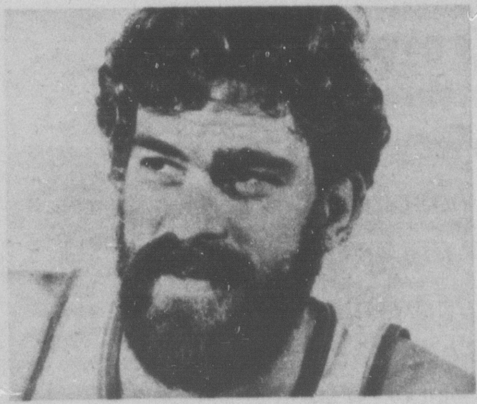
MELISSA MANCHESTER
For adults only

Melissa Manchester, 23-year-old singer-songwriter, on the lifelong struggle of the musical artist: "Contrary to public opinion, we're not one big happy family. The weird people can really get to you after a while. There are so many people who flock to this business because they think it will be one big party. Most of us started out with the same romantic notions. We wanted to do something special since the age of 5. We all performed for our families. Our egos are such that we were willing to go through the worst of times to get what we wanted, which we thought was the opposite of the 9-to-5, two-cars-in-every-garage existence. But then, even after you've 'made it' in this business, you continue to pay your dues. You still have no time to yourself, and your sense of privacy is lost forever. Becoming a celebrity doesn't really change you, only people's reactions to you. Watching those reactions has brought out my survival instincts—I worry about what I'll be left with when all the fuss is over." Melissa's latest record is "Better Days and Happy Endings."



PHIL JACKSON
Why athletes can't be "friends"

The gangly New York Knick, Phil Jackson, explains why competition on the court leaves no room for friendships off the court with teammates: "Bill Russell once stated that he never had a friend on the Celtics. That's the norm in the NBA. There's an air of competitivesness there which seems to permeate all personal dealings that players have with each other. They are competing against their teammates for playing time, publicity, money and sometimes favor with the coach. What usually develops is that each player forms his own private sphere of personal influence. I've never seen Walt Frazier and Earl Monroe together at the same social function, for instance. That doesn't mean they don't like each other; it's just the way it is and has always been. Ballplayers relate best on the basketball court. That's where they can get along without any kind of verbal communication. One of the joys of being an athlete is knowing someone quite well without having to sit down and talk." From "Maverick: More Than a Game," by Phil Jackson with Charles Rosen (Playboy Press, $9.95).

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY

GONE FOR BAD

I had a shock just a moment ago,
My heart, I was sure, was stopping.
I'd looked for my wife and called,
but oh,
She'd gone. Said her note:
"Gone shopping."

It wasn't her being gone I feared.
I knew she'd be back in time.
It was that "Gone shopping" that
stabbed and speared
And led me to write this rhyme.

"Gone shopping" is full of doom
and distress,
Which is why I was almost crying.
I couldn't be sure, but I had to guess
What she really meant was
"I'm buying."

disability income benefits can be provided when a covered sickness or accident keeps you from working.

Our figures show that you're seven times more likely to be laid up at home than in the hospital. That could leave an awful lot of bills unpaid if your health insurance covers you only in the hospital. Mutual of Omaha thinks you need protection at home, too . . . and does something about it.

With this plan, the family income can be protected during and after hospitalization . . . protected even if you never go to the hospital. And, in addition, if you never get sick, never get hurt, every cent you pay in premiums will be refunded when your policy matures at age 65.

Mutual of Omaha guarantees that you'll collect at least as much as you've paid in when you keep your policy in force to age 65. If you do receive benefits, and they total less than you've paid in at age 65, you then collect the difference. If you've never received benefits, you get a 100% refund . . . every penny you've paid in.

As a breadwinner, man or woman, married or single, you can select the amount you qualify for (from $100.00 to $1,200.00 a month . . . up to $40.00 a day) to help replace your paychecks when a covered sickness or accident keeps you from working. These monthly disability income benefits are payable over and above any benefits you receive for hospital and medical bills. They are yours to spend as you please for any purpose you choose . . . yours to use for every kind of bill.

THERE ARE SEVEN REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD CONSIDER THIS MUTUAL OF OMAHA PLAN

1. You may qualify for a plan that can provide up to $1,200.00 monthly income benefits (up to $40.00 a day) to spend as you see fit if you're sick or hurt and

Patricia Hearst found guilty

PATRICIA HEARST
Convicted of bank robbery

Sentencing set for April 19

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst, a kidnap victim who swore tearfully that she committed crimes only to avoid death, was found guilty of armed bank robbery Saturday by jurors who did not believe her story.

Now a convicted bank robber, the 22-year-old heiress to a vast publishing fortune could be sentenced to a maximum of 35 years in prison. But the minimum sentence could be as little as simple probation. She was impassive as the verdict was read in a hushed courtroom.

"Oh, my God!" gasped Catherine Hearst, who had begged so often for her daughter's return from the terrorist underground and took the witness stand to defend her as a "warm and loving girl."

Miss Hearst's sisters wept openly, but the auburn-haired, pale Miss Hearst remained dryeyed.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter, the white-haired jurist who said at the outset it would be the most widely covered trial in the country, set sentencing for April 19 and pronounced the verdict "well within the evidence."

Two hours after the verdict was delivered, she was taken back to the San Mateo County jail where she has been held since her capture six months ago.

The jury of seven women and five men returned its verdict at 4:45 p.m. PST after deliberating 12 hours in two days. The case went to the panel on Friday, eight weeks after the trial began.

F. Lee Bailey, the famed criminal attorney who came from Boston to design an elaborate and expensive defense for Miss Hearst, blanched at the sound of the word "guilty." He said he would appeal the conviction and denounced the verdict as a fulfillment of the predictions by Miss Hearst's terrorist captors.

He said the tiny Symbionese Liberation Army that kidnaped her two years ago had told her "she would find a very harsh society."

The seven women and five men were convinced that Miss Hearst was the foulmouthed bank robber portrayed by her prosecutor in the eight-week trial, not the helpless victim painted by the defense.

They rejected her anguished account of rape, torture and coercion at the hands of the revolutionary band she joined in bank robbery two months after her kidnaping.

The jurors were somber as they were polled individually on their verdict.

"Is this your verdict?" asked the clerk of each panelist by name. "Yes," each answered firmly.

They refused to comment to news media about their decision.

Miss Hearst's parents went into seclusion immediately after the verdict.

Miss Hearst, who strode into court quickly, sat facing jurors and did not turn to see her family until nearly the end of the 15-minute proceedings. She turned and looked at them wistfully, then turned away, conferred briefly with her attorney.

The jury had been escorted out of the courtroom by the time the doors were unlocked and reporters began their stampede to telephones. The panelists, who had been urged by the judge to meet with the press, declined to have a news conference and went instead to the hotel where they had been sequestered.

Pleased with trial verdict—prosecutor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The guilty verdict returned against Patricia Hearst was "entirely proper, and I'm very pleased with it," her prosecutor said Saturday.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. said the verdict shows "that our criminal justice system works well."

Browning praised his courtroom opponent, F. Lee Bailey, for providing a "fine defense," and he thanked his own staff.

Browning said he was not surprised that the jury handed down its decision in only 12 hours. "I believed the jury would return a guilty verdict, but it could have gone either way," he said.

Browning said at a news conference he did not believe the trial had been a political one. "I see it as a bank robbery trial," he said.

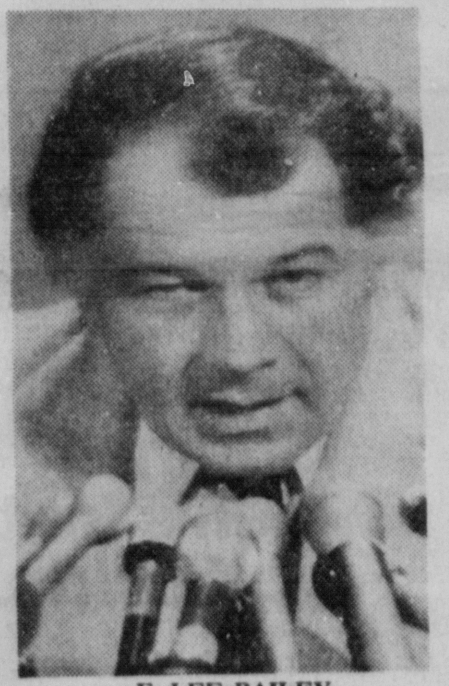
"Quite frankly, if the jury had acquitted her, I was going to tell you this was a case that had to be tried ... there was no vengeance involved," he said, noting that a grand jury had indicted the newspaper heiress on the charges of armed bank robbery and use of a firearm to commit a felony.

The prosecutor said he had "nothing but sympathy" for the Hearst family. "I have children of my own. I think Patricia Hearst can straighten herself out and I hope she does so."

The most crucial witnesses in the government's case included Zig Berzin, a Vietnam veteran who testified that Miss Hearst was carrying spare ammunition on the day of the holdup, and a psychiatrist, Dr. Joel Fort, who said she was a willing robber, Browning said.

"I'm delighted with the verdict because I think he (Fort) has been vindicated by it. There were some terrible things said about him during the trial ..."

JAMES BROWNING JR.



F. LEE BAILEY

Patty wondered if she had a chance

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst's defense attorney said Saturday the newsaper heiress had "wondered if she ever had a chance" at acquittal.

F. Lee Bailey sat puffing on a cigarette as he faced reporters with fellow defense lawyer Albert Johnson following Miss Hearst's conviction on a federal bank robbery charge.

"She was quite disappointed," Bailey said of Miss Hearst's reaction. "She wondered if she ever had a chance ... I'm surprised at the combination of a quick verdict and a guilty verdict."

Asked if there was anything he would like to have done differently, Bailey said, "I can't think of anything offhand ... both (U.S. Atty. James L.) Browning and I went all out."

He said Miss Hearst was hurt most by some of the judge's rulings to allow admission of certain documents and testimony about her "missing year," especially the time spent in Sacramento during the last year of her 19 months underground.

"I can't think of anything that hurt her more than (having to take) the 5th Amendment and certain documents including a list of banks and ... instructions on how to make bombs ..." he said.

Bailey declined to speculate about the jury's thinking, but Johnson injected, "The jury may have felt the accumulation of the evidence was overwhelming."

Others take grim satisfaction

Numbing grief for the Hearsts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The guilty verdict against Patricia Hearst on Saturday hit her family and sympathizers with numbing grief, while others whose lives she had touched took grim satisfaction at the outcome of her bank robbery trial.

Elsewhere, authorties speculated on future legal action in the wide ranging case, including additional charges against Miss Hearst and others linked with her as a kidnap victim-turned criminal.

As the verdict was read in the federal courtroom here, Miss Hearst's youngest sister, Ann, seated next to her parents in the front row of spectators' seats, clasped a hand to her forehead and wept.

Randolph Hearst, the defendant's father, appeared frozen with shock. He furrowed his brow and sat perfectly still.

Tears coursed down the cheek of Miss Hearst's mother, Catherine Hearst, moments after she heard the verdict.

Another Hearst daughter, Vicki, seated in the spectator section, doubled over and sobbed.

Her brother-in-law, Jay Bosworth, put a comforting arm around her and placed his other arm on the shoulder of his wife, Gina, Miss Hearst's eldest sister, who sat in stunned silence.

The Hearst family later went into seclusion and had no immediate comment on the verdict.

In the hushed courtroom, spectators gasped as the verdict was read. There were tears from many defense supporters — but also from a government employe, U.S. Marshal Janey Jiminez, who had guarded Miss Hearst throughout the trial.

Bailey's partner, Al Johnson, bowed his head, and members of the large defense team appeared stunned. They looked at each other and shook their heads from side to side.

Emily Harris' lawyer, Leonard Weinglass, said Miss Hearst's conviction "vindicates the position we have taken all along.

"She turned her back on people and chose to go the route of wealth and power and deception," he said. "She wrongfully accused her friends (the Harrises) and slandered her dead lover and vilified the political organization she chose to join."

Dr. Louis Jolyon West, a defense psychiatrist whose reports were credited by Miss hearst's lawyers as providing a blueprint for the defense, told reporters, "I feel bad about the outcome and regretful. I am not an emotional character, but from my point of view there was more information the jury could have become acquainted with."

Tornadoes kill 2; many injured

By The Associated Press

Tornadoes ripped through towns and farm country in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Louisiana and Arkansas on Saturday, killing at least two persons and injuring an undetermined number of others, authorities said.

In Michigan, the Oakland County sheriff's office said a tornado slammed into a residential area in West Bloomfield township and struck a number of businesses, including a restaurant where dozens of patrons inside were injured.

Authorities estimated that at least 100 persons were injured in that area of Michigan, but hospitals reported treating only about 25 persons for minor injuries.

The two persons killed were reported to have been in a car when the twister struck.

Victims told hospital officials the tornado cut a swath through a residential subdivision in West Bloomfield and then struck a business district.

"It's a disaster. The civil defense is on the scene," said a sheriff's deputy.

In Kilbourne, La., a tornado demolished the general store, jumped across the state line into Arkansas and injured nearly 20.

"This has pretty well swept us out," said Mrs. C. E. Majors, who lives across from this village of about 370 in extreme northeast Louisiana. "There's quite a bit of destruction here. To look over there and see most of the town gone is just awful."

Police reported no fatalities, but said there were about 15 injuries when two stores here were destroyed. Eight others were injured in Eudora, Ark.

First coed admitted to Claremont Men's College

Claremont Men's College has admitted a 17-year-old Colorado coed as the first women student in the school's 30-year history, officials reported Saturday.

Kathleen Evans of Lakewood, an honor student at Wheat Ridge High School, is the first of about 50 women who will enroll in September.

She is set on becoming a mining engineer.

The school's trustees decided in 1975 to accept women.

College spokesman Tom Hall said that with so many women going into business and government now it was thought prudent to offer training in public affairs to women students.

Miss Evans, daughter of a mining engineer, will enter a five-year management-engineering program. She plans to transfer to Colorado School of Mines after three years of engineering training.

Private nursing homes scored

Mentally ill living in hunger, slum housing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new government report says some mentally ill patients in private nursing homes are living with hunger, cockroaches, leaking roofs, exposed electrical wires and doors made of cardboard and burlap.

The report released by the Senate subcommittee on long-term care and programs particularly scrutinized New York and Illinois. Senate investigators said private homes were found wanting in both states.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, chairman of the panel, said the conditions were being fostered by government policy that provides a financial incentive to move patients from public institutions into private-care facilities.

"I have seen hungry people with their faces up against vending machines begging for a quarter," Moss said. "I saw three patients cooking eggs on a hotplate in their room while breakfast was being served in the dining room. I learned that they had bought the eggs with money they had received from begging."

Moss claimed mental patients "are a good investment" in New York as well as in Illinois.

He offered case histories of several private operations, including one in Illinois where the operator housed 180 mental patients who were transferred from public care facilities. The operator received $400,000 a year and managed to keep $185,000 as profit. Moss said the operator spent only 54 cents per patient per day for food.

"He (the operator) defended this profit, telling us it was below industry expectations," Moss said.

Moss laid part of the blame on Congress and the Social Security Act, including the Supplemental Security Income program.

In 1935, when it approved Social Security, Moss said, Congress barred Social Security funds for residents of public institutions. But if boarded in a private home they could receive the money.

In this same way, Moss continued, Congress barred receipt of SSI funds by individuals in public institutions and cut SSI funds by a third for individuals under the care of and living with relatives.

The result, Moss said, was an incentive to leave public institutions for private-care facilities. The same law provided financial incentive for states to move patients into private homes, transferring the cost of caring for a patient to the federal level.

The report says the number of patients in state mental hospitals has dropped 44 per cent from 427,799 to 237,692 between 1969 and 1974.

"The saddest thing is that more often than not patients have been placed in slum housing and forgotten," Moss said. "In some cases, so many discharged patients have been placed in particular areas of our major cities that they have become instant psychiatric ghettos."

Patients in many of these private institutions are confronted with poor care and abuse, deliberate physical abuse and unsanitary conditions.

He claimed also they face poor food, high incidence of theft, inadequate control on drugs, fire hazards, reprisal if they complain about conditions, use of restraints and lack of activities and recreation.

"The reason that this scandal has not been discovered up to now is that ... most states have hidden the problem because of their complicity in moving thousands of patients into such facilities to save money," Moss said.

"The federal government, which is writing the checks, up to now has shown no sign of being aware or even interested in this problem. The operators of these for-profit boarding homes continue to rake in the money while looking nervously over their shoulders at speculative investors considering getting into the game."

He said that "unless the federal government acts quickly, we will be confronted with a full grown, entrenched industry with its full complement of lobbyists, at which time we will be forever saddled with a for-profit boarding home industry and any real reform will be very difficult."

Panama Canal sitout ends

BALBOA, Panama Canal Zone (AP) — Panama Canal employes agreed to end a sick-out Saturday afternoon after the Canal Zone governor agreed to modify wage freezes and work toward some form of collective bargaining.

Gov. Harold R. Parfitt said pilots and tugboat operators who had been calling in sick would return to work immediately to begin moving a backlog of more than 175 ships through the 50-mile canal.

The illegal job action began Monday and all but paralyzed the canal, reducing traffic from an average of 30-35 ships a day to no more than five or six.

Ships were reported waiting at anchor as much as 10 miles from the Atlantic and Pacific ends of the canal, and another 37 vessels were expected to arrive within 24 hours, officials said.

"I think we will be back in full operation by nightfall," Parfitt said late Saturday afternoon. "We plan to put 37 ships in the canal Sunday and have the backlog cleared up and be back in normal operation within three to four weeks."

Parfitt agreed to some of the workers' demands after a meeting with representatives of the Panama Canal Pilots Association, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, the Central Labor Union — Metal Trades Council, and the National Maritime Union.

The unions have had no collective bargaining and strikes on the canal are prohibited by federal law. Parfitt said there would be no reprisals against the employes who called in sick.

Parfitt has maintained that an underlying reason for the work stoppage was the secret negotiations for a new Panama Canal treaty. Employes are apparently worried that the new wage scales are aimed at eventually replacing many of them with local workers as part of the negotiations. The new treaty with Panama is expected to reduce U.S. control over the Canal Zone.

Incorporation talks continue

A meeting on the possible incorporation of three communities will be held Monday in the Alta Loma Junior High School Library, 9000 Lemon Ave., Alta Loma beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The discussions will center on the continuing efforts to incorporate the San Bernardino County areas of Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda. The public is invited.

Upland Council discusses refuse

The Upland City Council will discuss the proposal of contracting for the collection of refuse by a private firm at a special meeting Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the City Hall.

The city presently operates its own collection and disposal service as a part of city services. The proposal would contract collection and disposal of refuse in the city out to a private firm after calling for bids.

The council will consider the recommendations of the Mayor's Advisory Committee and all interested persons at the hearing.

LVC conducts yoga program

Enrollment for beginning and intermediate Hatha yoga is underway at La Verne College.

Registrations are presently being taken for men and women in a 10-week program beginning Monday. The program includes physical fitness exercises with an emphasis on flexibility, relaxation and diet.

The weely sessions for beginners will run from 6:30 to 8 p.m. and the intermediate sessions will run from 8 to 9:30 p.m., under the supervision of Diane Arroyo.

Miss Arroyo has taught yoga for several years and has received a certificate degree in yoga teacher training at Spa Rio Caliente, Mexico.

A registration fee of $15 is required.

Rowland Adult School begins

Rowland Adult School is accepting registrations in all classes for the spring term which starts Monday.

Upholstery classes have been expanded. Students now may attend from 8 a.m. to noon, Monday through Thursday; 6:30 to 10 p.m., Monday through Thursday; or Saturday from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Instruction includes home furniture upholstery and automotive interiors. Classes are taught at 1040 Otterbein Road.

Other classes taught at that location include parent-child observation and decorative arts and crafts for the home.

Additional information regarding spring term classes may be obtained by calling the adult school at 965-5975.

Strite speaks on back pains

Laban Strite, staff psychologist and director of Casa Colina Hospital's Chronic Back Pain Management Program, will address the hospital auxiliary meeting Monday.

His topic will be "Everything You've Always Wanted To Know About Back Pain — But Were Afraid To Ask."

Strite served as a school psychologist and had a private practice before joining the staff at Casa Colina.

Luncheon will begin at 11:30 a.m. at the hospital. Reservations may be made by calling the Casa Colina Gift Shop, 593-7521, ext. 270.

AMBITIOUS HISTORY WALKER

Cesar Goncalves of Pomona was determined to have plenty of company Saturday when he participated in the Pomona Valley Historical Society's annual walk for history. As Goncalves left Pomona Civic Center to begin the 12-mile route he carried his two-year-old granddaughter, Shawna Williams, and was led by a pair of four-footed walkers setting a brisk pace.

Phantom funds lead to suspicion of minister candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A minister seeking $100,000 in federal funds for his presidential campaign submitted records listing contributors who never heard of him, bills from an apparently nonexistent printing firm and other suspect data.

The Rev. Donald L. Jackson of Buffalo, N.Y., filed the material with the Federal Election Commission this month. The FEC has certified more than $11 million this year to 14 presidential primary candidates.

Commission staff members are making preliminary checks before starting the detailed audit which is routine before a candidate can be certified for matching funds.

To qualify for the money, a candidate must raise $5,000 in individual contributions of $250 or less in each of 20 states — a total of $100,000.

The only nonpolitician to qualify so far is Ellen McCormack, an antiabortion candidate who has run in several primaries and so far gained one delegate to the Democratic National Convention.

Jackson's filing first aroused suspicion among persons who examined it because virtually all of the contributions were for exactly $250, because totals listed for a number of the states were exactly $5,300, and because contributions from any one state were generally all received the same day.

The Associated Press checked a series of listed contributors in New Jersey.

Edward P. Olszewski of 117 Talmadge Ave., Bound Brook, was listed for a $250 donation Feb. 24. Mrs. Albert F. Olszewski of 115 Talmadge Ave. said there was no Edward in her family, that no one in the house had donated to Jackson, and that the house at 117 Talmadge had burned down last year.

Paul Chester of 254 Penn Ave., Nixon, N.J., was also listed for $250 on Feb. 24. Mrs. Paul Chester of 250 Penn Ave. said "we haven't contributed and I don't know of any other Chesters." She said there was no 254 Penn Ave.

Audry Kiamme of 108 Retford Ave., Cranford, N.J., was listed for another $250 on Feb. 24. David Kiamie of 208 Retford Ave. said there was no other family by that name in the vicinity and "no money like that for contributions in this house."

Responses were similar from others as the pattern of slightly varied names and addresses continued.

Virtually every donor's occupation was listed simply as "worker." One man contacted on a basis of the list told a reporter no one in his household had been able to find work for a year.

Federal law requires specific occupations and business address of contributors to be listed.

In a letter to the FEC, Jackson said "many of these donations are from members of the John Birch Society, who do not like people to know their name."

Jackson's report claimed he raised $110,931 during February and spent $111,640.

His asserted expenditures included $65,000 for mailing 500,000 letters. A postal official in Buffalo said it could not be determined whether or not such a first-class mailing had taken place.

Jackson also listed $32,642 in printing bills from "J" Publishing Co., 494 Masten Ave., Buffalo.

That address is a long-vacant house in a deteriorating neighborhood, according to a city directory and the Buffalo police.

No such business registered its name as required either with the Erie County court clerk or the sales tax collection office of the State of New York.

Attempts to reach Jackson at a telephone number listed on his campaign literature failed.

The new federal election law makes it unlawful to furnish any false, fictitious, or fraudulent evidence, books or information to the Federal Election Commission in connection with matching fund payments. The maximum penalty is a $10,000 fine and five years in prison.

Violations of other reporting requirements are punishable by a fine of up to $1,000 or up to one year imprisonment.

Jackson had earlier appeared in Washington to announce his candidacy. In his literature he describes himself as 49, a registered Democrat and "a poor Black American, who will have much to say for the poor and the unemployed."

He claims a correspondence school law degree but in his platform says "there are too many lawyers in government."

Listing his experience, he said he "was president of Jackson Educational foundation, president of two real estate corp. Operated a radio station briefly. Can type 60 words per minute."

Relations with employes worsen in Postal Service economy drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service's economy drive appears to have worsened relations with its employes while slowing down spiraling costs.

Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar has virtually stopped hiring new employes. This and other cost-cutting measures have had these results:

—Letter carriers have announced grievances in more than 100 cities over unfilled vacancies.

—The American Postal Workers Union has begun picketing the Detroit post office in protest of new personnel policies.

—Postmasters and supervisory employes have sued the Postal Service over their pay levels.

"Morale is very low," said James H. Rademacher, president of the 200,000-member National Association of Letter Carriers.

"When vacancies remain unfilled, the other people must absorb the work. This has a very detrimental effect on people," he said in an interview.

Bailar has concentrated his economy measures on the labor area because labor costs account for 85 per cent of the financially troubled agency's expenses.

The Postal Service, one of the world's largest employers, has about 700,000 employes, or nearly 1 per cent of the American work force.

Bailar acknowledged in a speech Friday that his economy steps "cannot come close to solving our immediate financial problems." He said the agency, which is expected to have a record deficit of $1.5 billion this fiscal year, will have to borrow money "very soon" to meet its payroll.

The latest increase in postal costs takes effect Sunday when the agency's 603,000 unionized employes receive a pay raise. It is the third pay raise since a new labor agreement took effect last July and brings the pay of an experienced postal worker to around $14,300.

Bailar has appealed for higher subsidies of the Postal Service, a proposal which has found little support in Congress. The House voted down such a provision last fall.

"Without additional funding, the only course open to the Postal Service has been to continue to cut costs. This effort will continue despite opposition and regardless of the fact that some aspects of service may be reduced as a result," Bailar said.

Firemen pay increase considered by council

A 10.7 per cent wage increase for Pomona firemen will be considered by the Pomona City Council Monday night.

The salary increase is called for under the terms of a three-year agreement between the city and firemen that was approved in 1974.

The increase will raise the top pay for a firefighter to $1,485 per month.

The raise represents the third and final year of the agreement, which tied increases for Pomona firemen to those received by firemen in Los Angeles.

Other agenda items for the 8 p.m. meeting include consideration of a zone change, from residential to manufacturing, for a portion of the property occupied by Hertz Transportation Co. at 2460 N. Garey Ave.

The site is being used as a trucking business in violation of the present zoning. The city staff is expected to recommend that the zone change be denied because the owner, Karl Hertz, has not complied with the city's requirement that he construct a block wall and plant landscaping to shield nearby homes.

The council will also receive a report from the Parks and Recreation Commission concerning a proposal to provide lighting at Cherrieville Park.

Sierra Club meets Tuesday

Ron Quinn of Cal Poly Pomona will present a program titled "Island in the Sky: The Chiricahua Mountains" at a meeting of Mt. Baldy Group, Sierra Club, Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Baxter Hall in Claremont.

Refreshments will be served. Admission is free.

Boy hurt in fall; pal on ledge saved

An 11-year-old Covina boy escaped with minor injuries when he fell 60 feet in Lodi Canyon north of San Dimas Saturday, sheriff's deputies reported.

Douglas Sills suffered a broken left ankle, a cut eye, and a minor chest abrasion. He was treated for the injuries at San Dimas Community Hospital.

Sills' companion, Eddie Gover, 11, of Covina, became stranded on a canyon ledge at the same time and was rescued by the sheriff's mountain rescue team, about 2:30 p.m. Both youths were on a Boy Scout hike.

2 boys sought in statue theft

Claremont police are searching for two 15-year-old boys in connection with the theft of a $1,200 bronze statue from Griswold's Art Gallery, 465 W. Foothill Blvd.

Officers indicated the boys were spotted fleeing with the statue Friday afternoon by Dallas Rogers owner of the gallery. Rogers attempted to stop them, but was unsuccesful. The statue is of an otter and is seven inches tall.

Both boys were described as Caucasians with blond hair.

Firemen unaware, 6 children die in fire

OXFORD, N.C. (AP) — Six children from three families died inside a blazing home Saturday as fire fighters battled the flames, unaware that the building was occupied, officials said.

The children, aged 16 years to 9 months, were found dead inside the five-room frame house after fire fighters spent an hour bringing the blaze under control, an Oxford Volunteer Fire Department spokesman said.

After the blaze was brought under control, fire fighters went inside and found the bodies of five children huddled together near one bedroom window and a sixth body in another bedroom, officials said.

"Nobody believed it at first because none of the neighbors said anything about people being in there. It appeared to be unoccupied. It looked like a new house," said fire fighter Al Woodlief.

Officials said the children died of smoke inhalation.

The victims were identified as Maxine Gooch, 16; Janet Gooch, 8; John W. Gooch, 6; Jerome Miles, 9 months; Belinda Taborn, 6, and Teresa Taborn, 5.

Police dispatcher Patricia Jackson said the parents "were forming some type of (music) band together" and were at a Henderson night spot about 12 miles away when the fire erupted.

One fire fighter said the furnace of the home had apparently been shut off and the occupants were using space heaters to keep warm.

Woman, 84, crashes car into music store window

An 84-year-old woman lost control of her car Saturday and crashed through a plate glass window of a Claremont music store.

"The whole car was inside the store," said Police Sgt. Robert Nichol, who responded to the scene of the accident at the Folk Music Center, 220 Yale Ave., at 3:50 p.m.

The woman, Loraine T. Rickenberg of Claremont, and a passenger in her car both escaped injury.

Officers said Mrs. Rickenberg was backing her car out of a parking space some 11 spaces north of the store. Her auto went out of control and hit a parked car, which in turn hit another parked car. The woman's auto then jumped a curb and crashed through the display window.

Police indicated a 12-foot by 12-foot section of the window was knocked out by the accident, and the front door was badly damaged. There was no immediate estimate of the loss.

Parents to meet on gang violence

Parents whose children have been victims of gang violence are asked to attend a meeting of the Chino Community Action Council (CAC) Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Building.

The CAC has been discussing methods of dealing with the problem of youth violence at Chino High School. There have been reports of students being beaten by gangs of youths.

Barbara Greenwood Arroyo Kindergarten Bungalow

Historical Pomona school scheduled to be moved in May

Weather permitting, the Barbara Greenwood Arroyo Kindergarten Bungalow will be moved from the Arroyo Elementary Schoolgrounds in Pomona on to city-owned property in May.

Contributions totaling $5,000 to finance the move have been donated by persons in the area interested in having the 67-year-old building preserved.

The City Council has granted permission to have the bungalow, out of use since June of 1974, placed on the Casa Primera property at Park and McKinley avenues.

The Pomona school board, which donated the building to the Pomona Valley Historical Society, has granted a time extension for removal of the bungalow.

The Committee for the Preservation of the Barbara Greenwood Arroyo Kindergarten Bungalow now is appealing for contributions to pay costs of a new foundation and a new roof for the bungalow once it is moved.

The committee is making an effort to contact those who attended school in the bungalow and who may wish to see it preserved.

Contributions may be sent to the Committee for the Preservation of the Barbara Greenwood Kindergarten Bungalow in care of the Pomona Valley Historical Society, 1569 N. Park Ave., Pomona 91767.

How much is needed to pay for a new roof and a foundation is not yet determined.

According to June Hyman, committee chairman, the bungalow will be moved in two sections by Thomas House Movers. Architect Amos W. Randall is developing a plot plan, she said, and contractor Robert H. Clark has agreed to supervise the necessary renovation.

The bungalow, oldest standing educational facility in the Pomona school district, was built in 1908 at Park and Holt avenues. It was designed by Barbara Greenwood, supervisor of kindergarten programs in the schools.

It was moved from that site in 1929 to the old San Antonio School in north Pomona where it was used until 1951 when it was moved onto the Arroyo schoolgrounds.

Miss Greenwood, a leader in the early childhood education movement, died in Pomona in 1960 at the age of 93.

In 1953, UCLA established a lectureship in her name. The Barbara Greenwood Lectureship and Scholarship Fund board contributed $330 towards the cost of moving the building, Mrs. Hyman said.

Shooting incident in El Monte

Charges dropped against Bingham

Charges against a member of the American Nazi Party which resulted from an incident in which a former member was shot to death last August in El Monte have been dismissed in Pomona Superior Court.

The action was in the court of Judge Glenn M. Pfau when the defendant, Clyde Frank Bingham, 19, appeared with his attorney, Raymond Youngquist of Pomona.

Youngquist earlier had asked the dismissal on the claim that evidence against Bingham was not sufficient to sustain charges of assault with a deadly weapon. After studying the preliminary hearing transcript, Pfau agreed and dismissed the charges. Bingham had been free on $10,000 bail.

The victim in the incident, Joseph Tomassi, 24, was shot to death during a scuffle outside the El Monte headquarters of the National Socialist White People's Party where Bingham and another young man, Jerry K. Jones, 19, were acting as armed guards.

Jones was charged with murder in the slaying and eventually pleaded guilty to second-degree murder. He was placed on probation for five years after having served 300 days in jail while awaiting trial.

Witnesses earlier testified that Tomassi, a former member of the group, charged onto the property at 4375 Peck Road and either grabbed or hit Bingham. Bingham was alleged to have threatened Tomassi with a knife but witnesses later said they could not remember having seen one.

During the struggle Jones drew a pistol and Tomassi was shot in the face. He died instantly, authorities said.

Tomassi had been the leader of the El Monte party but was ousted in 1973. He later formed an offshoot called the National Socialist Liberation Front.

The dismissal means that there will be no further prosecution of Bingham unless the District Attorney's office decides to file charges against him again.

Kwak named to music post

NEW YORK (AP) — Sun Kwak has been named music director of the Mannes College of Music Orchestra.

Rise Stevens, president of the New York school, said Semyon Bychkov had been appointed associate conductor.

Dental costs

Dental costs account for only 10 per cent of the $60 billion spent each year in the United States for private health care. That works out to less than $30 a year per person. The Conference Board, a nonpartisan research organization, notes that this low figure is not due to inexpensive costs but to a general lack of dental attention. More than 25 per cent of all Americans have never seen a dentist or haven't seen one for five years or more.

How can they be explained?

Scientists take look at psychic phenomena

By J. F. FULBECK

SUPERMINDS by John Taylor. Viking. $10.95.

Sorties on the astral plane are not for everyone, but even callous skeptics should be impressed by "Superminds," a singularly perceptive and provocative book.

Its author, a prestigious scholar and a scientist of international reputation, was recently professor of physics at Rutgers University and is currently professor of mathematics at King's College in London. Hence the book's subtitle: "A Scientist Looks at the Paranormal".

J. F. Fulbeck is Professor of English at Cal Poly University, Pomona.

What we call "extra-sensory perception" frustrates attempts at better definition, but that it exists has been established beyond reasonable doubt by scientific studies before, notably those at Duke University which attracted wide attention in the 1930s.

Now, against the background of such recent dramatic phenomena as the feats of Uri Geller (who causes metal objects to bend without touching them), Professor Taylor responds. His end, he declares, is "in particular to answer the questions: What is the Geller phenomenon and how is it to be scientifically interpreted?"

In his pursuit of those answers we are led through several chapters of fascinating background, carefully authenticated and lucidly expresed, to the author's "Final Explanation". Having disposed of three of the four fields of force in nature — the gravitational, the nuclear, and the radioactive — he finds in the remaining force, the electromagnetic, the most likely repository for the answers he seeks.

Acknowledging that Geller's ability is only one facet of ESP, Taylor concentrates on it primarily because "for the first time a serious attempt now seems possible to find a scientific explanation for one distinct extrasensory phenomenon".

If indeed Geller's talent can be explained scientifically, that finding would mean to the history of science, and especially to the study of the paranormal, what the breaking of the four-minute mile meant to sports: What was once thought impossible will almost certainly become increasingly less unusual, and perhaps commonplace.

There are other unanswered questions the author acknowledges: What does one make of the "almost complete absence of adult males" from the list of persons with demonstrated metal-bending powers — especially since Geller himself is an adult male? What does one make of the high proportion of children on the list? Though committed to the scientific path (lest "cults of unreason" flourish), Taylor's comments frequently seem to echo idealistic philosophers and poets (Anaxagoras, Plato, Wordsworth). "We may," he admits, "have to alter our ideas on the nature of mind."

Tangential to the problem of explaining the paranormal are other questions. Do superminds endanger security? What of their effect on computers (already illustrated by Geller and by Ingo Swann)?

Item: An eight-year-old girl has demonstrated ability to "wipe magnetic tapes clean from a distance". (Watergate, anyone?)

In discussing theoretical particles — e.g., the tachyon, which hypothetically travels faster than light and increases speed as it loses energy — Taylor combines that healthy skepticism which is germane to the scientist with the open mind of any scholar of stature, who knows better than to permit his conclusions to precede his investigations.

After all, scholars and schoolboys know that there were no aircraft when Leonardo da Vinci sketched one, no submarines when Jules Verne wrote "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea." Before 1969, a story of men landing on the moon would have been science fiction.

"At the end of the book we are only at our beginning," the author concedes; but whatever information is missing will, he thinks, be found "on earth, rather than in the heavenly galaxy".

The ideas in this volume are provocative, the tone temperate, and the book itself a well edited oversize hardback which includes a bibliography and index and is lavishly illustrated with black-and-white and color photos and sketches.

Our future as viewed by Peter

THE PETER PLAN. By Dr. Laurence J. Peter. Morrow. $6.95.

Dr. Laurence J. Peter has taken a long, careful look about him, and he does not like what he sees: Rising crime rates, ineffective government, pollution, a world in which "Nobody planned that the ultimate outcome of our abundance would be a state of affluent poverty."

After detailing the things wrong with contemporary society in often witty but always incisive prose, Peter then presents possible solutions — his book is subtitled "A Proposal for Survival" — to these maladies.

This is "The Peter Plan (which) is based upon our ability to apply systems dynamics to the major problems facing mankind.

Transporting the reader to "Excelsior City," a model community embodying the solutions Peter suggests, Peter writes about what life could be in 1990 if men seriously determined that the quality of life was, to put it mildly, strained and to do something to make it much, much better. All of what Peter has to say about how things might be bettered is interesting, although some of it does sound simplistic since he tends to rely over much on man's desire to better his condition.

But, as Peter puts it, "When one reaches the edge of an abyss, the only truly progressive move is first to step backward — and then change course." It's hard to fault that kind of advice.

Book reconstructs life in 8th century Europe

By SAMUEL BELLMAN

CHARLEMAGNE AND HIS WORLD. By Friedrich Heer. Macmillan. $15.

The author of this new volume in Macmillan's beautiful series of art books on great figures and events in Western cultural history is a professor of the history of ideas at Vienna University and, among other accomplishments, an eminent authority on the Middle Ages.

(Samuel Bellman is visiting professor in the Department of Historical and Literary Studies at Portsmouth Polytechnic, Portsmouth, England.)

The subject of this volume was king of the Franks (born about 742, died 814), greatest of medieval kings, shaper of Europe's frontiers and history for at least a millennium, seeker of knowledge par excellence, matrix of uncountable legends.

Heer's superbly illustrated 272-page volume sets the stage by briefly tracing the history of some of the Germanic elements that overran the decaying Roman Empire during and after the Third Century AD . . . particularly one branch of the Franks, the followers of the Fifth Century king, Merovech.

The son of King Pepin, Charlemagne was extraordinarily well endowed physically and mentally, well educated in Latin, and was well fit to rule when his turn came.

Heer goes on to discuss the rule of the Frankish nobles, the life of the peasants (freemen, bondmen, and slaves), what life on the land was like, the economy of the Carolingians the constant warfare with fellow believers, heathen, rival tribes, etc., relations with the Pope, the nature of the Carolingian court, arts and education, and the decline of the Carolingian Empire.

The petty rivalries royal mediocrities, and land carvings that marked the end of Carlemagne's domain offer a sad commentary on the ravages of time and the rarity of human excellence in whatever area.

"25-YEAR-OLD STOMACH ACHE GONE"

Says Mr. George Vessa, L.A., "my wife suffered with a burning in her stomach for a quarter of a century. She vomited often and couldn't keep food in her stomach. We tried many things but did not receive any permanent help. I took her to see Dr. Wing. After a couple of weeks she felt much better. In three months she was completely well. It has been over 5 years ago and she has not had any sign of recurrence."

Need a plant or fish sitter?

HAMDEN, Conn. (AP) — Are you afraid to take that much needed vacation for fear of leaving your African violets at home with no one to water them?

Are you worried that your pet fish will be lonely without your constant attention and company?

Well, there is a new breed of babysitters, sitters who will water your plants and watch after your fish.

Mrs. Susan Linehan of Hamden recently graduated with a degree in horticulture and is a plantsitter.

"I had worked in a few florists' shops in the New Haven area but found I was not making enough," she said. "Then, about a year ago while I was in California I read a magazine article about plantsitting and decided that was for me.

"Because of my background I know a lot more about plants and am more responsible than the ordinary person."

Mrs. Linehan says she already has 50 clients.

"I am only working parttime but I am sure I could make a fairly decent living doing it fulltime.

"It gets around by word of mouth. My clients tell their friends, who in turn tell their friends," Mrs. Linehan says. "I get mostly house calls from people who want me to tend their plants while they are on vacation.

According to Mrs. Linehan, the fee depends on the type of plant, the number of plants, the care needed and whether it is a house call or the plant is dropped off at her home.

"The typical charge is about $5 a visit and I make three or four visits a week," she said. Describing a typical house call Mrs. Linehan says she feeds the plant, waters it, checks it for bugs and diseases, positions the plant so all leaves will get sunlight, prunes the plant if it needs it, and checks the humidity.

Peter Falcion, owner of the Norwalk Aquarium in Norwalk is a successful fishsitter in suburban Fairfield County.

Falcion said he has made about 75 house calls during the year, and an additional 40 clients brought their fish and sometimes their equipment to the shop.

"Most of our clients are people who are really into the hobby and are concerned about leaving their fish alone."

For house calls, he says he takes along his portable lab which allows him to make ten tests, including checks on equipment, water solution, temperature, toxic elements and amount of oxygen.

"Of course, I also feed the fish. The cost depends on the type of fish and the care needed, but the average charge is $5 per house visit and $1 to $10 a week for store sitting.

"Before we take a fish to sit we diagnose it for any illness. I won't take in any sick fish and I have never had a fish die while here.

"Our clients come from all walks of life. We have a 12-year-old boy who is very knowledgeable about the hobby and has a sophisticated collection. Two of our other clients from New York City have purchased a duplicate aquarium system which they keep here at the store for their fish while they are away."

Almanac

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, March 21, the 81st day of 1976. There are 285 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1803, the French civil code, the Code Napoleon, was completed.

On this date —

In 1790, Thomas Jefferson became the first U.S. Secretary of State.

In 1829, an earthquake in Spain killed about 6,000 people.

In 1918, in World War I, German guns bombarded Paris from 75 miles away.

In 1946, the United Nations moved into temporary headquarters at Hunter College in New York City.

From an eyesore to a new unique Wilderness Park

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

A prominent eyesore running through the City of Montclair has been transformed into a beautiful and unique Wilderness Park.

The 17-acre park is located on San Bernardino Road, immediately east of Ramona Avenue and adjacent to the Chino Basin Water Conservation District office. It is bordered by Palo Verde Avenue on the north, San Bernardino Road on the south, Helena Avenue on the east and the San Antonio Flood Control Channel on the west.

The city has spent nearly $150,000 for development of the site since 1972. Since its opening a month ago, city officials and police have voiced considerable concern about the vandalism and malicious mischief by children and adults that is posing a threat to the park's orderly appearance and further development.

Carl Sawtell, director of public works, listed the vandalism problems which included destroying and stealing parts of the sprinkling system, cutting down trees and shrubs, riding bikes and motorcycles down slopes and destroying vegetation, cutting the fences to get into restricted areas, and ripping out posted signs.

''It's disheartening to see something nice go in and then watch it destroyed,'' Sawtell said.

City Administrator Lauren Wasserman said that police patrols have been increased for the area and enforcement against offenders has become more concentrated.

''But you can't be there 24 hours a day,'' he sighed. ''We've caught a couple of kids and the police department has them coming down to work to repair the damage. We're hoping that other people will be as concerned as we are about the problem and the waste of money. We'll try to do the best we can with what we have.''

Wasserman said Cub Scouts dens, Boy Scouts troops, and Montclair High School clubs are volunteering to re-plant vegetation, pull weeds and clean up debris on weekends.

Motorcycles and bikes will be prohibited from the park and signs will be posted again.

A gravel company originally owned the site where the park is today and three other gravel pits within the city limits. The largest one is the San Bernardino Road location. When the company went out of business, it sold the four pits to the water conservation district. The district has used the sites for water retention for about 12 years and sterilized the soil to prevent growth and water soaking into the soil.

''It was a totally barren area for the most part,'' Wasserman recalled. ''The city became involved because the pits were prominent eyesores running through the middle of town. We decided to beautify them and make them fit in better, so in 1972 we began projects with revenue sharing funds.''

A physical fitness trail for jogging, sit-ups and other exercising facilities will be installed later. Picnic tables and barbecues will also be added.

The park has become a wildlife sanctuary for small animals. Migratory birds, rabbits and squirrels can be seen scampering through the brushes and trees.

The park will be officially dedicated during the Montclair Festival Days in late April, commemorating the city's 20th birthday.

'Slight increase' of funds requested for recreation

James Bell's report on school programs being studied

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

With the intent that all public school children in Pomona have ''well supervised'' and ''well rounded'' recreation programs at their schools, consultant James Bell is recommending that funding be ''slightly increased for 1976-77.''

Bell, former member of the Pomona school board, was retained by the current board last October on a $5,000 fee to evaluate noontime and afterschool recreation programs funded by the Pomona school district and supervised by the recreation department.

His evaluation report now is in the hands of school board members who received it last Tuesday.

This year the school district is paying $117,000 as its share of the recreation department budget to fund the school programs. Bell, vice president of administrative affairs and student services at Cal Poly Pomona, was assisted in his evaluation by two associates, William Michaelis and Suzon Williams.

Bell recommended that more money be spent to improve rather than expand the school recreation programs.

''It is vital,'' his report reads, ''that a new approach to providing a greater program continuity, reliability and community service be implemented in September.

''It is further recommended that a mini-evaluation of such a program be undertaken at the mid-point of the school year to determine if the additional expenditures are proving worthwhile, and to verify the implementation of the recommendations.

''Given knowledge of existing conditions and needs, it is a reasonable expectation that a much-improved and more truly satisfactory program can be achieved for a relatively small additional sum.''

Bell suggests that if expectations are not met, the board could return to previous levels of funding, eliminate weak programs and concentrate funding on well-supported programs.

He suggests that future funding should support and strengthen improvements in the recreation program.

Without identifying them by name, Bell and his associates evaluated programs at individual schools on general attendance, participant enthusiasm, quality of leadership, leader-student rapport, program supervision, program reliability, program variety, male-female programming, program visibility, publicity, facility and equipment, school-staff relations and overall effectiveness.

They studied programs at 19 elementary schools, six junior highs and three high schools.

Five programs were rated outstanding, nine satisfactory, 10 needs improvement and four unsatisfactory.

The strongest programs, Bell noted, shared common characteristics. These were older, more experienced leaders (usually local mothers), a variety of program offerings for different age children, extra planning, organizing and publicity, good relations with the school, a well-stocked equipment department, structured programs that included traditional and fad interests as well as drop-in activities and volunteer recruits.

Sixth anniversary celebrated

Information, Referral Center helps out senior citizens

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

It's tucked neatly in a back room of the Pomona Municipal Courts building on Mission Boulevard but the people who visit Room 120 aren't there to take the witness stand or pay a traffic fine.

Operating out of Room 120, a staff of four provides service to more than 500 local residents each month.

It is the Senior Citizens Information and Referral Center, which just marked its sixth anniversary this month under joint sponsorship of Pomona and Los Angeles County.

The office was created in March of 1970 under a joint powers agreement between the county and the Pomona Valley Council on Aging.

Up until late last year it was staffed solely by volunteers, but through the county and city CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) funds, the permanent staff members are now paid.

The office coordinator is G. Nelson Lortie, a prominent leader in senior citizen affairs in the valley for many years.

Other staff members are Larry Posnack, Mrs. Esther Landin and Mrs. Velma Rush.

They are assisted by volunteers on a regular basis.

According to Lortie, the demand for senior citizen information plus the counseling and referral services are expanding.

Services provided at the center include help in the preparation of income tax forms and information about special tax breaks for senior citizens, such as California's senior citizen property tax assistance program under which a substantial portion of the property tax may be refunded.

''All of us have had training in income tax preparation,'' said Lortie.

While tax information and counseling are common requests at the center, the largest number of problems handled have to do with Social Security.

With an estimated 10,500 elderly persons living in Pomona alone, said Lortie, there is a constant flow of questions about the program as residents dependent on that income seek to be sure they are receiving their full entitlement.

And because the center has accrued more than six years experience, answers to such important questions can be found quickly.

But the center is a great deal more than an information outlet about taxes and Social Security.

There is also information about legal and consumer aid, transportation, housing, nutrition, voter registration, education, clubs, tours and recreation programs.

And if the information is not on hand in the center, the senior citizen will be directed to a local agency that can provide the needed help.

''We have a complete listing to agencies handling almost every kind of problem,'' Lortie said.

And as if that were not enough, senior citizens who cannot come to the center may obtain information by phone. If necessary, the center can even go to the senior citizen with a house call.

A new service is being offered at the center beginning this week.

''On Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. we will have an attorney here in the office to help seniors with legal questions,'' said Lortie.

The Municipal Court building is located at 350 W. Mission Blvd.

Office hours for the center are 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

For further information about the center's services, persons may call 623-6811 ext. 279.

A European passport

It will be many years before the great dream of a "United States of Europe," the complete political unification of the democratic nations of Western Europe, becomes a reality. Nevertheless, significant steps continue to be taken towards implementing the first line of the treaty which established the European Common Market some two decades ago — "to lay the foundation of an ever closer union among the peoples of Europe."

In one of the most recent of those steps, the nine members of the European Community have decided to replace national passports with a single universal European passport by 1978.

This means that citizens of the "Nine" — France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Denmark, Holland, Luxembourg, the United Kingdom and Ireland — will be able to travel from one end of the Community to the other without passing through customs. For Americans and other foreigners, it will mean a single customs check upon entering the first EC country visited and one on leaving the last.

A European passport could be in use even sooner, since this change needs only legislation in Germany. Other parts of a planned "passport union" will take longer to work out, according to Economic Community Information Service, because they involve changes in national laws setting conditions of entry, length of stay and checks of luggage, currency and cars. Eventually, the Nine will have to negotiate agreements with nonmember countries to treat every holder of an EC passport the same, regardless of nationality.

The passport decision was made in Rome last December at a meeting of the European Council, composed of heads of states of Community countries, foreign ministers and EC Commission officials. At this same meeting, the council also paved the way for the election of a new European Parliament by direct universal suffrage.

At present, the European Parliament has 198 members appointed by and from the national legislatures. This was always considered a temporary arrangement.

By virtue of the agreement reached in Rome, the citizens of the Community may vote for their first directly elected Parliament sometime in May or June in 1978.

Opticians eye advertising

A new rule proposed by the Federal Trade Commission could affect everyone who wears glasses or contact lenses. It would allow ophthalmologists (physicians specializing in eye care), optometrists (nondoctors trained to test vision) and opticians (people who make and sell glasses but who aren't licensed to examine eyes) to advertise the prices of their services. Most state and local laws, as well as professional codes of ethics, now restrain such advertising.

According to the FTC and supporters of the new rule, advertising would result in greater competition and hence lower prices for eye care for consumers, especially low-income families who need glasses but can't afford them. They point out that the rule change would not force eye care specialists to advertise or give out information about prices but only permit them to do so if they wished.

Opponents object that advertising would be demeaning to eye care professionals, could result in lower quality goods and services and could lead to such undesirable consequences as bait and switch tactics by irresponsible people.

The view of the FTC, however, seems to be that there are more advantages than disadvantages in the new rule.

Low income housing

Dear Editor:

Regarding the Pomona City Council meeting of March 8 at which a no vote was taken on accepting federal funds for low income housing.

I am a taxpayer in Pomona. I became irate over the fact that the city council was contemplating applying for funds from the federal government to further low income housing in this city.

I and others stood up in spirited opposition to this move. We have had enough of the duplication of programs which do not work. We feel that this will only bring more poor people into an area which is already impacted by people on welfare, mentally retarded, mentally ill and physically handicapped, as well as unemployed.

Where once we had a good viable economy, we now have a city overburdened with taxes to pay for services to these and others. We can no longer mortgage our children's future and freedom for the here and now.

I was proud of the people who spoke out in opposition to this move as it let the council know that we cared about the future. I applaud the council for the no vote on this issue. I only wish more people would attend city council meetings and speak out on issues. Let the council know our thinking and feeling on the issues of today. — Kathleen Marineau

Dear Editor:

Police response to two recent breakins and burglaries in our neighborhood (in Pomona) have made us feel that our police protection in less than adequate.

The first incident involved a teenage girl home alone in the afternoon When two youths attempted to break in she called the police. No one came, and when the culprits broke the glass in a window she fled to a neighbor who called the police again.

Later, when the mother asked why the police didn't respond when first called she was told they thought a child was making a prank call.

The second incident occurred at night while the homeowner was away. A neighbor observed two men breaking into the house and immediately called the police. Just before they arrived, a half hour later, the thieves walked off with several items. The man who called the police told them that the suspects were walking nonchalantly down the street just a block or so away. The officers (4) continued to search the house and backyard until the men had plenty of time to disappear.

Since it is so easy to break and enter without much fear of being caught the offenders will, no doubt, try it again and again. — Letter signed but name withheld by request.

Council acted wisely

Dear Editor:

The citizens of Pomona would rise and acclaim the recent action of the City Council in rejecting federal subsidy, if they realized the cost and significance of subsidy.

We will have more money to help our needy neighbors when our money does not first go to Washington and support a huge bureaucracy. We will have greater freedom to fairly and honestly help our needy, and who in far off Washington knows who they are better than we do.

Let us commend our City Council for acting wisely in rejecting the federal housing subsidy. — Richard C. Hathaway, Pomona.

Poverty in the fields

WASHINGTON — In earlier columns, we described the plight of the stoop laborers who harvest the winter vegetables that housewives find in the supermarkets.

There is grim irony in the fact that those who work in the world's most bounteous fields often live in stark poverty, earning barely enough to subsist. Some live in virtual bondage to the field boss, who collects more out of their wages than he pays them.

For most, there seems to be no escape from the perpetual poverty of the fields. They have no other skills, no place else to go, no hope of a better life.

Their living standards have been held down by the big growers, thus assuring their availability at low wages. From California to Florida, the political power has been on the side of the growers whose agriculture empires are tied to the banks, the railroads, the real estate interests.

These pressure groups have more friends in Washington than do the migrant workers who cannot afford the campaign contributions, law fees and other favors it seems to take to win friends and influence in Washington.

The Labor Department is supposed to uphold minimum standards in the work camps where the stoop laborers live. Inspectors made a routine call last December, for example, on a Florida tomato farm, which is part of the great Duda and Son agriculture domain.

The inspectors found 16 separate health and safety violations and fined the farm a paltry $230. Duda subsequently notified the Labor Department that the violations had been corrected. With no more concern, the inspectors accepted Duda's word and marked the case "closed."

Not long afterward, our reporter Hal Bernton, posing as a drifter, was hired off skid row by Duda and was assigned to this same camp. He found it hardly fit for human habitation.

The workers lived in rundown old trailers, which were divided into four tiny compartments. Bernton and another recruit shared a grim room that reeked of human wastes, with a dirty sink and a waterless tap. There was barely space for two cots, each equipped with a filthy mattress but no pillow.

The mattress had such an unbearable stench that Bernton searched the empty bunks for a cleaner one. He was caught dragging it into his room by the field boss, a burly man with a vicious Doberman pinscher to enforce his rule. The boss growled his disapproval but grudgingly let Bernton keep the precious mattress.

Among Bernton's neighbors was a weathered young couple, with a six-month-old baby. Their home was a tiny section of an old trailer. It took every cent they could earn to buy food and medicine for the baby. They were terribly frustrated over the unaccountable shortages in their weekly pay and the unfair deductions.

They hadn't been able to save enough, for example, to buy a crib for the baby. Once the child fell from the bed onto the hard tile floor. Happily, he escaped serious injury.

"It's hard for me to believe," wrote Bernton in a report to us, "that Duda can expect the family to live in such cramped quarters. This is more reminiscent of 19th-century slave quarters than any 20th-century habitation."

Not far from the miserable work camp live the white farmers who run Duda's farm. Unlike the hot, dusty, barren camp site, their homes are shaded from the sun by lovely old palm and pine trees. Automobiles and an occasional powerboat are parked on the grounds.

None of this, apparently, made much of an impact on the federal inspectors. As a Duda spokesman pointed out to us, the 16 citations weren't treated as "serious violations." But the farm managers must be aware of the conditions; for the spokesman said daily inspections were made of the work camp. The spokesman insisted that the owners and managers had no knowledge of any improper activities at the camp.

Helping the police

The latest figures released by the FBI indicates that crime is taking no holiday, and that crime, in fact, is increasing in our inner cities. There are crimes against the rich and by the rich; crimes against the poor and by the poor; crimes against all kinds and all classes. And it's time we not only asked why, but time we did something to stop it.

It appears that the police have abandoned big chunks of real estate and have warned the public to travel in those areas at their own risk. This is not only taking place in the inner cities, but in suburban and rural areas.

In 1974 alone, the police made 9.1 million arrests, and about 1.7 million of those arrested were hauled in by 'mistake,' not exactly a glowing tribute to the men in blue. If it's not bad enough that the police often haul in the wrong person, there are a half million private cops in the nation — many of them put on duty with absolutely no training.

These private cops commit so many assaults that the chances are that you are more likely to be mugged by one of them than by a mugger. There's no doubt that the overwhelming majority of these private police are trying to do their job and keep out of trouble, but the fact is that the security personnel in the U.S. today are often a menace to the public they are sworn to serve. Many private eyes are engaged in systematic wire tapping, bugging, trespassing and other invasions of privacy.

As for the public police, how good are they? Well, a New York City cop was recently arrested for allegedly committing a gang-land type murder in Colorado, and many cops use criminal tactics in the belief they are acting for the greater good of the society.

Law enforcement agencies have been howling for years that the public doesn't pay enough to get first-rate cops. And they're right. There's coffee and donuts passed out to the colonels in Greece and very nearly free bread passed out to dictators in Russia, but there's not enough pay in the paychecks of the local cops to keep them honest.

And then there's TV. The public has to content with a torrent of TV shows that literally tell kids how to knock a guy out with a karate chop and how to blow somebody's brains out with a .45. If teenagers don't get the idea, they can go to the flicks, where trash like "Hustle" will give them the picture of how the top criminals live in splendor (their fear is rarely shown) and how detectives will fix things up by fooling around with the evidence.

One interesting and apparently successful effort at curbing crime is taking place in New York's Harlem — the nation's largest ghetto and highest crime ridden area, block by block. Local residents in Harlem are beginning to report crimes, finger the criminals, and turn in the dope dealers. The residents are actually helping the police, and over the past few weeks, the homicide rate and assault figures have gone down. There are many Harlem's in America, and if the people in those areas act to put an end to crime, the tide will turn.

Just in jest

The mutual admiration society that is made up of people in show business never fails to reward its own. And so it has come to pass that over the years we have witnessed an ever increasing number of award ceremonies the like of which Rome in all its grandeur and Greece in all its glory never quite equaled.

There are Oscar awards, Emmy awards, Golden Record awards, Best Anything and Everything awards — and that's just for starters.

In fact, there are now so many show business award ceremonies that it is getting difficult to find a sufficient number of evenings in a year to hold them without doubling up every now and then. But a little thing like that didn't stop the award promoters from adding a new one this year.

The very thought of it gags me but true reporter that I am, I neyer shirk my duty. And so now it is my unhappy privilege to tell you that they are adding insult to injury, compunding the felony so to speak, by holding an awards cremony to honor the best TV Commercials in all their insipid categories.

Paul Harvey

Flying sans horsepower

Half-a-century after Kitty Hawk an American man may "really fly." Since Da Vinci, and probably before, men have dreamed of flying with manpower instead of horsepower — I mean a man flying by flapping his arms or pumping his legs or both.

Joe Zinno of North Providence, R.I., intends to — this year. You and I are going to live to hop over the housetops on some form of flying tricycle.

Ever since the Wright brothers aeronautical science has concentrated on flying faster, higher, farther; more horsepower, more speed! Now speed is less important. Fuel is more a factor. Economy is more significant.

Now that we can cross the continent in hours, what we need is some way to conveniently get across town. There is a standing offer by British industrialist Henry Kremer of $100,000 to the first man to fly a manpowered aircraft on a figure-eight course around two pylons half-a-mile apart — and he must cross the start and finish lines at least 10 feet off the ground.

While Americans have been preoccupied with speed and distance, British, Japanese and Austrians have made 17 successful flights of manpowered aircraft — but nobody has ever completed those two 180-degree turns.

Part of the problem is that the long wings, necessary for the weight-lift ratio, tend to touch the ground on a banked turn causing the craft to cartwheel.

Manpower is not the problem. We have the strength to do it. Controlability is the bugaboo. Paul Poberezny, president of the international Experimental Aircraft Assn. (EAA), reports that one man flew 1,171 yards in a straight line. One made a single 180-degree turn after 90 tries, but crashed on the next try.

But now EAA member Joe Zinno has constructed a frail-appearing craft with a 78-foot wing powered by his own feet on pedals linked to a propeller. It has been certificated by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) as an experimental aircraft.

And, in a most unusual public statement, an FAA inspector says, "If any manpowered aircraft appears able to fly, this one does." I talked to retired Air Force Col. Joe Zinno. He's conservative in his predictions but admittedly "can't wait to see daylight under these wheels!"

"When?" "As soon as the weather breaks." Zinno calls his craft "The Olympian." Engineers will want to know that a dual airfoil in the wing produces a high lift inboard and minimizes diving moments outboard. The outer five-foot section of the wing moves by means of a spring-loaded cable, producing a full wing-tip aileron. The eight and one-half-foot prop is geared for variable pitch. Drive power is a reciprocating pedal system that's geared to produce 295 r.p.m. for takeoff and 230 r.p.m. for cruise. An enormous rudder should allow "flatter" turns. The skeleton is aluminum tubing. The skin is mylar plastic.

The first hop will be at the abandoned naval air station at Quonset, R.I. The first man to fly in the United States may then and there launch us into a decade during which we all will.

Dr. Miller

St. Bernard pup likes to lick

DEAR DR. MILLER: Dumbo, our Saint Bernard pup, has an urge to lick people. It's been getting worse. If we ignore it, will he just outgrow it eventually? People who don't know him sometimes get a little nervous about it. — A.A.

DEAR A.A.: The bigger Dumbo gets, the more nervous strangers are likely to be when he starts tasting them. Even those unconcerned about his appetite would undoubtedly prefer to pick their own time and place for a bath. Better begin now to discourage his licking habit. Suddenly starting to scold him when it's been permissible up to now would be quite confusing. Whenever possible, discourage by distraction. Move away from him when he starts to lick. Stick a large (not swallowable size) ball in his mouth. Pet him vigorously, or gently. Do something else with him immediately. Offer him a drink (of water). Let him watch TV — or whatever. Distract him in some way. The less you let him lick and the more alternatives you provide, the quicker and easier he'll get over his habit an especially messy one with a St. Bernard.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our cat, Simi, chews his nails a lot. Why does he do it, do you think? Is he nervous? He doesn't act like it in other ways. — M.F.

DEAR M.F.: Simi could be nervous or bored. He might also have a foot infection, fungus usually, involving the base of the nails. It could, too, be Simi's system for pussycat pedicuring, using his teeth in lieu of clippers, file or scratching post to keep his nails neat.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Tommy, my tarantula, is very lightweight and stiff as a board. I think he died. So I gave him a funeral. I plan to get another one when the weather warms up, but Mother says I shouldn't. She thinks I was just lucky that Tommy didn't ever bite me. I tried to tell her that tarantualas aren't really as bad as they look. Can you help me convince her? — C.B.

DEAR C.B.: It's true. Tommy Tarantula's nontruculent, even cheerful (?), personality was typical. Tarantulas generally are easygoing where people are concerned. For that matter, there isn't any tarantula native to this country that's venomous to humans. If tarantulas are irritating to some people physically, that's because they can shoot hairs from their legs which, upon landing on skin or mucous membranes, can cause a painful, inflammatory (but not dangerous) reaction.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have a Pekingese. We feed him chocolate cookies. He likes them. Is it bad for his digestive system? — N. B.

DEAR N. B.: If fed frequently and/or in quantity, they would be. An occasional chocolate cookie, unless he were allergic to it, shouldn't cause digestive disturbance. The harm here is that you're teaching him to beg for foods he doesn't really need which aren't really good for him and at times other than his regular meals. By far the best way to avoid snack time indigestion is not to let yourself, or not let the dog teach you to, feed tidbits in the first place.

Astrographs

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Monday, March 22, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may find it necessary to solicit aid in attaining your aims today. Do nothing that could alienate your supporters.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's possible your progress could be slowed today because of a tendency to change your mind once too often. Try to be decisive.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be realistic in appraising business matters today. Don't go in believing you'll get something for nothing.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today, something you hoped would be rather easy may instead prove difficult. It can still be done if you're resourceful.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Keep abreast of your responsibilities today or later they'll snow you under. Make out a schedule and try to maintain it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Friends who usually treat you liberally may resent any material request you make of them today. Borrow nothing of value.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's likely today that you could leave important things half-completed, especially in the domestic area.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your temper may be on a short fuse today. Things that don't normally bug you could cause you to overreact. Keep a cool head.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The demands on your purse today could be a shade heavier than you anticipated. Don't aggravate matters with extravagance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today, avoid if possible strong-willed or domineering companions or associates. They could prove more than a match for your tolerance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you try to do things too hastily today there's a good chance you'll create extra work for yourself. Plan each move carefully.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Complications could result today if you become too involved in a friend's affairs, particularly if you're asked to loan something.

Your Birthday, March 22, 1976

This coming year you are likely to pursue goals you've never attempted before. Your new ambitions could be aroused through a very unusual chain of events.

Ann Landers

Sticking by her convictions

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 19-year-old virgin and I'm sure I'm not as much of a freak as the girls I work with make me out to be. I hope you will print this letter in support of all of us who have decided that sex belongs in marriage.

I have dated at least 20 men in the last three years and I'm proud to say I never let anyone talk me into anything. I've been called "abnormal," "too religious," "chicken," "square," "frigid," and "just plain crazy." When the arguments got heavy I told a few clowns to buzz off. I never figured I had lost anything of value when a high-pressure, make-out artist didn't ask me out again.

I knew one day I'd meet a man who would accept my view and not try to change me to suit his "needs." It happened a few months ago and we plan to be married in the fall. There is no hassling about how far to go. He knows my rules and is willing to abide by them.

I feel good about myself and what's more, I'm not worried to death from month to month like some girls I work with. Also, I'm not concerned about the side-effects of the Pill (as so many women are these days(because I'm not on it. The peace of mind and self-respect make up for whatever I might be missing, and I can wait a few months to find out what it is. — All Together

Dear Friend: I applaud a young woman who knows what she wants and what she doesn't want and has the courage to stick by her convictions. I've never received a letter from a girl who said she was sorry she saved herself for marriage, but I've received hundreds from those who didn't and were heartsick. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you spoke in Florida and made a strong point of being opposed to the idea of parents giving grown children money.

Perhaps you are unaware of the law regarding cash gifts. When parents give money to their children it need not represent a loss of income to the giver. It could be regarded as a tax-free "investment."

According to U.S. law, a parent can give each child $3,000 a year and not be taxed on it. This gift, when presented annually over a period of several years, reduced the size of the estate and a large inheritance tax is avoided. The return on the "investment" is the love and gratitude the parents receive from children who receive this lovely gift.

You frequently mention the experts with whom you consult. Why didn't you talk to an estate planner before you spoke out against this generous and financially astute procedure? — Front Row, Center

Dear Front Row: There was no need to consult an expert. I already knew the answer — and it has nothing to do with estate planning or a gift tax.

Your notion that an annual $3,000 gift will pay off in terms of love and gratitude is banana oil. Children don't love their parents because they give them money or gifts. In fact, excessive "generosity" can make a child suspicious. ("Why are they trying to buy me?")

Unfortunately many monied people are advised by their tax consultants to "give it to the kids rather than to the government," so they hand out the $3,000 checks annually and set up irrevocable trust funds. Too often a teenager who knows he's coming into big bread at age 21 has no incentive to stay in school or work (heaven forbid), and you end up with a lazy bum on your hands.

Parents, what should you do if your teenager is having sexual relations? Ann Landers's new booklet, "High School Sex And How To Deal With It — A Guide For Teens And Their Parents," gives no-nonsense advice on how to handle this delicate situation. For each booklet, send 50 cents in coin plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

A card for every occasion

Greeting cards were originally born out of the need to say for people what they couldn't say for themselves.

I once gave my mother a card depicting a little girl in a hooped skirt knocking on the door of a cottage and saying, "You bask in the sunshine of sweetness and light . . . and make all my dreams come true . . . prithee reap the harvest of all my love . . . in everything you do. Happy birthday."

Mother smiled and said, "It sounds just like you."

"Prithee, mother," I said, "you've been basking in the sunshine too long. All I wanted to say was I'm not much, but I'm all you can afford."

Not so today. I've never seen so many cards for so many occasions saying greetings in so many ways in all my life.

Some of them you can even send through the mails.

If you put your foot in your mouth and are sorry, there's a card for it.

If you won a tennis tournament, a diploma in sheetmetal, a divorce, or passed your eye examination, there's a card for it.

I even saw one that said, "I love living with you because I've got a case on you." When you open it up, it threatens, "Marry me or I'm taking you to court."

There are marriage proposals, business proposals, vacation proposals and some proposals that are just plain indecent.

I was picking out a Valentine for my husband when a salesperson asked if she could help. "I'd like something a little sentimental."

"Here's one," she said, handing me a card. My ears turned red. "You wanta see my I.D.?"

"That one's not so bad," she said. "We had one that was waterproof so you could read it under a cold shower. Just tell me what you want to say and how you want to say it."

"Maybe I'll just get a Mother's Day card."

"Unwed? Underage? Unwanted? Undone? Unsung? Unexpected! Underfoot?"

"Just something that will sound like me."

"Here's one that might fit you. It's a little strange. 'You bask in the sunshine of sweetness and light and make all my dreams in accord . . . prithee, mother, you know I'm not much . . . but face it, I'm all you can afford."

Good grief.

Plan diet for spastic colon

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have had diarrhea off and on for eight years. The tests show a spastic colon. I am bones because nothing stays in me. I am a highly nervous person but I have diarrhea even if my nerves are relaxed. They have treated me with different things but it doesn't work. I have sharp pains and burning and fluttering throughout my intestines. Can you please advise me? I am only 35 but feel like 99 most of the time.

DEAR READER — Stop coffee in all forms, including the decaffeinated type. Do not use tea, colas or other caffeine containing beverages. Temporarily you might avoid all forms of soda beverages. Not because they contain soda but because some of them that you might not suspect contain caffeine that may stimulate the nervous system. Stop smoking cigarettes if you use any at all.

Do start eating bulk-containing foods, particularly those containing bran. These are the whole wheat products. You can use All Bran, bran buds or any other sources of whole wheat fiber that you can get. Shredded wheat products are also whole wheat. Keep in mind that you may have gas and symptoms for the first two to three weeks when you increase the cereal fiber in your diet. You may need to do this gradually to keep from causing too many symptoms.

Stop all milk and milk products and do not use foods that use any appreciable amounts of milk in their preparation such as milk gravies, cream pies, ice cream and milk — containing sherbets.

After following this regime for a while if your situation straightens out you can try milk products and see if you are able to tolerate them. If you are you could add them back to your normal diet so you will be getting enough calcium. These simple points listed above will go a long way toward helping many people who have the spastic colon problem.

Diarrhea often is part of the problem of an irritable colon. Those who want more information on spastic colon can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 2-1, Irritable or Spastic Colon and Constipation. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of the Progress Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you please give me information on dextrocardia with situs inverses. Is it true that the heart on the right side is weaker and that the child usually dies at birth?

DEAR READER — Negative. All that diagnosis means is that the internal organs of the body are arranged in a mirror image of the normal arrangement. That is, the things that are supposed to be on the right side are on the left side and vice versa. This can be the only abnormality with a perfectly normal heart and normal abdominal organs. Such individuals may live a perfectly normal life span.

Sometimes when this variation occurs there will be accompanying birth defects. If there are, whether or not they will affect the health of the individual depends on what defects are present and how serious these defects are. If it is an ordinary garden variety type of heart defect that can be completely corrected with a simple operation then the outlook is usually good.

South can count 13 easy tricks if hearts and diamonds both break 3-3. He can count 12 if either suit breaks. Suppose both suits are unkind enough to misbehave?

South can still make his contract if he can develop a squeeze. The squeeze will develop if one opponent stops both suits. It will fail miserably if each opponent has a red-suit stopper.

It will fail even more miserably if South wins the first club. South only has 11 winners and must lose the first in order to go through the process known as rectifying the count.

Any smart declarer is not going to worry about giving up an overtrick when the contract is a slam so South ducks the first club.

He wins the second and proceeds to run off four spades. Everyone is down to seven cards and poor East has to chuck a diamond or heart whereupon South runs off the rest of the tricks.

Still doubters on moon walk

Here's a pollster who insists his surveys prove that two out of every 25 Americans don't believe we ever put anybody on the moon, that the whole show was rigged, that actors instead of cameras just pretended the walk there. Cynical folk.

The bowlers who average under 125 outnumber the bowlers who average over 190 by five to one. Specifically, one out of every 100 have to admit an average of less than 125.

You know those blue geese that migrate from Canada's James Bay to the Louisiana coast? They average 28 m.p.h. A good horse can run faster. No, not that far, certainly not, good grief!

FIRST CANNIBALS

In a Carib village on the isle of Guadeloupe live a tribe of Indians called the Canibales. The men with Christopher Columbus in 1493 on his second voyage this way found there what was left of a half-roasted human being. That's how we came by our word cannibal, from that Indian tribal name, reports our Language man.

Question arises as to how many Heisman award winners have wound up playing football in a Super Bowl. Two. Mike Garret and Roger Staubach. You say you're certain Paul Hornung went to a Super Bowl? Right, he suited up, but he didn't play.

Don't know what the bull snake calls to. Other bulls snakes maybe. Anyway, you can hear the bellow of that beast for about a hundred feet.

FLUFFED FEATHERS

Why do birds fluff up their feathers just before they settle down to roost at night? They do. To create extra air space next to their skin. Serves to insulate them from the cold.

Argument continues over just how fast a snail's peace is. Settle it. That snail can cover 23 inches an hour, steadily. If frantic, it can zip along over three inches a minute for a while, but pretty soon it has to slow down to rest.

If you happen to survive a direct hit by a lightning bolt, better gulp down a quick drink of vicuna blood to get back into the best of health. That's the recommendation of the Peruvian Indians who do not regard it as too whimsical a notion.

Do you know why the first tombstones were put on top of graves? Not to mark the burial place, that's certain. To weigh down the dirt so the desceased couldn't rise up again to haunt their communities.

Save those tiny leaves on trees

By NORMAN H. STARK

The breathtaking beauty of many moths and butterflies results from white, black, red and yellow pigments in the scales found on the wings. But don't be lulled into false security by all this beauty. When they lay eggs, all hell breaks loose. From the eggs larvae, such as caterpillars, hatch with a full-blown appetite for tender green things such as tiny new leaves on trees and shrubs. So if you're looking forward to shade from big leaves in the summer, it's wise to protect the little ones in the spring. This can be easily and inexpensively done by painting caterpillar tree bands around the trunks. You can make them yourself. Here's how you do it.

You'll need one and one-half cups (12 ounces) of POWDERED ROSIN (you can get this from an athletic supply store), one cup (eight ounces) of LINSEED OIL, and one tablespoon of ordinary PARAFFIN CANNING WAX. Put all three ingredients together in the top of a double boiler, heat and stir until melted and mixed. When cooled, transfer to a metal, plastic or glass container. To use, paint a band about three inches wide around the trunk of the tree to be protected.

The cost of making your own caterpillar tree bands is approximately 15 cents per ounce. To determine your savings, divide the cost of your store-bought brand by the number of ounces it contains. Then compare the per-ounce cost — you'll be surprised at how much you can save for so little effort.

Note: Material costs are based on the prices at retail outlets of national drug, grocery and hardware chains. These costs will vary, depending on the geographic area. If you wish to make up a larger quantity — and save even more — buy your materials at a chemical supply company (see the Yellow Pages).

(Like any chemical product you use at home, you should store this one safely, label it — listing ingredients and noting any cautions — and keep it out of reach of children.)

Americans pay for competition, price controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Because of federal regulation, it costs almost twice as much to fly from Chicago to Minneapolis as it does to fly between San Francisco and Los Angeles, even though the trips cover about the same distance.

A New Jersey company wastes 90,000 gallons of fuel a year because the government won't let the parent company's trucks carry goods for its Florida subsidiary.

Two groups filed competing applications for a radio station license in California's Central Valley 26 years ago, but the government hasn't made up its mind which application to approve.

In 1972, growers left 14,000 tons of cherries to rot in orchards because of a federal marketing order designed to keep prices up.

Inflated prices, waste, delay: these are the price Americans pay for federal agencies to regulate prices and control competition in private business.

These agencies' defenders — including generally the industries they regulate — say the costs of regulation are justified by providing services to sparsely populated areas, stabilizing prices and preventing strong firms from squeezing weaker ones out of business.

But an odd alliance of consumer advocates and conservatives reject these arguments and say many agencies' powers should be drastically cut. Ralph Nader and Ronald Reagan, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and President Ford are among those who have called for massive changes at the Interstate Commerce Commission, Civil Aeronautics Board and other agencies.

The Costs of Flying

Perhaps the clearest example of the costs of economic regulation comes with the interstate airlines, which are regulated as to fares and routes by the CAB. Airlines that fly solely within a state are not subject to the CAB.

Pacific Southwest Airlines flies thousands of people every day between San Francisco and Los Angeles for $25.50 one way. That's a 347-mile trip within the state of California.

The Northwest Orient fare between Chicago and Minneapolis — about 355 miles — is $45.37. Thus, that fare, controlled by the CAB, is close to twice the fare regulated only by a state government.

"Public Service"

The CAB and major airlines argue that the concept of "public service" must be added to the cost equation. They say many smaller cities and towns would lose air service — or have it only at the higher rates — because such service is not profitable. The CAB now requires carriers to fly such routes, and the carriers argue that the profits from other routes must support the money losing ones.

"If you think those major airlines make any money by going into those little towns, of course, they don't," says Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn. "But it's part of a service. It's like Rural Free Delivery. We've got a lot of city slickers that don't think farmers ought to get their mail either."

The "public service" concept has led the CAB to order so many flights that it has to calculate fares on the assumption that 45 to 50 per cent of the seats on each plane will be empty. This "load factor" means wasted fuel and higher fares to make up for the empty seats.

Since there is little or no competition in fares among the airlines, the competition is reduced to expensive, but not necessarily significant areas — free champagne or drinks, stewardesses' uniforms and the variety of meals. In general, the airlines which stay within a state do not offer such frills — another reason for their lower rates.

Delays, Delays

A regulatory decision can mean millions of dollars for a company and touch thousands of people. Because of the complexity of the issues and the constitutional mandate to hear all sides, agencies often take years to decide cases.

But sometimes the cases stretch interminably.

The Federal Communications Commission has been thinking about a petition from West End Radio Co. in Tracy, Calif., for a radio station license since Aug. 31, 1950. And it's also been considering the competing application from Olympia Broadcasting in Carmichael, Calif.

The FCC's file on the applications is thick, but it lacks one item: a final decision.

At the ICC, it's been 13 years since the Union Pacific Railroad asked to merge with the Rock Island line, which was in financial trouble. Thousands of pages of testimony have been taken on the issues.

But now the Rock Island line is bankrupt, and Union Pacific really doesn't want to merge any more.

On Jan. 12, the ICC once again extended the time limits for another six months for anyone interested in the case to express an opinion.

Waste Not?

Just complying with agencies' intricate regulations on price and competition often costs money, fuel or other limited materials.

For example, a Department of Transportation study discovered that a big manufacturer of building materials in New Jersey ships three truckloads of goods a week from its main plant to Tampa, Fla. The trucks make the return trip empty.

This company has a subsidiary in southern Florida that sends three truckloads of goods a week to eastern Pennsylvania. But the subsidiaries' trucks make the return trip south empty — because the ICC will not let a subsidiary's trucks carry goods for the parent company or vice versa.

The DOT study, which did not name the firm, concluded that this one company could save 360,000 miles of useless travel and 90,000 gallons of fuel a year just by running trucks in a circuit from New Jersey to Tampa to southern Florida to eastern Pennsylvania.

The ICC won't allow it. The rationale is that allowing different firms to carry one another's goods — even when they are commonly owned — would undercut the for-hire truckers.

ICC regulation of the trucking industry is required by law to eliminate destructive or unfair competition among the "common carriers," the firms that haul goods for hire.

The ICC tells truckers precisely what kinds of goods they can carry, precisely what highways they can use and what they can charge.

The ICC also limits competition by denying thousands of applications each by truckers desiring to offer new services.

The major trucking firms band together in "rate bureaus" that decide what to charge for hauling. These cartels, exempt from antitrust prosecution, then challenge any attempts to have lower rates approved by the ICC.

This keeps shipping prices higher than they could be.

An Agriculture Department study found that shipping rates for frozen fruits and vegetables dropped 18 per cent when the courts ruled those products exempt from ICC oversight. Another Agriculture study showed rates for dressed poultry plummeted 33 per cent when ICC regulation was lifted.

Food Prices

The American farmer has often been the subject of praise and promises of support on the floor of Congress.

But Congress has done more than just talk about supporting farmers: federal law allows price-fixing and strict limits on competition in the production and sale of many agricultural products, mainly milk, fruit, nuts and vegetables.

In the harsh years of the Dust Bowl and the Depression, when farmers were at the mercy of plunging prices and middlemen, Congress opened loopholes in federal antitrust laws to allow farmers to band together in cooperatives. Without the exemption, such co-ops would be illegal.

But now many co-ops are big businesses that work closely with arms of government called "marketing orders," which commonly control production, quality, the flow of produce to the market and sometimes even prices.

Associated Milk Producers Inc., which controls up to 90 per cent of the market in some midwestern areas, is a $1.4-billion-a-year giant that ranks 141st on the Fortune 500 list of industrial corporations.

Ocean Spray controls 85 per cent of the nation's cranberry sales. Sunkist Growers Inc. controls 75 per cent of the oranges and 88 per cent of the fresh lemons grown in California and Arizona.

The Secretary of Agriculture, who oversees the marketing orders, is required by law to protect consumers from price-gouging increases by the co-ops. Yet the government has never penalized a co-op for boosting prices, even though some dairy co-ops have charged prices up to 22 cents a gallon above the federal minimums for milk.

Sheer waste can be the result of the federal marketing orders, since supplies are often held low to keep prices high.

In 1970, about one-quarter of the California cling peach crop was destroyed intentionally and 8,600 acres of trees pulled up. In 1972, Ocean Spray reported 600,896 barrels of cranberries that had been held off the market were "lost due to shrinkage."

Farmers and Agriculture Department economists argue that these government restrictions, in the long run, help to even out what would otherwise be "boom-and-bust" cycles of low prices and ruinous competition alternating with short supplies and high prices.

But other economists disagree.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability says a new study shows milk prices would fall 4.5 cents a gallon if marketing orders were wiped out. For all dairy products, consumers would save $100 million to $150 million ayear. And the council adds that farmers' income would fall only $50 million to $100 million, because of the waste in the current system.

American family size decreasing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The size of the average American family hit a record low of 3.42 persons in 1975, and new Census Bureau material cites rising divorce rates and falling birth rates as two key factors.

The average family size in 1970 was 3.58 persons.

Other data in the census report released recently show the average household size is dropping. The report said one-and two-person households make up half the U.S. total of 71.1 million households.

The figures show the number of one-and two-person households rose a dramatic 29 per cent from 10.9 million in 1970 to 13.9 million in 1975.

Two-person households rose from 18.3 million in 1970 to 21.8 million in 1975, a 19 per cent increase. The report also said the number of households with five or more persons dropped over the same period.

The result is that the average number of persons per household fell from 3.14 in 1970 to 2.97 in 1974.

In 1975, it fell again slightly to 2.94.

The report noted a high rate of marriage disruption, resulting in a growing number of female-headed households, has influenced the falling size of households.

Also, it said, the growing economic independence of women has made it easier for them to establish themselves in households after divorce, rather than returning to live with relatives as often has been the case in the past.

The decision by many young couples to have smaller families or postpone childbearing until their late 20s is another factor affecting family size, the report says.

Sacrificial meal urged

PHILADELPHIA, Pa (AP) — Americans are being urged to contribute the savings from one weekly sacrificial meal to Operation Rice Bowl (ORB), an inter-faith program designed to help feed the world's hungry.

ORB is sponsored by the 41st international Eucharistic Congress, a worldwide spiritual assembly of Catholics and other Christians, which convenes here Aug. 1-8. The over-all theme of the conclave is "The Eucharist and the Hungers of the Human Family."

The Congress recommends the restricted diet meal be eaten each Wednesday during the seven weeks of Lent.

Muchos alumnos tienen dificultades para leer

El setenta por ciento de los estudiantes en 10 escuelas elementales de Pomona, la mayoria de los cuales hablan otros idiomas o dialectos pero no ingles, tienen dificultades para hablar, leer y escribir ingles, dijeron los administradores escolares.

En un intento para proveer un programa concentrado en estas areas de ensenanza, el Directorio Escolar autorizo recientemente a los administradores para que soliciten fondos de los $81,229 destinados por el gobierno federal para el Derecho a Leer.

Las causas para el fracaso masivo en las areas del dominio del lenguaje ingles son muchas, los administradores explicaron en sus solicitudes de fondos.

Ellas incluyen extrema pobreza que los prohibe relacionarse y les limita las experiencias para aprender fuera de sus casas, la barrera de no haber sido ensenados a hablar ingles desde la infancia, una extremadamente alta movilizacion (esto significa tantos ninos transferidos como enrolados), salud pobre, mala nutricion y problemas sicologicos, llegada tarde a las clases y ausencias.

Las 10 escuelas donde los centros de ensenanza del lenguaje serian establecidos si los creditos fueran aprobados y surtidos son Alcott, Arroyo, Hamilton, Harrison, Kellogg, Lexington, Madison, North San Antonio, Roosevelt y Washington.

El miembro del Directorio Escolar Gene Whitlock presento la mocion que autoriza la solicitud del credito y fue secundado por la Sra. Mary Montes. La votacion fue unanime, con cuatro miembros presentes. C. Allan Braswell estaba enfermo.

Bajo las directrices de la solicitud, los programas extensivos se iniciarian en cada una de las escuelas participantes.

Cada estudiante seria diagnosticado y ensenado individualmente a hablar, leer y escribir ingles.

La solicitud de fondos, firmada por Ray L. Thomas, asistente del superintendente de servicios educacionales, como representante autorizado, contiene la informacion pertinente de cada una de las 10 escuelas.

Esta informacion esta designada para mostrar que la necesidad existe para el credito del Derecho a Leer con el proposito primario de ensenar a los ninos y ninas en esas escuelas el uso del lenguaje ingles.

Retiro de relaciones humanas

Miembros del Comite Consejero de Estudiantes en la Pomona's School Aid Act (ESAA) Basic Project atenderan un Retiro del Relaciones Humanas en Camp Arrow Bear en Running Springs, California, durante la semana de marzo 26-28.

Todos los miembros del Comite Consejero de Estudiantes son estudiantes graduados de noveno grado que atienden las clases superiores ESAA en Ganesha, Garey, Pomona, y Pomona Catholic. Ellos proveen una voz consistente del estudiantado en todas las partes del programa ESAA, y ayudan con informes a sus condiscipulos acerca de las actividades que se projectan.

El retiro de relaciones humanas proveera a los estudiantes de etnica diferente una oportunidad de estar mejor informado y promover mejores relaciones humanas en las escuelas superiores. La disminucion y eliminacion del aislamiento racial es uno de los objetivos principales del projecto ESAA, de acuerdo con Mrs. Wilhemina Greene, supervisora del proyecto basico.

Durante el final de semana, los participantes atenderan sesiones de relaciones humanas, de cambio de impresiones y actividades multiculturales.

Los adultos invitados al retiro incluyen directores de las escuelas ESAA y otros administradores, miembros del Directorio Escolar, padres, maestros y otros miembros de la administracion.

El Comite de relaciones humanas del retiro esta presidido por Nancy Anderson, ESSA profesora de lectura y SAC patrocinadora en la Escuela Superior Pomona. Fue ayudada en el planeamiento por los otros patrocinadores SAC de las otras escuelas superiores, maestros Angelena Curtis, escuela superior Pomona Catholic, Marjorie Miller, escuela superior Ganesha, y James Molina, escuela superior Garey.

Su salud

Una discusion de la creciente enfermedad cardiovascular arteriosclerosis — comunmente llamada endurecimiento de las arterias — tendra lugar hoy en el programa regular dominical "Usted y su Salud" de KMEX, empezando a medio dia.

CONTRASTING STYLES

Style show scheduled

"You've Come a Long Way, Baby" is the theme selected for the 20th annual Mothers of Twins Club fashion show and luncheon Saturday at the Club 66 in Cucamonga.

The social hour at 11:30 a.m. will precede a 12:30 p.m. luncheon and the show.

The Pomona Valley Chapter of the National Mothers of Twins Club was established in 1954 to bring together mothers of twins and other multiple birth children for the purpose of exchanging ideas, problems and equipment.

Just as the club has grown so has its involvement in the community. Proceeds from events such as the forthcoming show have been used to assist the Crippled Children's Society, Sick Baby Fund at Pomona Valley Community Hospital, Blind Children's Center in Los Angeles and needy families.

For many years, the club supported foster twin boys through the Foster Parent Plan. These youth have now grown and become independent so the club members are planning a different philanthropic project in the local area.

Guests and members attending the luncheon will view women's clothing by Windsor Fashions in the Montclair Plaza and children's styles by The Children's Shop, Claremont.

Members serving as models this year include Mmes. Beverly Abila, Edla Becker, Linda David, Frances Gallardo, Kathy Gingerich, Nancy Lakkees, Connie Struve, Liz Tinker, Kris Williams, Delores Bass and Sharon Barker.

Children's fashions will be modeled by Sheri and Kari Barker, Dana and Deana Bass, Arron and Gerrit Becker, David and Michael Allyn, Pam and Kim David, Jacqueline and Reuben Gallardo, Ann-Marie and Ethan Gingerich, Carrie and Christie Hart, Robert and Adeen Lakkees, Leesa and Janice Liles, Matt and Stan Quay, Reena and Romona Oronoz, Keith and Kevin Vines, Ryan and Bryan Williams, Mindy and Michelle Wright and Leslie Stanley.

Mrs. Becker will serve as commentator for the show with Mrs. Lakkees as mistress of ceremonies for the afternoon.

Luncheon tickets are being handled by Mrs. Annettee Liles and Mrs. Karen Gastineau. Programs have been prepared by Mrs. Carol LaClaire and Mrs. Gallardo.

Other committee members are Mmes. Marylen Hart and Gingerich, special prize; Tinker and Pat Young, attendance awards; Abila and Struve, women's fashions; Anna Allyn and Joyce Wright, children's fashions; Williams and Gail Burton, decorations; and LaClaire, Burton, Becker, Margo Quay, Terry Buchannan, Lillian Olivares and Rose Oronoz, hostesses.

Persons interested in attending the philanthropic party are invited to contact the tickets chairmen.

French toys make debut in U.S.

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

French toys are making their debut in the United States, where their "old world craftsmanship and unique function" are expected to turn on Charlie and Carol just as they have intrigued Mimi and Pierre.

At the moment there are no dolls that cry "mama" in French. But someday, who knows, dolls may cry "mama" with French accents, said Marty Forman, general manager of the five French toy companies that have introduced their lines in this country in a joint venture. There are educational, high fashion, mechanical and squeeze toys and the line includes Christmas ornaments.

"The plush animals are mostly made by hand, the squeeze toys are made of pure rubber, and some of the toys — the crane and the bus — are so different we can't keep toy buyers from playing with them," Forman said.

The lifelike quality of the plush animals is especially emphasized by such toys as the American buffalo and family, which have long silky hair and real leather horns. Such toys are different from stuffed toys, Forman explained, because they are filled with "pure virgin kapok." Stuffed animals which are mass merchandised are made with filler materials. Plush animals, of course, are plush-priced. A 16-inch toy might sell for $40, whereas a stuffed animal of that size might be about half that price.

Squeeze toys for infants include the well known nursery characters, Donald, Mickey, Pinocchio, Bambi and Pluto, as well as pigs, elephants, mules and giraffes. Although these don't have French-sounding squeaks and they resemble their American counterparts, "they are safe, natural rubber rather than imported plastic and other materials," Forman emphasizes. Colors are chewable, nontoxic, and safety whistles do not come out, he maintains.

Although the teddy bear, which makes up 30 per cent of their line, is still the most popular animal with children, a survey revealed, the monkey is now runner-up, Forman says. And they have some interesting-looking monkeys in the line, along with giraffes, black panthers, gorillas and little foxes. Some plush animals have rockers on their peds so a small child can ride them.

A number of remote-controlled cars have a French look and there is a big bus that begins moving when a ticket is put through a slot in the roof. A crane performs eight actions with an electric remote control system, including a bucket that moves up and down, a cabin that goes forward and backward, an arm that turns right and left. The crane, which can move forward and back, is available in a number of sizes to a height of 43 inches.

French toy manufacturers investigated the American market for several years before they formed their organization a few months ago. Their research turned up various facts — that little boys still look for construction equipment, highway building toys and the like, and that toys "should be made with the idea of avoiding consumer frustration."

Although the toys are sold over the world, some lines have been designed to please children in certain countries, Forman explained. With the prospect of a downward trend in European economy upon them, the group of French toy makers decided to band together and seek other areas of distribution, he said, in explaining the new merchandising effort.

Woman educator tries to break stereotypes

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Being one of the nation's few black women school superintendents in large cities is no big deal to Dr. Edythe J. Gaines.

She believes it is more significant that so many people assume because of her title that she is a man.

"When I say on the phone 'Dr. Gaines calling,' the reply almost invariably is: 'Put HIM on," she complains.

Helping to break stereotypes is one of her causes.

Too often youngsters are labeled "you are dumb or you are young so you can't learn," she said in an interview.

Dr. Gaines, 53, rose in 28 years from English teacher to program director in the rough - and - tumble New York City system, and the art of communications is her forte.

"Language is the key thing," she says, and she communicates it with enthusiasm that turns the interview into a discussion.

Her favorite word is "sphygmos," she says, and she springs it on a listener to prove a point: It is gibberish to most people until one explains it means pulse.

And teachers can't explain to their pupils the importance of a strong sphygmos until they know what a sphygmos is.

Convinced that pupils often are not taught the meaning of many words used in classroom instruction — particularly in city schools with ethnic gaps between many teachers and pupils — she is trying to refocus teaching methods in the 30,000-pupil system, starting with English.

She concedes that the approach itself is difficult to explain but maintains: "We're on to something terribly, terribly significant."

Stressing that the problem is by no means limited to city schools, she added, "If we lick this thing it will be brilliance time as well for suburban kids, kids in the upper-middle class."

Dr. Gaines, the child of a well-to-do family, moved up the school administration ladder to principal in 1960, community superintendent in 1967 and Hartford's first black and first female superintendent last July 1. Hartford and Oakland, Calif., are among the few large United States cities with black women in such jobs.

Small but intense, Dr. Gaines chooses to talk with a visitor side-by-side at a table in her neat office rather than from her large desk.

Pieces of her African art collection sit on a bookcase alongside a bust of former President John F. Kennedy. A plaque of a Gaines "profile" from the New York Times is prominent on a wall and hanging plants add splashes of green to the high walled room.

One of her early acts as superintendent was to have the entrance of the drab brick administration building painted a bright red, adding the words "at the hub" over the door to stress its position at the center of the city school network.

She quickly became active in Hartford life, recently being chosen a director of the Hartford National Corp. and the Hartford College for Women. She and her electronic-engineer husband showed their spacious Hartford house during a fall tour of city dwellings.

She sees herself as an educational problem-solver and says she cannot recall when her sex or race was a drawback.

"I don't look into the mirror in the morning and exclaim: I'm black or I'm a woman," she is fond of saying.

Mrs. Eby named auxiliary head

Mrs. Richard E. Eby has been installed as president of the Auxiliary to the Osteopathic Physcians and Surgeons of California.

The installation was in San Francisco. Mrs. Eby held the same position 16 years ago. This year, the auxiliary will dedicate itself to rebuilding the Osteopathic profession in California. One major project will be the establishment and funding of the new California Osteopathic College for Family Medicine.

Her husband, Dr. Eby, is founder and chairman of the board of Park Avenue Hospital, Pomona, and chairman of the board of directors for the founding of the new college.

Mrs. Eby has served as past president and vice president of the Pomona Valley Osteopathic Society and vice president of the Auxiliary to the Osteopathic Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

Her state public relations chairman will be Mrs. William G. Stahl of Claremont.

MRS. RICHARD EBY

PEO unit names officers

New officers will assume their duties when Chapter PD, PEO Sisterhood, meets Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Miss Elizabeth Zilles, 235 E. Kingsley Ave., Pomona.

New officers are: Miss Kathryn Curtis, president; Mrs. E. A. Dooling, vice president; Mrs. C. T. Welch, recording secretary; Mrs. B. B. Woertz, treasurer; Mrs. Jean Mayer, chaplain; Mrs. Bernece Robertson, guard; and Mrs. L. D. Peevey, publicity. Miss Curtis and Miss Bonnie Brown will serve on the Reciprocity Board and Mrs. W. W. Cummings and Mrs. W. J. Dick will be convention representatives.

Assisting hostess at the Monday meeting will be Mrs. Mayer and Mrs. Mary Ellen Butler. Mrs. Dick will present a program on PEO projects.

Career program planned

"Horizons Unlimited", a health career program for students in grades nine through 12, will be held on Tuesday from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. at Foothill Presbyterian Hospital, Glendora.

Sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary of Foothill District 13, Los Angeles County Medical Association, the program will include a film and tours to various hospital departments.

Students, their counselors and teachers, are invited to view firsthand a nursing floor, the pathology laboratory, emergency room, dietary, coronary rehabilitation, inservice, respiratory and physical therapy departments. Hospital personnel will be available to explain procedures and to answer questions, Mrs. Dorothy Van Vranken, chairman, said.

Rembrandt Club books speaker

Robert Amory Jr. of Washington, D.C. will be the speaker at the Thursday dinner meeting of the Rembrandt Club of Pomona College.

A social hour at the home of President and Mrs. David Alexander of Pomona College will precede the 6:30 p.m. dinner in Olney dining room, Harwood Hall.

The brother of a member of the board, Mr. Amory is secretary to the Trustees and General Counsel, the National Gallery of Art. He is also president of Harvard Law School Association.

Mr. Amory, who has chosen as his topic, "Museum Trustees, keeping their feet to the fire," is a graduate of Harvard University and the Harvard Law School.

He has been admitted before the bar in several states and served many years as a college professor. In 1952, Amory was appointed Deputy Director (Intelligence) in the CIA by Allen W. Dulles in 1952. Simultaneously, he was a member of the President's Council on Foreign Economic Policy and served as chief of the International Division, Bureau of the Budget from 1962 to 1965.

Better teeth

Poor American children have better teeth than well-to-do youngsters, according to a news item in "Modern Medicine." One explanation suggested: the better-off child eats more frequently than his less affluent counterpart who may eat only two or three times a day.

NDGW sets initiation ceremony

Sixteen area residents will be initiated into membership of Rancho San Jose Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, on Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. at the Assistance League Hall, 693 N. Palomares St., Pomona. The ceremony will be preceded by a business session at 8 o'clock for members only.

'Unemployable' now heads firm

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five years ago, Surinder Dhillon was so severely handicapped by injuries sustained in an automobile accident that he was confined to a wheelchair at home. Even to the District of Columbia vocational rehabilitation agency he was considered "unemployable."

Today, Dhillon is met at home each weekday morning by a modified van equipped to handle his motorized wheelchair. He is driven to his modern offices in the Virginia suburbs of Washington, where he heads a computer software firm with 90 employes, which last year grossed over $2 million.

Life changed dramatically for 28-year-old Dhillon in 1970, when he enrolled in a demonstration program at George Washington University funded by the Rehabilitation Services Administration of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The goal of the project was to determine if people who were severely disabled could be trained to work at home, despite the fact that they had previously been turned down for vocational rehabilitation services as "unemployable."

Dhillon was assisted in learning computer programming right in his own living room by use of a personalized instruction manual augmented by a time sharing computer. He learned the mysteries of "computer talk" and with a contract from the National Aeronautics & Space Administration in Washington opened his own firm in 1972.

In tribute to the rehabilitation agencies which are trying to help handicapped people, Dhillon named his company Rehab Computer Inc.

Rehab Computer started business in a spare room in Dhillon's basement. His company provides computer software services, and research and development in training and employment of the handicapped.

In 1973, its first full year of operation, Rehab Computer grossed nearly $100,000 and paid over $65,000 in salaries to nine full-time employes, seven of them severely disabled. Today, with gross sales approaching $2,200,000, Dhillon looks forward to continued expansion of his own business, with job opportunities for still more "unemployable" handicapped people.

"I want to see disabled people using their minds and talents in challenging jobs," Dhillon says, "and not the kind of menial tasks frequently given us in sheltered workshops or 'token' programs of hiring the handicapped. By creating challenging jobs, we give the handicapped a chance not only to be independent, but the opportunity to maintain their dignity and self-respect."

Handicapped people who are considered "homebound disabled" need to get out of the house and into the community to enjoy normal social and business contacts, says Dhillon, who has formed a small company to provide transportation for handicapped people. It has seven vans equipped to take people in wheelchairs to and from work, and to other appointments. Five of his staff, previously homebound by their handicaps, now regularly report to work at the office.

But jobs can also be designed so that people can work at home, he maintains. Recently Dhillon's company designed an information retrieval system that has enabled two disabled people to work for HEW in the data processing field, by using computer terminals placed in their own homes.

Other handicapped people who "graduated" from the George Washington University project have also benefited greatly from the program. Most were public welfare clients, and all considered too handicapped for conventional vocation rehabilitation programs, even though many of them had job experience, intelligence, education and youth.

Of the 34 people eventually employed, 21 are wheelchairbound. Six of the project participants have married since graduating from the program, one purchased a home, six bought cars, and ten are no longer "homebound."

Preservation of books study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Funds totaling $176,000 have been awarded to Barrow Research Inc. of Richmond, Va., by the National Endowment for the Humanities and the Council on Library Resources.

The grant "will support a large-scale test of the morpholine vapor deacidification process for preserving books through the use of a medium-sized processor designed to treat 50-100 books simultaneously."

The press and the American Revolution

Inflation was a problem then too

By Dr. Francis G. Salett
Worcester State College

"This is no time for giting riches but to secure what we have got. Every shadow of oppression and extortion ought to disappear, but instead of that we find many articles of merchandise multiplied four fold their original value. The farmers are extortionate where ever their situation furnishes them with an opportunity. These are the people that I complain mostly of; they are wounding the cause."

This resentment toward inflation was expressed by Gen. Nathaniel Greene, writing to Gov. Samuel Ward of Rhode Island, as early as Dec. 31, 1775.

From the very outset of the war inflationary forces were felt by the Americans. The interruption of trade with Britain produced many shortages and the cost of goods rose sharply. As seems inevitable in such situations there were profiteers who eagerly put personal gain above patriotism.

One Bostonian angrily exclaimed, "It is incredible what a profit the merchants take on their wares — double in the very least. So if I buy something fourth hand., I can count upon paying almost 16 times as much as it cost first hand."

Early in the conflict when the Continental Congress forbade the importation of British manufacturers after a certain date, merchants rushed to buy all they could before the deadline of the embargo. Later as these goods became scarce and were in great demand, high prices were demanded for them. It was good business, indeed, for profits of 700 per cent were made!

What a glorious opportunity for profit-hungry businessmen, with goods scarce and the demand always increasing! How could one fail in gambling on commodities always going up in price?

Some profiteers found that angry townspeople could react violently and make life dangerous. Thomas Boylston of Boston, who was thought to be hoarding coffee, was "roughly handled" and "never so swelted since he was born." When he refused to hand over the keys to his shop to a crowd, an irate woman "seized him by his neck" to get the keys. The mob then tipped over a cart "upon him . . . opened the warehouse, hoisted out the coffee themselves and put it into the truck, and drove off."

As businessmen and profiteers drove prices up, they were undermining the already shaky value of both Continental and state currency. During the war the many issues of paper money quickly depreciated in value: with no backing in gold or silver, and only the promise of redemption from Congress and the states behind it, the paper currency lost value rapidly.

When the people lost faith in the money of Congress, someone coined the expression "not worth a Continental," a bit of slang that became part of our American vocabulary.

How to cope with this situation? Could this runaway inflation be controlled?

Members of the first Continental Congress were apprehensive about the probability of rising prices when they adopted the first nonimportation plans and tried to establish schedules that would restrain price increases. At this time the fiery young Patriot from New York had supported the effort by publishing in December 1774 A FULL VINDICATION OF THE MEASURES OF CONGRESS.

Neither this nor efforts by Congress and the states to control prices prevented a sharp increase in the cost of living and a veritable orgy of profiteering and black-marketeering. It seemed, lamented one observer, that Americans were "Slaves to our passions, Covetousness."

Utter confusion threatened the country where there was no uniformity of regulation. Speculators made a profitable business of buying commodities in a state where there were price-fixing laws, and then selling them in another state where there was no ceiling on prices. When this practice denied supplies to the Continental Army (as it often did), it seemed to many that the industrious speculators were "as wicked as the Devil himself."

From Dec. 25, 1776, to Jan. 2, 1777, a committee of four New England states met at Providence, R.I., to consider the state of affairs. After referring to "the unbounded avarice of many persons," the "most intollerable exhorbitant price of every necessary and convenient article of life," and "the most extravagant price of labour," the committee adopted schedules for the strict regulation of prices.

Although the legislatures of the New England states adopted the wage and price schedules, they had little effect. People refused to submit to controls. Abigail Adams summed it up this way: "The merchant scolds, the farmer growls, and everyone seems wroth that he cannot grind his neighbor."

Congress did not look kindly at first on the action of the New England states; it seemed to some members like the seizue of power that belonged to the central government. After lenghty debate over what the best remedy for inflation was, however, Congress did approve the regulations of the Providence meeting. It also recommended that regional agreements be found in other sections.

One result of this was a conference at York, Pa. This disbanded when "the principle of leaving trade to regulate itself" was strongly argued, and nothing was accomplished. Through it all there was no effective action taken by the states as a whole to deal with inflation.

Most members of Congress realized that the excessive issues of unbacked paper money were in large part responsible for rising prices. But they had to face the all-important question: how else can we finance the war? Loans from abroad were barely large enough to stave off bankruptcy; and requisitions on the states, which were reluctant to impose taxes, did not provide much support for the central government. In 1780 Congress devalued its currency, making one gold dollar worth 40 Continentals. This momentarily wiped out the government's debt, but inflation continued.

Using an argument with a surprisingly modern ring, Franklin declared that the depreciation of the currency operated like a tax on those who lost value; and he noted that it was a fair device because "those people paid most, who, being richest, had the most money passing through their hands."

In the welter of the unworkable price controls, regulations against monopoly, and efforts to restrict currency issues, there were some who profited handsomely; others struggled desperately to supply their needs and meet obligations during the worst inflation in American history. Whatever the justice or injustice of the issuance of large quantities of paper money, however, this was the principle means by which the Americans paid for the War for Independence.

UCLA and Indiana will go at it again

Hoosiers, Rutgers, Michigan advance

Indiana continued its relentless march toward the national championship with an impressive victory over Marquette and joined UCLA, Rutgers and longshot Michigan in advancing to the semifinals of the NCAA Basketball Tournament Saturday.

The Hoosiers, 30-0 and ranked No. 1, turned back No. 2 Marquette 65-56 to win the Mideast regional at Baton Rouge, La.; Defending champion UCLA, 26-4 and ranked fifth, overpowered Arizona 82-66 in the West regional at the Bruins' home court in Los Angeles; No. 4 Rutgers, 31-0, ran by Virginia Military 91-75 in the East regional at Greensboro, N.C., and No. 9 Michigan, 24-6, trimmed Missouri 95-88 to win the Midwest regional at Louisville, Ky.

So it's on to Philadelphia where Indiana will play UCLA and Rutgers will meet Michigan in the semifinals next Saturday afternoon. The survivors play for the championship Monday night, March 29.

The semifinal doubleheader will be televised, starting with the Rutgers-Michigan game at 11:15 a.m. PST.

Indiana, which has lost just one of its last 65 games, goes into the final four as the favorite. The Hoosiers, despite the benching of All-American Scott May with foul problems, broke to a 30-19 lead midway through the first half against Marquette. But the scrappy Warriors rallied to trail by one, 36-35, at the half.

The Hoosiers again pulled away in the second half as May returned to score 11 points and give his team a 51-41 advantage with 10:23 left. Again Marquette rallied. Forcing Hoosier turnovers, the Warriors rode the outside shooting of Earl Tatum to close within 57-54 with 2:18 remaining.

But Marquette's hopes ended when Tom Abernethy sank a pair of free throws and the Hoosiers retained possession of the ball due to a technical foul called on Warriors' Coach Al McGuire. Free throws by Abernethy and Bob Wilkerson and a layup by Quinn Buckner iced the Indiana victory.

Burly center Kent Benson topped the Hossiers with 18 points, May had 15 and Abernethy 12. Tatum led Marquette, 27-2, with 22 points and Bo Ellis added nine.

Mike Dabney and Ed Jordan scored 23 points apiece for Rutgers against hustling but outmanned VMI. The Scarlet Knights broke it open with a 22-7 streak in the final 4½ minutes of the first half and went on top by 21 early in the second. The Keydets, plagued by fouls, crept to within 10 with 8½ minutes left but could get no closer.

VMI lost four players on fouls, including Will Bynum who led all scorers with 34 points. All-American Phil Sellers added 16 points for Rutgers.

Michigan got a balanced attack going to overcome a 43-point outburst by Missouri guard Willie Smith. The Wolverines built an 18-point first-half lead before Smith led the Tigers back with his long-range jumpers after intermission. Missouri surged ahead 76-71 with 7:54 left, but Michigan resumed the offensive and gradually pulled ahead for good behind Johnny Robinson and Rickey Green.

The Wolverines went into a stall over the final two minutes to protect their lead.

Green finished with 23 points, Robinson added 21 and Phil Hubbard 20 for the winners.

Washington leads Bruins down stretch

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — UCLA is best in the West again and now the nation will find out if the Bruins are indeed the class of college basketball.

The Bruins won their 10th straight NCAA West Regional championship at friendly Pauley Pavilion Saturday afternoon and will tackle undefeated top-ranked Indiana next Saturday in the national semifinals in Philadelphia in what shapes up as a classic rematch.

It wasn't easy for UCLA Saturday but the Bruins went to work when it got tough to end up with an impressive 82-66 victory over Arizona before 12,459 fans and a national television audience.

Arizona caught up at 58-58 with 8:21 left in the game to make it nervous for Bruin fans but it was all UCLA after that. The Bruins scored the next 12 points in an overpowering spurt and outscored the Wildcats, 18-2, in a seven-minute stretch.

In that streak, UCLA looked just like all of its previous championship teams. Two more efforts like that and UCLA officials will be trying to find a spot in Pauley Pavilion for the school's 11th national championship banner in 13 years.

"Certainly we're happy about beating a good Arizona team," UCLA Coach Gene Bartow said. "We played extremely well down the stretch. I guess we're where we're supposed to be at this time of year according to everybody out here."

Forward Richard Washington, who was voted the outstanding player in the Regionals, came alive in the final eight minutes to spark the spurt.

"During our last time out before we ran off those 12 points, Richard said to me, 'I'm gonna get me some points' and he did," Bartow said.

Washington made only four of 14 shots in the first half but he put in 7-of-10 during the final 20 minutes.

"Richard was especially tough down the stretch," Bartow said, "but David Greenwood, Ralph Drollinger, Raymond Townsend and Marques Johnson all played their hearts out. And nobody can be happier than Andre McCarter, who said all season long he planned to be home in Philadelphia this time of the year."

Washington led all scorers with 22 points. He was followed by Townsend's 16, Johnson's 14 and Greenwood's 10. Townsend was a big factor in the victory with his outside shooting (7-of-12).

Arizona, with its big front line, stayed with the Bruins thanks to its inside game. But the Wildcats were hurting from the outside because of the heel injury to guard Jim Rappis.

Rappis, who was hurt in Thursday's win over Nevada Las Vegas, played 34 minutes Saturday but his shooting was off with only one field goal in eight attempts.

"We had to make some adjustments because of Jim's injury," Coach Fred Snowden said. "We knew he would probably not shoot well but we needed him to quarterback our attack."

"We ran into a cold spell today," Snowden explained, "and I believe UCLA had something to do with it. In the end, UCLA played a better game. We had our crack at it but couldn't make the clutch baskets."

Arizona placed three players on the All-Tournament team in guards Herman Harris and Rappis plus forward Al Fleming. UCLA was represented by Washington and Johnson.

Harris, who scored 31 against Las Vegas, led Arizona Saturday with 18 followed by 14 apiece from forwards Fleming and Phil Taylor. Fleming also pulled down 16 rebounds in a tremendous showing on the boards.

Until the sudden spurt, UCLA's biggest lead in the game came late in the first half with a six-point margin. The Bruins enjoyed a 38-35 lead at halftime with Arizona cutting into it during the second half.

"We never could quite get to the point we could take command," Snowden said.

UCLA shot 51.4 per cent from the floor while Arizona hit on only 42 per cent. The teams were deadlocked in rebounds with 41 apiece.

Now all the basketball talk will center on the game between UCLA and Indiana with the other semifinal match between Rutgers and Michigan taking a back seat.

The Hoosiers drubbed the Bruins, 84-64, in St. Louis back in December to open the season.

"Our players want very much to play Indiana again," Bartow said. "We played a bad game against them in St. Louis. Maybe we were too tight because it was my first game as coach at UCLA. I hesitate to say that because Indiana still may have beaten us by 15 points even if we played well.

"Indiana is a super team as its record the past two years indicates," Bartow added. "However, if we play as well as we have played recently, we can play ball with any college team and Indiana is a college team."

Carter free on bail

PATERSON, N.J. (AP) — Former middleweight boxer Rubin "Hurricane" Carter, amid a news-camera barrage, walked free from jail Saturday for the first time in nearly 10 years.

He and co-defendant John Artis, who were granted a new trial on charges of a triple murder in a Paterson tavern in 1966, went free on bail posted by the Carter-Artis National Defense Fund—$20,000 for Carter and $15,000 for Artis.

Carter, 38, was taken to the Passaic County Courthouse from the Clinton Reformatory about 50 miles from here, while Artis, 30, was brought from the Leesburg State Prison, about 130 miles away.

They appeared before Superior Court Judge Bruno Leopizzi. Defense attorneys Myron Beldock and Lewis Steel said they did not know when the new trial would begin.

In a brief message from the bench on Friday, Leopizzi said "all counsel and the defendants are forbidden to release information about this case to the public or the media."

And Carter told reporters after the bail-bond hearing he was forbidden to make any judicial comment other than information presently on the public record.

Carter and Artis were granted bail Friday after a 3½-hour closed-door meeting between attorneys for the two men and Passaic County Prosecutor Burrell Ives Humphreys. The meeting was held in Leopizzi's chambers without the defendants present.

Last Wednesday, the two men were granted a new trial by the New Jersey Supreme Court.

In a unanimous 7-0 ruling, the state's highest court ruled the original trial in 1967 was prejudiced because the jury and the defense were not informed of promises of leniency made to two key prosecution witnesses who had criminal charges pending against them.

The witnesses, Arthur Bradley and Alfred Bello, gave testimony that placed Carter and Artis at the scene of the triple murders. They recanted their testimonv in 1974.

Kings bump Canadiens

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Defenseman Bob Murdoch struck for one goal and set up aother to help Los Angeles score a 4-3 National Hockey League win over Montreal Saturday night and snap the Canadiens' unbeaten string of 15 games.

The victory enabled the Kings to move back into a tie for second place with idle Pittsburgh in the Norris division playoff chase.

Montreal, the NHL's best road team, trailed Los Angeles 4-1 going into the final period but staged a spirited two-goal rally in the final stanza.

Guy LaPointe and Murray Wilson fired in goals 26 seconds apart in the third period to trim the Los Angeles lead to 43.

LaPointe's 20th goal of the season came on a Montreal power play, while Wilson's 10th goal was a deflection off his stick into the net at the 8:21 mark.

The Canadiens completely dominated the action in the third period, outshooting the Kings 13-3, but a stubborn Los Angeles defense held on to pin the Canadiens with only their 10th loss of the season against 54 victories and 10 ties.

Tommy Williams shot Los Angeles into a 1-0 lead at 6:29 of the first period and Murdoch's fifth goal of the season stretched the Kings' lead to 2-0 at the 14-minute mark.

Guy Lafleur blasted a 55-footer from inside the blue line on a Canadiens' power play to reduce the Kings' margin to one goal late in the period.

Mike Murphy fired a 30-footer at the nine-minute mark of the second period and Don Kozak's 17th goal at 15:33 of the same period stretched the Kings'advantage to 4-1.

Montreal outshot the Kings 34-28

Suns gain on Lakers

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Alvan Adams canned 29 points as the Phoenix Suns blasted the Los Angeles Lakers 106-93 in National Basketball Association play Saturday night.

Phoenix now stands at 34-36 and picks up a game on the second place Lakers in the three-way race for a playoff spot in the Pacific Division. The Lakers dropped back to 36-36.

Phoenix shot ahead to 27-22 at the end of the first quarter on 57 per cent shooting from the floor. Admas had eight for Phoenix in the quarter while Don Ford had the same total for the Lakers.

The Suns, with Adams scoring nine second quarter points, burst ahead 52-38 at the half as the Lakers managed only 16 points in the quarter. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar had 10 points in the half and seven rebounds to pace the Lakers.

With balanced scoring, control of the boards, tight defense and a running game, the Suns exploded to an 81-62 lead at the end of the third quarter. Phoenix led in the quarter by as much as 22 points.

Jabbar had 13 points in the period for the Lakers who went 2:30 without a point.

High scorer for the Lakers was Jabbar with 28 points, followed by Ford with 16.

"I thought Phoenix played aggressive ball," said Lakers Coach Bill Sharman. "They controlled the boards. We just couldn't shoot.

"When they control the boards it kills our running game. We didn't play well in any department. In the first half they really pushed us around. We're not a muscle team," said Sharman.

NBA subsidies revealed

NEW YORK (AP) — Each team in the National Basketball Association paid part of the salaries of superstars such as Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Rick Barry and Elvin Hayes for a period of at least five seasons beginning in 1968, the New York Times reported in its Sunday editions.

The Times story was based on documents filed in Federal District Court in New York in connection with the Oscar Robertson suit, the litigation between the NBA Players Association and the league owners which sought an end to the reserve clause and other contractual changes. A basic agreement which would settle the suit was announced Feb. 3, but all details have not yet been worked out.

At the height of the bidding war between the NBA and the American Basketball Association, NBA teams contributed to a pool which totaled more than $1.5 million which was used to sign top players, the Times reported.

In 1968, the 14 NBA teams reportedly contributed a total of $547,100 towards the salaries of the league's first-round draft choices, which included Hayes, Wes Unseld and Don Chaney. A similar arrangement was in effect the following year, when the top collegians included Abdul-Jabbar, Neal Walk and Lucius Allen. It was also used in 1972-73, when Golden State lured Barry back to the NBA after a sojourn in the ABA.

In Abdul-Jabbar's case, according to the Times story, Milwaukee paid the first $500,000, the pool paid the next $300,000 and Milwaukee paid the remainder of his contract, which was not disclosed. For Barry, the pool paid all of his salary above $100,000.

The Times said Simon P. Gourdine, the NBA's deputy commissioner, would not comment on the story or acknowledge that a pool did indeed exist.

The source of the story, according to the Times, was a 15-foot stack of papers filed in connection with the Robertson suit that are public record. These include pages from NBA ledgers and memos from former Commissioner Walter Kennedy to team owners.

There was no evidence of a similar arrangement among ABA teams, although according to the Times the documents did show that teams got reductions in their league assessments for signing stars like Julius Erving and David Thompson.

Other items revealed in the papers, according to the Times report, included:

—A memo from Gourdine dated March 12, 1975, apparently intended for use in salary negotiations, listing the salaries of the league's 10 best forwards as: Bill Bradley, $325,000; Spencer Haywood, $302,000; John Havlicek, $250,000; Rick Barry, $237,500; Elvin Hayes, $202,000; Jim McMillian, $200,000; Rody Tomjanovich, $166,666; Bob Dandridge, $150,000; Bob Love, $141,200, and Steve Mix, $45,000. All except Mix had no-cut provisions in their contracts.

—Wilt Chamberlain was paid $510,000 to coach the ABA's San Diego Conquistadors in the 1973-74 season, while the salaries of his 11 players totaled $469,000. The team reported gate receipts of just $241,551.50 that year, and is now defunct.

Toronto may get choice of franchises

NEW YORK (AP) — The American league voted Saturday to expand to Toronto for 1977 and the National League immediately set up a possible collision course by saying it would actively consider expansion to the same city for the same season.

Presidents Lee MacPhail of the American League and Chub Feeney of the National League announced their separate actions at the conclusion of the joint meeting if the 24 major league owners.

"The American League has declared its intention to expand to Toronto in 1977 and so advised the National League and the commissioner in a joint meeting," MacPhail said.

Then Feeney disclosed the National League's plans, saying his league will actively consider expansion for 1977 and, if it adopts expansion, Toronto will be included."

Garey fourth at invitational

HUNTINGTON BEACH — Stan Webster and Morris Cole paced Garey High in a fourth-place finish in the Small Schools Division of the Southern Counties Invitational track meet Saturday at Huntington Beach High.

Webster took third in both the 330-yard low hurdles (39.0 seconds) and the long jump (22 feet, 5¼ inches). Although running the lows for only the second time, Webster turned in a 38.6 — the fastest time of the season by any valley prep athlete — in a qualifying heat.

Cole placed second in a photo finish to Arroyo's Mike Florence in the 220, with both timed at 22.1, and second to Santa Ana Valley's Mike Rhue in the 100. Cole's time was 10.0 and Rhue's was 9.8.

Cole's time in the 220 is the best in the valley this season.

Webster, Cole, Tori Shepherd and Larry Jones won the mile relay in 3:27.5, another best time for the area.

Ganesha's Carl Bailey took second in his heat of the 440 in 49.6, 1.2 seconds faster than his previous best.

Garey, with 17 points, finished behind Crespi (28), Santa Ana Valley (27) and Blair (18).

Broncs corral Cowboys

By BRENT SHYER
PB Correspondent

The Broncos of Cal Poly were running wild Saturday afternoon at Poly's Kellogg Field.

Poly's baseball team swept a doubleheader from the Wyoming Cowboys by scores of 16-3 and 4-3.

The win upped the Broncos record to 12-13-1 on the season, while the double dunking for the Cowboys dropped their mark to 3-11.

Although the Poly players had just come off a tough week of final exams, they still had enough energy left to win twice and would have received an "A" for effort in anyone's grade book.

In the first game, the Broncos were trailing 1-0 going into the bottom of the fourth inning, when they exploded for 11 runs on 12 hits. Poly brought 16 men to bat in the wild inning. Monty Cloward started the run parade by pushing a perfect squeeze bunt by pitcher Jerry Orr that scored Ray Pekarcik and Dale Biggs.

The Broncos then used six straight hits to score four more times and lead 6-1. Biggs singled to drive in two more, and Cloward collected his second hit of the inning, a triple, to chase home another pair.

Sherow, who is batting .400 on the season, picked up Cloward with his second single of the inning to give the Broncos their 11th tally.

The Broncos added five runs in the seventh, with the big blow being a three-run pinch-hit home run by Lon Brusegard. Cloward drove home another run with a double, his fifth RBI of the game.

Because of the week layoff for finals, Bronco skipper John Scolinos gave all of his pitchers a workout. In the first game, five Poly hurlers participated. Gil Molina, (1-1) a lefthander, picked up the win.

Other pitchers used were Rick Schwenn, Tom Rosenstein, Gary Zakem, and John Kistner.

Wyoming scored its first run on a sacrifice fly by George Peck, in the fourth inning. In the seventh, a double by Charlie Angelini drove home Kirk Harris who had singled. Kevin Callinan scored on a wild pitch by Zakem, for the Cowboys third tally.

The Broncos slapped the ball for 22 hits. Pomona's Pekarcik and Cloward each had four hits, while Alex Torrez had three.

In the nightcap, Poly scored all four of its runs in the fourth inning. That meant that in the two games the Broncos tallied 15 times in the fourth frame.

All of the runs were tainted, however, because of a two-out error on Wyoming shortstop Angelini. With Torres on second, after he singled and stole a base, Steve Thompson reached base on the error. Torres took third on the play. Thompson then ran on a pitch and rather than allowing him to steal the base, Cowboy catcher Don Clayton threw down to the bag. That allowed Torres to come home.

Cloward, who had five hits and two walks in the games, singled for another unearned run as Thompson came across. Kevin McLean ripped one up the left field alley for the third run. Sherow, who went four-for-nine in the twinbill, tagged the ball to the right field gap and raced around the bases for a stand-up triple which plated McLean.

Both teams collected eight hits in the second game. Jack Bamgargner was the lone pitcher for Wyoming and he took the loss.

Poly used Chuck Belk, Mike Regus, Kistner, and Bruce MacPherson, with Regus picking up his fourth win.

Poly will face the USC Trojans on Tuesday night at 7 at Dedeaux Field, before traveling to Hawaii to take on the University of Hawaii.

Leos split twinbill with Arizona

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

Leo bats helped La Verne College split a pair of seven-inning games with visiting U. of Arizona Saturday at La Verne.

The Leopards (6-11) pounded out 14 hits to win the first game, 10-6, behind the relief pitching of Fernie Tarin. But the visiting Wildcats (25-10) powered their way to a come-from-behind 4-3 victory in the nightcap.

Both games were, by pre-agreement, limited to seven innings because the Wildcats had to catch an early plane back to Tucson.

"I thought we played good defensively," said coach Ben Hines. "Fernie came in and did a very good job in the first game. It looks like he will stay right in the rotation."

Tarin, a 6-3 right hander, is a transfer from Mt. san Antonio College. He has been playing on the jayvee team because of control problems.

But he didn't show it Saturday. Taking over for starter Joe McLaughlin with three runs across and two on base in the fourth inning, Tarin struck out Pete Van Horne to end the inning.

"I'm happy to take two of three," said Arizona's Jerry Kindall. "We have great respect for Ben Hines' teams. "We want him over every year and we'd like to come over here."

The Leos jumped on Dave Crutcher for seven runs on six hits in the first two innings. Crutcher was carried out on his shield with nobody out, two runs home and a runner at second base in the second inning.

In the first inning, John Laubhan followed a one-out walk to Tim Burzette and a single by Wayne Redfearn with a three-run homer. Ralph Valadez doubled, took third on a wild pitch and scored on Steve Polen's sacrifice fly.

That was all for the shell-shocked Crutcher. He was replaced by Dave Germet who retired Burzette and Redfearn easily. But Laubhan cracked a triple to give him four runs batted in in his first two times at bat.

Meanwhile, McLaughlin kept courting disaster because of a lack of control, a chronic problem with the big righthander.

He gave up a run in the first on Zimmerman's leadoff double, a single by Dave Stegman and a walk. He escaped damage in the second and third although issuing a pair of passes in each stanza.

But the hard-throwing ASU transfer couldn't luck his way through the Arizona fourth.

After striking out the first batter, he gave up five straight singles and hit the next batter. He was fortunate in that Glen Wendt tried to score on a wild pitch and was out at the plate, Burzette to McLaughlin.

Hines immediately brought in Tarin who preserved the win. He gave up two runs in the sixth on a walk, Stegman's double and a single. Those were the only hits he allowed.

La Verne scored its final three runs in the fifth. There were singles by Valadez, Steve Watson, Wolters and Redfearn.

The Leos reeled off two double plays to give them 19 in 17 games.

The second game was scoreless until the La Verne third. The Leopards scored three times on a walk to Proulx, Jim Pearns' single, Page's sacrifice and back-to-back doubles by Burzette and Redfearn.

But the Wildcats tied it in the fourth on a walk, single and Van Horne's three-run homer.

Stegman, the Wildcat's leading hitter, won it in the fifth on a home run that hit the top of the leftfield fence and bounced over.

"Paul (McGuire) pitched very well," said Hines. "He just got the ball up a little in the fourth and fifth innings. But overall, I'm a little disappointed in our pitching. We're giving up too many runs."

Sports briefs

WEMBLEY, England (AP) — John Stracey of Britain stopped Hedgemon Lewis of Los Angeles in the 10th round Saturday night and retained the World Boxing Council welterweight title.

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP) — Michiko Yokoyama of Japan shot a five-over-par 77 Saturday but maintained the lead in the $28,333 Hiroshima Open with a two-round total of 149, two strokes better than runner-up Michiko Okada.

GHENT, Belgium (AP) — European lightweight champion Fernand Roelands of Belgium defeated Italy's Ugo Pboli in a 10-round bout Friday night.

Roelands, who won the European title a month ago when he beat France's Andre Holyk, was not defending his championship.

MEDAN, Indonesia (AP) — Burma's Mya Aye fired a two-under-par 70 Saturday and increased his lead to three-strokes after three rounds in the $25,000 Indonesian Open golf tournament.

Aye had a total of 207. Kuo Chi Shiung of Taiwan remained in second place with a 71—210.

Stags beaten twice

Whittier College took a commanding lead in the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC) Saturday with a pair of wins over visiting Claremont-Mudd.

The Poets defeated the Stags, 7-3 and 6-5. That gives Whittier (8-0) a 3½ game lead over Claremont-Mudd (3-2) and La Verne (2-1).

In the only other games involving conference play, Pomona-Pitzer split a twinbill with Redlands. The Sagehens (3-4) outscored the Bulldogs (2-6), 10-6 in the opener, but took a 14-2 shellacking in the nightcap.

At Whittier, Greg Jones' three-run home run in the third and Frank Bencomo's two-run blast in the fourth were more than enough to give Joe Maiberger (5-1) his first loss.

The Stags had taken a 2-0 lead in the top of the third on singles by Bob Turek, an error and singles by Wynn Moore and Jon Begerow. The other run came in the fifth on Al Golad's hit, Turek's double and a sacrifice fly by Andy Roundtree.

In the second game, two Stag errors, a walk, Jones' double and Bencomo's single gave the Poets three runs in the first off Norm Richards.

The Poets added solo runs in the third, fourth and eighth while the Stags scored in the second, fourth and ninth.

Pomona-Pitzer scored six runs on only two hits enroute to its first-game win at Redlands. Jim Busteraud's three-run double, was the big blow. Redlands contributed with six walks, three passed balls and two wild pitches.

Chris Dialynas clouted a two-run homer in the three-run Pomona fifth.

Mounties whip OCC

Mt. San Antonio College evened its South Coast Conference baseball record at 2-2 Saturday with an easy 13-3 win at Orange Coast.

In Mission Conference action, Citrus pushed its league mark to a spotless 5-0 with an 8-1 win over visiting Riverside City College, but Chaffey was bombed by San Bernardino 16-7.

The Mounties pounded out 14 hits off five Pirate pitchers in the win at OCC. Leading the offense were Danny Gans, three hits and four RBI, Tracy Cowger, four hits and three RBI and Orv Noconie, three hits.

Val Primante socked a solo homer, his first round-tripper of the year, to add to the MSAC attack.

Mountie hurlers Kevin Chapman and Dave Melton combined for a four-hitter. Chapman went the first seven and 1/3 innings, fanning three and walking two while allowing all four OCC safeties. Melton finished up with one and 2/3 innings of scoreless relief, fanning three Pirates.

MSAC now stands at 10-5-1 on the year. Orange Coast is a winless 0-5 in league and 3-11 on the year.

Citrus had only eight hits against RCC, but the Owls made them count.

Claremont High product Tony Janusz paced the Citrus attack, hammering out a double and a triple good for five RBIs. His bases-loaded triple in the fourth iced the win for the Owls, as they advanced their season mark to 13-3.

Roy Naas went the distance on the hill for the victory, scattering 10 hits.

Chaffey fell victim to a nine-run explosion by SBVC in the ninth inning, as the Indians put together four hits, two Panther errors and five costly walks in that frame off three Chaffey hurlers.

Earlier, the hosts had tied the game at 7-7 with a big six-run seventh, highlighted by Murray Daniels' two-run single, Larry Jones run-producing double and Rod Weigand's game-tying single.

Rick Munoz added a solo home run to the Panther attack. SBVC was led by Paul Cullen's five-for-six effort, as he drove home four runs. Kevin Stanfield added three hits and three RBI to the winning effort.

SBVC is now 3-2 in Mission action, while Chaffey is 2-3. Overall, the Panthers stand at 8-9.

MSAC will continue SCC play on Tuesday as they host san Diego Mesa. Citrus will entertain Palomar Tuesday in a Mission fray, while Chaffey is set to host Southwestern. All three of those games feature 2:30 p.m. starts.

UC Riverside set for baseball tourney

RIVERSIDE — The 10th Annual Riverside National Intercollegiate Baseball Tournament opens its six-day, 29-game show Monday.

Perennial national Power Arizona State has been picked as the pre-tournament favorite, with the rest of the field bunched closely behind.

"It should be the closest competition we've seen in the ten years of the tournament's existence," said tourney director Don Edwards. "Eastern Michigan was in the College World Series with ASU last year. UCR has improved its team, which won the tourney in 1975. Brigham Young and Tulsa play as fine a game of baseball as you can find, and Stanford always does well here. Oregon State was 28-10 (won-loss) last year and Delaware was 28-6. Both bring veteran teams to Riverside."

The eight teams play each other once and the team with the best win-loss record in the Blue Division (Delaware, Stanford, Tulsa or UCR) will meet the team with the best win-loss record in the Gold Division (Arizona State, BYU, Eastern Michigan or Oregon State) in the Saturday (March 27) championship game at Evans Park at 7 p.m. (PST).

Tickets for the tournament, which is co-sponsored by the Riverside Press-Enterprise, Riverside Parks and Recreation Dept., and the University of California, Riverside are on sale at many locations in Riverside. A $5 series ticket is good for any of the 29 games to be played. Tickets for each game are $1 per adult, 50 cents for students with identification. Children under age 12 are admitted free.

CARDS TO BE IN BLUE

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals say the color of their road uniforms no longer will be gray. This year the Red Birds will wear what they call "victory blue" uniforms on the road.

However, the uniforms will still bear the traditional birds at bat

Porsches dominate Sebring

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Al Holbert and Michael Keyser teamed in a Porsche Carrera Saturday night to win the 12 Hours of Sebring, oldest endurance race in North America.

Holbert, a 28-year-old Warrington, Pa. car dealer, and Keyser, a 28-year-old film producer from Towson, Md. completed 230 laps over the 5.2-mile Sebring airport road course to average 99.66 miles an hour.

They finished two laps ahead of the second place car, an ex-Holbert Porsche co-driven by John Gunn of Miami and Carson Baird of Laurel, Md.

The race, which began at noon EST, was officially over at 11:06 p.m.

Third was a Porsche Carrera entered by Mexicans Roberto Gonzales and Roberto Quintanilla, three laps behind the leaders.

Fourth place went to a Carrera co-driven by Bob Hagestad and Jerry Jolly, both of Denver. The Hagestad-Jolly car lagged five laps behind the leaders.

Green leading in Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A large number of golf's touring pros have complained— some mildly, some more vehemently— about the grainy, Bermuda grass greens they've encountered at the $175,000 Greater Jacksonville Open.

But Hubert Green, a native of Alabama, a former collegiate star at Florida State and now a resident of nearby Bay Point, Fla., is right at home on these conditions.

"If you're putting good and you know Bermuda greens, know the grain, you can be a little more brave on your putting," Hubert said Saturday after his five-under-par 67 had staked him to the third-round lead in this non-televised event and put him in prime position to claim a rare, second consecutive title.

"You don't have to worry so much about running the ball past the hole. You can stroke your putts with much more authority," said Green, who scored a runaway victory last week in the Doral Open.

"My putter has been working a little bit better the last couple of weeks," he said.

The lean-and-lanky Green, in a slump until his triumph last week, came from two strokes off the pace and established a one shot edge with his 206 total.

Green, rapidly becoming one of the game's more popular players, rewarded the big gallery that trailed him on his trek through a plush residential area spiked by pines and mirrored by lakes with five birdies and no bogeys in a solid round that made him the man to catch in Sunday's final 18 holes of the chase for a $35,000 first prize.

Green, who has parlayed his crouched and curious putting style into 10 international triumphs in the past five years, was chased by a diversified corps that included such veterans as Miller Barber, U.S. Open Champ Lou Graham and globe-trotting Gary Player; second-round leader Mike Hill; and young challengers Ben Crenshaw and—once again— Mark Hayes.

LEARNING THE ROPES — Poly students Carol Brennan and Jeff Tracy get harness driving lesson from retired champion Gerry Longo.

Poly students to race

LOS ALAMITOS — Cal Poly Pomona students Carol Brennan and Jeff Tracy are among 12 students competing for a berth in California's first intercollegiate harness race, scheduled for Thursday at Los Alamitos Racetrack, according to Dan Downs, general manager of the Southern California Racing Association.

Those two, along with 10 other students from several major Southern California colleges and universities are currently in training with drivers at the Orange County track in hopes of earning a spot in the race to determine the state champion.

One student from each of the six schools will be selected, through a "race off," to compete in the exhibition one mile sulky race with the eventual winner being sent to Roosevelt Raceway in New York in June for the United States Championships and hopefully on to the international competition in Canada against countries such as Sweden, Finland, Norway, Germany and Australia.

Carol Brennan is strongly involved in the Arabian horse program at Cal Poly Pomona, including all aspects of breeding and raising. "I'm amazed at how enthusiastic all the drivers are to help us," Carol said while on her indoctrination tour of Los Alamitos.

Jeff Tracey is an agricultural business major who Carol says has been a big help with the Arabian horse program at Cal Poly Pomona. "He comes in and helps with the horses," Carol, who shows horses herself, said. "He even breaks many of them."

Students from other schools that will be competing in the event are Kevin McKenna and Julie Morgan of USC, Dave Ferrell and Elaine Osborn of Cal State Fullerton, Clara Gontero and Harry Osbon of UC Irvine, Vic Neally and Judy Abarbanel of UCLA and Deby Spann and Dick Hicks of Cal State Long Beach.

Downs expressed thanks to Herb Adams of Cal Poly Pomona for his cooperation and assistance in setting up the first collegiate race in California history.

Furniss looks forward to meet

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — "Next to the Olympics, I'd rather win the NCAAs than any other meet," said Bruce Furniss, freshman on the University of Southern California's powerful swim team.

Furniss, one of the world's best freestylers, has never participated in the NCAA Division I Swimming and Diving Championship. But he has learned about the importance and intensity of the biggest collegiate swim extravanganza from his brother.

Steve Furniss, near the top of the world rankings in the individual medley races, was injured during last year's exciting NCAAs, serving instead as swim manager and No. 1 fan for the Trojans, who stroked their way to an impressive victory over favored Indiana.

That gave the Trojans two straight national swim titles and this week they find themselves in an unusual position— favored to win the NCAA championships, which run Wednesday through Saturday at Brown University.

In 1974, before a pro-Southern Cal crowd at Long Beach, Calif., the Trojans broke Indiana's six-year domination of the national title with a 339-338 upset victory.

"Long Beach was a fluke," said Trojan Coach Peter Daland. "If you held 10 other NCAA meets (that) year, we would have lost to Indiana by 50 points every time."

Last year at Cleveland, the positions remained the same with Southern Cal opening some breathing room in picking up 344 points to 274 for runnerup Indiana. UCLA was third, Tennessee finished fourth and Alabama was fifth.

Those five schools are expected to end up at the top of the heap again.

"I haven't analyzed the meet yet," said Daland. "But I feel there are five teams in contention with us—Indiana, UCLA, Alabama and Tennessee."

The manager of Indiana—the great powerhouse built by swim Coach Doc Counsilman—groups the same five teams, but he has the Trojans a couple of lengths ahead of the rest of the field.

"It will be tough and I don't think we'll win," said John Christ, Indiana's manager. "USC seems to have too much depth."

Marcis heads field

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — Dave Marcis, currently the hottest driver on the NASCAR Grand National stock car circuit, is scheduled to lead one of the most tightly grouped fields ever in the start of today's 17th annual Atlanta 500.

Even though Marcis set a qualifying record of 160.709 miles an hour in winning the pole position for the $151,900 race, the rest of the 36-car field was within 10 m.p.h. of his speed—a record for this event.

Marcis, who has taken the pole twice for the six races so far this season and been disqualified from a third, has already won the Richmond 500 and a qualifying race for the Daytona 500 this season while campaigning the Harry Hyde-prepared Dodge.

"How well we do depends a lot on how well the car is handling in the race," said Marcis, an easy-going, hard-driving Wisconsin native. "Atlanta Raceway is a big short track. It takes handling to get through the turns."

Marcis said a new NASCAR carburetor restriction, cutting the engine's fuel flow almost in half, will slow race speeds somewhat, although they didn't affect qualifying speeds greatly.

"The carburetor change slowed us down about 65 horsepower initially," he explained. "And that cost us straightaway speed. But corner speeds are faster because the new tires are working well."

The carburetor change was considered most responsible for the close grouping of the field's speeds. Defending champion Richard Petty, a second-row starter, said reduction in horsepower makes the cars easier to control.

More horsepower, he said, causes "a good kick on the straights, but you have to back off and wrestle the car through the turns. Now you can just about flatfoot it all the way around."

David Pearson, who shares the front row with Marcis, felt the carburetor change would place more emphasis on handling and, consequently, result in more work for the drivers.

"The cars that have the best chassis setting will be the ones to beat," he said. "But that's going to make some drivers work real hard on Sunday."

Marcis, Pearson and Petty all topped 160 m.p.h. in qualifying. Cale Yarborough, Benny Parsons and Buddy Baker were all bunched up around 159 m.p.h., with the rest of the field at 156 m.p.h. or slower.

Marcis' best finish at the 1.522-mile Atlanta International Raceway oval was a third last fall. Pearson, Petty, Bobby Allison and Yarborough are all former winners, with Yarborough having won a record four times.

In 1974 there were more than $73,000 in uncashed mutuel tickets following the thoroughbred racing season at Finger Lakes in Canandaigua, N.Y.

San Dimas-LaVerne square off again

By PHIL ROCHE
PB Staff Writer

BRYCE BAILEY of the San Dimas Parks and Recreation Dept., reports this week that the popular 90/10 San Dimas-La Verne golf tournament has again been scheduled — this year for Friday, April 9 at San Dimas Canyon.

One hundred and twenty players from the two communities will square off for the shotgun event. Sign-in time is 11:30 a.m.

It's the sixth annual tourney with all kinds of awards to be given out.

Entry fee is $12 per player or $22 for husband-wife teams. Persons interested only in the dinner can get by for $5. Entries are being accepted at Parks and Recreation departments of both towns. Telephone numbers are 599-6713 in San Dimas, and 593-4571 in La Verne.

This tourney pits one community against another, and it's a "may the best town win" scramble for annual honors.

Should be a good one!

BAILEY also announced that the Ed Nelson Classic will be held in early June (probably the fourth) at Via Verde Country Club.

NEVA TASSIO, playing in the Marshall Canyon Women's Club Mixed Couples event last Sunday, knocked in her second shot on the par 4, 180-yard 14th hole for a never-to-be-forgotten eagle.

ART KLIEWER of Chino, the smooth-swinging golfer who reminds many of Julius Boros, gets back on the trail this week. Art suffered a heart attack several weeks ago, but he's ready and anxious to get back on the links. Welcome back, Art.

RUBIN MENDOZA and his guest Bob Ihnat of Green River won the Los Serranos Member-Guest event last Saturday with a net 61. In second place were H. L. Dobyns and guest R. E. Miller of Imperial. Third were Charles Wilson and Robert Watson of El Toro.

Dan Wilson of Western Hills won closest-to-the-pin honors landing 8 feet, 7 inches from the 17th cup on the South Course. Second was Tom Guilfoyle of Los Serranos.

A CHANCE for adults to learn or develop their golf skills is being provided by the Ontario Recreation Division. Classes will be held at Ontario National Golf Course, beginning the week of April 4, and continuing for six weeks. A golf pro will instruct and all classes are limited in size.

Individual attention is offered for beginning and intermediate players. Registration is scheduled through Friday, March 26 at the Recreation building, 217 South Lemon, Ontario. Registration fee is $15. All classes meet once a week.

I'M GLAD to see young pro Dave Brownlee of Claremont back playing regularly. Brownlee has been away from golf for several months, but he's practicing now for the European and possibly the Far East tour.

He will be playing in the British Open and the top tournaments on the continent this summer. Naturally we're pulling for him to have a financially successful summer.

TROPHY DAY winners at La Mancha include Bonnie Woodrow, Margaret Miyon, Vonnette Vaucher and Martha Olney for gross honors.

Net winners were Greta Guio, Marge Franks, Mae Wellborn and Belva Stiles.

HOWARD E. SMITH of Pomona recently participated in the Grand Slam tourney at the Tropicana Hotel and Country Club in Las Vegas. The theme of the 4-day event was a salute to the golfers of the 1920s and especially Bobby Jones.

Each participant was given a golfing uniform of the era — including knickers, argyle socks and plaid cap.

RON GURNEY, Nogales High coach and a low-handicapper at Diamond Bar, looks tc be really on his game, as usual. Gurney doesn't look impressive, but he gets his par on every hole, then tosses in a birdie putt or two, and this while playing the "undulating" greens at Marshall Canyon.

He has an outstanding team this year at Nogales, and his top six will give any team in the valley a real go.

Golf's newest triumvirate — Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller and Hale Irwin — head the 23 qualifiers in the 24th annual MONY (Mutual of New York) Tournament of Champions.

The prestigious event, rated by many pros as the fourth most important tournament in the country, will be conducted April 15-18 at the La Costa Resort Hotel, Spa and Country Club.

Only winners of major tournaments since the last MONY Tournament of Champions are eligible to compete.

Golf's Big Four subject to change

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Golf's major championships are the Masters, the United States and British Opens and the PGA National Championship.

It was not always thus.

And there is no assurance that they will continue to be the Big Four.

In fact, there's every good chance that, at some future date, the list of the major championships will be composed of a very different lineup—a line-up that does not necessarily include the current four.

There is no law, there is no written rule that states "The Big Four, fixed, permanent and forever shall be composed of the Masters, British and U.S. Opens and the PGA."

As a matter of fact, there's nothing on the books anywhere that says there's any such thing as a major championship.

Nowhere does it state that the Masters is bigger than the Australian; that the American PGA championship is more important than the Tournament Players Championship; that the British and American Opens are more prestigious than the Picadilly World Match Play or the Bing Crosby or the Western or the Colonial or the Canadian or the Heritage.

They're accepted as such. They're generally accepted by the public and the players and the press as the major tests of golfing greatness.

Johnny Miller doesn't agree. He calls the emphasis on the Big Four "the Jack Nicklaus syndrome."

"Jack has educated you guys (the press) to believe the majors are so much more important than the others. He'd probably rather win one major than 10 other tournaments. I wouldn't."

"When Johnny wins a few more majors he may look at it differently," Nicklaus replied.

He has long contended that the true assessment of a players' ability, his position in the lists of the game's greats, can be determined only by his successes in the major tournaments.

But it was not Nicklaus who educated the press in the importance that is assigned to the majors. It's the other way around. In fact, such catchphrases as "the major championships," "the Big Four," and "the Grand Slam," are inventions, created from wholecloth, solely and completely by writers and commentators. They are nothing more than handy tags. They have a meaning in fact only as they are accepted to have a meaning.

And those handy tags, those catch-phrases, have a way of changing as the importance of an event—or the importance attached to it by the press, public and players—changes.

The handiest example involves Bobby Jones' sweep of the "Grand Slam," in 1930. In that one year he won the U.S. and British Opens, the U.S. and British Amateurs.

The phrase "Grand Slam" now is used to refer to the current "Big Four," which definitely does not include the amateur championships, titles that now have greatly diminished in importance.

At the time Jones won them, however, they very definitely ranked among golf's most prestigious crowns. At one time, the U.S. Amateur was the most coveted title golf could offer in this country, ranking well ahead of the socially-unacceptable U.S. Open and the PGA.

Those titles were socially unacceptable because, in the early days, professionals were socially unacceptable.

Golf was a gentlemen's game. It was stuffy and snobbish. Professionals were looked down upon. They may have been allowed around the clubs, on the grounds, but never, never were they allowed in the dining areas or the locker rooms. If they had an exhibition or were competing in a tournament, they were obliged to change their shoes in their cars.

Walter Hagen changed that. Under his leadership, sparked by the drive of his flambouyant personality, pros began to gain some acceptance. As they gained acceptance, so did their tournaments—the U.S. Open and the PGA—gain acceptance.

But at that time, in the '20s, the Masters didn't exist. Jones didn't start that tournament until 1934. And it wasn't until the years following World War II that it moved into the Big Four. That move was directly attributable to the reverence in which Jones was held and the influence of the big-name national columnists who stopped off in Augusta, Ga. on their way home in the North.

Player power: a very successful labor movement

NEW YORK (AP) — Professional athletes, the latest minority to flex its muscles in the pursuit of freedom, are on a long-term winning streak, scoring victories in the courtrooms and at the bargaining table which will change the face of the sports world forever.

Player power, the most effective labor cause in the 1970s, no longer refers exclusively to the clean-up hitter in baseball, a fullback in football, a man advantage in hockey and the bruising forward in basketball.

Player power means modern athletes are becoming part of the American labor mainstream in terms of freedom while, at the same time, remaining a long home run ahead of their fellow hard-hatters in salary.

With the major shift in the relationship between the players and the owners, it is the owners who now are crying for better working conditions.

"I don't know if we can survive anymore," says Minnesota Twins owner Calvin Griffith, who insists he is the last of a dying breed. The Griffith family, solely in the baseball business, has operated a franchise since 1919.

"I do know our family is the last of its kind in sports and there never will be another one," Griffith said. "From now on, owners are going to have to be associated with other businesses so they won't have to depend on sports to feed their kids.

"Or they're going to have to be men who were born wealthy, who have zillions of dollars, and are just looking for a sports team to buy so they can have something to do with their time."

Last season, only three teams made money in the National Basketball Association, in which the average player salary is more than $100,000. And the NBA has been the pioneer in labor relations with a historic out-of-court settlement of an antitrust case against the league.

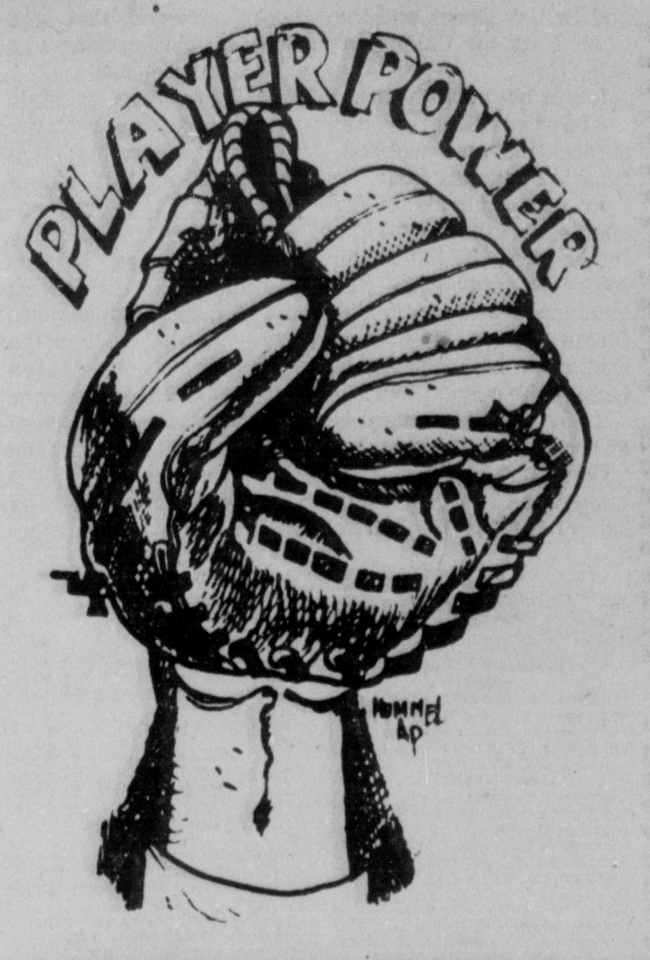
The recent NBA settlement made major inroads in the traditional relationship that has bound a player to one team and placed restrictions on him which made it extremely difficult to leave.

The National Hockey League has not gone as far in its alteration of the player-owner relationship, but did sign a progressive five-year labor contract in 1975.

Meanwhile, baseball and football, stung by a string of court cases all favoring freedom for the player, are still struggling with their labor relations problems.

Last Monday, the baseball owners offered the players a "final" offer on the freedom issue, which the players rejected as not enough. But the baseball hierarchy, long the most conservative sports entity around, has made some pragmatic changes in its thinking, leaving the National Football League the most conservative bastion in the sports world today.

The NFL has lost two major federal court cases on this freedom issue, but the owners have put their helmets on and are appealing those decisions against an apparent brick wall. At the same time, negotiations on a new contract—the old one expired in 1974—remain at a virtual standstill.



What's blocking the football players from racing downfield to score touchdowns in the name of freedom is the Rozelle Rule, named after NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Football players have been allowed to leave one team by playing out their options and then signing with another team. But they say their real freedom of movement is interfered with by the Rozelle Rule, which requires compensation from the player's new team to the old one. If the teams can't agree on the manner of compensation, Rozelle steps in and decrees it.

The players say this practice is unconstitutional — two federal judges have agreed with them so far — and contend there can be no real freedom of movement while the Rozelle Rule exists. Attempts to negotiate it away have met with failure.

"Players are tired of being treated as pieces of property to be bought and sold at the whim of the employer," said Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association. "They are also saying that they will no longer tolerate being told where they must play for their entire career. The player wants freedom and he wants it now."

Besides declaring the Rozelle Rule illegal, a judge in San Francisco said portions of the college draft—which assign only one team the draft rights to a player—are illegal. A judge in Minneapolis said the Rozelle Rule was in violation of the antitrust laws. He also was sharply critical of the college draft and the standard player contract.

"I've got to believe there's an appeals court somewhere in the country that is going to hand down a decision in favor of the owners," said Pat Peppler, general manager of the NFL's Atlanta Falcons.

The courts are telling the sports world that the handwriting is on the wall. Favored and unconstitutional treatment of employers—to the impediment of the freedom and opportunity of their employes— will no longer be tolerated.

Some appear to be getting the message better than others.

The NHL made a variation of its own version of the Rozelle Rule in the five-year plan, in which a player can now play out his option after completion of his contract. The player's new team must compensate the old one, but if the two clubs can't reach an agreement, the dispute goes to binding arbitration.

As in hockey, basketball players can now play out their options and move from one team to another. The NBA arrived at a labor truce by agreeing with its Players Association on a full-ranging package.

In the proposal—still requiring acceptance by Federal Judge Robert L. Carter—players drafted from college must stay with the drafting club for only a two-year minimum; the option year for players who haven't signed a contract will be gone next year and the policy of compensation ends with the 1980-81 season.

The NBA's proposed agreement marks the most advanced departure from the traditional concepts of tying one player to one team.

Christine Andreas

New Eliza no Cinderella

By IRA BERKOW

WEIGHT WATCHER — Christine Andreas is a loser — a weight-loser, that is. She had to loose 10 pounds to get the role of Eliza Doolittle in the Broadway revival of "My Fair Lady."

Christine Andreas might have dropped from heaven to us, for all that was generally known about her. She is the dark-haired, hazel-eyed, richly endowed female lead in the forthcoming Broadway revival of "My Fair Lady." Common knowledge now.

Less known is who she is, where she's from and that she came to the luminous role of Eliza Doolittle by first playing Mahatma Gandhi. She had to fast for five days.

Christine Andreas, age 24, lives in the same Manhattan neighborhood as Jerry Adler, the director of "My Fair Lady." He had directed "Words and Music by Sammy Cahn," a broadway show in which Christine Andreas was a stand-by. They ran into each other one afternoon.

Christine mentioned she'd like to audition for Eliza. Jerry agreed, but only if she lost weight. She had gained about 10 pounds, up to 130 on her 5-3 frame.

"I had nothing but water for five days," she said recently. "Not one single morsel of food. It wasn't so bad. I wanted the part."

She sat now with a liver dinner in Sardi's, the famous Broadway restaurant, and savored the memory.

"I had an interview not long ago and I was asked how I felt playing the part Julie Andrews made famous on the stage," she said.

"I said Julie was a genteel Eliza. I thought I'd be more earthy. Well, the quote came out sounding like I was critical of Julie Andrews. I wasn't. I was just being individualistic. Nobody wants to see an imitation, and I don't want to be one.

"It's the same reason 'My Fair Lady' is being revived. It's great old theater done in a new way for a new generation. It hasn't been done on Broadway in 20 years."

Getting back to getting the part. Christine auditioned, was called back a second time. And then a third. Now, she was in Atlanta playing in "Angel Street." Her lyric soprano was gaining attention. She was being considered for two other top Broadway musicals.

She was flown back to New York for the third audition, and was offered the role. She hesitated, flew back to Atlanta. Shortly after returning, she received a phone call from Herman Levin, the producer. If she agreed to sign, he'd fly down to Atlanta right now — and double the amount of the original offer.

"It wasn't the money so much," she said, "but the romance. I melted."

Christine Andreas says that her story is and is not the classic case of Cinderella.

She has been singing and acting and hoofing it in theater productions ever since she was eight years old in Camden, N.J., and in her first show at her school, played Buttercup in "H.M.S. Pinafore."

A nun in the school told her parents that she had a special voice and should be given singing lessons. Her father, a computer engineer, agreed. She continued playing in summer stock from age 14.

By the time she graduated high school, she knew she wanted to sing for a living. "But I also knew how tough it was to break in," she said, "so I learned to be a secretary. But I wasn't very good. I typed too fast, and made too many mistakes. And then once after taking dictation, I wrote in a letter 'Ink.' for 'Inc.' "

At 19, she came to New York. She remembers her fear before her first open call. "The notice said, 'Casting for bits. Gorgeous girl. Age 18-24. Must sing and dance.' Well, you look at yourself in the mirror and say, 'Ow!' But I went."

She got the part. On the first try. And that, she says, is where the Cinderella story breaks down for her. That was five years ago and her name on the marquee has grown steadily larger.

"No, I don't really worry about failing," she said. "I love singing and I know it gives people pleasure. I get my feeling of acceptance that way. And I can sing in a room with one person as well as a full house and still feel good about being appreciated.

"But I do labor at it. Twelve hours a day. Like now I have to study Eliza, learn how she thinks offstage, what the morals of the day in London were. And I have to get that Cockney diction, 'Eets awl roit.' That thing."

Her worries are closer to home. How would her husband, Keith Baker, a singer and actor, take to her newfound stardom?

"And how Keith would feel about me suddenly making more money than him?" she said. "He took it fine. He has confidence in his own talent. You have to know what you're good in. He knows himself.

Jazz group to meet

The Smogville Society Orchestra of the Valley Dixieland Jazz Club will be featured band at the monthly meeting of the Society for the Preservation of Dixie-land Jazz at the Arcadia Elks Lodge, 27 W. Huntington Drive, at 2 p.m. next Sunday. Admission is $1.50.

The orchestra is made up of Bill Myer, trumpet; Wally Craig, Trombone; Dave Dolson, soprano saxophone; Walt Greenwald, tuba; Jack Boppel, banjo; Bill Roberts, drums; and Ron Ridgewell, piano.

Leading off the jam session will be the Southern California Preservation Jazz Band, made up of Chet Jaeger, cornet; James Weaver, clarinet; Rod Ogle, trombone; Norman Burnham, piano; Paul Heiberger, drums; Red Murphy, banjo; Ralph Ball, tuba; and Frank Bostwick, washboard.

Sheets retrospective slated at Scripps

A retrospective exhibition of the work of Millard Sheets, internationally known artist and art professor emeritus at Scripps College, will be held in the college's Lang Gallery Saturday through April 29.

Included will be 40 watercolors, paintings and drawings and one tapestry from 16 collections, ranging from 1928 to 1976.

The exhibit is part of Scripps College's art faculty for 21 years and a trustee from 1965 to 1970.

In 1929 Sheets had his first one-man exhibition. The day the exhibit opened at the Dazell Hatfield Gallery, Los Angeles, the artist learned his painting, "The Old Goat Ranch," had won second prize at the San Antonio, Tex. competition. As a result, Sheets was able, later that year, to take his first trip abroad. Both the award-winning painting and some of the European drawings will be in the Scripps show.

When Sheets had his first one-man exhibition in New York in 1935, critics compared his watercolors to those of Winslow Homer. Many of these will be on display, and visitors to Lang will be able to see why Sheets was hailed as a leader in what was labeled "the California school of watercolors."

Some of the watercolors in the show are the final sketches for design projects, including the mosaic on the facade of the Garrison Theater at the Claremont Colleges, the "Christ the Teacher" at University of Notre Dame and the dome of the National Cathedral at Washington, D.C.

Born in Pomona in 1907, Sheets studied at the Chouinard School of Art in Los Angeles and taught there for three years before being appointed assistant art professor at Scripps in 1932. Four years later he became chairman of the Scripps art faculty.

After World War II, during which he worked as an artist for Life Magazine in Burma and India, Sheets returned to Scripps and also became chairman of the Claremont Graduate School fine arts program.

From 1953 to 1960, Sheets was director of the Los Angeles County Art Institute (now the Otis Art Institute).

In 1950, Sheets opened his own design office in Claremont and, in 1952, began designing for Home Savings & Loan Association. His Los Angeles-area designs include memorial to Native Diver at Hollywood Park, two large tile murals on the Los Angeles City Hall Annex, a mosaic and painted mural on the Ahmanson Center in Los Angeles and a mosaic mural of an early California don and his lady for the Beverly Wilshire Hotel.

In conjunction with the exhibit "Millard Sheets," Lang will have a small display called "The Teaching Heritage of Millard Sheets" featuring works by 20 of his Scripps and CGS students.

The public may view the exhibits free of charge from 1 to 5 p.m. daily and from 7 to 10 p.m. on Wednesdays. A catalog is available at the gallery.

Chaffey plans photo exhibit

"Developing — Photo Images of Today," an exhibition by 17 Southern California photographers, will open next Sunday at the Wignall Museum-Gallery at Chaffey College.

A reception for the artists will be held at 2 p.m. The gallery auxiliary will be hosts. The public is invited.

In the past, photography has been looked on as a craft that was used to record history, according to Virginia Eaton, special curator. The artist-photographer is no longer the "recorder of events," but the creator of a limitless form of expression, she said.

"Developing — Photo Images of Today" is an attempt to expose the community as well as Chaffey College students to infinite possibilities of the photographic process. Advancement in the technology of photography makes available to the professional, as well as the amateur, materials that enable them to create with more freedom.

The artists differ widely in age and experience: Jerry McMillan, a photography instructor at Cal State Northridge, has shown his work throughout the United States in one-man shows and group exhibits. He works with many different materials and produces two- and three-dimensional photo images on metal and glass, as well as using conventional processes. Victor Landweber, a well-known artist, has exhibited in many cities. He is currently working with polaroid instant print processes. Gary Burns combines photos with cement to produce sculpture pieces.

Lou Brown DiGiulio uses a photo screen process to create three-dimensional soft-sculptured images of plants such as ivy, cabbages and green salad. Kay Shuper also uses photo silk screen to create images on plexiglass as well as fabric. Susan Haller, a silk screen proponent, projects large images on fabric to create reproduction of life-size animals and plants.

Cindy Miracle, a student at Claremont Graduate School, combines photography and trapunto stitchery, applique and multiple layers of fabric to achieve a three-dimensional wall hanging. Jo Ann Callis employs a more traditional two-dimensional silver technique for her artistry by manipulating prints to convey deep psychological meaning. Robert Klewitz, also a proponent of photo silk screen, uses the unlikely medium of floor tile. His work is designed to be exhibited flat on the floor.

Other artist-photographers represented in the show are Steven Steinman and Pamela Stern.

The exhibit is open to the public through April 16. It may be viewed Monday through Thursday, noon to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m., Friday noon to 4 p.m., and Sunday 2 to 5 p.m.

MORE TO LIFE — Sam Maloof, internationally known wood worker, shown in his Alta Loma workshop, finds in his craft rewards that money cannot buy. His rocking chairs sell for $1,500, but he says "There's more to life than money."

Sam Maloof

Artist in woodwork

By KEN PETERS

ALTA LOMA (AP) — The chances are overwhelming that if Sam Maloof made your living room rocking chair, your neighbor won't have one like it.

The woodworking craftsman says there is renewed interest in crafted furniture, which has suffered at the hands of inexpensive mass production and the high cost of materials.

But while some craftsmen churn out hatchcover tables which are hawked at shopping center malls, Maloff caressess each piece into a one-of-a-kind piece of art.

Maloof only makes about 75 pieces of furniture a year in his shop in this quiet town some 35 miles east of Los Angeles. And his work clearly is not for the homeowner searching for a bargain.

His rocking chairs sell for $1,500 apiece.

"People are tired of conformity. They find a craftsman is an individual, and every piece he turns out is unique."

Maloof, 60, said in an interview that money seems to be of relatively little importance to most craftsmen.

"If I were in this for the monetary return, I would be designing for production," Maloof commented. "But I get a return from my work that all the money in the world couldn't get you.

"I read about the corporation bribes, things like that happening, and I wonder why. There's more to life than money. I feel the spiritual satisfaction I get from my work is much more important than how much money I make."

Maloof's furniture-making techniques are simple. He first gets a "mental picture of the piece," then selects the wood. It is cut, shaped and sanded, then joined to form a one-of-a-kind piece of furniture.

Maloof's artistic merit may be judged in the art museums around the United States which have chosen to display his work. A collection of his chairs is due to be exhibited soon in the Fine Arts Museum in Boston, he said.

Maloof said there is no difference between crafts and the arts. "An artist creates a painting, and a woodworker creates a chair," Maloof said. "They are both unique, and a part of the person has gone into them."

"Woodworking is becoming an 'in' thing," he said. "I hear from people all over the country. But there's no competition; I believe there should be no secrets, it's a thing to be shared."

Maloof said talent and discipline are essential to being a good craftsman.

"For about 15 years, I never got into the house before midnight or 1 a.m.," he recalled. "I still put in a 10-12 hour day and find it difficult not to go out into the shop again. I have to use reverse discipline now."

Traditionally, craftsmen's children have followed in their father's footsteps, and Maloof said his son, Slimen, 26, is a woodworker. "He's opened his own shop around the corner and he's already had a couple of commissions," the elder Maloof said with pride.

As a man who loves his work, Maloof said he considers himself lucky. "I'm fortunate I can live my life this way," he said. "So many people go through their whole lives never having created a thing."

Artist showing paintings

Oil paintings by Ann Howard Stone of Claremont are on exhibition this month in the lobby gallery of Pomona First Federal Savings & Loan Association, 399 N. Garey Ave., Pomona.

Mrs. Stone began painting six years ago and has studied with Ruby Wells, Berniece Kelley, Joyce Picke and Gerome Grimmer. She has attended workshops conducted by various well-known artists, and her work has won several awards in local art shows.

Mrs. Stone is a member of the Pomona Valley, Chino and Fontana art associations.

$40,000 given toward 'Aida'

NEW YORK (AP) — The Atlanta Music Festival Association has given $40,000 toward the settings for "Aida," which the Metropolitan Opera will present on tour this spring.

The Atlanta association is the sponsor of the Met's annual visit to the Georgia Capital.

TOVA FELDSHUH was raised to star billing after critics raved over her performance in "Yentl" on Broadway. Miss Feldshuh, who learned her theatrical basics at the Guthrie Theater in Minneapolis, called her New York debut "My first big blast."

Student art show to open Tuesday

The Annual Student Art Show of the Pomona Valley Art Association will open Tuesday at the gallery, 300 S. Park Ave., Pomona. Admission is free.

Prizewinners in junior and senior categories will be on exhibit through March.

A reception for the artists will be held at the gallery from noon to 2 p.m. Saturday. The public is invited.

Da Silva to play Tweed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Having played the benevolent Benjamin Franklin in "1776" and radio commercials, Howard Da Silva now turns to the infamous William Marcy (Boss) Tweed.

He will portray the New York City politician in "Stop, Thief!", another in the American Parade series of specials on CBS Television. The hour drama will appear April 22.

The teleplay was written by Terry Southern, author of "Candy" and "Blue Movie." It is his first script for American television.

George, Come Home—

ALL IS FORGIVEN. I called Action Realty and there is this cute, cozy, immaculate 3 bedroom home with 2 baths and you wouldn't believe the gorgeous pool area with an out of this world jacuzzi and the inside of the house is all painted beautiful and boss.

The Realtor says the owners got transferred to Menlo Park and that they would sell FHA, VA or Conventional and it's located only 2 blocks from Montclair Plaza.

George, if you buy this house for me, I'll take back everything I said about you. But if you don't answer me by Sunday night, forget it because I know it will be sold.

This home exhibits craftsmanship that is no longer found in construction today. Many hours of meticulous labor were spent making sure every facet of this home was perfect. Over $25,000 was spent insuring that the landscaping would be second to none, and it is. The Japanese Garden may possibly be the most authentic in the U.S. The replacement cost of the home would well exceed $90,000, however for a limited time it is offered at only $70,000.

CLEAR CREEK TOWNHOMES — Buyers are offered FHA and VA financing in buying townhomes at Clear Creek Canyon in Diamond Bar. Ninety-four homes have been sold.

Clear Creek provides alternative to rent

Exceptional financing is making the Clear Creek townhomes in Diamond Bar an attractive alternative to renting, said George Auld, project manager of Clear Creek Canyon.

Buyers are offered FHA and VA financing with interest rates of 8 and 8½ per cent. In addition, the seller will pay up to $1,000 of the non-recurring closing costs.

"Consider a typical FHA deal on the two bedroom home selling at $33,000," said Auld. "A minimum down payment amounting to $1,550 would leave a mortgage amount of $31,450.

"Principal and interest payments on this loan at eight per cent, amortized over 30 years and including taxes and mortgage insurance, amounts to $307 per month.

"The important consideration, however, is that our buyers are enjoying the tax benefits of home ownership. Every cent paid in interest plus 100 per cent of the property taxes constitute legitimate income tax deductions.

"This equates on the above example to approximately $3,500 the first year. This means that a person can own this home for little more than renting something that is comparable."

In addition to the tax benefits, home buyers are building equity in their homes, he added. "The only thing the renter has to show for his money is a stack of old rent recipts."

Since its opening, 94 homes have been sold at Clear Creek. Buyers have a choice of two and three bedroom homes and five floor plans.

The homes have rough-hewn wood exteriors and shingle roofs that blend with the landscaped common areas. Residents have access via sliding glass doors to fenced, private rear patios. The two car garages include storage space.

Kitchens are equipped with double sinks, dishwashers, and electric ranges with self cleaning ovens.

"The master bedroom suites are spacious, with walk-in closets, generous linen storage areas and full width pullman mirrors adding a feeling of luxury to the homes," said Auld.

To reach the homes, persons may take the pomona Freeway and exit at Grand Avenue or the Orange Freeway and exit at Diamond Bar Boulevard.

Houses sold at Heights

Dennis Ressel and Rondal Allen report 40 per cent of the homes in their San Antonio Heights residential develoment have been sold during the first preview week.

The homes are located on Mountain Avenue north of 24th Street. They are priced from $46,950 to $49,950. Each home has three bedrooms, family room and two bathrooms.

Model homes are open daily from 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and on weekends from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Division of Geology and Land Survey says 202 more caves were found in Missouri in 1975.

It said the finds brought the total of known caves to 3,313.

Halt is called at 'Hills'

San Bernardino County Supervisors have directed the county Planning Commission to continue for 30 days considerations of all subdivisions currently on file for the Chino Hills.

Supervisors took the action based on a planning staff report that rapid growth in the rural area seriously threatens the adequacy of schools, roads, parks, drainage channels and other public facilities.

Supervisor Robert Townsend of Chino said this will allow officials to develop a means of assuring sufficient public services before additional develoment takes place.

The supervisors also established a 90-day period during which new sub-division application will not be accepted for the Chino Hills.

The county's planning staff indicated that while new tract filings will not be accepted until July, pre-application conferences will continue to be encouraged and scheduled.

Studies by the Los Agency Formation Commission, alignment for the future extension of Grand Avenue and three general plan amendments are expected to be resolved before July.

Urge flat tax reduction for state renters

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Senate thinks all renters should get a flat $37 state income tax deduction.

Backers say the bill by Assemblyman Willie Brown, D-San Francisco, would save the state paperwork and provide an increase for renters with low incomes.

The bill won a 30-0 vote Thursday and went back to the Assembly for action on amendments.

It is AB 282.

Home insulation program planned

Real estate

A three year program of federal grants to insulate up to 900,000 houses occupied by 2.7 million low income people is proposed in an energy conservation measure supported by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif.

The measure, titled the Energy Conservation and Insulation in Building Act, was passed by the U. S. Senate recently by a 52-35 vote. Cranston is one of the bill's authors.

He said the proposal could help these low income residents to cut their annual fuel bills by 25 per cent or more and save 38 million barrels of heating oil.

Under the program, special priority consideration would be given to the elderly and handicapped.

The measure now goes to a conference committee of House and Senate representatives to work out differences in their respective versions.

Cranston, who will serve on the committee, expects the final version will meet most of his major objectives.

He estimated there are at least 18 million inadequately insulated single family homes in the nation. more than five million of these are occupied by persons with incomes below the poverty level.

Cranston's residential insulation assistance program for low income families would authorize the appropriation of $55 million annually for federal grants to states over the next three years to help people in the lowest income brackets insulate their homes.

The senator estimated it would take up to $350 to insulate the average dwelling in cold climates and $250 in warmer areas.

Under Cranston's bill, most of the new money would be spent for insulating materials. Labor would be supplied by community volunteers, manpower program trainees, public service employes and the people being assisted.

No matching funds from local governmental agencies would be required, he stressed.

Sales are good at Mountainside

As builders near completion of model homes at the Lewis Homes — Mountainside Series in Upland, nearly half of the 33 homes have been sold.

The community, named for its scenic location near the base of Mt. Baldy, is located on 15th Street west of San Antonio Ave.

Lewis Homes officials credited the pre-completion sales with the fashionably styled floor plans in single story and two story elevations.

The largest home model has 2,305 square feet of floor space, with the overall dimensions appearing even larger because of the three-car garages. The houses are built on 10,000 square foot lots.

Buyers may choose from three and four bedroom floor plans. These have two full bathrooms and an additional "one-half" bathroom to serve as a powder room.

The homes feature shag carpeting, fireplaces, ceramic tile entries and wardrobe doors with mirrors in the master bedrooms.

The kitchens have ceramic tile countertops, self cleaning ovens, luminous ceilings and either a snack bar or eating counter.

Two floor plans feature serving counters measuring 14 feet in length.

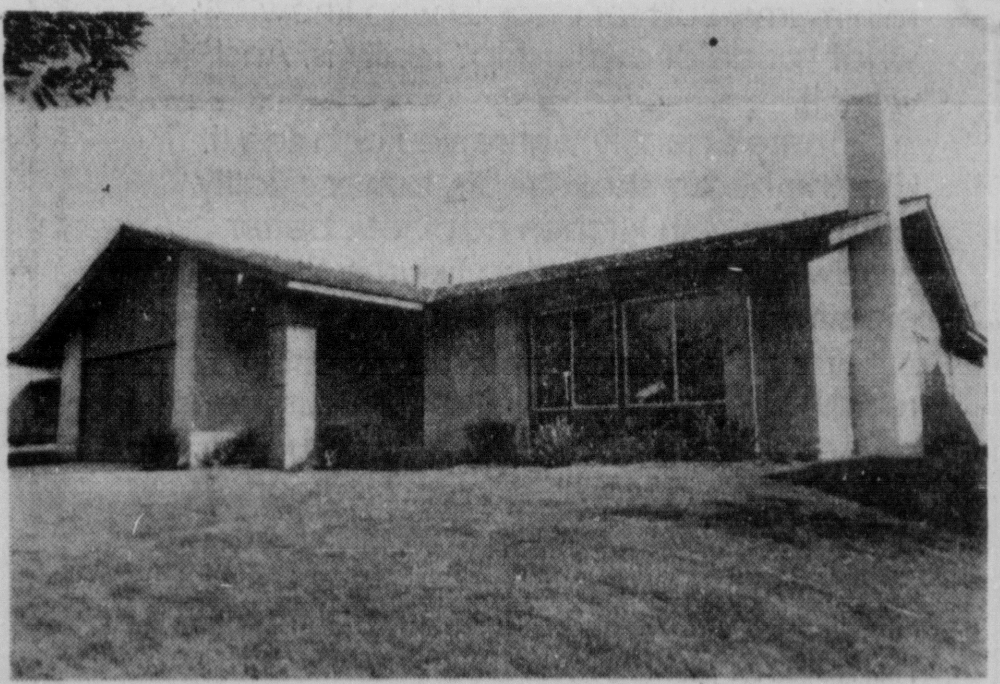
The homes are priced from $51,900 which includes air conditioning. VA, FHA and conventional financing terms are available.

Roofing price jump expected

SANTA ANA (AP) — Major manufacturers of roofing materials here say prices of their merchandise will jump 18 to 20 per cent next week.

"We are one of the few industries that have held the line" on prices, said Robert Restaino, Orange County field sales representative for U.S. Gypsum. "We have not had a price increase for more than a year."

The manufacturers have sent notices to dealers announcing the increases, and a half dozen manufacturers representatives confirmed that new prices will go into effect March 22.



OAKRIDGE VILLAGE — One of the single-family homes offered at Oakridge Village in north Chino is this four bedroom, two bath model. It has a sunken living room, separate family room, cedar shingles. The development is located near Walnut and Central.

Attendance up

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's four National Park Service areas drew 3.8 million visitors in 1975, according to Merrill D. Beal, NPS Midwest Regional Director.

Colleges assisted by sales

The Claremont Colleges will benefit from homes sold by Lewis Homes in its new development near Foothill Boulevard and Mills Avenue, Claremont.

The local developer purchased the land from the colleges and expects many of the home buyers will be from the colleges' staff and faculty.

Lewis Homes has offered to donate $100 to each college's discretionary fund for every person from that college who buys a home.

Three officers of the building firm are graduates of Claremont Men's College. They are Richard, Robert and Randall Lewis.

The new development will have 35 homes with four floor plans. The one story structures will have from 1,531 to 1,992 square feet of floor space. These are tentatively priced from $47,000 to $53,000.

The homes will be located a fourth mile north of Foothill Boulevard, just west of Mills Avenue. These are within "walking distance" of the colleges, said officials.

Construction has begun, and a mid-summer completon date set. Persons wanting sales information may visit the Lewis Homes sales office located a block east of Mills Avenue and north of Base Line Road in Claremont. The telephone number is 626-7589.

Lewis Homes has built 650 homes in Claremont during the past 20 years, including the masterplanned Claremont North Community.

Home owner association course planned at UCLA

An estimated 300,000 Los Angeles County residents belong to home owners associations but because of the growing number and complex needs these groups are finding it increasingly difficult to function effectively.

So declared John B. Weidler, who will begin April 1 a 12-session series for UCLA Extension on how to effectively structure, organize and operate a home owners association.

The program is open to association members, officers, property managers, developers, attorneys and others.

Weidler said such associations are at a crucial time when they must reorganize, gain strength and recapture the dynamism of the old New England town meeting if they are to maintain self-government and collective action against increasing urban problems.

"There is a great need among the associations for proper organization, sufficient information for effective guidance and operation and collective participation by all members in the ongoing association government. The alternative is the creation of a new and expensive level of bureaucracy to provide the equivalent of neighborhood governments within each of our community complexes," he added.

The series will be held on Thursdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m., April 1 to June 17, in room 1278 Graduate School of Management, UCLA. The fee is $70.

The course will provide information on roles, rights and responsibilities of association members, financial controls, records and reports, development of proper management policy and procedures and how to analyze income and expenses. Guest speakers will participate.

For more information, persons may phone UCLA's Extension office at (213) 825-7031.

Hawkins students graduate

The Herbert Hawkins Realtors has graduated 80 students from its new "One-Plus-One" training program, said Harry Gardner, sales training director.

The five day program provides classroom instructions and assignments for in-field training. The series, which begins each month, is designed for new sales associates in the firm's realty offices.

Those receiving diplomas at the Hawkins Training Center in El Monte were David Brighton and Rex Chamberlain, Claremont; Marlise Negretti, Chino; Wanda Nichols, Hacienda Heights; Kenneth Warford, Ontario; Alma Winston, Sandy Fotre, Betty Skiles and John Vaughn, Upland; and Barbara Conklin, Glendora.

His swim pool a fishing pond for youngsters

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Dave Tillman loves kids and fishing. So he's converted the Olympic-size swimming pool at the apartment complex where he lives into a fishing pond for kids.

The 64-year-old retired businessman has the management's permission to hold a fishing contest in April for the kids who live in the 400-unit apartment complex.

Tillman said he's stocking the 144,000-gallon pool with fish he and others have caught.

Realtors attend meetings

Six members of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors will attend the fifth annual Legislative Day program and the California Association of Realtors' board of directors meeting this week in Sacramento.

The Legislative Day program will be held Wednesday at the Sacramento Community Convention Center. Presidents and executive officers of the state association's 175 realty boards and members of committees involved in legislative programs are invited.

The day-long session includes a legislative luncheon, attended by state senators and assemblymen. Attending will be Mark Warren, local board president, Walter Arnold, state director, Ella Ruby, executive officer, David Legters, board treasurer and state director, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Stan Heckmer, local Realtors.

Reports from 50 committees will be submitted at the director's general session on Saturday.

From the shakes on the roof to the carpets on the floor, these are quality homes. Built for people who want and expect more in a house than just bare minimums. Built for people who know what "pride of ownership" really is. And want it.

There's quality where you can see it. Like the heavy shake roofs, better quality carpeting, Ash kitchen cabinets, better hardware, better lighting fixtures, silent electrical switches and more.

There's also quality where you can't readily see it, but where it counts just as much…maybe more. In the construction, the design and the planning. Like our cul-de-sac street design. It makes for a quieter, safer and prettier neighborhood.

If you've been out looking for a new home and just haven't been satisfied with what you've seen, visit Walnut View. We built these homes for people who know what they want. QUALITY!

Record volume

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Mortgage Bankers Assn. of America says single-family loans reached a record volume of $15 billion in 1975.

It says this was 16 per cent above the previous record of $13.3 billion set in 1972.

Business news in the valley

JACK V. COOGLER of 284 E. Lincoln Ave., Pomona, has been named plant manager of Western Universal Plastics in Corona. Coogler holds a degree in business administration and industrial management.

C.C. BRIGGS has been named manager of the Pomona district office of the National Life and Accident Insurance Co. He has been a National Life agent since 1971. He has earned numerous company and industry production awards. He is a member of the firm's Top Hat Club.

J.D. MCGILL Jr. of Claremont has been elected president of the Buena Park Concrete Pipe Division of U.S. Pipe and Foundry Co. He has been with the company since 1947, beginning as safety director in North Birmingham, Ala., pipe plant.

He was moved to California in 1974 as executive vice president of the company's concrete pipe division. He is active in community and service affairs.

KENNETH R. FISHER of Upland has been appointed president of Diversified Metals Corp., Cucamonga, a division of Diversified Industries, Inc., Hazelwood, Mo.

Joseph B. Woodlief, president of Diversified Industries, said Leo Paradoski, who had been acting division president, will continue in a corporate capacity with emphasis in the metals field.

Fisher has been with the company since 1965 and for the past two years was vice president of Western Diversified Metals Corp.

Fisher announced that Frank A. Kuenz had been named vice president of plant operations in Hazelwood. He formerly was plant manager in Cucamonga.

He was succeeded in Cucamonga by Jim Nash, former plant superintendent.

W. E. WILKINSON, president of Pomona Motor Parts, Inc., has been elected to the Automotive Service Industry Association's board of directors.

The association is an automotive trade organization with 7,000 member companies. These include wholesalers, distributors and manufacturers of automotive replacement parts, equipment, chemicals, accessories and supplies used in the maintenance and repair of cars, trucks and related machines.

DON E. WIGHT of Wight Jewelers in Ontario is one of 35 jewelers appointed to serve on the California Jewelers Association's board of directors.

The association has 1,700 members. Board members will be repsonsible for geographical areas.

ALAN R. THOMAS of Bryant and Co. Jewelers, Inc., Claremont, has been awarded the title of registered jeweler by the American Gem Society.

The designation was based on his knowledge of gemology and on his store's following the business principles set down by the Federal Trade Commission, Better Business Bureau and the society's own code of ethics.

Thomas is president of the family firm. His jewelry interests are on custom designing and buying and selling estate jewelry.

Market sputters, sags

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices sagged and trading slowed on Wall Street this past week in a market dominated by uncertainty over the international monetary situation and the outlook for interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped 7.79 to 979.85, wiping out about half the 15-point gain it had built up over the two previous weeks.

Other indicators also posted moderate declines, with Standard & Poor's 500-stock index losing .28 to 100.58 and the New York Stock Exchange composite index dropping .15 to 53.76.

Trading on the Big Board set the slowest pace since December, averaging 21.40 million shares a day. In January and February, by contrast, the daily average was more than 30 million.

The market began the week with a 13-point drop in the Dow on Monday following France's decision to withdraw from the joint float system of European currencies.

Analysts said the move diverted investors' attention from the brightening business picture in this country to questions about the progress of the economic recovery in other major industrialized nations.

A second problem for the market was a byproduct of the sharp rise in stock prices over the last 15 months.

As those prices went up, they had the effect of lowering yields available on stocks while bond yields held at relatively high levels.

By last week, some influential analysts were speculating that the disparity in yields would soon prompt a flow of funds toward bonds, reducing buying interest in stocks.

Against that background, a wide range of favorable signs on inflation and the economy's recovery from the recession didn't get much notice from the market.

There was a brief flurry of buying Tuesday when the government reported a 27 per cent jump in housing starts last month, as well as a rise in business inventories that seemed to betoken increased confidence among corporate managers.

But the market pulled back again later in the week, and on Friday it made no response at all to some highly favorable inflation news.

The Labor Department's consumer price index rose only 0.1 per cent during February for its smallest monthly increase in 4½ years.

But the best the Dow could do for the day was to finish unchanged from Thursday's close in the quietest session since Jan. 2.

The weekly tally of NYSE listed issues showed 1,115 losers and 721 gainers among the 2,063 traded.

There were 349 new highs for the year, against 63 new lows.

YOUR GREATEST OPPORTUNITY!

Do you earn $100,000 a year. In the West, a few golden opportunities to earn this much, and more, selling the amazing Universal Room Addition Kits, await the proper sales executives. These kits are amongst the most saleable items in the world. With one, a large room addition can be completely built in 9 days of work at a cost savings of 30% - 50% of the price most contractors charge. And the sale of only 4 kits a week - after deduction of overhead, lead gathering and sales commissions - will show a net profit in excess of $100,000 per year. Our audio-visual program makes the selling of these kits a simple matter.

These opportunities are not for sale. We seek the most qualified men for the task of forming a strong sales network. We offer advice based on experience but each qualified executive will be free to plan his own approach to the market. The only capital outlay we will require is a $200 deposit on each of 20 kits. We expect most dealers to start on a modest basis and build a solid business from referrals.

DEAR POLLY — Another use for those versatile small plastic bags: I put hair clips and pony tail ties of the same color in the same bag and line these bags up in a box. As I am just home from the hospital, this will be a help for my daughter, 7, when dressing for school. She can find the right hair clip to match her dress without any help. — FLORENCE.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

ROGER LEE JOHNSON OF VISTA, CA, ASKS:

"HOW WAS COAL FORMED IN THE EARTH?"

COAL IS A ROCK MADE FROM GREEN PLANTS THAT LIVED MANY MILLION YEARS AGO, WHEN DENSE FORESTS AND VAST SWAMPS COVERED MUCH OF THE EARTH'S SURFACE. MOST OF THE PLANTS WERE HUGE, STRANGE-LOOKING TREES AND FERNS. AS THESE BIG PLANTS DIED, THEY FELL INTO THE SWAMPS. THE DEAD PLANTS ROTTED TOGETHER TO MAKE A WET, SPONGY MASS CALLED PEAT. IN TIME, WATER BURIED THE PEAT UNDER THICK LAYERS OF SAND AND MUD. THE GREAT PRESSURE SLOWLY CHANGED THE PEAT INTO COAL.

† Available on records and 8-track tapes only

Here's a brand-new selection from Columbia—over 200 latest hits and all-time favorites... best-selling records and tapes from scores of America's leading recording companies. And since this exciting selection represents the very best from every field of music, you won't have any difficulty whatsoever in finding eleven to suit your taste. Best of all, the eleven records or tapes you do choose now are all yours for only $1.86!

To order your 11 records or tapes just mail the application in an envelope, together with your check or money order for $1.86 as payment. In exchange, you agree to buy 8 more selections (at regular Club prices) in the coming three years... and you may cancel your membership at any time after doing so.

How the Club operates: every four weeks (13 times a year) you'll receive the Club's music magazine, which describes the Selection of the Month for each musical interest... plus hundreds of alternates from every field of music. In addition, up to six times a year you may receive offers of Special Selections, usually at a discount off regular prices.

If you wish to receive the Selection of the Month or the Special Selection, you need do nothing—it will be shipped automatically. If you prefer an alternate selection, or none at all, simply fill in the response card always provided and mail it by the date specified.

You will always have at least 10 days in which to make your decision. If you ever receive any Selection without having had at least 10 days in which to decide, you may return it at our expense, for full credit.

Your own charge account will be opened... the selections you order will be mailed and billed at regular Club prices, which currently are: 8-track tapes and cassettes, $6.98 or $7.98; reel tapes, $7.98; records, $5.98 or $6.98—plus shipping and handling. (Multiple unit sets and Double Selections may be somewhat higher.)

You'll be eligible for our bonus plan upon completing your enrollment agreement—a plan which enables you to continue saving money on records and tapes for as long as you remain a member! Act now!

ANDREA DORIA: 'SHOULD NOT HAVE SUNK'

Peter Gimbel, the noted filmmaker and underwater explorer, has been intrigued with the wreck of the Andrea Doria since the Italian liner first went to the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean in 1956 after colliding with another liner, the Stockholm. Based on his observations during several dives to the wreck site, he developed his own theory on why she sank.

Last summer Gimbel decided to try to prove his conviction that the ship, a modern vessel built at a cost of $29 million and equipped with the most up-to-date safety devices, never should have gone down. He and Elga Andersen, a European actress who has worked with him on other film productions, headed the expedition that would attempt to descend to remote parts of the wreck never before reached by divers. A filmed account of their adventures, both underwater and aboard their surface ship, airs as a CBS Special, Wednesday at 8PM. The program is entitled "The Mystery of the Andrea Doria."

Gimbel had been the first diver to photograph the sunken Andrea Doria after she went to the bottom 20 years ago with a loss of 50 lives. During the next 10 years he made several other dives to where the ship lies at a depth of 235 feet in the Atlantic, some 50 miles south of Nantucket.

After his last dive to the site in 1966, Gimbel said the sea had begun to take over the hulk, making her a hostile and forbidding diving target. But then, he adds, Miss Andersen's conviction, duplicating his belief that the ship never should have keeled over and sunk, "got the better" of him and he decided to put his theory to the test. Miss Andersen based her supposition on the report of a Congressional committee that had investigated the tragedy. The report concluded with this statement: "The fact remains that a fine, relatively new ship . . . did sink after damage apparently less than she should have been able to withstand."

The dangers encountered by Gimbel and his diving team are recounted in the Xerox special. Gimbel almost died from oxygen poisoning during his ascent to the surface after one dive, and another diver suffered a ruptured ear-drum. The tides near the ocean floor made their work particularly hazardous, and the water was icy cold.

A two-man submarine that was to have taken them to the wreck could not operate because of the tides, forcing them to surface-dive. A diving bell, which was to have helped them conserve their energy as they went to the bottom and then resurfaced, was also found to be unstable underwater. On the scheduled last day of the expedition, Gimbel and his fellow divers found what he says is "proof of what we came to see"—proof that "this ship should not have sunk," for reasons that will be revealed in the special.

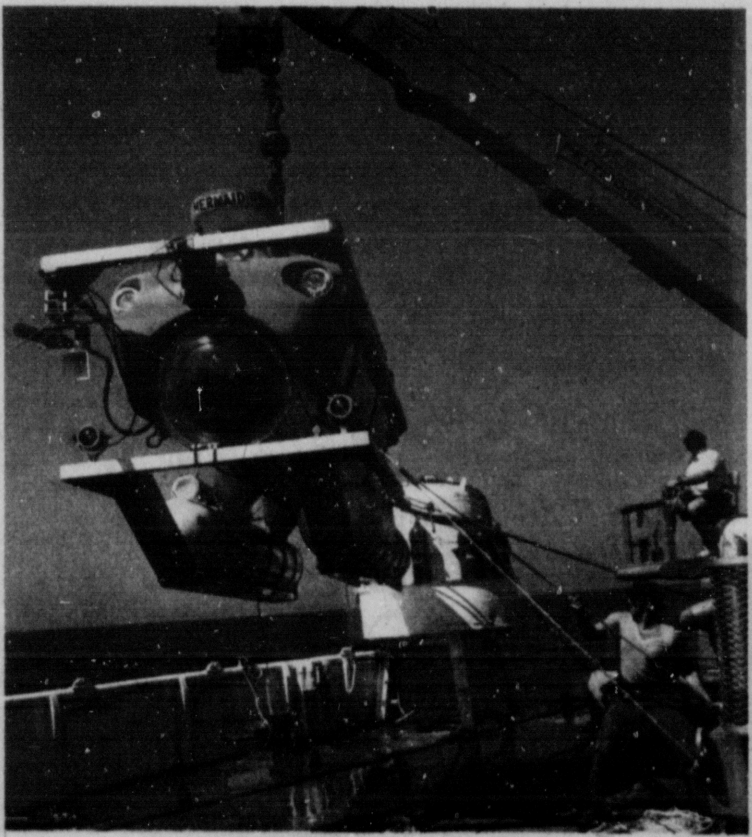
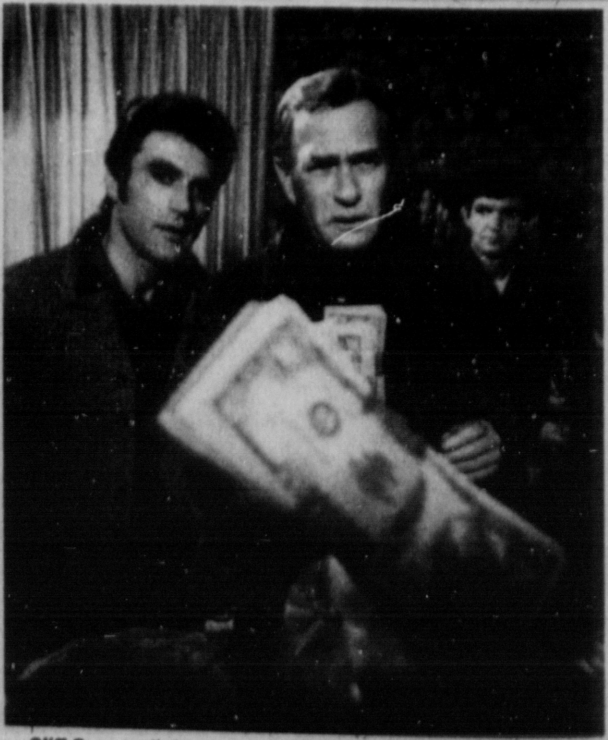
QUALITY LEADER IN ALUMINUM PATIOS



The findings of the first expedition to film the hulk of the liner S.S. Andrea Doria, which rests on the bottom of the Atlantic ocean at a depth of 235 feet near the continental shelf, forms the basis for an hour-long Special, "The Mystery of the Andrea Doria," on CBS, Wednesday at 8PM. The expedition was headed and the film produced by Peter Gimbel, filmmaker and explorer, and actress Elga Andersen. Gimbel and another diver, Joseph Fox, were the first to dive and photograph the liner the day after she went to the bottom after colliding with the S.S. Stockholm on July 25, 1956.

"Jubilee," is the title of a musical Special celebrating 100 years of the telephone, and hosted by Bing Crosby and Liza Minnelli on NBC, Friday from 8:30 to 10PM. "Jubilee" is a marriage of the musical "NEW" with the great moments, songs, stars and performances of the past 18 years. A host of tape and film performances will be seen on the Special, as well as live performances by Roy Clark, Eydie Gorme, Steve Lawrence, Ben Vereen, Joel Grey and Marvin Hamlisch.

Danny Kaye stars as Gepetto and Sandy Duncan stars as the boy-like puppet who comes magically to life in "Pinocchio," an all-new musical version of Carlo Collodi's classic fable, on CBS, Saturday (March 27) from 8 to 9:30PM. Flip Wilson is seen as the Fox, Liz Torres is the Cat, and Gary Morgan portrays Candlewick. The script is by Herbert Baker, co-directed by Sid Smith and Ron Field, and choreographed by Field. Original words and music are by Billie Barnes.



Cliff Gorman (left), Darren McGavin (right), star with Carl Betz, Leslie Nielsen, Stephen Collins, Burr De Benning, Art Metrano and Barney Phillips in "Brinks: The Great Robbery," on the CBS Friday Night Movie at 9PM. The film is based on the true story of the great Brink's robbery that took place in Boston in 1950 by a group of seven armed men who got away with cash, checks and securities worth over 2 million dollars. It was years before the leader of the raid would be captured by the FBI to become the key to the ultimate solution of the case.

COVER CLOSE-UP

Family

"I do hope people will notice that Kate has a sense of humor. It's rather low-key, so they'll have to pay attention."

Broadway super-star Sada Thompson, winner of the theatre's coveted Tony Award for her luminous performance as the four ladies in "Twigs;" star of the Pulitzer Prize winning play "The Effect of the Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds," and star of ABC's new one-hour, six-episode series, Family (Tuesdays at 10PM), was discussing Kate Lawrence, the wife and mother she plays in the Mike Nichols Presentation for Spelling-Goldberg Production.

The actress was sitting with James Broderick, who plays her husband Doug, and Gary Frank (he's 17-year old Willie Lawrence) under a shady sycamore on the lawn of an attractive Pasadena house being used as the Lawrence home in the series.

"Kate strikes me as the sort of person who will go to unnecessary lengths to conceal her vulnerability," Miss Thompson continued as Broderick nodded and Gary mischievously peeked from behind a book he was obviously not reading. "She holds back when she should let go, which is not very healthy. But it is very human."

"Very human," Broderick agreed.

"But not very funny," deadpanned Gary.

"We're not doing comedy," explained Broderick.

"Then why is Sada afraid no one will notice her jokes?" asked Gary.

"Nothing was said about jokes," replied Broderick calmly. "Sada was commenting on the fact that as Kate Lawrence, she has a subtle sense of humor which may be missed by viewers. You weren't listening, Gary." A smile crept into Sada's eyes.

"I beg your pardon, Jim," said Gary blandly, "but I was listening very carefully. What I heard was the deeper meaning of what Miss Sada Thompson of the American stage was trying to express."

"And what," sighed Broderick, "might that deeper meaning be?"

Closing his book, Gary replied, "Sada is afraid she won't be as funny as Maude. It happens to most stage actresses in her age group striking out for the bigtime in Televisionland. It's not very healthy, but it is very human."

The silence was broken by Sada's raucous laughter.

"Jim dear," she said, wiping her eyes, "he's done it to you again. When will you learn that Gary is the World's champion put-on artist?" Managing a faint smile, Jim patted Gary on the shoulder and said, "Nice going, kid. But I must say your humor is a bit sinister at times."

"It's not at all sinister," smiled Sada. "It's very much like mine, really . . . rather low-key. You'll have to pay attention, Jim."

Created by Jay Presson Allen ("Funny Lady," "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie," "Cabaret"), Family also stars John Rubinstein, Elayne Heilveil and Kristy McNichol.

EASTER SEAL APPEAL

NBC's City of Angels star Wayne Rogers will host the Fifth National Easter Seal Telethon coast to coast.

During the Fifth National Telethon for the National Easter Seal Society this year, Lucie Arnaz and Desi Arnaz, Jr., will be doing the hosting honors in Los Angeles when National Telethon host Wayne Rogers hands over the reins to the local stations for twenty minutes of every hour beginning at 10:30PM (or immediately following the Lakers game), Saturday (March 27) and ending with the last two hours locally, at 6:00PM Sunday (March 28). At KTLA, Channel 5 in Los Angeles, Lucie and Desi will be joined by many top personalities during the local portions of the telecast.

Among their celebrity guests will be Ann-Margret, Susan Blakely, Rin Tin Tin, Dr. George, Evel Knievel, Dick Gautier, Ron Masak, Jim Backus, Anson Williams, Charlie Tuna, Jaye P. Morgan, Hari Rhodes, Tony Dow, Marjoe Gortner, Gary Owens, Willy Bobo, Paul Lynde, Eva Gabor, The Hudson Brothers, Donny and Marie Osmond, Judy Norton, Deforest Kelley, Ann B. Davis, Jerry Mathers, Mr. and Mrs. (Meredith MacRae) Greg Mullavey, Tom Bosley, Mel Blanc, various Disney animal characters and many more celebrities who will further supplement the truly star-studded Fifth National Easter Seal Telethon.

As a special added attraction, the local chapter of the Easter Seal Youth Guild, a group of youngsters who have taken it upon themselves to raise money for Easter Seals, is sponsoring a dance marathon to last the entire 20 hours of the telecast. The two winning couples, judged by the highest amount of pledges phoned in during their performances, will each receive a Yamaha "Chappy" motorcycle, with accessories—donated by Yamaha to the Los Angeles Easter Seal Society.

Rona Jaffe Visits Our April Visitor, The King of Sweden

Jimmie Walker, That Restless Young Man Behind TV's "J. J."

A Great "Dressy" Chicken Dish Your Guests Will Love!

Rona Jaffe With King Carl of Sweden

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR EDGAR BERGEN, ventriloquist

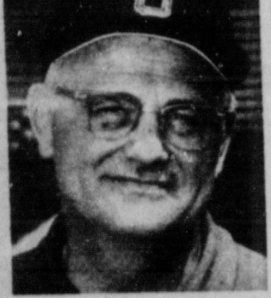
I hear ventriloquists sometimes get in trouble "throwing their voices." True?—G.S., Austin, Tex.

● Yes. A few years ago I was in a railway station in a tiny town. Along came two porters carrying a coffin. When they put it down, I rapped on the box, and asked, "Is everything all right in there?" The "corpse" replied: "Let me out, let me out." The porters ran like bolts of lightning. The train came, and a guy got off, looked straight at me and asked: "Where are the guys to load this stiff?" I didn't mention why they left, but I did help get the coffin on the train. I almost got a hernia doing it, too.



FOR COACH WOODY HAYES of Ohio State

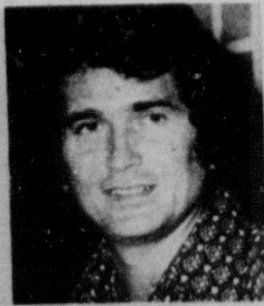
Are you for or against post-season college football playoffs to establish a clear-cut champion?—David Miller, Austin, Tex.

● I'm against the idea. You'd be working these players to death, and they're still going to college. It would be asking too much of them to play that long a season and at the same time keep up with studies.

FOR OLIVIA NEWTON-JOHN

Is the story about your being thrown from a horse just a rumor? If not, will you keep riding?—L.R., River Edge, N.J.

● That accident was my first in all my years of riding. I was thrown Jan. 13 at a Malibu club. The horse slipped going up a mountain. That spill gave me cervical and lumbar strain and contusions of the back, but I was only in bed for five days, and I'm fine now. I've always loved riding and always will. I've been on horseback since I was old enough to walk.



FOR MICHAEL LANDON

With all the Scripture you quote on "Little House on the Prairie," have you ever had a personal experience with Jesus Christ?—Mrs. Greg Peters, Great Falls, Mont.

● I've discovered that I'm much more religious than I thought I was. I made the discovery when I started writing scripts for the show. In re-reading the scripts, I'm often amazed at the things I've written. As a youngster I never realized how important religion was to me.

FOR DR. MARGARET MEAD, anthropologist

Should housewives get credit towards social security?—Mrs. L. Mills, Hobart, Ind.

● Definitely. I'd also include women who help in agricultural work and other home industries.

FOR PHYLLIS GEORGE, sportscaster

What's more difficult for you—getting into or out of the athletes' locker rooms?—R.L. Holter, Bismarck, N.D.

● Since I have never been in the athletes' locker rooms, I would not know how difficult it would be to get out. However, I believe I could obtain a better interview after the athlete had showered and dressed and had time to evaluate the game or situation. I wouldn't want a man in my boudoir interviewing me while I was dressing, so why should I be in their locker room while they're dressing?

FOR DR. MARLIN PERKINS of TV's "Wild Kingdom"

Who would win in a fight between a lion and a bull?—Gilberto Vega, Monterrey, Mexico

● Animals don't fight for fun. If they attack each other, it is for a specific purpose. The only reason a lion would attack a bull is to eat him. Before the attack, the lion would have assessed the physical condition of the bull. If he was sickly or old, the lion would probably kill him without too much trouble; if the bull was in prime condition, the lion would most likely look around for easier prey.

FOR BILLIE JEAN KING

Is there any chance that you'll accept Bobby Riggs's challenge to play another match?—J.R.B., Amherst, N.Y.

● No. It doesn't mean that much to me to beat him. I wouldn't go through all that again. The match was not a stunt to me. I trained hard for it.

FOR NENA O'NEILL, co-author of "Open Marriage"

Is it true that you and your husband have separated since writing "Open Marriage"? If so, why?—Annie Jones, Olney Springs, Colo.

● It is definitely not true. My husband and I just celebrated our 30th wedding anniversary. It is unfortunate that some people like to spread rumors to allay their own fears about change. It takes love, courage and commitment to open up your marriage and grow. There are no rules in our books, only guidelines for achieving a dynamic relationship in which both partners can grow. It isn't easy, but it works.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Is Greta Garbo still alive? Please write a few things about her.—Mrs. H. S. Heppler, Sacramento, Calif.

● Some 42 years after her first movie—she's still described as one of the world's most beautiful women. She never married. She likes Europe and goes there often. In France she supposedly sunbathes nude (at 72!) every afternoon at the home of a friend. Garbo is known for her solitary walks through the woods, her smoking (three packs a day) and her drinking (vodka). She diets and exercises and still uses very little makeup. At New York's Ritz Tower Hotel, her alias was Harriet Brown. Strangers who invade her privacy are rewarded with icy stares and cutting remarks, and friends who talk about her to the press never hear from Garbo again.

Report From Philip Morris

Filters Fall Short.

Researchers create 'Enriched Flavor'™ for taste of new low tar MERIT after disappointing results with special filters.

After countless efforts at designing special "low tar, good taste" filters, Philip Morris—like most others—had achieved only marginal results.

Filters are good for filtering, not for giving taste to a cigarette.

Tobacco gives taste to a cigarette. And the more tobacco taste that's filtered out in the form of tar, the less taste a cigarette will deliver.

That's the conclusion that led us to the business end of smoking. The tobacco end. And a remarkable new flavor discovery called 'Enriched Flavor.'

The new cigarette with 'Enriched Flavor' is MERIT.

It delivers only 9 mg. of tar—less than 98% of all cigarettes being sold today.

Yet 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivers the taste of cigarettes having more tar. Up to 60% more tar.

If you smoke, you'll be interested.

Smokers Report MERIT Delivers More Taste

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading low tar cigarette brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of filter smokers were involved, smokers like yourself, all tested at home.*

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly too, delivering as much—or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now you've got the cigarette.

MERIT. Unprecedented flavor at 9 mg. tar.

Rona Jaffe Visits Our April Visitor, The Youthful King of Sweden

Rona: "What would you do if you weren't King?"

King: "I have thought about that. I would like to be a farmer."

By Rona Jaffe

One of his students once asked the great acting teacher Stanislavski, "How do you play a king?"

"You don't have to do anything to play a king," Stanislavski replied. "The audience knows you're the king by the way the other actors behave."

There are only four kings left in Europe: Juan Carlos of Spain, Olav of Norway, Baudouin I of Belgium and Carl XVI Gustaf of Sweden. Royalty on the grand scale is almost extinct, clearly an endangered species. Viewed from afar, royalty is fun to watch. But if you ever meet a king on his own turf, in the Royal Palace, no matter what you thought before, it becomes quite awesome.

I know. I was there.

The King of Sweden, Carl XVI Gustaf, is a handsome 29-year-old bachelor, a perfectly nice ordinary young man who has the misfortune of being king. Two years ago, at 27, he succeeded his grandfather, the greatly beloved 90-year-old King Gustaf VI Adolf. Usually a king would be middle-aged, but Carl's father died in a plane crash when Carl was a baby. His grandfather was an intellectual, interested in literature and the arts, and a museum is filled with ancient Egyptian treasures he discovered on archaeological expeditions. The new young king, although carefully educated in the duties of his office, is not at all an intellectual. He likes hunting and fishing, skiing and sailing; and before he was king, he was seen every night in his favorite discotheque with friends. He still speeds around Stockholm in his fast little blue sports car, wearing jeans; and what he likes most of all is girls, and they like him.

Independent behavior that is viewed as enchanting in an old king is looked on as too impetuous and reckless in a young one. The late King Gustaf, a tall dignified man who retained his good sense of humor to the last, delighted in leading guided tours around the palace (if he didn't know what period a chair was from, he would make it up), and he accepted tips that the tourists gave him. He would take long walks alone through the streets of Stockholm, talking to the people, sometimes giving them the wrong directions by mistake. The people loved it all. But when Carl became King, his youth and good looks immediately made him the unwilling darling of the tabloids, a celebrity like our Sinatra or Teddy Kennedy. Starlets and actresses wrote stories about their romances (real or imaginary) with the new King. If he took off alone in his sports car and talked to the people, it was generally to girls, and there was gossip. At the 1972 Munich Olympics, he met a German commoner, Sylvia Sommerlaut, who was a guide there, and their long off-again on-again romance caused more talk. Soon the King's advisers became displeased with the King's reputation as a swinger, and the Swedish press was not allowed to interview him. The King himself was tired of being asked when he would get married and produce the necessary male heir.

But what else do you ask a king who is the monarch in a Social Democracy, a cradle-to-grave welfare state where there is neither poverty nor great wealth, where the elected Parliament has stripped the King of all his regal powers, reducing him to the role of a good-will ambassador? And what could the King say to the press? He is not allowed to express political views--the King must be above politics. He is concerned about ecology and environmental protection, he visits the factories, he has studied banking; but people are not very interested in what he thinks about industry or agriculture. You ask the Prime Minister about internal affairs. You ask the young King about love affairs.

The Swedish people like to humanize their Royal Family much the same way as we like to humanize our First Family. As one Swede put it: "We are a socialist country and our Royal Family is the poorest in Europe, and we like it that way."

A woman who is a close friend of the Royal Family described King Carl to me this way: "He's a very gentle boy and wants everyone to like him. He's very sweet, not selfish. His friends are not aristocrats, they're mostly from his boarding school. He would really like to be a sailor or a farmer, not a king. He's like an awkward teenager, he's never grown up. He didn't have much home life—no father, four older sisters bossing him around, a very beautiful and very autocratic German mother, and his grandfather away on archaeological digs."

Thursday, the day of our audience, was icy cold. Our footsteps rang on the stones of the palace courtyard like something from a Gothic novel as we walked to our meeting with the King. The Royal Palace of Stockholm is the oldest and largest castle in Europe in which anyone still lives. It is built of stone, with 700 rooms and is quite forbidding from the outside. The King's apartment consists of about 20 rooms, but that partly lighted area seemed tiny in comparison to the whole. There was a sentry outside, and two guards in the inner courtyard, looking cold. No one else. In Sweden in wintertime it gets pitch-dark at three o'clock in the afternoon. We were to have 20 minutes with the King as a group, and then each of us would have five minutes

My First Glimpse of the King—The Nobel Prize Ceremony

On April 1, King Carl is coming to America for a month, to travel around our country and see what it's like. The Swedish Government thought we in turn should get to know what he is like, and they invited three magazines to send representatives to Sweden beforehand to meet the King. FAMILY WEEKLY sent me.

We arrived in Stockholm on a Sunday, after a 10-hour flight in a jumbo jet filled with present and former Nobel Prize winners and their families. The Nobel Prize ceremonies and banquet were to be on Wednesday.

The Nobel Prize ceremony was held in a huge arena with rows of seats in tiers around a circular area where two thrones (one for the Queen of Denmark) had been placed. The men were in white tie and tails and medals, the women in formal evening dresses. The 5,000 people in the audience stood up as King Carl of Sweden came in. He looked very young and small and had rather sloppy posture. I liked him. Each award winner, after the speeches, was to walk to the King to receive his prize. Eugenio Montale, the Italian poet who wrote three books and won the Nobel Prize for Literature, is 79 years old and ill. When he rose and took two feeble steps, the young King walked quickly across the carpet to him, a gesture of respect so spontaneous that I could feel the waves of approval from the crowd. I liked him even more.

alone with him. It had seemed a very stingy amount of time to me, and yet I was beginning to become so intimidated that it seemed far more than enough, especially the time alone.

"I'm not scared of a king," I lied to the other two journalists. "After all, I'm an American."

"How can I be afraid of the King?" one of them rejoined with what sounded like the same bravado. "He's the same age as my son."

We were handed over to the King's private secretary, Mr. Jan Mortenson, who acted as a sort of chaperon. Up huge carpeted stairs made of stone, into the East Wing. Warm, lighted rooms filled with antiques, paintings of previous Swedish kings, high ceilings painted with scenes, cherubs, flowers, old tapestries on the walls, fireplaces, fresh flowers, everything absolutely spotless. A formal banquet was to be held that night for 200 people, and the long table, already set, stretched through several rooms.

We waited in the suite reserved for guests, joined by a photographer and a fourth reporter from America. We were milling around nervously, when Mortenson whispered, "Here comes the King!" A smallish, boyish-looking young man was suddenly among us, wearing a beautifully cut wool suit, vest and tie.

"Well," King Carl XVI Gustaf murmured shyly. "What do we do now?"

It was decided that we should all go into the next room, where the King sat on a couch and we sat on chairs in a semicircle around him, and small glasses of dry sherry were served. We all sat there and looked at each other, in silence, for what seemed to me an eternity. The King had never met with American journalists before, and we had never met a king. Finally I said, "I think we should each introduce ourselves. I'll go first, I'm Rona Jaffe from FAMILY WEEKLY, and I'm a novelist." Each journalist in turn gave an introduction, and we then went around the circle asking questions. King Carl speaks English well.

Q: "What is it like being King?"

A: "I travel around the country, try to meet the people."

Q: "Do you work hard?"

A: "Not so hard. I don't know what you mean by hard."

Q: "What do your friends call you?"

A: "In Swedish we don't have the word 'you' for everyone, as you do, so they just call me King."

Q: "Do you visit the factories?"

A: "Yes. I talk to the workers, not to management."

Q: "Do you still go to discotheques?"

A: "Not any more—there's too much publicity and no privacy, so I go to friends'

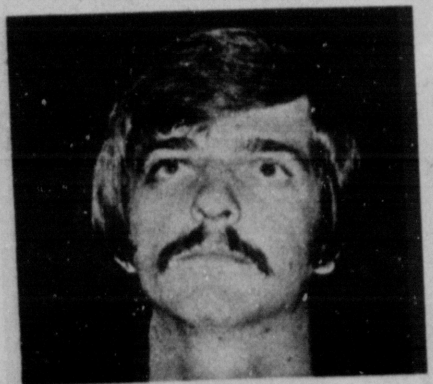
PETE MARAVICH

Is the "Jinx" Finally Over?



After five troubled years as a pro basketball player, "Pistol Pete" Maravich has found new success and personal happiness with the New Orleans Jazz. Back in Louisiana State University, Pete's unerring marksmanship and dazzling movements had overflow crowds oohing and ahing. He broke Oscar Robertson's all-time collegiate scoring record before graduating, and there was great fanfare when he signed with the Atlanta Hawks of the NBA. But the build-up was too great. Maravich had not learned to coordinate his movements with his fellow players. He also proved weak on defense. Some members of the Atlanta team resented his high salary and "showboating" style. When the Hawks failed to win, the fans began to boo Maravich. At the end of his first season, he commented, "After what I've been through, I feel like a 10-year veteran already." . . . "Pistol Pete's" difficulties continued through the next few years. He was stricken with mononucleosis, then with a strange facial paralysis, and finally with injuries to his Achilles tendon. He felt that Atlanta had become a "jinx" town and welcomed the trade to the new Jazz team. . . . The arrival of a new coach for the Jazz, Butch Van Breda Kolff, signaled a turn in Maravich's fortunes. Van Breda Kolff stressed team play and defense and was able to get Maravich to harmonize his unique style with his teammates. Now it all seems to be coming together. "Maravich is playing the best I've ever seen," says the Jazz coach. And Maravich says in turn, "Van Breda Kolff has been able to motivate me and the other players better than any other coach I've seen in the pros. I'm so happy now, it's really the happiest I've ever been." —By Barry Abramson

The Doctor Lets You In

Can Too Many Vitamin Pills Do Harm?

If one vitamin pill is good, wouldn't two be better? Not necessarily. While vitamins and minerals usually do no harm if taken in somewhat greater than the recommended daily allowances, some of them can be harmful. Take vitamins A and D, for example. An excess of vitamin A can cause the very symptoms the vitamin is meant to prevent. Likewise, vitamin D, which makes it possible for the body to utilize calcium, can cause calcification of certain organs if taken in excess. (This is why the FDA has determined that no product containing more than 10,000 units of vitamin A or 400 units of vitamin D can be obtained without a prescription.) Overdoses of minerals can also be dangerous. You've probably heard TV commercials touting the benefits of iron. Well, iron is beneficial. It is necessary to prevent or fight anemia. But cases of iron poisoning have been reported. What it all boils down to is this: vitamins and iron supplements are generally safe and helpful. But do read the labels carefully for recommended doses. —By Erwin Di Cyan, Ph.D.

People and You

How Many True Friends Do You Have?

You may have plenty of acquaintances, but how many true friends do you have? Real Friends are the people who care about your well-being and who like you the way you are. You're lucky if you have a precious few of this kind of friend. Jess Lair, in his book "I Ain't Well—But I Sure Am Better" (Doubleday, $3.95), explains that most of us needlessly punish ourselves by spending too much of our time with those people who either don't matter to us or who actually rub us the wrong way. We feel we "ought" to like everyone and we "ought" to work at getting everyone to like us. Such thinking produces situations in which you are stunned when a "good friend" does some terrible thing to you. At such times, says Lair, you come to realize "there really wasn't a friendship there. Is there anything wrong in deliberately arranging your free time around real friends? No. Their companionship can be your surest emotional defense against the rebuffs, cold shoulders and disappointments of daily life. —By Shirley Sloan Fader

Leslie Uggams:

My Ten Favorite Records

Leslie Uggams started singing at 6. Performing was in her blood—her mother was a chorus dancer at Harlem's famed Cotton Club, and her father sang in a choir. She achieved national fame with Mitch Miller, who says: "A singer like Leslie Uggams comes along once in a lifetime. I'm glad it happened during mine." Her latest album is "Leslie Uggams."

MoneyWi$e

Do You Believe in Financial Voodoo?

Several years ago, a man who had lost his job staked all his savings on a stock "tip" from a casual acquaintance. Amazingly, the stock zoomed, and the man made a great deal of money. Instead of quitting while he was ahead, the man continued speculating, and soon he was down to his last few dollars. Still, he didn't worry. He confidently expected another market "tip." As financial counselors know, there are many people who firmly believe some miracle will always occur to bail them out of money troubles. Most of us are not unrealistic enough to expect magic; but a great many persons manage money on the theory that an extraordinary event, such as a winning lottery ticket, will occur. Another form of "expecting magic" is hoping that the sheer act of writing down numbers will produce a balanced budget. Experts say the person who expects magic is basically insecure. —By Norman Lobsenz

The Diet Watch

Slimming Hints From People Who've "Been There"

At a Los Angeles dieting symposium, the most cheered suggestions from people who had lost weight and were keeping it down, were these: From a secretary: "At dinner, I always give myself a too-small portion to start, so I'll feel free to take a second helping. Then usually I don't take the second helping." . . . From a corporaton executive: "I quit smoking. The smoke was irritating my ulcer and I was having to drink milk to alkalize my stomach acids—that was about 1,000-calories a day I could do without." . . . From a model: "I wear a narrow gold chain around my waist; if I gain a pound it bites into my skin and hurts." A businessman: "No more beer with TV. I drink a gallon or so of club soda spiked with lemon juice and a saccharine pill." Career woman: "When I want a hot fudge sundae, I just figure my priorities: The sundae or a full meal. Usually I end up choosing the full meal and promise myself the sundae next week." —By Harriet La Barre

I don't judge my cigarette by its length.

There's only one reason to smoke: taste.
Not length. Not looks. Winston Super King gives me the real Winston taste I like and the extra any cigarette can give. For me, Winston is for real.

Where the Bicentennial Action Is in the East's "History Cities"

Boston's Bicentennial Pavilion, foreground, houses a multi-image, quadraphonic-sound exhibition that pays tribute to contemporary Boston.

The Jefferson Memorial, foreground, and Washington Monument stand as reminders of our national heritage and two of our greatest Presidents.

As our nation's 200th birthday party on July 4 nears, the focus for special exhibits will be on Philadelphia, Boston and Washington.

In addition, cities, towns and hamlets across the United States will be staging their own cultural and historical events, parades and projects so that the Bicentennial calendar will surely offer something—somewhere—for just about everyone.

But it is these three key cities that have something new to offer visitors on a large scale while still featuring their past and present historic attractions.

PHILADELPHIA's major Bicentennial exhibit will be the Living History Center, an $11.5 million project housed in a specially designed building adjacent to historic Independence Mall. The main attraction here will be a 45-minute historical film charting events since the signing of the Declaration of Independence. It will use a projection technique which creates the illusion that the viewer is taking part in the film's activities. (Tentative admission: adults, $3; children 12-18, $1.75; children 6-12, $1, and under 6, free.)

The center will also feature more than a dozen multimedia subject exhibits, including a referendum on major issues. In this exhibit, visitors will have an opportunity to "solve," by ballot, problems dealing with pollution, crime, excess taxation, eroding military strength and many other areas of concern. The center is scheduled to open in late April.

The Afro-American Historical and Cultural Museum (opening June 11) will highlight the history, culture and achievements of black people. There will be six major display areas, an auditorium for film, drama and lectures, a Black Hall of Achievements and a permanent archive and library.

And in and around the Independence National Historic Park, visitors will see the Liberty Bell in a new transparent home (you can still touch the crack), a reconstruction of buildings owned by America's beloved philosopher, Benjamin Franklin, and Graff House, the three-story brick house where the Declaration of Independence was drafted by Thomas Jefferson.

If all this history seems a bit confusing, then drop by the Visitors Center at Third and Chestnut and watch a free 28-minute film called "Independence," giving the background and events that led up to the Revolutionary era.

In BOSTON, you should go to the multimedia exhibits that transform history, with the help of new film-and-sound techniques, into entertaining, educational experiences. You will see the lifestyles, events and technological advances of the 18th, 19th and 20th centuries dramatized in three separate exhibits.

Start with "The Revolution" where you record on a ballot your reactions to the issues and events that confronted Colonial Bostonians. At the final tally, you learn whether you would have joined the Minute Men or fled to Canada or England. This exhibit is located in Faneuil Hall, in the midst of one of Boston's oldest and best-loved attractions—the Freedom Trail. (Admission: adults, $1.50; children, 75 cents.)

"Victorian Boston" celebrates the people, inventions and technological advances that changed the city between 1865 and 1900. Original photos and daguerreotypes, clothes and artifacts show how the rich, middle class, immigrants and factory workers fared at this time. There are also several participa-

37 Brilliant Ingots In Silver of 999/1000% Purity...
Available Now For Only $14.95 Each

(Actual size of each ingot: 1" x 2")

The Washington, D.C. Bicentennial Commission's

The United States Presidents Ingots

Only 25,000 collectors will ever own this strictly limited edition of major historical, educational, and artistic significance!

A BICENTENNIAL TRIBUTE TO 37 REMARKABLE MEN

What a dramatic and inspiring medallic series this is... conceived with deep respect for the remarkable leaders of America. And, with the Bicentennial fast approaching we are more aware of the great challenges facing our chief executive – The President of the United States of America. To honor this... the most powerful office on earth... The Washington D.C. Bicentennial Commission has authorized The Hamilton Mint to strike a unique Presidential Ingot for each of the thirty-seven men who have led this nation to greatness.

THE MINTING OF THE PRESIDENCY – A FINE ART TREASURY

A superb example of the engravers' art, The United States Presidents Ingots consists of thirty-seven gleaming, mirror-like ingots. These are to be issued to collectors at the rate of two per month. Each ingot of this significant Bicentennial collection contains 480 grains of the purest silver available – that of 999/1000% purity. In 19 months, subscribers to The United States Presidents Ingots will have accumulated over 3 troy pounds of fine silver!

STUNNINGLY DESIGNED... METICULOUSLY CRAFTED

It is unlikely that you have ever witnessed pure silver ingots such as these before. Designed by master sculptor Alfred Brunettin, the surfaces glow with a duality of finishes; exquisite satin bas-relief sculpture is dramatically highlighted by the brilliance of mirror-like backgrounds. The illustrations above can merely suggest the superlative majesty of these ingots.

PRESIDENTIAL REFERENCE VOLUME INCLUDED FREE

A beautiful full-color, richly illustrated and carefully researched reference book containing personal background and achievements of the Presidents complements this collection.

ISSUED IN STRICTLY LIMITED EDITION

Significantly, The United States Presidents Ingots bears the highly-regarded endorsement of The Washington D.C. Bicentennial Commission, an independent organization established for the promotion of our nation's Bicentennial festivities. The Hamilton Mint will strike but 25,000 First Edition sets in .999 fine silver. Only one complete set will be minted for each subscriber and no more will ever be minted once the edition limits are reached, thus protecting the rarity of the edition.

YOUR PERSONAL SERIAL NUMBER

Before sending your first two United States Presidents Ingots, you will be assigned the lowest serial number available. This serial number will appear along the edge of each ingot of the series and is recorded in The Hamilton Mint archives to permanently identify each set. As further protection of your investment, each ingot bears The Hamilton Mint Hallmark and is accompanied by a Certificate of Authenticity – your record of the precious metal content of the collection.

INVESTMENT POTENTIAL

This collection is certain to be treasured by knowledgeable collectors for its rarity and beauty, and you may acquire this series in precious metal at a time when prominent advisors are predicting a continued rise in the price of precious metals in the years ahead.

YOUR DELUXE OPTION... A PRESIDENTIAL COLLECTION IN 24 KARAT GOLD ON FINE SILVER

At your request The Hamilton Mint will strike a set of The United States Presidents Ingots in 24 Karat Gold on Fine Silver. Collectors will appreciate the rarity of this elegant edition – especially considering that only 10,000 sets will ever be made. Each will cost just $19.95.

TO DISPLAY YOUR COLLECTION... AN ELEGANT PRESENTATION CASE

In keeping with the belief that fine artworks should be kept on constant exhibition, The Hamilton Mint will include an elegant display case with each subscription to The United States Presidents Ingots. This presentation case... handcrafted in magnificent walnut... has been engineered to accommodate your complete collection and is offered at no additional charge!

GUARANTEED PRICE PROTECTION

Under the terms of this offer, The Hamilton Mint is committed to deliver to you at your original subscription price the complete set of 37 ingots over the next 19 months regardless of how high the price of silver and gold climbs. The Hamilton Mint must reserve the right to limit the edition below the published maximum limits, but once your application is accepted, your subscription is guaranteed.

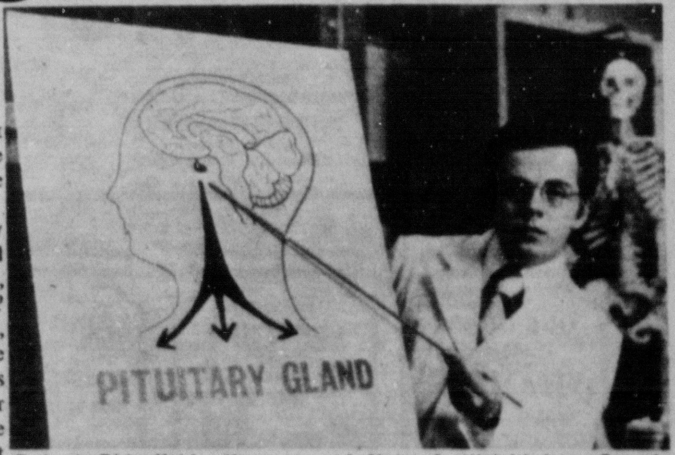
Learn Nature's Weight Loss Secret Of Glandular Control

How to Command your Pituitary Gland to order up to 756 times its own weight in fat to leave your body every single day

©1975 C.P.C.



Robert Ridgefield, discoverer of Nature's Weight Loss Secret, points to the gland that will make you thin. Your pituitary gland, weighing a mere 1/60th of an ounce, can command up to one pound of fat (756 x 1/60th of an ounce = one lb.) to leave your body every single day. Since all of us have a pituitary gland, everyone—5 lbs. or 105 lbs. overweight can learn nature's weight loss secret of glandular control. The article below will explain how you can reap the benefits of this amazing scientific breakthrough by losing as much as 14 lbs. in two weeks.

By Joan Woodward

Use your head! Millions of overweight Americans could have slimmed down a long time ago by doing just that. For years, people with weight problems have desperately searched for ways to shed pounds. Ironically, even as they frantically searched, they were carrying the perfect weight loss secret right in their own head – their Pituitary Gland.

Allow me to explain. By learning Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you can command your pituitary gland (nature's built-in fat evacuator) to order up to 1 pound of fat to leave your body every day. You'll continue to shed pounds until you reach your ideal weight – and then stay fat free forever. This weight loss secret works for everyone, whether 5 lbs. or 105 lbs. overweight.

But, best of all, you lose weight while eating the foods you love. In fact, you must eat to lose weight. That's the key to this weight loss secret.

As a reporter for the newsletter "Total Fitness Today", my job is to check out weight loss plans being developed across the country. Since I have a weight problem, I take a special interest in these assignments. When I heard about this revolutionary new weight loss secret, I decided to investigate.

I set up an appointment with Robert Ridgefield, the discoverer of Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control. I started with tough questions.

HOW DOES THE SECRET WORK?

Q. How does the secret work?

A. The secret works by making food your ally instead of your enemy. There are two types of food in everyone's daily diet – 'triggers' and 'blockers'. By eating 'trigger' foods, you trigger or turn on your Pituitary Gland (nature's built-in fat evacuator). Once triggered, your Pituitary Gland secretes a fat evacuating chemical fluid. This fluid is transported throughout your body machine to a fat evacuating system. Your Pituitary Gland will work safely and naturally to evacuate fat 24 hours a day – even while you sleep.

Q. If these 'trigger' foods are in everyone's diet, why isn't my Pituitary Gland evacuating fat?

A. Unfortunately, even if your diet consists of 95% 'trigger' foods, it only takes 5% 'blocker' foods to prevent your Pituitary Gland from evacuating fat.

Q. How can I trigger my Pituitary Gland?

A. Not by willpower, not by concentration, not with exercise, but by eating. Only by eating 'trigger' foods and avoiding 'blocker' foods can you trigger your Pituitary Gland to evacuate fat. Remember, the Weight Loss Secret is a nutrition plan, not a diet.

Q. What are these 'trigger' foods, and how much can I eat?

A. These 'trigger' foods are the every day foods you love: juicy sirloin steaks, hearty helpings of beef stroganoff, spicy ham, double cheeseburgers, meatloaf, barbecued chicken, omelets, vegetables; like broccoli smothered with hollandaise sauce, cantaloupes, fruit cocktails – even desserts like strawberries with whipped cream, pumpkin pie, chocolate pudding, ice cream, and your favorite wines, liquors–even beer! You need not drastically alter your eating habits to get rid of the 'blocker' foods, because they don't make up that big a part of your diet.

WHY DOES THE SECRET WORK?

Q. You've told me how it works, but all weight loss methods look good on paper – they just don't work in real life. Why is this one different?

A. In order to understand why the secret works, you must first know why other methods fail. They fail for two reasons. First, other methods work against human nature, and therefore are doomed to failure from the start. People with weight problems obviously love to eat. Starvation is sheer torture. No one in their right mind is going to torture themselves for very long. Strenuous exercise is difficult, worklike, and bor-

to illness. Second, with most methods, the results, if any, come too slowly. So most people lose hope and quit.

Q. You're right about why they fail. I know, because I've tried them all, without success. But, why does glandular control work?

A. Again, two reasons. As I said, people are overweight because they love to eat. With Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you must eat to lose weight. Therefore, overweight people will use it. It's as simple as that. The Weight Loss Secret has none of the drawbacks of other methods. There's no starvation, no willpower, no boring exercises, no health ruining diet pills, no weird fad dieting. It doesn't leave you weak and nervous. In fact, it makes you feel healthier and more vibrant than before.

Q. You said there are two reasons why this secret works. What's the second reason?

A. Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control always succeeds because it gives fast, steady and permanent results. You start losing weight the first day. You can lose up to 14 lbs. in two weeks. With these kind of results, rather than losing hope and quitting, you will be encouraged to continue and lose even more. You will reach your ideal weight and be fat free forever.

> "You can lose all the weight you want, quickly, and keep it off permanently while eating the foods you love."

Q. One last question. You call the Pituitary Gland nature's built-in fat evacuator. Why is that?

A. The Pituitary Gland was evolved by nature as a survival mechanism to keep man slim and fit. Just as your heart pumps blood, your lungs breathe the air, your Pituitary Gland evacuates fat. Because it's natural, it's 100% safe.

At the end of our conversation, I asked Mr. Ridgefield if I could talk with people who had successfully used the secret. He did better. He introduced me to four people who were going to start the weight loss secret the following Monday, and asked me if I would like to join them.

I took a before picture of Pat, Janet, Dan and Linda. I then followed their progress every day and had an after picture taken. As you can see from the photos, their results were amazing. But, they weren't the only ones to achieve results.

I lost 4 inches off my waist, 3 inches off my thighs and 14 lbs. in 14 days. My whole life has changed. My clothes fit great. I look and feel younger. I've found new self-confidence. But best of all, my love life has improved. The Weight Loss Secret can do the same thing

WHAT WILL THE SECRET DO FOR YOU?

By learning Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, you will:

- Lose all the weight you want, as much as a pound a day, while eating the food you love.
- Lose inches off your waist, hips, thighs, and banish ugly cellulite bumps.
- Never go hungry.
- Increase your energy and vitality.
- Look and feel younger.
- End your up–down roller coaster weight cycle by staying fat free forever.

After I lost my weight, my boss, Timothy Voros, the Chairman of the Board of Consumer Publishing, decided to try the secret. He lost 22 lbs. in 22 days. He was so impressed, he grabbed up the exclusive world wide rights to this revolutionary new weight loss secret. He then commissioned Mr. Ridgefield to author the text and ordered a small press run to be printed. This book is not available in any bookstore anywhere in the world. But, you can learn the secret right now by ordering the book direct by mail.

HOW CAN YOU LEARN THE SECRET?

If you wish to learn Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control, simply do this: Write "Weight Loss Secret" and your name and address on a piece of paper and send it along with $6.95 in cash, check or money order. (Make checks payable to Consumer Publishing.) If you have Master Charge, BankAmericard, or American Express, you may charge your purchase by sending the following information: A. name of card B. credit card number C. card expiration date.

Mail your order to: CONSUMER PUBLISHING, 401 Market Ave., N., Dept. C–52, Canton, Ohio 44702.

Mr. Voros is personally backing this book with a 100% no risk guarantee. After following the weight loss secret, you must lose all the weight you want, while eating the foods you love. You must feel healthier, happier and look 10 years younger. If this does not happen, or if you are dissatisfied in any way, just send your book back. You'll receive every penny of your money back – no questions asked.

Remember, only a small press run of Nature's Weight Loss Secret of Glandular Control has been printed. To make sure that you get your copy, why not order right now, while you're thinking about it. If you have any questions, feel free to

Are you still smoking?

In the years since the criticism against smoking first appeared, many people have given up cigarettes. But many more people haven't.

And that's who we'd like to talk to. That even larger group of people who are still smoking today.

If you're still a smoker, you've probably heard the charges leveled against 'tar' and nicotine. You may have become concerned. And chances are you even tried to do something about it. Like trying several of those empty-tasting low 'tar' and nicotine cigarettes.

If you're like a lot of other smokers, you probably went right back to your old brand, and concluded that a good-tasting low 'tar' and nicotine cigarette has never been invented.

Well, if that's the case, you haven't tried Vantage.

Vantage cuts down substantially on the 'tar' and nicotine you may have become concerned about. Without cutting out that satisfying tobacco flavor you've come to appreciate.

Now Vantage isn't the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette you can smoke. But it may well be the lowest you'll enjoy.

To put it simply, Vantage still tastes like a cigarette.

So, if you still smoke, but would like to cut down on 'tar' and nicotine, Vantage is one cigarette you should seriously consider.

Invite This Chicken to Your Next Party!

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen shares a "company" chicken recipe you can make the day before. Marilyn says, "You just can't beat chicken at a dinner party. Here's a scrumptious boned chicken dish that's appropriate for almost any occasion."

Savory Chicken Roulade surrounded by Broccoli.

Smart Cooking For Special Occasions

HOT CURRIED CHEESE DIP

1 pkg. (8 ozs.) cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons milk
½ cup sour cream
1 jar (2½ ozs.) dried beef, chopped
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
1½ teaspoons curry powder
⅓ cup chopped nuts (walnuts, pecans or peanuts)
Plain crackers
Raw vegetables: celery, carrots, zucchini, cauliflower, mushrooms, etc.

1. In medium bowl, blend together cream cheese and milk until smooth. Add sour cream. Mix well.
2. Add dried beef, onion, green pepper, black pepper and curry powder. Beat at low speed.
3. Spoon mixture into shallow (2-cup) baking dish. Sprinkle with chopped nuts.
4. Cover and refrigerate. Just before serving, uncover and heat in preheated 350° F. oven for 20 minutes.
5. Serve with crackers and vegetables. Makes about 2 cups

SAVORY CHICKEN ROULADE

¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup finely chopped onion
½ cup finely chopped celery
1½ cups coarsely crumbled bacon-flavored crackers
1 jar (2 ozs.) diced pimientos, drained
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 egg, beaten
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
4 large chicken breasts, skinned, boned, split and pounded to ¼-inch thickness
All-purpose flour
¼ cup pure vegetable oil
1 can (10¾ ozs.) golden mushroom soup, undiluted
¼ cup sherry or milk

1. Heat butter in medium saucepan until hot but not smoking. Add onion and celery and sauté for 5 minutes, stirring.
2. Add cracker crumbs, pimientos, parsley, egg, poultry seasoning and black pepper. Mix.
3. Spoon stuffing onto centers of chicken pieces, leaving a ½-inch edge all around. Roll each from narrow end and fasten with wooden picks. Coat lightly with flour.
4. Heat oil in skillet and lightly brown chicken rolls in hot oil.
5. Place chicken rolls in shallow baking dish. Blend golden mushroom soup and sherry until smooth. Pour over chicken rolls. Cover with foil. Refrigerate if not baking immediately.
6. Bake, covered, in preheated 350° F. oven for 45 to 50 minutes.

The Kienast quintuplets just got all the Gym-Dandy® gyms they'll ever need. One.

Bill and Peggy-Jo Kienast were skeptical.

Frankly, they doubted that any gym—even a Gym-Dandy—could withstand the awesome destructive force of 5 six-year-olds named Amy, Abigail, Sara, Gordon and Ted.

So, we took the Kienasts down to our factory to see for themselves what makes a Gym-Dandy the most kidproof gym in the world.

The bolts don't drive you nuts

We got Bill on our side right away with our patented 5 Minute Frame®.

Because unlike any other gym, Gym-Dandy's factory-assembled top bar comes with all crossarms and leg sockets pre-welded into place. Bill simply slid the legs into the sockets, locked them in—only one bolt per leg—and the Gym-Dandy frame was on its feet. In minutes.

What's more, those factory-welded sockets and crossarms can't work loose, the way ordinary nut-and-bolt assemblies can. So a Gym-Dandy not only goes up easier, it stays up longer.

Little things mean a lot

Many of Gym-Dandy's most important features are not too obvious.

So we made sure the Kienasts noticed our unique Bodygard Slide™ Its platform stays level because it's actually hung from the top bar and supported at 4 points—instead of just standing on legs that can sag or sink into the ground.

We showed how details like the extra-long nylon bearings make our Sky-Skooter® more durable and more fun. By eliminating metal-to-metal friction and letting the unit swing easier.

We asked Bill, who weighs about 170, to climb the ladder and bounce a few times to demonstrate the amazing strength of our Giant Footsteps.™

Making a Gym-Dandy isn't kid stuff

Finally we told the Kienasts a little about ourselves. How we began over 30 years ago, making a few gym sets by hand for our neighbors. How we built a business by taking kids' fun seriously. And how we still make gyms today as though they were going to be used by our neighbors' children.

By this time, the only Kienasts who weren't convinced were the quints themselves. But Bill Kienast fixed that. He put a Gym-Dandy in his backyard. After that, it was all child's play.

Jackie's Horoscope shows... super fame and fortune were her destiny!

by Barbara Walthers

JACKIE'S ASTRO-PROFILE

Jackie is probably the world's best known woman. But, like the rest of us, she was born into this world at a time and in a place over which she had no control. However, as shown in her horoscope cast by our astrological research group, fate had great plans for her future. To really get to know Jackie and her fabulous life you've got to read about what her horoscope says.

An astrological research team was recently assembled in Los Angeles to study Jackie's life. They found that at the very minute of her birth, her horoscope predicted, that super-fame and super-fortune were her destiny!

Let's take a look at some of the actual facts revealed by Jackie's horoscope. Jackie's Sun is in Leo, indicating a ruling role in life — and in her adult life she became as close to a queen as an American could get — the First Lady of the land!

In her horoscope, Pluto 18° Cancer, predicts that the men in her life will be connected with the liquid elements. This prediction certainly came true. The late John F. Kennedy was an avid amateur sailor and in the Second World War he first gained national attention for his daring exploits as a P.T. boat captain. And Jackie's second husband, the late and fabulously wealthy Aristotle Onassis, built his legendary fortune by establishing a vast shipping empire.

The planetary aspect Sun Sextile Jupiter in her horoscope shows that public service and publishing are major career interests. She won the Emmy Award for public service and has recently accepted an editorial position with a leading national publishing firm.

Jackie's rising sign is ascendant 28° Scorpio revealing that she loves travel and adventure. And her jet-setting life has been one of the world's most publicized adventures.

Venus 22° Gemini and Jupiter 10° Gemini in her horoscope indicate wealth in the house of partners — and both of Jackie's husbands have been wealthy.

One of the most telling predictions of all was the tragic day of John F. Kennedy's assassination. Transit Mars and Transit Venus were opposite Venus in Jackie's chart indicating grave danger to her husband. Transit Pluto was conjunct to her Mars, a heavy aspect of a dangerous situation in public groups.

HOW ASTROLOGY AFFECTS YOU

Jackie Onassis, of course, is not unique in the uncanny accuracy of her horoscope. Everyone born has a completely personal horoscope that is totally different from that of any other person in the entire world. To illustrate how astrology affects everyone, I'd like to share with you some of the research findings of the Institute for Applied Astrology.

"Hair" the most successful musical of all times had a full time astrologer. He advised them on every single step. He told them when and where to open. He got top credit right along with the writers and the director!

In 1908, an astrologer, John Hazelrig, said that every 20 years, when the Transits of Saturn and Jupiter are conjunct (come together) the President who took office that year would die in office. Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley, Harding, Franklin Roosevelt and Kennedy did exactly that!

Carol Richter is astrologer to Hollywood. Hundreds of the famous have used his Transit astrology. People like Marlene Dietrich, Gloria Swanson, Ronald Colman, Tyrone Power and Danny Kaye. Carol Richter became as astrologer because Evangeline Adams, who was astrologer to Kings, Queens and financiers, told him astrology was his vocation according to the stars.

Hitler was conquering Europe as long as he followed his Horoscope as prepared by Karl E. Kraft. But when Kraft's charts told Hitler it was not the time to turn East to Russia, Hitler fired him. That was the beginning of the end for Hitler. (See Wm. Shirers "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich".)

Countless brilliant scientists, writers and geniuses through the ages have believed in Astrology. Great men like St. Thomas Aquinas, Sir Roger Bacon (father of modern science), Shakespeare, Sir Isaac Newton, Carl Jung, Einstein, and J. P. Morgan have all openly agreed that astrology works!

MODERN SCIENCE PROVES ASTROLOGY WORKS

Recently in France a famous scientist named Michel Gauquelin decided to prove that Astrology was a fake. So he attacked it scientifically! In France the time of birth is on every birth certificate, so he was able to hire Astrologers to cast the horoscopes of 576 famous teachers of medicine. He was astonished to discover that most of them had Mars and Saturn heavily influencing their character! These are the signs that show a natural talent for healing. He refused to believe his own evidence, so he checked the horoscopes of famous lawyers, soldiers, politicians and artists. He found that in every single instance the people that were successful, were "doing what comes naturally" as shown on their astrological charts. Unfortunately the opposite also holds true. The people who fail at their work and in their lives are the ones who do the wrong things. They are square pegs in round holes: they are plumbers who should be doctors, mechanics who should be engineers, etc.

HERE'S HOW ASTROLOGY WORKS

Most people have heard about the rich, famous and successful people who use astrology practically full time, but they still think that astrology is the "fortune cookie" horoscope they read in their daily paper, or the Natal horoscope that they can buy for a few dollars. But this is not true, for astrology is an exact and demanding science.

To prepare a true, in-depth, total personal horoscope for you, an astrologer must first make a chart showing the sun, the moon, and all eight planets as they were at the time and place of your birth. This is where all other computer horoscope companies stop. But that is only half the job.

Next, the astrologer must relate "Transits" to your basic chart. Transits are the changes in the positions of the sun, moon, and planets as they move away from the positions they were in at your birth. And only the Institute for Applied Astrology does this!

When this Total chart is finished it is completely personal, completely different, and completely about you! And the written evaluation is what astrologers call your Total Horoscope. Natal astrology alone is like reading a good book about big game hunting and then going to darkest Africa on your own. "Total" astrology is like having a top professional hunter to help guide you through the jungle. The special knowledge contained in this horoscope can change your life in many wonderful ways. We all know, for example, that while none of us are good at everything, each of us are good at something. Your horoscope will tell you what you're good at. And armed with that knowledge you can forge ahead and be at ease and happy while you do it.

Your horoscope delves deeply into your personality, revealing your hidden talents. It will tell you about the areas where you have ability but may have been uncertain and afraid to try — things like writing or acting, art, sex, leadership, public relations, advertising, athletics, etc.

Think of it this way: you only have one life to live, so why not get everything from it that you can! Why waste your time charging down blind alleys that can easily be avoided? You have a real duty to yourself and to your loved ones to make the most of each precious moment. And your Total horoscope can give you the edge you need to see your opportunities and take advantage of them.

For a limited time only, while the internationally known Institute for Applied Astrology is carrying on its extensive research program, you can get your Total Horoscope for only a duplicating cost. The casting and analyzing are done FREE! The article below tells you how to get your Horoscope. For the sake of your own personal happiness — don't pass up this unique opportunity. It's the kind of new chance for success that comes along only once in each person's life.

Limited Research Program Invitation

WHY WE GIVE YOU THE WORLD'S ONLY TOTAL HOROSCOPE FOR JUST OUR DUPLICATING COST

by Lois Rodden, A.F.A.—P.A.I. Chief Astrologer

There are a lot of computer horoscopes on the market — and most of them are okay as far as they go. But that's just it — they really don't go far enough! Only the Institute for Applied Astrology can prepare your TOTAL HOROSCOPE for you because only we have "transits" stored in our giant computer.

Where the sun, moon and planets happen to be at the time of your birth is what makes up your Natal (birthdate) Horoscope. But that's only the beginning of a TOTAL HOROSCOPE, yet that's all you get from other computer horoscope companies. You see, the sun, moon and planets keep right on moving. They are in Transit. And day after day they keep forming new angles with your birth chart. These Transits show every single important period of your life! And no horoscope that does not include these transits is a TOTAL HOROSCOPE.

Now, for a limited time only, if you will help us with our research program, you can get your own personal TOTAL HOROSCOPE for just a duplicating charge. Since your TOTAL HOROSCOPE must be constructed anyway for our research you may have an exact duplicate copy for only $3.00 to cover our printing cost, plus just 55¢ for postage and handling. The preparation, the casting, and the professional analysis are provided without charge! To join our research program and get your TOTAL HOROSCOPE, here's all you do. Write down your time and place of birth, as exact as possible, on a piece of paper and send it to me. I'll cast and analyze your TOTAL HOROSCOPE as part of our current astrological research program.

Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will run from 14 to 18 pages — up to 10,000 words (three to four times larger than ordinary Natal [birthdate] Horoscopes) — and here are just a few of the important things it will do for you:

1 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will make you know yourself. That means you can make use of your strong points and fight off your weak ones.

2 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will analyze your character in depth giving you psychological facts that some people pay analysts a fortune for.

3 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will give you new insights into the talents and abilities you never before gave yourself credit for having.

4 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will show you how and when to use these talents to open up a better life and future.

5 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will show you how to get along with more people . . . thereby enriching your social, business and sexual life.

6 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will show you the people you are compatible with. It will make you understand how to use those people to get ahead. This covers every aspect of living — family, friends, business associates, partnerships, romances, etc.

7 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will show you how to form meaningful and exciting personal and sexual relations with the right partners — and how to keep these relationships strong and satisfying.

8 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will not only give you practical vocational and career advice but will show you the best times to use that information for maximum effect.

9 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE will be loaded with beneficial advice on money matters. It will tell you when to take chances and when to be careful. This is exceptionally important if you have a tendency to take risks.

10 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE covers all matters relating to your body and your health. It tells you the things to do and the things to avoid in order to enjoy the maximum in good health, normal weight and high energy.

11 Your TOTAL HOROSCOPE gives you positive information. When it tells you of possible bad periods it also tells you how to avoid or overcome them.

The Institute needs your horoscope to help complete our huge research program looking into the practical applications of astrology (Applied Astrology). This research program has been going on for some time and has been presented in COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE, FAMILY WEEKLY MAGAZINE, THE LOS ANGELES TIMES HOME MAGAZINE, THE NATIONAL ENQUIRER, and other papers and periodicals. Right now, for a limited time only, if you help us by providing your birth data, you can benefit by becoming eligible to get horoscopes for yourself and even your family and friends.

Here's all you do—IMPORTANT: PRINT ALL OF THE FOLLOWING INFORMATION CAREFULLY ON A PIECE OF PAPER — IN THIS ORDER — (1) Name; (2) Full Mailing Address; (3) Month / Day / Year / Time of Birth; and (4) City, State and Country of Birth. Send it to us with the $3.00 copying charge and 55¢ for postage and handling, for each person's horoscope you want. Note: If you don't know your exact time of birth use 12:00 noon. You may even charge it to your BankAmericard, Master Charge, or American Express by including the following: (1) Name of Card; (2) Card Number; (3) Card expiration date; (4) Cardholder's Signature.

Mail this material to: THE INSTITUTE FOR APPLIED ASTROLOGY; RESEARCH DIVISION: 6331 Hollywood Blvd., Suite 603, Dept. FW1B Hollywood, California 90028

We will, at no cost to you, feed your birth information into our giant computer. The computer will then calculate your Natal Chart including the sun, moon and planetary aspects. Then it will calculate the transit positions of the heavenly bodies as they move through those positions. Next, it will examine 54 million possibilities in order to create your TOTAL HOROSCOPE! All you pay for your TOTAL HOROSCOPE is the cost of making a copy for you.

Your horoscope is covered by a full one year money back guarantee of complete satisfaction. If you have questions write or call Sanford Richter, (213) 276-2151, Research Director, the Institute for Applied Astrology. Act at once and avoid disappointment. Send for your horoscope before you forget. Thank you.

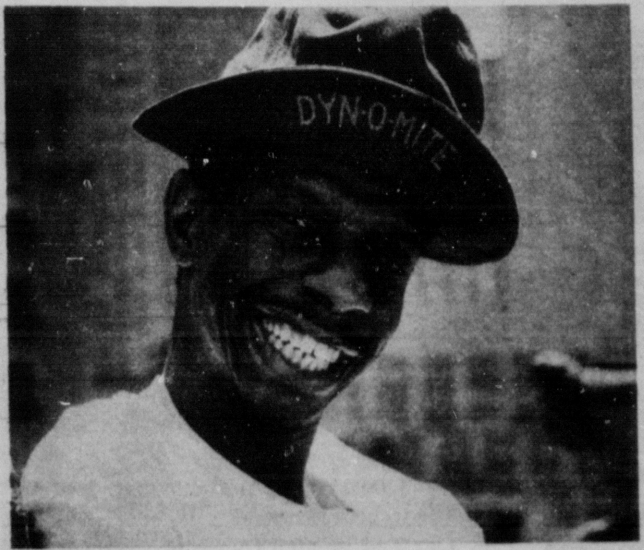
TV's Jimmie Walker:

The Restless Young Man Who Lives Inside "J. J."

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

Jimmie Walker made a surprisingly low-key entrance into crowded Scandia, one of Los Angeles' best restaurants, and headed for my table in his loose, disjointed walk. He was nattily attired in a flowered shirt with brown accents, jeans and matching suede jacket and cap. A chubby couple stopped him on the way and gushed, "You're that fella who plays 'J.J.' in 'Good Times' on TV! We enjoy you so much!" Jimmie grinned until half his face was just an assortment of teeth. Eventually, he pulled himself away, and soon I found myself face to face with "J.J." himself—the supporting actor who won Family Weekly's 1975 Celebrity Poll going away!



Elizabeth Gee

"I was a newspaperboy in the South Bronx . . . Everybody should live there one time in his life. It makes you want to get out, so you work harder. You learn to roll with the punches."

FAMILY WEEKLY: How do you like being recognized wherever you go?

JIMMIE: I know it's tired and trite, but I hate my loss of privacy. And signing autographs bugs me. I don't need no ego thing. Some people do, I guess. I don't. I'm not into the celebrity bit. Like coming here: when I walked in that door, they looked at me like I was crazy, and right away they want to know, "Where's your tie?" My tie! Man, I'm used to McDonald's or Taco Bell. You know—grab a burger and split! Jeans 'n' T-shirts do me fine.

FW: I understand you do a lot more than the TV show.

JIMMIE: Yes— I write, and at least once a week I do a club show. I also made a movie and an album, "Dyn-o-mite!"

FW: Do you write your own material?

JIMMIE: Of course. I couldn't afford to do it any other way! I'm writing other scripts as well. I did one for "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and a "Movie of the Week." Nobody's bought them yet, but I'm hopin'.

FW: How do you think of yourself—as a comedian, actor or writer?

JIMMIE: First as a comedian. Then, moving apart, is the writer. But I'm not an actor! I do the part of J.J. like I was in a nightclub. I react. That's not acting.

FW: Have you always wanted to be a comedian?

JIMMIE: I didn't want to be a comedian! At first I wanted to be a disk jockey until I found out I didn't have the talent for it. Then I wanted to be a network newscaster, but I didn't have the timing or the background to do that.

FW: So how did you end up a comedian?

JIMMIE: I was doing this paper for my oratory class at City College in New York, and I made up some things and attributed them to Dick Gregory, figuring if they didn't go over, he'd get the blame. But they liked the stuff. So I sat down and figured it out: if you're funny, you're funny whether it's for three or 300 or 3,000.

FW: Did you ever have to be funny for just three people?

JIMMIE: I did for Jack Paar—on my first interview! He said, "Everyone keeps telling us you're funny. All right, go ahead: be funny." When I finished, I had them lying on the floor. The next day he asked me if I was ready to go on national TV, and I said, "I've been ready for four years!"

FW: What was your first job?

JIMMIE: I was a newspaper delivery boy in the South Bronx. I'll tell you something: everybody should live there one time in his life. It makes you want to get out, so you work harder. You learn to roll with the punches. Rich kids don't have to. Look at Dino and Desi [Dino is the son of Dean Martin and Desi, the son of Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz]: millionaires by the time they're 21, and they haven't anything they really want to do. They have a house, cars, chicks—what do they need? Nothing. No drive.

FW: How old are you?

JIMMIE: Old enough. (Editor's note: He's reported to be 26.)

FW: How do you feel about being in a successful TV series?

JIMMIE: It's advantageous to my career, makes people aware of me. Also, it gives me a lot of money.

FW: How do you get along with your co-stars?

JIMMIE: All right I guess. They're all actors, I'm the only one from night clubs.

FW: You seem to be quite an extrovert.

houses. The food is the same."

Q: "Can you go out freely?"

A: "Oh yes."

Q: "What would you do if you weren't King?"

A: "I have thought about that. I would like to be a farmer."

Q: "Tell us about your planned visit to America."

A: "I'll be there a month, seeing the country, especially the Swedish people who have settled there in Minnesota and other states. They're excited that I'm coming—they send me letters inviting me to stay with them, or to visit their home or their church."

Finally, one of the journalists said: "Your Majesty, even though I am embarrassed to ask this, I must . . . . What do you eat for breakfast?"

The King looked completely taken aback, sure he was being put on. "Well, I—I don't know," he said. "Continental breakfast (rolls and coffee). I don't like a big English breakfast."

When it was my turn to meet the King alone, I was really nervous. I walked into the room, sat down on my chair, and said, "I must tell you I'm terrified. Is there anything you'd like to ask me?"

The King gave a flirtatious smile. "I'd better not," he said, "because it might be something rude." We both smiled at each other, and then he asked, "What kind of books do you write?"

I tried to describe my novels, which is difficult for any author to do. "Well, they're about modern life, changing values and morals, men and women, and love."

I asked him if he liked to read.

"Yes, but I don't read so much because I read late at night and I fall asleep over what I am reading."

"What do the young people of Sweden think of you?" I asked.

"I think they like me. When I go out they recognize me, and if they've had a few drinks, they come up to me on the street and bang me on the back and say: 'Hey, King, come along with us!' "

"The time is up," Mortenson said, looking at his watch.

"But I should add," the King went on, "that the Swedish people are very shy, and they have to have a drink before they can come up to me."

We all had our pictures taken in the other room, and the King seemed more relaxed, smiling and joking. We said goodbye to him then; and when we left, I looked back at that enormous stone palace and wondered if the King was lonely. I imagined him putting on blue jeans, playing some records, calling up some friends, maybe even jumping into his little blue sports car and speeding away if there were enough time before the banquet.

It didn't seem to be much fun to be King, at least not in 1976.

Have you ever been intimidated?

JIMMIE: Not intimidated, but I like to stay alone. I'm a loner.

FW: Have you ever thought of going back to finish college?

JIMMIE: Yeah, once, a long time ago. But I changed my mind. Decided to write and got into show business instead, and now look—I'm here in Scandia!

FW: How do you write—long hand, on a typewriter, or what?

JIMMIE: I think it! I just tell my secretary or rap into the tape recorder.

FW: How do you create your night club routines?

JIMMIE: I work with a tape recorder. I get out on stage and start rapping. The next night I use what was good the night before and rap some more. By the end of the week, if I'm lucky, I've got two or three minutes, and I put them into my act.

FW: Why do you keep doing one-night stands even when you're so busy?

JIMMIE: I like them! I like the energy of it! It's you! If you bomb, you bomb. I like getting out there and battling with the people. That's why I play a lot of colleges and universities. That's the arena. They're open to ideas.

FW: What do you want out of life?

JIMMIE: To be a headliner. Really draw people in. And write some good stuff.

FW: When you have time off and can do anything at all, what do you do?

JIMMIE: Lie in bed, sleep, watch TV. Gimme some orange juice and waffles, I can lie in bed two, three days.

FW: If you could start over again, what would you change?

JIMMIE: I'd try harder to think of a way not to be recognized. Unfortunately, I've got a face that there aren't too many like.

REVEALED...China's 2000 Year Old Health Secrets!

ACUPRESSURE MADE EASY

USES NO NEEDLES--ONLY YOUR FINGER TIPS

So simple! Anyone can do it!

SAFE! EASY! FAST!

Now you too can start using this mysterious health ritual of the orient—in one hour flat!

From Ancient China comes news of one of the world's oldest healing arts — ACUPRESSURE. This highly revered healing system has been used continuously in China for some 2,000 years, with claims of blissful, symptomatic relief from many painful ailments. Still used today in China and Japan, it is similar to acupuncture — but no needles are stuck into the skin. You simply use your finger-tips. All this is explained in a remarkable little book that enables you to enjoy ACUPRESSURE right in your own home. So simple! Even a school child can understand the plain English instructions. Scores of pictures show which points to press for each ailment. As safe as a drink of water. You can do it yourself anywhere . . . anytime — day or night. Each pressure point treatment takes only a few minutes. And it costs nothing for medicinals, special equipment or medical fees, because, after all, you just use your own finger-tips.

DRAMATIC RESULTS REPORTED FROM ORIENT

This manual relates of dramatic results claimed by Chinese Acupressure therapists . . . of blessed relief obtained from countless ailments as simple as tension headaches or as serious as hypertension . . . of desperate cases for whom drugs and special equipment had failed completely. Yet when these methods were tried, they experienced thrilling success.

Many Americans scoff at all this. How, they ask, can someone get relief from arthritis pain, just by finger-tip pressure on certain parts of the skin? To Western minds this seems unbelievable. But doctors in the Ear East don't scoff! They give these simple treatments to their own patients, claiming amazing results. Today, certain American doctors, nurses and physiotherapists aren't laughing any more. They are taking these olden Chinese healing arts seriously. Important studies and research are going on. Some doctors are even traveling to the Far East, eager to learn more. Naturally, it will take years before their studies are completed. Meantime you don't have to wait, nor do you have to be a doctor. You can actually start using this ancient healing system in less than one hour after receiving the easy-to understand book, ACUPRESSURE MADE EASY.

HOW DOES ACUPRESSURE WORK?

Doctors don't know what makes ACUPRESSURE work, just as they don't know for sure why certain miracle drugs relieve pain, reduce fever, and knock out killer diseases. But they do know that the human body is the greatest miracle of all — greater than any machine or medicine ever discovered. They know that deep-down within us, we have powerful, living micro-organisms that "diagnose" disease invaders, track them down and destroy them. But every now and then, it seems these defense micro-organisms may need a little outside stimulus to regain their fighting strength. Perhaps ACUPRESSURE does just that, helping these organisms to fight diseases and relieve pain. However, you can be sure of this: ACUPRESSURE absolutely cannot cause the bad side effects of certain powerful but dangerous drugs. Besides, ACUPRESSURE does not interfere with any treatment prescribed by a doctor — now or in the future.

TENSION RELIEF

We all know how deadly tensions can be . . . how miserable stresses and strains make us feel . . . how they interfere with our work and marital happiness . . . how they make restful sleep almost impossible. Now ACUPRESSURE offers you an alternative to pill-popping. This book shows exactly where and how to apply finger pressure for refreshing relief — without drugs.

ENJOY 30 DAY FREE TRIAL

Read and enjoy ACUPRESSURE MADE EASY for a full month — without risk or obligation. See how utterly simple it is to understand and follow this 2,000 year old Chinese art . . . how you can start using this safe, finger-tip method within one hour after your book arrives! You must be satisfied and thrilled in every way. Otherwise return it and get your money back promptly and without question. Please rush coupon below to ensure prompt delivery of your copy. Address:

What in the World!

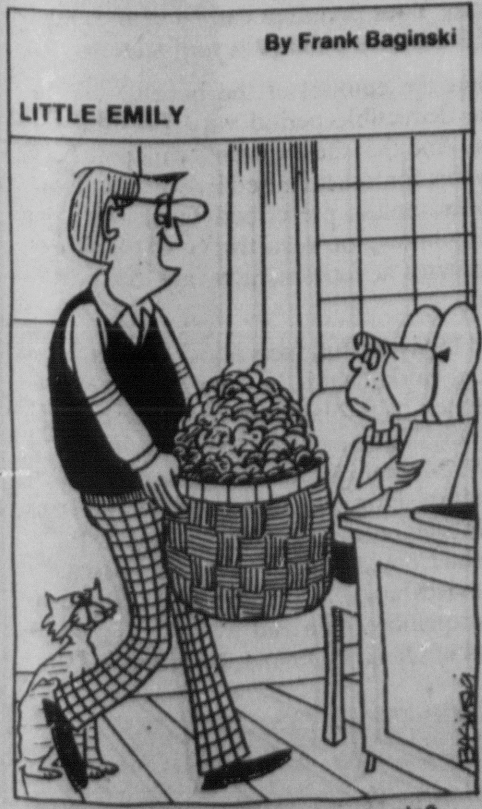
Pictures of Adolf Hitler in unguarded moments were rare; This is one of several recently found and made available to the press.

Franz Furst

Few unposed pictures were ever taken of Adolf Hitler because Josef Goebbels, the propagandist who created the Führer myth, felt that Hitler should never look vulnerable unless he was being photographed kissing children (thousands of those shots were taken during his dictatorship). Hitler's vanity was such that no public photographs were to be taken when he was wearing his eyeglasses. Only his mistress Eva Braun was allowed to photograph him in relaxed moments. Never quite sure of his social position—his tastes in art and furniture ran to well-endowed nudes and heavy baroque—Hitler liked to think that he was a member of the upper class. Goebbels thought Hitler's middle-class values were his biggest asset, according to a new biography ("Goebbels," by Viktor Reimann): "Goebbels had in Hitler the ideal type to inspire a population because all characteristics of the masses combined in the Führer. He was moody, brutal, unpredictable, hysterical, cruel and barbaric. But he was also sentimental and capable of self-sacrifice, and therefore better than anyone else at seducing and intoxicating the crowd. He was part of them, he virtually merged with them physically; the masses could practically feel they were being saved. Many confessed to a feeling of paralysis in his presence."

By Frank Baginski

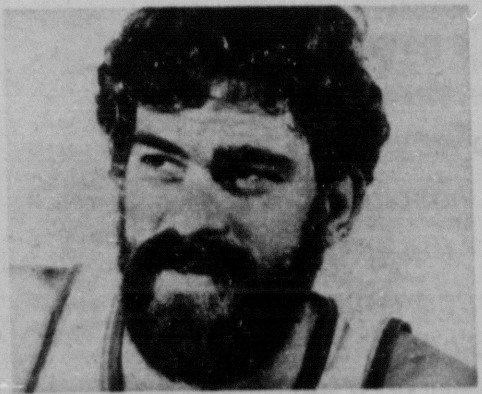
LITTLE EMILY



"Now what was that problem again? If Buddy has 43 apples and Barbara has 52 . . ."

MELISSA MANCHESTER
For adults only

Melissa Manchester, 23-year-old singer-songwriter, on the lifelong struggle of the musical artist: "Contrary to public opinion, we're not one big happy family. The weird people can really get to you after a while. There are so many people who flock to this business because they think it will be one big party. Most of us started out with the same romantic notions. We wanted to do something special since the age of 5. We all performed for our families. Our egos are such that we were willing to go through the worst of times to get what we wanted, which we thought was the opposite of the 9-to-5, two-cars-in-every-garage existence. But then, even after you've 'made it' in this business, you continue to pay your dues. You still have no time to yourself, and your sense of privacy is lost forever. Becoming a celebrity doesn't really change you, only people's reactions to you. Watching those reactions has brought out my survival instincts—I worry about what I'll be left with when all the fuss is over." Melissa's latest record is "Better Days and Happy Endings."



PHIL JACKSON
Why athletes can't be "friends"

The gangly New York Knick, Phil Jackson, explains why competition on the court leaves no room for friendships off the court with teammates: "Bill Russell once stated that he never had a friend on the Celtics. That's the norm in the NBA. There's an air of competitivesness there which seems to permeate all personal dealings that players have with each other. They are competing against their teammates for playing time, publicity, money and sometimes favor with the coach. What usually develops is that each player forms his own private sphere of personal influence. I've never seen Walt Frazier and Earl Monroe together at the same social function, for instance. That doesn't mean they don't like each other; it's just the way it is and has always been. Ballplayers relate best on the basketball court. That's where they can get along without any kind of verbal communication. One of the joys of being an athlete is knowing someone quite well without having to sit down and talk." From "Maverick: More Than a Game," by Phil Jackson with Charles Rosen (Playboy Press, $9.95).

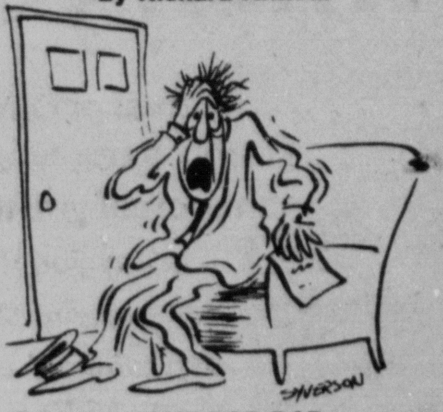
ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour



GONE FOR BAD

I had a shock just a moment ago,
My heart, I was sure, was stopping.
I'd looked for my wife and called,
  but oh,
She'd gone. Said her note:
  "Gone shopping."

It wasn't her being gone I feared.
I knew she'd be back in time.
It was that "Gone shopping" that
  stabbed and speared
And led me to write this rhyme.

"Gone shopping" is full of doom
  and distress,
Which is why I was almost crying.
I couldn't be sure, but I had to guess
What she really meant was
  "I'm buying."

I was baby-sitting for a 3-year-old boy and asked him who his girlfriend was. He said it was the girl down the street and that he was going to marry her. "What if she won't marry you?" I asked. He stopped for a moment, then replied, "I won't tell her." —Maria Swalls

Will your health insurance pay when you DON'T go to the hospital?

Mutual of Omaha's new MONEY BACK health insurance can protect you three ways . . .

can pay you IN the hospital can pay you OUT of the hospital can refund ALL your premiums if you NEVER get sick or hurt

UP TO	AS MUCH AS
$1,200.00 A MONTH	$40.00 A DAY

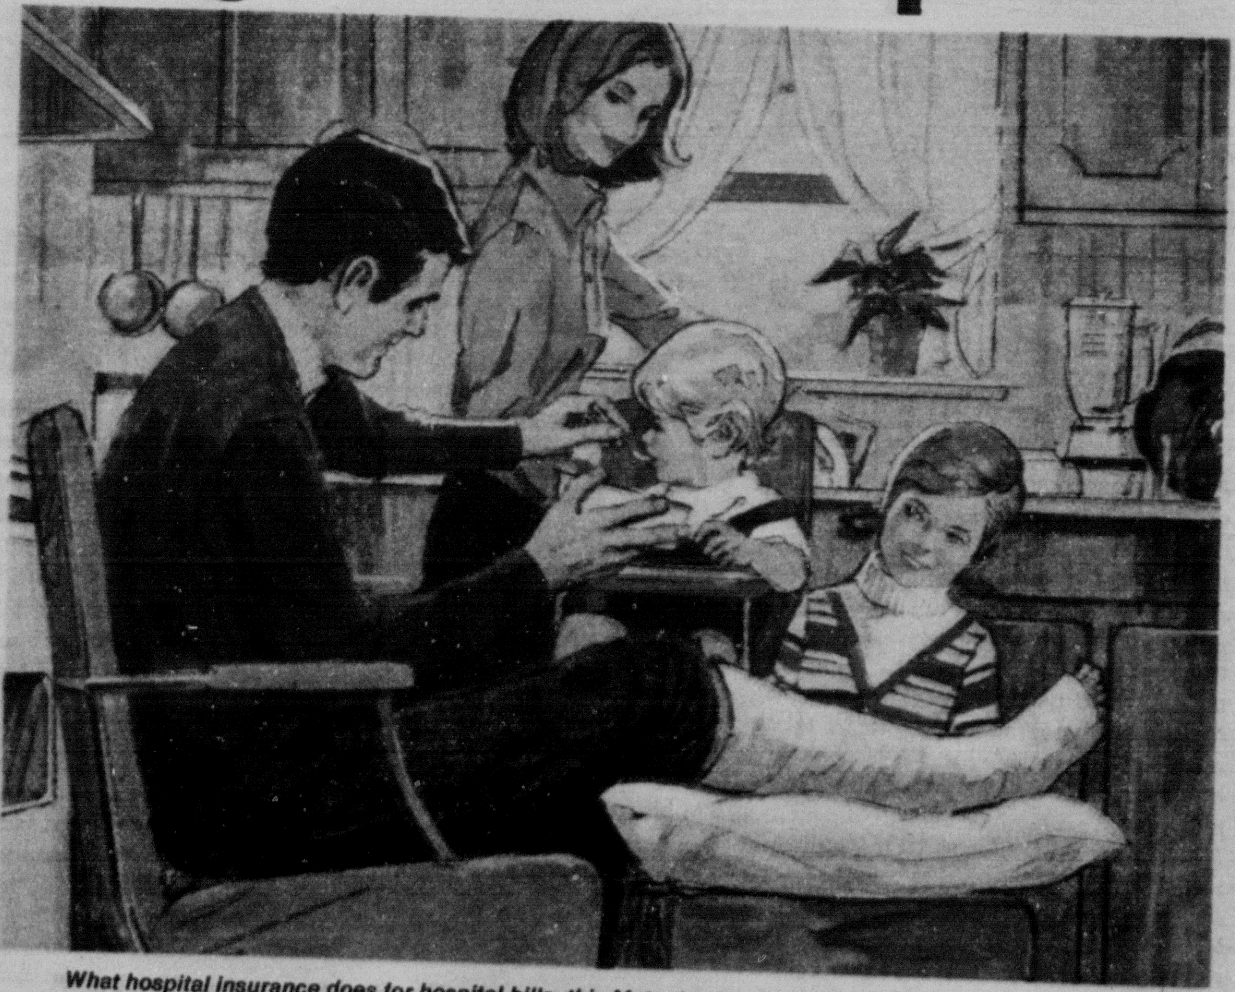
disability income benefits can be provided when a covered sickness or accident keeps you from working.



What hospital insurance does for hospital bills, this Mutual of Omaha plan can do for your grocery, rent and clothing bills . . . important protection for working men and women. Other disability income coverages include Homemakers' plans for housewives

Our figures show that you're seven times more likely to be laid up at home than in the hospital. That could leave an awful lot of bills unpaid if your health insurance covers you only in the hospital. Mutual of Omaha thinks you need protection at home, too . . . and does something about it.

With this plan, the family income can be protected during and after hospitalization . . . protected even if you never go to the hospital. And, in addition, if you never get sick, never get hurt, every cent you pay in premiums will be refunded when your policy matures at age 65.

Mutual of Omaha guarantees that you'll collect at least as much as you've paid in when you keep your policy in force to age 65. If you do receive benefits, and they total less than you've paid in at age 65, you then collect the difference. If you've never received benefits, you get a 100% refund . . . every penny you've paid in.

As a breadwinner, man or woman, married or single, you can select the amount you qualify for (from $100.00 to $1,200.00 a month . . . up to $40.00 a day) to help replace your paychecks when a covered sickness or accident keeps you from working. These monthly disability income benefits are payable over and above any benefits you receive for hospital and medical bills. They are yours to spend as you please for any purpose you choose . . . yours to use for every kind of bill.

THERE ARE SEVEN REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD CONSIDER THIS MUTUAL OF OMAHA PLAN

1. You may qualify for a plan that can provide up to $1,200.00 monthly income benefits (up to $40.00 a day) to spend as you see fit if you're sick or hurt and
